GRAND JURY WILL GET EVIDENCE OF ALARMING RISE IN DELINQUENCY

Dowd Plans Broad Inquiry Into Juvenile Crime—One of Five Youths Charged in Beating Case.

Evidence of an "alarming" increase in juvenile delinquency will be presented to the circuit court grand jury this week as the basis for a broad investigation, Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd said yesterday.

The testimony, he added, will include evidence in recent beatings by groups of youths. Witnesses from various agencies that deal with young persons will be called to tell what is being done and what more possibly can be done to control the problem.

Those to be summoned are to include representatives of the Mayor's Committee on Juvenile Delinquency, the Police Department, and spokesman for religious and welfare organizations. The presentation will start Wednesday or Thursday, Dowd said.

The circuit attorney decided to broaden the inquiry after determining that evidence in an assault case Thursday night, involving five teen-agers, should be taken to the grand jury.

The victim, a motorist, was chased 28 blocks and then beaten with a metal cane.

Assault Warrant.

One of the five, Donald M. Bruton, 18 years old, 4200 block of Pleasant street, was charged with assault in a warrant issued yesterday by Circuit Attorney Edwin Sumner.

Sumner refused to issue warrants against four other youths who admitted being with Bruton at the time. The cane belonged to one of them, and another was the driver of the car.

The assistant circuit attorney said the evidence available to him was not enough to justify warrants on those four, since neither the victim of the beating nor his wife, who saw it, would testify that any of them actually struck him.

Dowd said the evidence on the other four, along with that on Bruton, would be given to the grand jury, and that meanwhile he was advising the Police Department that further investigation of the case was in prospect.

The victim was Marvin Noelkin, 1623A Knapp street. He and his wife and their two young children were going home from a movie when the incident started.

Besides Bruton, the others are John W. McLesky, 18 years old, 7201 block of Sapphire avenue, Jennings; William M. Rainey, 17, of the 8700 block of Agate court, Jennings; John Pavlovits, 18, of the 5500 block of Era avenue; Ronald Babst, 19, of the 1500 block of Clara avenue.

Three Airmen Attacked.

A gang of eight youths 17 to 19 years old attacked three airmen from Scott Air Force Base early yesterday on Washington Avenue just east of Broadway, shortly after the airmen had returned from an evening trip on the steamer Admiral.

The victims said the attack was without provocation of any kind. One of them was stabbed in the thigh.

The assailants were accompanied by four girls, but the girls just looked on, police were told.

William Anable, 19, was beaten and stabbed. Thomas Blackmon, 19, and Carl Braudrick, suffered cuts and bruises.

Anable is from Ogdenburg, N.Y., Brockmon from Houston, Tex., and Braudrick from Richmond, Va.

They told police the beating started shortly after midnight when one of the gang asked "Have you been on the Admiral?" and the airmen said they had. They had no trouble with anyone on the excursion

CITIZENS GROUP SEEKS FUND FOR CAUDLE APPEAL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WADESBORO, N. C., June 16—A fund-raising campaign was under way today to help finance T. Lamar Caudle's appeal from his conviction at St. Louis Thursday of conspiracy to defraud the Government in the handling of an income tax case.

L. W. Childers, organizer of the "Dollar for Caudle" campaign, declared a citizens' group would work in all the state's 100 counties, not only for Caudle, but "to see that the Democratic party survives down here regardless of (United States Attorney General Herbert) Brownell's tactics."

Asserting that Caudle, former head of the Justice Department's tax division, was the "scapegoat of the Republican party," Childers said: "They're sacrificing a good man, a good Democrat, to further their aim of trying to divide the South and down progress and industry in the South."

Caudle's attorneys have announced they will appeal his conviction July 19, when he and his co-defendant, Matthew Connelly, former appointments secretary for President Truman, are scheduled to be sentenced.

SINGLE STUDENTS LIST DEMANDS ON FUTURE WIVES

Unmarried male students at St. Louis University expect their future wives to have the housework done, the dinner meal cooking on the stove, and a smile on their lips when the boss—that is to say, the husband—arrives home.

All of which goes to show how little unmarried men know about married life.

These desires were disclosed in a survey of 140 men students conducted by the home economics education department of the university. Other strong positions taken were that wives should not work unless absolutely necessary, that keeping the purse-strings is a joint responsibility, and that wives should be skillful at both shopping and home-making.

No married men were sent questionnaires — naturally. "They wouldn't have dared answer," said a university spokesman, a married man himself.

FRANCE TO SELL 125 MYSTERE JETS TO INDIA

PARIS, June 16 (UP)—France has agreed to ship 125 Mystere jet fighter planes to India under a contract to be signed early next week, reliable reports said today.

The contract, obviously approved by France's North Atlantic Treaty allies, would be the biggest single aviation contract placed in a country other than the United States, the sources said.

The price was not revealed.

Of the 125 jets, 110 would be the snout-nosed, swept-wing Mystere IV, which rates as one of the world's fastest fighter planes. The rest would be training jets.

Israel is the only other non-Atlantic pact country to receive the Mysteres.

SALES TALK USED ON ALDERMEN TO HIRE PRESS AGENT

Gunn and Cervantes for Giving Oetter Job—Some Members, Two Unions Object.

Democratic members of the Board of Aldermen were urged to hire a press agent because the aldermen are being publicly criticized "for doing things Mayor Tucker doesn't like," the Post-Dispatch was told yesterday.

The Democratic aldermen, after a caucus of the majority membership of the board, announced Friday they had decided to hire LeRoy C. Oetter, former city editor of the Globe-Democrat, as a "legislative research analyst," but the real reason for the hiring, the Post-Dispatch was told by members who attended the caucus, was "to get better publicity."

Several aldermen, who attended the closed caucus which preceded the board's regular meeting, told the Post-Dispatch yesterday that Board President Donald Gunn and Alderman A. J. Cervantes urged the hiring with "public relations" arguments.

Gunn contended at the caucus that the board "was getting a lot of criticism for doing things Mayor Tucker doesn't like" and that Gunn felt that the board "could get better publicity by hiring someone like Oetter."

Gunn added, according to other aldermen who attended the caucus, "Oetter can also get us good publicity on the things we do. The aldermen are not being credited with their accomplishments."

Gunn said that during the previous week actions of the board had been presented in improper light because three aldermen had given various answers to the press on the same problem, parking.

"We need a man like Oetter to see that all aldermen give the same answers to the press," it was reported Gunn told the caucus.

"If we had such a man, the newspapers would have to go to one man for the answers to their questions."

When asked about his reported statements, Gunn said the real purpose was not to hire a publicity man as such but to get someone who could help the aldermen do a better job.

"If we can do a better job, then it seems to me we ought to receive better publicity," he said. "We need someone with experience in city and community affairs who can analyze the problems on which we must legislate. He would weigh the pros and cons and then give us the benefit of his views, but he most certainly would not determine policy.

"If, as a result of his help,

HARRIMAN HITS AT EISENHOWER'S DOMESTIC AND FOREIGN POLICIES

Tells 12-State Group of Backers at Denver President Has Caused 'Tragic Decline' of U.S. Prestige.

By SAM B. ARMSTRONG
National Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DENVER, Colo., June 16—A direct attack on President Eisenhower's foreign and domestic policies was made today by Gov. Averell Harriman of New York in his first major speech since his announcement a week ago that he would be an active candidate for the Democratic nomination for President.

He spoke at a 12-state Western conference of Harriman supporters and appeared later at a local Democratic fund-raising dinner at which the principal speaker was Stephen A. Mitchell, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee and an active figure in the campaign of Adlia Stevenson for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"The policies of President Eisenhower have led to a tragic decline in America's prestige in the world and in the confidence of free peoples in the United States," said Harriman, who served as Ambassador to Great Britain and the Soviet Union and as international troubleshooter for Presidents Roosevelt and Truman.

'Unity Weakened.'

"And with it, the unity of purpose of the free nations has been weakened. The newspaper editors of the United States who recently met in Washington expressed the judgment, two-to-one, that we are losing the cold war. Why is that?

"It is in part because of a long series of disastrous blunders of which the latest was President Eisenhower's statement about neutrality at a press conference before his unfortunate illness.

"The President said 'If a nation has announced its military association with another power, and things could happen to it—difficulties along its border—and people would say "Good enough for it; they asked for it.'"

"Those were the President's words. The United States has military alliances with some two-score countries who have courageously withstood Communist threats and cajolery to stand along side of us. The Kremlin has been trying to break up those alliances and here the President of the United States played smack into their hands.

'Alliances Weakened.'

"The reaction was so great that the White House had to issue a statement saying the President didn't mean what he said at all. But the damage had been done—our alliances had been weakened."

Harriman asserted that President Eisenhower had failed to see through new Kremlin maneuvers and make clear to the world the Communist motives.

"Make no mistake—their evil objectives have not changed," he went on. "Yet President Eisenhower told the world at the summit conference at Geneva last summer that the Kremlin leaders have the same earnest desire for peace as do we of the West. And while the free world was lulled to sleep by the so-called 'Spirit of Geneva,' the Kremlin made dangerous gains in its political and psychological offensive.

"Another four years of the Eisenhower Administration would mean four more years of widening Kremlin influence."

Harriman, who inherited an enormous Union Pacific Railroad fortune built in the West, spoke at length on "great plans rather than small plans for development of the resources of the West."

'Stifling Growth.'

"The policies of President Eisenhower are stifling Western growth," he continued. "He will be remembered as the President who tried to give away the West's resources instead of developing them. He will be remembered as the President who preferred small plans that served the special interests to great plans for the maximum development of those resources for the good of all—not just in the West but in the entire nation."

Referring to the appointment of former Representative Wesley D'Ewart of Montana as assistant Secretary of the Interior, Harriman said: "Make no mistake about it—these are not former Secretary McKay's give-away policies. They're Eisenhower policies. Look at the case of Wesley D'Ewart. His forest grazing giveaway bill was so bad that even McKay didn't dare support it. President Eisenhower knew this. So what did he do? He appointed D'Ewart to administer the public grazing lands.

"That's like putting the fox to watch the chickens."

Discussing farm income, Harriman advocated restoring price supports provided in the bill vetoed by the President. Surplus commodities, he said, should be used to "fight Communism abroad" and distributed to needy families under a food stamp plan. He said farmers' net income had been reduced by one-third since President Eisenhower took office.

BOMBS THROWN INTO CYPRUS CAFE KILL AMERICAN, WOUND 6 OTHERS

Dead Man Is U.S. Vice Consul and All of the Others Are Employes of Consulate in Nicosia.

NICOSIA, Cyprus, June 16 (AP)—Two bombs were thrown into a downtown restaurant tonight killing one American and wounding six others. All seven were employes of the United States consular service in Nicosia.

The bombs exploded in the Little Soho restaurant.

United States Consul Ray Courtney declined to identify the dead man or the wounded.

He said the six wounded apparently were not in a serious condition.

(In Washington, the State Department identified the dead American as Vice Consul William Boteler, a resident of Washington, D.C.)

First American Fatality.

The death was the first of an American in the year of violence marking the union-with-Greece campaign in this British crown colony. Three Americans were wounded last December when a bomb was lobbed into a restaurant in a similar manner.

The Little Soho restaurant in the old walled area of this capital is a favorite haunt of Americans on Cyprus. Precautions always have been taken in the past to guard the restaurant against attacks by Eoka, the underground organization demanding union with Greece. Windows are covered with wire to stop missiles. The door is locked. Customers knock and are scrutinized before they are allowed to enter.

Blistering summer heat has made the little restaurant too hot for comfort the last few days. The door was left open to catch any stray air current.

The cafe is near Metaxas Square, a prime Eoka target.

Eyewitness's Account.

A woman who was in the Little Soho when the bombs were lobbed in gave this account:

"I was sitting at the bar adjoining the dining room when my husband suddenly shouted to me: 'Hit the floor!'

"I did. I dropped to the floor just as the explosion occurred.

"I couldn't tell if there were one or two bomb, because it was just a horrible roar."

One of the Americans rose from his chair and staggered toward the open door. He fell across the threshhold, bleeding from wounds in the lower part of the body and legs. He died later at a hospital.

Other witnesses said a man opened the restaurant door and quickly tossed in two bombs of the kind used by Eoka extremists.

Fragments Pit Walls.

The blast in the little dining room was tremendous. Bomb fragments pitted the walls.

A British officer who investigated the attack exhibited several fragments. He said the bomb had been sawed partly through in several places to insure greater shrapnel dispersal.

The Americans apparently all were sitting at one table. The man fatally wounded was facing the door when the bombs with three-second fuses were thrown in.

The terrorist ran as soon as he had lobbed the deadly missiles.

British troops and police moved in quickly. They arrested three Greek Cypriot youths found in the vicinity immediately after the explosion.

Courtney said that while no order had been given to American consular employes not to frequent public places in Nicosia, such visits had been discouraged.

Britons Avoiding Area.

Americans have been in virtually the Little Soho's only clientele since the Britons have been staying outside the old walled city area where it is situated.

After the attack British soldiers threw up barbed-wire barricades at each end of Phokion street where the restaurant stands. Then the British troops began to comb out systematically the near-by winding streets and alleys.

The Little Soho bombing climaxed a series of similar incidents here today. Two bombs were thrown at British military vehicles and a third at a house. No casualties or damages were reported in these incidents.

FIRST U.S. SUPERMARKET ABROAD TO OPEN TODAY

ROME, Italy, June 16 (AP)—The first complete American supermarket ever set up as an exhibit abroad opens its electric-eye doors tomorrow for the inspection of 1500 European food distributors.

There is no ruch thing as a supermarket in most of Europe. An Italian woman marveled at today's preview. She said "America must be a wonderful place for a woman."

The market is sponsored by the United States Department of Agriculture in co-operation with the National Association of Food Chains. All equipment, fixtures, supplies and foods were provided without cost by more than 600 American manufacturers.

EISENHOWER AGAIN CALLS FOR UNIFYING GERMANY, CHALLENGES RUSSIA TO ACT

No Hint of President's Plans, Convalescence in Second Week

Taking Soft Foods, Intestinal Tract Functioning Normally — Nixon to See Him Monday.

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 16—President Eisenhower, able to handle a limited schedule of official duties, begins his second, and perhaps last week in the hospital tomorrow.

Mr. Eisenhower's recovery from the emergency abdominal operation he underwent last Saturday, has progressed steadily. There has been no change in his doctors' estimate that he should be able to leave Walter Reed Army medical center sometime next weekend.

He is now being given soft foods by mouth, in addition to hourly liquid feeding. He is permitted to watch television and can receive official visitors for brief periods. His intestinal tract is functioning normally.

These major signs of improvement have intensified the interest in his political plans. hus far, however, there has been no hint from Mr. Eisenhower himself on whether he will stick by his decision to seek a second term or withdraw from the race.

A quiet weekend was in prospect for the President. Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said he did not know whether Maj. and Mrs. John S. Eisenhower, his son and daughter-in-law, and their four children would visit him on Father's Day.

No official visitors are scheduled until Monday, when Vice President Richard M. Nixon will see Mr. Eisenhower for the first time since his illness.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, who visited the President Thursday with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, is scheduled to come to the hospital at the same time as Nixon.

Reporting that the President's condition "continues to progress very satisfactorily," his physicians said in a 5:30 p.m. medical bulletin that he had a soft boiled egg and a half slice of unbuttered whole wheat toast early in the afternoon.

They added that he would be given another portion of soft food this evening. Hagerty said

HE'S 'CONVINCED' SOVIET IN TIME WILL SEE STEP IS IN OWN INTEREST

Way Is Open to Prove Its Professed Interest Is Genuine, President Writes to West German President.

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 16 — President Eisenhower said today there can be "no permanent security" in Europe so long as German reunification is blocked "by those who seek to impose an alien and totalitarian system" on part of the country.

So far as the United States is concerned, he added, "the way is open . . . for the Soviet government to prove that its professed interest in developing such relations is genuine."

He said he was "convinced" Russia eventually would realize its own interests would be served by negotiation of a settlement reuniting West Germany with the Communist-controlled east zone.

Message to President Heuss.

Mr. Eisenhower expressed his views in a message to President Theodor Heuss of West Germany, on the third anniversary of the revolt against Communist rule in East Berlin and elsewhere in East Germany.

The message made public at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, where Mr. Eisenhower is recovering from an abdominal operation, amplified on the sentiments voiced by the President last Thursday in a brief meeting with West German Chancellor Adenauer.

"The ending of the division of Germany is essential to the development of friendly and cooperative relations between the Western nations and the Soviet Union," Mr. Eisenhower declared.

"On this day which commemorates the spontaneous demand made three years ago for the freedom of the 17,000,000 German people of the Soviet zone, I wish to reaffirm the steadfast convition of my country that the unjust division of Germany will surely come to an end," Mr. Eisenhower said.

Says NATO Shares U.S. Views.

"The government and peoples of the United States are deeply dedicated to the causes of liberty and peace. We know that so long as unity in freedom is withheld from the German people by those who seek to impose an alien and totalitarian system on a part of your nation there can be no permanent security in Europe.

"We know also that these views are shared by our partners in the North Atlantic treaty."

The anti-Communist uprising began June 16, 1953, with a protest demonstration by 5000 construction workers. Before the outbreaks were quelled 12 days later, 200,000 workers had gone on strike. In some places, barehanded demonstrators battled troops and armored units.

Mr. Eisenhower said he was "convinced that the Soviet Union will come to recognize that it is in its own interest to negotiate a settlement which respects the right to freedom of the German people and the interests of both East and West, and will join with us in finding a solution to the German problem."

Text Released in Bonn.

Text of the message, one of the diplomatic papers signed by Mr. Eisenhower at the hospital yesterday, was released simultaneously in Bonn.

"This day you celebrate is I know a day of dedication," Mr. Eisenhower told Heuss. "I send you my greetings and together with my fellow Americans I look forward to the time when all Germany will at last be unified and free."

Frontier Aglow in Celebration of 1953 Berlin Uprising.

BERLIN, June 16 (AP)—West Germans lit torches and bonfires along the Iron Curtain tonight in glowing tribute to East Germans who rose up against Communism three years ago.

On the eve of the third anniversary of the uprising, the frontier dividing Communist East and free West Germany was aglow for much of its 858 miles, from the Baltic sea to the Czech border.

The demonstrations were sponsored by the National Committee for Indivisible Germany. West Germany will observe tomorrow as a national holiday: the "day of German unity."

Heights of Bureaucracy.

NOGALES, Mex., June 16 (AP)—The Mexican federal pensions bureau has announced it will build a subdivision here for government workers. The housing development will be called "Bureaucratic Heights."

LIGHTNING HITS BOY SCOUT CAMP, ONE YOUTH KILLED

MEDIA, Pa., June 16 (UP)—A bolt of lightning struck a Boy Scout encampment today, killing one youngster and wounding 22 others, including a Scoutmaster.

The Scouts were attending the annual retreat weekend for Catholic Boy Scouts in the Valley Forge council when the bolt struck a huge tree and "ricocheted" into a group of tents nearby. About 3000 Scouts were camping in the area.

The Scouts said the streak of lightning "sounded like a blast of artillery" when it struck, hurling scores of boys from their tents.

Joseph Simpson, 11 years old, Upper Darby, Pa., was injured fatally. Physicians said there was no sign of burns or injury on his body, giving rise to the possibility he had died of shock or fright.

TRUCK GOES OVER CLIFF, IGNITES; DRIVER IS KILLED

LEBANON, O., June 16 (AP)—A truck missed a curve in Lebanon early today, banged through a used car lot, pushed three automobiles off a sheer 50-foot drop at the back of the lot, followed the cars over the cliff and caught fire.

The truck driver was killed and his body burned beyond recognition.

Assistant Police Chief Don Epping identified the dead man as Richard E. Fox, 31 years old, of Louisville, Ky. Brakes on the truck apparently failed, Epping said.

The lot fronts on U.S. 42 near Ohio 48. The truck struck "four or five" cars parked on the lot, said Epping, before pushing three off the sheer drop. Below the lot, about 25 feet from where the truck landed, new automobiles were parked, Epping said. Four of the new cars were damaged.

The truck was loaded with unidentified chemicals which started to burn slowly before flames were extinguished, he said.

SOMEBODY REALLY GOOFED

VIENNA, June 16 (AP)—Because Mrs. Amalia Wolfbauer's baby wore blue-for-boys diapers instead of pink-for-girls it was checked out of Moedling's Hospital as a male and named Walter.

It became apparent quickly at home that somebody had been color blind or had just goofed. Walter now has been renamed Regina and changed to pinkwear.

BIKINI H-BOMB MISSED TARGET ABOUT 3.6 MILES

Quarles Blames 'Human Error' — No Serious Effect on Success of Experiment.

WASHINGTON, June 16 (UP)—The Air Force admitted today that the H-bomb dropped May 21 at Bikini missed its target "somewhat less than four miles" but not enough "to have a serious effect on the success of the experiment."

The explosion was the first United States airdrop of an H-bomb. It was the second shot of the biggest nuclear test program in United States history. Some 17 explosions are scheduled before Sept. 1. A prime purpose of the program is to develop hydrogen warheads for long range missiles.

Air Secretary Donald A. Quarles confirmed the May 21 miss, rumored for nearly a month, in a 60-word statement attributing it to "a human error." He said neither the drop plane, an eight-jet B-52 intercontinental bomber, nor its bombing equipment were to blame. He conceded the miss "was considerably more than expected."

New Test on Tap.

Meanwhile, President Eisenhower's top atomic and security advisers were flying to the Eniwetok-Bikini proving ground to witness what an official source said would be the "most interesting" test of the current series. It was unofficially billed as a stationary test explosion—not an airdrop—of an experimental hydrogen warhead tailored for ocean-jumping, continent-hopping rocket missiles.

Quarles's statement apparment was evoked by contradictory reports of the scope of the May 21 miss. The H-bomb, unofficially said to be equal in power to 10,000,000 tons of TNT, was supposed to explode around 10,000 feet directly above an illuminated 300-yard bull's-eye target on Bikini's Namu island.

A news story in the Honolulu Star-Bulletin Friday quoted an unidentified proving ground technician as saying the bomb exploded seven miles from the planned detonation point.

Air Force 'Grounds' Col. Stapp, 'Too Valuable' to Ride Fast Sled

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP) — The Air Force has "grounded" Lt. Col. John Paul Stapp, the "fastest man on earth."

The physician, who has ridden a rocket-propelled sled in New Mexico to a land speed record of 632 miles an hour, is under orders to make no more high speed runs.

"And he didn't like it one bit," said Brig. Gen. Marvin C. Demler, of the Air Research and Development Command, in answering a query at a meeting of the Air Force historical foundation at Bolling Air Force Base here.

Demler explained that Stapp had become too valuable to be risked in further high speed flights, although there would be no restriction against routine track runs on his part.

"We don't believe he or anyone should stretch his luck any farther," he said.

Stapp rode a 2000-opund rocket sled at Holloman air development center, N. M., in 1954 to the 632 mile an hour speed which is the fastest man has yet traveled on the ground. He attained that speed from a standing start in five seconds, in a distance of 2800 feet.

The sled decelerated with a force 35 times that of gravity and a wind pressure of more than two tons, and came to a dead stop in less than 1½ seconds.

Reporters' Political Hint Wins Only a Laugh From Eisenhower

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

WASHINGTON, June 16—Reporters sent President Eisenhower a "get well' letter with a little gentle political prodding today. He commented with a laugh: "They are getting curous, aren't they?"

Earlier in the day, Mr. Eisenhower had asked his press secretary, James C. Hagerty, what correspondents were covering his convalescence at Walter Reed army medical center. Through Hagerty, he sent his "best wishes" to the reporters.

In reply, the newspapermen sent him this letter: "Dear Mr. President: All of us here in the press room at Walter Reed are happy to know you are coming along so well. Jim Hagerty relayed your regards this morning.

"We send ours to you and hope for your speedy, complete recovery. Is there anything else you want to tell us?"

Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower laughed at this reference to the political uncertainty created by his illness and operation. Asked if the President said anything else, in addition to the quoted remark, the press secretary answered: "That's all I said he said."

PINEAU, DULLES WILL DISCUSS THREE-PRONGED CRISIS IN NATO

French Official, Secretary to Take Up Defense Spending, Plan to Expand Functions, Split by Allies.

(Related Story on Page 1C)

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP) —French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will come to grips here Monday with a three-way crisis in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

If unchecked, the NATO troubles could destroy the security of the West and lay it open to future Soviet aims.

Pineau arrived in Washington today to be greeted by the usual warm, ceremonial words about French-American friendship.

No official here doubts the fundamental strength of the friendship, but many are deeply concerned about the strength of will shared by the United States, France and other Western allies to keep up their military power and unity in the face of Russia's hard-driving coexistence campaign.

Business Talks.

Pineau and Dulles will meet for business talks and dine together on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Some time during his stay Pineau is expected to see President Eisenhower at Walter Reed Hospital for a brief talk such as German Chancellor Adenauer had on Thursday.

The NATO crisis, which underlies the Pineau-Dulles meetings as it did the Dulles-Adenauer conferences, consists of three elements of danger to the West. These are:

1. THE CRISIS OF STRATEGY—This is being raised more and more by Western leaders, British Prime Minister Eden being the latest to focus it sharply. As Eden put it in a speech this week: Why should Western European countries continue to spend 12 billion dollars a year on defense, in accordance with a 100-division plan laid out in 1952, when the real barrier to Soviet aggression now is the United States's hydrogen bomb power? American officials have been reluctant to come to grips with this issue, especially in an election year. Many concede they will have to face it fairly soon.

2. THE CRISIS OF PURPOSE—Dulles has tried to meet this one head on. In a speech at New York April 23 he said the United States was willing to consider proposals by other members of the 15-nation alliance to broaden NATO's work. The original NATO purpose of protecting the West becomes less urgent as diminishing threats from Moscow reduce the Western sense of danger.

Limited Reaction.

In this situation NATO can simply "die on the vine" for lack of any vital purpose unless some new challenging tests are given to it. The response to Dulles's declaration of America's readiness to join in a NATO expansion program has been sharply disappointing, in the view of some State Department officials. European members have been less than excited. Eventually some new political tasks undoubtedly will be given the NATO council which meets in Paris, but the Allied governments are apathetic just now.

3. THE CRISIS OF SUPPORT—Backing for the alliance is declining in some member countries. For example, Greece has found its claims on Cyprus far more urgent than the continued security of the Western alliance; the dispute has caused a grave split among Greece, Britain and Turkey. In Iceland this spring the parliament adopted a resolution calling on the government to get American troops out of the NATO-United States air bases there. United States officials are looking to the results of an Icelandic election June 25 to know whether they really will have to go.

Worry in Washington over the declining prestige and power of NATO has produced one firm conviction among some of Dulles's top advisers, though not necessarily on the part of Dulles himself yet.

This conviction is that the United States itself will have to provide a far more imaginative and dynamic leadership in dealing with the NATO crisis than it so far has produced.

The urgency of the situation was pointed up to some extent in testimony by Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, the NATO commanded, at a closed session May 29 of the Senate Foreign Relations committee. The committee made the testimony public tonight.

Reds Increasing Strength.

Despite Russia's announced intention to reduce its armed forces by 1,200,000 men, which Gruenther called a propaganda device, the General said the Soviets "are continuing to increase their military strength, and that is a most disturbing complication."

"I feel that we must take a constructive approach toward any real mellowing of the Soviet attitude," he said, however.

In the present state of world conditions, Gruenther said he sees "no acceptable alternative" to continuing military defense preparations.

"I feel that any further expansion of NATO's unity (economic and political) should start from the base provided by the present military alliance," the General asserted. "We have made considerable progress in the field of military unity. Of course, the Soviets are making it tougher for NATO by lessening the fear of Soviet aggression."

He said that there "should be much closer economic and political cooperation" than now exists among NATO countries.

Pearson Mission.

A week ago Canada's Foreign Minister Lester B. Pearson came here to confer with Dulles on NATO's future. He is one of three Western Foreign Ministers assigned to work on the problem and report back to the council of the alliance at Paris next fall. Pearson hoped to obtain a fairly clear definition of what the United States would be willing to do within the limits of NATO — how far it would pledge itself to consult on vital foreign policy problems and to shape its own decisions according to the majority views produced by the consultation.

All Pearson got from Dulles was a generalized statement that the United States would be willing to go as far as any other country would go, having due regard to the special responsibilities of the United States all over the world.

On the problems of strategy and of internal support for NATO among its member countries, United States leadership is equally important. Diplomatic authorities here are upset by evidences of uncertainty among American officials. Within the space of four days last week President Eisenhower defended the rights of some nations to be neutral in the cold war and Dulles denounced neutrality as being in virtually all cases "immoral."

Dulles Congratulates Jesuit Son

B-57S GROUNDED BY AIR FORCE TO CORRECT DEFECT

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP) —The Air Force said today all its B-57 Canberras would remain grounded until a mechanical defect at certain speeds and altitudes is corrected.

Limitations on use of the light jet bomber went into effect in January after pilots had reported a tendency of the plane to nose down at comparatively low altitudes and in certain speed ranges.

The limited-use order remained in effect until May 24, when a full grounding order was issued. This order was relaxed on June 12 to permit minimum use of the plane under limited conditions in order to help technicians in a search for the trouble.

However, the Tactical Air Command, which has more than 200 Canberras in use, objected that the extremely limited use rendered operation of the bomber ineffective. So, Air Force headquarters this week again ordered complete grounding.

The Air Force said the Air Materiel Command and the Glenn L. Martin Co. of Baltimore, manufacturer of the aircraft, are now correcting the difficulty.

The aircraft had a relatively high accident rate when it was put into service about four years ago. No official figures on the accident rate were available.

LEAVES FOR BRAZILIAN POST

The Rev. Aloysius H. Scheller S.J., director of St. Louis University's school of social service, has departed for Rio de Janeiro, where he will serve as a State Department consultant for the Brazilian schools of social service.

He will resume his work at the university in September.

New Agriculture Security Case Causes Commotion in Capital

Employe Answers Questionnaire With Satirical Letter That Is Circulating Among Officials.

By WILLIAM M. BLAIR

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, June 16. — The Department of Agriculture security officer who precipitated the dismissal of Wolf Ladejinsky in 1954 has opened a new case that, officials fear, may cause further commotion with the Administration.

The officer, J. Glen Cassity, has drawn the fire of a department employe to whom he sent questionnaires bearing on the employe's loyalty. The employe, a friend of many past and present high officials of the department, has denounced Cassity's methods in a satirical letter that has been circulating privately among a large audience in Washington.

The employe is John C. Baker, chief of the Midwest Information Service of the Department's Agricultural and Marketing service. Baker, a 47-year-old World War II veteran, joined the department in 1938. He once shared in a Washington car pool with Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, brother of President Eisenhower, a fact which is brought into the letter. Dr. Eisenhower then was with the department.

The new case has come to the attention of the Agriculture Department's loyalty review committee which was set up to resolve conflicts in security cases after the Ladejinsky affair caused President Eisenhower to direct an overhaul of the Administration's security review procedure.

Ladejinsky, an expert on land reform, was the American agricultural attache in Tokyo in 1954 when Cassity brought security charges against him. Secretary Ezra Taft Benson dismissed Ladejinsky, but later apologized and expunged the security risk charge from Ladejinsky's record.

In his "Dear Glenn" letter, Baker said in part:

"You're a regular ol' hound dog when you hit the trail of an enemy of democracy, aren't you? And here I've been thinking all along that I was fooling everybody. But not Cassity! Nosirreee! Well, since I've been found out, I might as well tell all.

"When I lived in Washington I did most of my traveling in a car pool. You simply have no idea how the the national security is plotted against in a car pool. One of the fellows I used to conspire with is still continuing the good work in agriculture: Director of information. Another moved from the U.S.D.A. underground into the open: he's information director for the Atomic Energy Commission, in charge of leaking secrets to the enemy.

"Then there was another guy who sometimes invited his brother to ride in our car pool during the early month of the war; it crowded us, but we didn't object because he was an Army man and knew so many tricks of espionage. The one guy left Washington and now is connected with some college in Pennsylvania. I wonder what ever became of Milton's brother Ike?

"Civilian life is all right for an agent provocateur, but the real place to ply your trade is in the military, during a war. You see, I was getting toward the upper age limit, had a couple of kids and a draft-exempt job in a war agency; but I found my enemy contacts weren't as close as they might be. So I wormed my way into the Marine Corps. And did I fool those generals! They made me custodian of operations plans and other top secret documents at a Marine headquarters in the Pacific. What a spot for a skilled operator!"

Baker's letter then dealt with the first question in an "interrogatory" Cassity sent him. The question concerned a report that Baker, in connection with clearance for a "sensitive" government position in 1948, had "deplored the fact that the Government was conducting a 'witch hunt'."

Baker's letter said:

"Seems strange I don't remember two words 'witch hunt' that I'm supposed to have used in 1948. But you don't give me any hint as to where, when, to whom, or about what. Gotta sharpen up, boy. National security, you know.

"Honestly, Glen, don't you feel kinda foolish standing there in broad daylight, holding two little words? Trying to fashion them into a noose?"

In his letter, Baker said that if some parts of his letter "seem frivolous, let me explain it's a device — a device I'm using to try to keep from getting awfully mad.

"But has anybody questioned your loyalty?" he went on. "Ever asked you to tell what you meant by something you may or may not have said eight years earlier—as a means of determining whether or not your employment is clearly consistent with the interests of national security? It's an experience that you, more than anybody I know of, really ought to go through."

In answering the "interrogatory," Baker gave a "no" to 10 questions regarding membership in subversive organizations.

Since the first "interrogatory" Baker has received another questionnaire about a speech he made in 1942 or 1943.

In Chicago, Baker said he had "no comment" on his communications with Cassity.

SHEPILOV LANDS IN EGYPT; NEW AID OFFER LIKELY

Russian Foreign Chief Hits at Colonialism on Arrival — Fund for Dam Suggested.

CAIRO, June 16 (AP)—Dmitri Shepilov, the new Soviet Foreign Minister, flew into Cairo today for the obvious purpose of driving new bargains in the Middle East.

Shepilov, who is credited with initiating the deal last year by which Egypt traded cotton for Czech arms, arrived with his daughter and a party of Soviet officials as Moscow announced official diplomatic recognition of Morocco and Tunisia.

Egypt has openly taken under its wing the nationalist movements which have won almost complete independence for the two North African states from France, and Moscow has encouraged the movements as a part of its "anti-colonial campaign."

The timing of the recognition of the two states appeared to be part of the many-sided Soviet campaign to woo the nations of the Middle East, Asia and the Arab world.

Shepilov's first words, as he stepped from his Ilyushin 14 plane at Almaza military airport, were tuned to that theme.

He said he had come from a country of Socialism "which totally repudiated the policy of colonial expansion, a country whose economic structure has no place for oil monopolies or any other kind of imperialist monopolies which sap the vitality of less developed nations."

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi, Soviet Ambassador E. D. Kisselev, diplomatic representatives of all Communist counties, the head of Communist China's trade delegation and the Indian Ambassador were on hand to greet him.

Mrs. Kisselev presented a bouquet of flowers to Shepilov's 20-year-old daughter, Victoria.

During his stay here, Shepilov will have talks with Premier Nasser and Hassan Ibrahim, Minister of State for Production Affairs. The talks with Ibrahim suggested that he might have something new to offer on the Aswan dam.

Nasser and Shepilov met socially today in the garden of a resthouse overlooking Cairo. Shepilov arrived first and chatted with Fawzi. When Nasser arrived, the two shook hands warmly and exchanged a few words.

The group had refreshments in the garden and posed for photographers before entering the house for dinner.

The Soviet Foreign Minister is expected to confer with Nasseer tomorrow. He will talk with other Egyptian officials Monday. Shepilov also planned to visit Egyptian arms factories.

Russia several months ago offered technical and financial assistance in building the giant dam on the Nile which Nasser envisions as the key project in his plans to expand agriculture and industry. The United States, Britain and the World Bank have since agreed to gifts and loans totaling $400,000,000 to help Egypt build the $1,300,000,000 dam, but Egypt still needs a water-sharing agreement with Sudan in order to go ahead with construction.

While he was still editor of the Communist party newspaper Pravda, Shepilov visited Cairo last year and had conversations with Nasser which are now reported by the Egyptian press to have resulted in acquiring jet planes, tanks and other arms from Czechoslovakia.

The deal set off demands by Israel for defensive arms from the United States and other western powers, and created a crisis between Israel and its Arab neighbors which was only headed off by the recent middle eastern mission of U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

Withdrawal Celebration.

While here, Shepilov will attend Egypt's national celebration of the withdrawal of British forces from the Suez canal zone. The program includes the first public parade of Egypt's new arms. The celebration, however, will be without Britain's participation. It pulled out its last token forces last Wednesday, in advance of the date agreed upon in 1954.

Since Egypt is reported to have received already more Communist weapons than its forces have been able to assimilate it seemed doubtful that Shepilov would discuss any new arms deal.

There have been reports that he might bring some new peace plan for Palestine, but Egyptian officials said they had no such information.

Before returning to Moscow, Shepilov will visit Syria, Lebanon and Greece.

Strong Tactical Air Arm Urged For Deterring Brush-Fire Wars

Symington, Jackson Cite Importance — Gen. Weyland Says Adequate Force Might Have Prevented Korean War.

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP) —A strong Tactical Air Command able to fight anywhere in the world was urged by investigating Senators today as the best insurance against "brush-fire or limited type" wars.

The Senate Air Power Investigating subcommittee released testimony given behind closed doors by Gen. Otto P. Weyland, head of the Tactical Air Command, who said that if the United States had possessed adequate tactical air power prior to 1950 "it is questionable whether the Korean war would have started."

Just as the Strategic Air Command has prevented outbreak of global wars, the general testified, "it is obvious to me that we must have adequate tactical air forces in being that are capable of serving as a deterrent to the brush-type of war."

Proposals for strengthening TAC came from Senators Stuart Symington (Dem.), Missouri, chairman of the air power subcommittee ond Henry M. Jackson (Dem.) Washington. They put their suggestions in the form of scores of questions in the 72 pages of testimony, which was censored for military secrets by the Defense Department.

Symington said it was just as important that TAC be ready for combat anywhere in the world as it is for SAC to be ready.

Jackson protested that missiles, fighters and other equipment now in use by TAC were not the latest and fastest available.

Weyland explained that the Tactical Air Command must assist theater commanders in any part of the world by providing air superiority, air defense and close support for ground forces.

Its first main task is to win the battle for control of the air, he said, so that ground forces can fight "without an enemy on their back."

At the same time, he said TAC must isolate the battle field area by "chopping off" enemy supplies.

All the while TAC must provide close support for ground troops by "moving of obstacles that are in the way of advancing infantry or in the case of a rear action, holding off the enemy."

While all this is under way, Weyland said TAC also much provide reconnaissance for both ground and air forces as well as airlift of troops and supplies.

Weyland agreed with Symington that the Russians have built many more light bombers than the United States.

But he insisted that the new supersonic United States fighters, in the F-100 series, are better than the latest Soviet MIG jets.

Symington, at the closed session May 8, asked if it was not true that the Soviets have produced "pretty close to between 15 and 20 times as many light bombers as we have."

"They have got more than we have," Weyland finally replied.

Symington also asked if the Russians by a sudden sneak attack could "destroy the airfields in Europe?"

Weyland disagreed, explaining that the Russian bomber "is a subsonic airplane, and is capable of being intercepted, and many of them shot down."

As had Gen. Curtis Lemay of SAC and Gen. Earle Partridge of ADC, Weyland said the "most critical" problem for TAC is retention of skilled technicians and mechanics.

Weyland also asked for better flying tankers to refuel his jet fighters and light bombers and early production of larger long range air carriers for airlift missions overseas.

DECLARES G.O.P.'S AIM IS NOT TO LET EISENHOWER QUIT

Mitchell Says Health Is Secondary to Leaders' Determination to Retain Power.

DENVER, June 15 (AP) — Stephen A. Mitchell, former Democratic national chairman, charged tonight that "the Republican party high command . . . will use any and all means or devices to persuade or force Mr. Eisenhower into the presidential race."

"They will do this," Mitchell said, "regardless of the personal cost or consequences to him and his family, and regardless of his health and condition during the years 1957 to 1961 when he would be 71 years old."

Mitchell's remarks were made in an address for delivery to a Democratic fund-raising dinner in suburban Welby.

Says Aim Is To Hold Power.

Mitchell, close friend of Adlai Stevenson, said the Republican leaders "have no real interest in whether he, Eisenhower, remains in office after he is elected—their real purpose is to keep themselves in power for another four years."

He claimed that Mr. Eisenhower stands a 30 per cent chance of having a second heart attack or second intestinal disturbance.

Detailing President Eisenhower's latest illness, Mitchell said:

"He went under the ether and stayed on an operating table for an hour and 55 minutes; and for the next five days he lay on a hospital bed with the usual post operative discomfort.

"In addition, he had a tube forced through his nose and down his stomach; he ate nothing from Thursday night until the next Wednesday when they gave him a half-cup of soup.

"What did the inner circle and their mouthpieces tell the world? Why, they said the President is better than ever! This major abdominal operation improved the man's physical condition, and instead of being a shock and strain on his system, it merely proved that his heart is stronger than ever."

His Views on Harriman.

Mitchell said earlier at a news conference that Averell Harriman has little party support except in New York, where he is governor.

"I don't know of very many Democrats for Harriman," he said. "I only hear Republicans talk about him."

Here to win support for Stevenson, Mitchell said the former Illinois governor's performance in recent primary elections has "heartened the Democratic party as a whole."

POLITICIANS VIEW MOST MISSOURI PRIMARY RACES AS DECIDED NOW

Contrast With 1952 — Many Candidates Ignore August Voting, Center Fire on November Opponents.

By HERBERT A. TRASK
State Political Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Missouri's primary election campaign for party nominations to major state-wide offices is turning out to be one of the state's dullest—and yet one of the most unusual—for a presidential election year.

All the races for Democratic nominations and virtually all the Republican contests already have been decided, in the opinion of political leaders and observers. Candidates are either unopposed in the primary or have built up such commanding leads over nominal opposition that there seems to be little doubt about the outcome of the Aug. 7 primary balloting.

Different from 1952.

This situation is in sharp contrast with the primary campaign four years ago, when Missouri voters were treated to a number of noisy and bitter intra-party battles. This was particularly true of the Symington-Taylor senatorial contest and the Donnelly-Welch gubernatorial fight in the Democratic primary, and in the Elliott-Dale battle for the G.O.P. nomination for Governor.

The lack of primary competition this time has enabled the leading candidates to get an early start on their general election campaigning. A number of the candidates — primarily Republicans—are ignoring the primary and opening up on the men they are certain will be their rival party opponents in the Nov. 6 general election.

In other words, a lot of the primary electioneering will take the form of appeal for votes in the showdown fight between Democrats and Republicans next autumn.

Hennings Held Unbeatable.

On the Democratic side, United States Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr. of St. Louis is regarded as unbeatable for renomination in the primary. He mended his political fences early and will have the support of all major Democratic factions and groups throughout the state.

His only opponent in the Democrat primary is Tom J. Gavin, a Kansas City councilman and former state legislator, who enjoyed one moment of national publicity as President Truman's alternate delegate at the 1952 Democratic national convention. Although a former lieutenant of the Pendergast faction in Kansas City, Gavin has no important organization support in his own home town or elsewhere.

What promised to be a lively fight for the Democratic nomination for Governor blew up when State Commissioner of Agriculturel L. C. Carpenter dropped out of the race, and left Lt. Gov. James T. Blair Jr. of Jefferson City in a commanding position.

Before quitting, Carpenter had been sharply critical of Blair and some of his supporters, but he withdrew in the face of Blair's big lead.

Blair is not expected to have any trouble defeating two opponents for the gubernatorial nomination. They are Charles A. Lee of Webster Groves, a former state superintendent of schools, and Roy E. Glidewell, Salem attorney.

The lieutenant governor's candidacy received a boost yesterday when it was announced that Powell B. McHaney, president of General American Life Insurance Co. and civic leader, would serve as general chairman of the Blair-for-Governor Citizens Committee of St. Louis and St. Louis county.

In a statement, McHaney said Blair has the experience necessary to administer state affairs "in an honest, intelligent and efficient manner." McHaney said he is confident that Blair, as Governor, would appoint St. Louis police and election boards "which will guarantee the people of this area absolute fairness and integrity in all of their operations."

There are six candidates for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor. It is generally agreed that the race will be won by State Senator Edward V. Long of Clarksville, who has considerable outstate support and the backing of virtually all party organizations in St. Louis and Kansas City.

Unopposed candidates for Democratic nominations are Secretary of State Walter H. Toberman of St. Louis, who is seeking re-election for a third term, and State Revenue Director M. E. Morris of Jefferson City, for state treasurer. Attorney General John M. Dalton of Kennett is expected to win renomination easily over one opponent, Jim Hayes, a Caruthersville attorney.

On the Republican side, the closest primary race is likely to be between Albert E. Schoenbeck of St. Louis and Herbert Douglas of Neosho for the nomination for United States Senator.

Schoenbeck, attorney and a former member of the City Civil Service Commission, has strong backing here, and many party leaders think he will win. He has been actively campaigning, laying the groundwork for general election support in an effort to unseat Hennings.

Lon Hocker, St. Louis attorney and insurance executive, appears to have built up a strong lead over his vigorously campaigning opponent, Joseph M. Whealen, young division head for Ralston Purina Co. here.

Whealen has won friends and made enemies within his own party by his fight for new Republican party leadership in Missouri. Most Republicans, however, believe Hocker is their best bet to beat Blair.

Hocker has ignored his primary opponents, and is concentrating on the general election. Within the last few days he has directed his attack against Democrat Blair, getting off to an early start in his general election campaign in the expectation that he will be the nominee.

Unopposed candidates for G.O.P. nominations in the primary are Richard M. Webster of Carthage, former Speaker of the Missouri House, for Lieutenant Governor; Greene County Collector Jesse E. Smith of Springfield for Secretary of State, and State Senator Vincent E. Baker of Kansas City for Attorney General.

F. P. Graves of Farmington appears to be safely ahead in the three-man race for the Republican nomination for State Treasurer.

Carondelet Grows Ballplayers Instead of Juvenile Delinquents

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

Eight-year-old ROGER WOLF learning how to hold a baseball bat from WILLIAM R. BALOTA, manager of Carondelet Sunday Morning Athletic Club's beginning bantam team. Squatting at left with bats is BILLY M. BALOTA, bat boy, 6, not yet old enough to play on the team.

Law-Abiding Community's Spirit Is Reflected by Sunday Morning Athletic Club — 75 Adult Volunteers.

The Carondelet Sunday Morning Athletic Club, whose daily sports program has absorbed energies of 3000 youngsters since its founding 12 years ago, has its home in the district with the city's lowest crime rate.

Most club officers, however, are reluctant to link their work in any way with "delinquency."

"We don't even use that word," explained Kenneth George, club president. "We just try to catch them so young and keep them continuously so interested in sports, the collateral character-building values of athletics and the general welfare of the club that the concept of delinquency never enters our minds in connection with youth."

But it does enter the mind of Motorcycle Patrolman Kenneth Nieters, executive committee member, whose night duties familiarize him with teenagers' attitudes.

"None of our boys, to our knowledge," he says proudly, "has ever been in any trouble." He is borne out by a Carondelet patrolman who knows the club's effect in the community and calls the group "a wonderful organization."

Miss Dorothy McNamara, policewoman who serves Carondelet as its juvenile officer, commented: "They run their own show; if they ever had a problem, they took care of it themselves."

75 Adults in Charge.

Running the club's 22 teams in six sports requires an average contribution of 18 hours a week from each of 75 adults. Teams meet for games or practice two or three times a week.

Membership includes 300 seniors (20 or older), 275 juniors and 90 women. A few families come from distant parts of the city.

Funds come from dues and diverse money-raising activities, largest of which is an annual picnic, scheduled this year for July 22 at Millstadt, Ill.

Sports authorities say Carondelet residents are probably closer to their athletic teams than those of any other St. Louis community. This support is reflected in steady financial backing of the Carondelet club by merchants, professional people and industrial workers. Annual cost of each of three senior teams is $1000.

"Even aside from the main point of helping to build good citizens," said club president George, "the game is worth the candle because of money saved and crime prevented."

Trying to recall a disciplinary problem within the club, George turned to the immediate past president, William R. Balota, long active in club affairs. Balota, employed in the Post-Dispatch accounting department, is manager of the beginning bantam ball team, aged 7 to 9.

"Once we censured a few boys for their language," Balota said. "That did it; their loyalty to the club is such no other step was needed. We never expelled anybody."

Mothers Help, Too.

A key policy of the club is its involvement of both fathers and mothers. Mrs. Balota, now in her second term as president of the ladies' auxiliary, conferred with the executive board last week on establishment of a girls' junior division of 12 members. She and others teach the girls handicrafts.

Emphasis is on the junior division, with experienced youth workers and qualified baseball coaches handling the youngest teams. These include Nick Scalfano, who served two times as president, and Lorenz Sartori, another past president, both former Municipal League ball players.

A chiropractor, George will probably be succeeded, he said, by a truck driver, brewery worker or bricklayer. Other club leaders present at the last session were a milkman, letter-carrier, insurance man, plumber, furniture salesman, printer and factory foreman.

Youngest member of the executive board is Clem Niewoehner, who came up through the ranks, starting as an 11-year-old midget. Now 20, he is a Bishop DuBourg High School graduate and an alternate forward for the Kutis soccer team's National Amateur Cup game with the Philadelphia Ukrainians today at 2:30 p.m. at Public Schools Stadium.

Last year the C.S.M.A.C. collected three Muny League championships, two divisional firsts and three seconds. Ability to lose like sportsmen, however, and to respect teachers, parents and others is the main consideration, George stressed.

In post-practice talks last week, Balota, Scalfano and Sartori sandwiched brief pointers on conduct and attitude between inside tips on baseball strategy and stance at the plate.

Such incidental instruction is constant in early stages, is relaxed among older boys as need for it disappears, but is then reinforced from time to time by formal talks by outside speakers.

Recent appearances were made by the Rev. Lloyd Sullivan, who used the Socratic method to elicit from 11-year-olds the idea that making the big leagues was desirable but not life's highest reward, and Police Judge Robert Dowd. Judge Dowd discussed the Ten Commandments, with special reference to filial respect.

Club spokesman would be the last to claim all the credit for Carondelet's clean record. Other agencies, some affiliated with national groups, contribute, as do the community's long-established traditions of respect for law and order.

The C.S.M.A.C., however, is the district's only independent organization sponsoring multiple sports activities and having its own clubhouse, a $33,000, four-year-old, functional modern structure at 1012 Loughborough avenue.

Because of these achievements, clergy and police of the area believe, the club ideally expresses its community.

Police reported two instances of rape last year in Carondelet, compared with 64 in another district; 23 aggravated assaults, contrasted with 659 in the other district, 41 robberies, against 299 in another district, and one murder, whereas the high for any single district in the city was 38.

Scalfano and Sartori are convinced, by their years of watching youths mature, of the link between character-building and sports when approached in the proper frame of mind.

"Sportsmanship and general morality," Scalfano said, are alike in this: you've got to start early and keep at it to develop either one."

SHOULDERS OUT OF U.S. PRISON, RESTS AT HOME

Ex - Police Lieutenant Returns Here After Serving Three Years for Perjury.

Former Police Lt. Louis I. Shoulders was resting today in his new apartment, following his return to the city early yesterday after completing a three-year prison sentence for perjury in the Greenlease ransom case.

He and his wife, the former June Marie George, are registered at the Convent Gardens Apartments, 4497 Pershing avenue.

Mrs. Shoulders told the Post-Dispatch the ambulance trip was tiring for her husband, who was placed under the care of his physician on arrival.

He was sentenced May 21, 1954, at Kansas City and served his full sentence, with time off for good behavior.

Shoulders, who suffered a coronary occlusion several months ago, and had been a bed patient, left the United States Medical Center at Springfield, Mo., Friday night in a private ambulance, with his wife and a prison guard.

He was released from the prison about three hours before the expiration of his sentence and was technically in the custody of the guard until midnight.

The ambulance left the prison by a rear exit to avoid waiting newspaper reporters and photographers.

Associate Warden B. J. Lloyd explained that the former prisoner's condition is still serious and officials wished to avoid any situation that might endanger his health while he was still in their custody. Shoulders had indicated he did not wish to talk with reporters, Lloyd added.

Attired in Pajamas.

Lloyd said Shoulders was taken to the ambulance in a wheelchair, attired in pajamas that Mrs. Shoulders provided. He thanked Lloyd and the other officials for their treatment and said farewell before being placed on a stretcher in the air-conditioned ambulance.

Asked if the 57-year-old former police officer had been a model prisoner, Lloyd replied, "He couldn't have been any better." The associate warden indicated that Shoulders had impressed prison officials with his conduct.

Shoulders entered the prison July 16, 1954. When physically able he was assigned to the power plant as a clerk-messenger and slept in a large dormitory called "the camp."

Prior to entering the prison he suffered a stroke in the Jackson county jail and spent time in a hospital room after his arrival at Springfield. Following the heart attack, Shoulders was placed in the same hospital room he had occupied previously. He was moved to another section of the hospital after expressing fear he would die in the room.

Shoulders, a controversial figure in police circles, reached the peak of his career in October 1953, when he and his riding partner, Patrolman Elmer Dolan, arrested Carl Austin Hall, kidnap-killer of Bobby Greenlease, son of a wealthy Kansas City automobile dealer.

Fame Short-Lived.

Shoulders was hailed as a hero and appeared headed for promotion but his fame was short-lived after it was learned that more than half of the $600,000 ransom Hall received was missing. He resigned from the police department three weeks later.

Both Shoulders and Dolan testified before a federal grand jury at Kansas City and subsequently were convicted of lying about their handling of the Greenlease ransom.

Dolan was sentenced to two years in prison, serving 18 months in a federal reformatory from which he was released last December.

Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation interviewed Shoulders and Dolan in prison and still are actively searching for the missing portion of the ransom.

Hall, before his execution at Jefferson City with his associate, Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, insisted the ransom was virtually intact when Shoulders arrested him, following a tip from a taxicab driver, John Hager.

Brought here from prison in April 1955, Shoulders refused to testify before a federal grand jury investigating the missing ransom. Subsequently two pleas for parole were rejected.

Officials at the Medical Center said Shoulders has been advised to live quietly because of his heart condition.

Civic Group Offers to Sponsor Malcolm Bliss Alcoholic Ward

Fund Campaign Planned if City Approves —Officials Want Assurance Private Support Will Continue.

Establishment of an alcoholic ward at Malcolm Bliss Hospital will be sponsored by the Committee for Education on Alcoholism of Greater St. Louis, provided city officials agree to the project, it was announced yesterday.

St. Louis, which is estimated to have approximately 40,000 alcoholics in its metropolitan area, was described as one of the few large American cities that does not have in-patient facilities for treatment of persons who are problem drinkers.

The Committee for Education on Alcoholism, of which Dr. Joseph B. Kendis, an internist, is president, was organized May 1, 1955. Its membership of about 30 persons includes Mayor Raymond R. Tucker, representatives of major church groups, and both city and county Health Commissioners.

Fund Campaign Planned.

John S. Newhouse, treasurer of the committee, said the group would undertake a fund-raising campaign this fall to finance establishment of a headquarters office, pay for the committee's educational activities and to cover the Malcolm Bliss ward if the latter project is authorized.

The committee has worked out plans for the project at Malcolm Bliss, which is the psychiatric division of St. Louis City Hospital, with the psychiatric hospital's medical director, Dr. George Ulett. It would take about $50,000 annually, as a minimum, to run the alcoholic facility.

Newhouse said the city was considering the committee's offer to sponsor the special ward. Municipal officials were understood to favor the project, but their position has been that the city is not financially able to undertake it and must be sure that any private sponsorship is capable of maintaining the effort.

At present, Malcolm Bliss accepts all indigent alcoholic patients who are brought in by their families or by police. There is no special facility for them, even though they constitute about a third of admissions to the mental hospital.

Given No Special Care.

"They are now treated in the ward along with other types of psychiatric disorders and are not given the special care and attention they need," Dr. Ulett, who also is assistant professor of psychiatry at Washington University School of Medicine, has explained. Alcoholics are kept overnight and discharged the next day.

Under the new plan, space now available at Malcolm Bliss would be converted at small cost into an alcoholic ward where patients could be kept for 10 days to three weeks, long enough for doctors to examine them thoroughly and give them a boost on the road to recovery.

For example, it would be possible to build the patient up physically or at least "dry him out," and put him in contact with Alcoholics Anonymous and with other agencies capable of assisting him.

Newhouse said the Committee for Education on Alcoholism had as one of its principal objectives the dissemination of information. He said the organization, which will seek membership in the United Fund, wants to teach people that alcoholism is a disease that causes great suffering and economic loss.

Every Level of Society.

He said alcoholism appeared at every level of society, not just at the "skid row" level. He said the annual cost to industry in St. Louis had been estimated at $7,000,000 and to the city, through medical care, accidents and crime, at more than $4,000,000.

Newhouse said the St. Louis committee expects to become affiliated with the National Committee for Education on Alcoholism in New York. He said there are today about 60 local committees in the nation, most of them connected with the national agency.

THOMPSON ENDS HIS INQUIRY ON PAY-OFF CASE

Inspector to Present Reports of 21 Officers to Police Board Tomorrow.

Police Inspector James F. Thompson has completed his investigation of charges that pay-offs were made to some St. Louis police officers by prostitutes, Thompson said yesterday.

Detailed reports written by 21 policemen whose names were mentioned in the inquiry will be submitted tomorrow to the Board of Police Commissioners for study, he said.

Not All 21 Accused.

Thompson pointed out that in the cases of most of the 21 officers, no accusations had been made. However, he said, because their names had been brought up, they were required to prepare reports.

He said the completion of the reports and their presentation to the police board represented the conclusion of his inquiry, which began last year, unless the commissioners give him further instructions.

Among the 21 officers who made the reports were three who were indicted by the circuit court grand jury as a result of an investigation begun in June 1955. They are Detective Capt. William Greenspan, Lt. F. Lyman Davis and Cpl. George R. Wood.

Action by Jury Urged.

The present circuit court jury, sworn in earlier this month, was urged to insist that the police commissioners make a final and complete report of the departmental investigation so that officers who have been under suspicion will either be punished or absolved.

Thompson was assigned by the police board last year to assist Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd in his investigation of the pay-off charges. Later, Thompson began carrying out the police department's own inquiry into the matter.

IT'S WARM IN AUSTRALIA, BUT WINTER IS ONLY WEEK AWAY

SYDNEY, Australia, June 16 (UP) — Australians complained about the heat today with winter less than a week off.

The thermometer hit 92 at Derby in northwestern Australia. It was 75 in Sydney.

Hamilton, in southwestern Victoria, was the coldest — the temperature stood at 44 degrees. The national capital of Canberra reported 48 degree low.

WOMAN KILLED IN COLLISION OF AUTO AND TRUCK

Fatal Accident Occurs Near Barnhart—Five Hurt in 3-Car Crash Near Eureka.

Mrs. Robert L. Greene of Memphis, Tenn., was killed and her husband was injured when an automobile he was driving collided with a tractor-trailer in United States Highway 61 near Barnhart in Jefferson county yesterday.

Mrs. Greene, 59 years old, was pronounced dead at St. Anthony Hospital, where Greene is under treatment for serious cuts and bruises. He is 68.

Missouri highway patrolmen reported that Greene was southbound on Highway 61 and apparently was attempting to make a left turn when the automobile was struck by the northbound truck driven by Carl R. Foster, Auxvasse, Mo. Greene, a salesman for a truck line, was returning home from a sales meeting in St. Louis.

Five persons wbere injured seriously yesterday in a collision involving three vericles a mile west of Eureka on United States Highway 66. Mr. and Mrs. William R. Stogsdill, 3509 Shenandoah street, suffered fractured left legs; their son, Terry, 12 years old, lacerations.

Injuries of the chest were suffered by Curtis E. Vanover, Robertsville, Mo., and facial lacerations by Army Pvt. Glenn Eugene Nappier, Labadie, Mo., who has been receiving basic training at Fort Leonard Wood. All were kept at St. Louis County Hospital except Nappier, who was transferred to Scott Air Force Base Hospital.

The Missouri Highway Patrol reported the collision occurred when Vanover, 18 years old, driving west, tried to pass a machine driven by Roy V. Walton, 25, Kankakee, Ill., struck it a glancing blow and swerved across the three-lane highway into the path of an eastbound pickup truck driven by Stogsdill.

Nappier is 17. Two other teen-agers in Vanover's machine were not hurt, nor were Walton and his passengers.

Lawrence W. Davis, 52-year-old furniture finisher, died at Missouri Baptist Hospital Friday night of head and internal injuries suffered June 7 when his automobile rolled over him in the driveway of his home, 9406 Bataan drive, Woodson Terrace.

Davis was found beneath the machine by his wife, who ran out of the house when she heard him moan. Neighbors said he apparently had just driven into the driveway, parked the automobile and was crossing the driveway back of it when the machine knocked him down.

Jack L. Bernard, 54-year-old clerk, 5401 Thrush avenue, died at Missouri Pacific Hospital yesterday of injuries suffered June 9 when he was struck by an automobile while crossing Thekla avenue near Thrush.

John G. Maas, 5927 Era, driver of the machine, told police Bernard walked into the path of his automobile and he was unable to stop in time to avoid striking him.

FINGERPRINTED RUSSIAN IN U.S., PASSPORT INVALID

NEW YORK, June 16 (UP)—The first Soviet citizen to be fingerprinted at the United States Embassy in Moscow for a visa to visit the United States, arrived here today, only to be delayed because her Soviet passport was not in order.

The woman, Mrs. Eva Tsirul, on way to Dallas, Tex., to visit her mother, was accompanied by her 8-year-old daughter, Dolores. A resident of Riga, Latvia, she arrived on a Scandinavian Airlines plane from Copenhagen.

Her passport, according to an airline spokesman, was not in order because it was not validated for a period of six months after Sept. 1, the date she was scheduled to conclude her visit. Consequently, United States immigration authorities did not wish to admit her. Scandinavian Airlines officers agreed to parole the woman on the condition that she notify the Soviet Embassy upon her arrival in Dallas and request an extension of her passport to April 1, 1957.

CHILD YANKS KHRUSHCHEV'S NOSE AT DIPLOMATIC PARTY

MOSCOW, June 16 (AP)—Sankar Pillai is 18 months old and uninhibited, even among the powerful of the earth, as Nikita Khrushchev learned.

Sankaar is the son of K.P.P. Pillai, an Indian embassy secretary. The embassy threw a garden party today to which came Communist party boss Khrushchev, Premier Bulganin, et al. Khrushchev paused to tweak Sankar's cheek. Sankar beat him to the draw. He grabbed Khrushchev's nose.

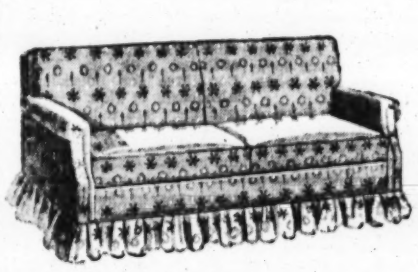

"He is trying to pull it off," Khrushchev laughed as Moscow's diplomatic elite gathered around. The nose did not come off. Sankar lost interest and turned to Bulganin. Thus spurned for Bulganin, Khrushchev wagged a finger at Sankar and said: "The child is too young to understadn. When he grows up he will know better."

WILSON WARNING 'SPOUTING WHALES ARE HARPOONED'

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 16 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson hinted yesterday that interservice "spouting" over defense policies could lead to some "harpooned" whales.

In a departure from a prepared speech, Wilson, addressing the graduating class of the Air War College at Maxwell Air Force Base, said he picked up the story on a recent tour of United States military bases in the Far North.

He said it had to do with a whale advising her baby how to survive the rigors of Arctic life.

"Only when you are spouting are you likely to be harpooned," was the mama whale's warning.

'Y' SUMMER CAMPING PROGRAM OPENS TOMORROW

The summer camping program of the Metropolitan Y.M.C.A. at Camp Lakewood on Sunnen Lake near Potosi, Mo., will begin tomorrow when 140 boys leave the city for the first camp period, ending June 30, Edmond C. Donk, camp chairman, announced yesterday.

There will be a total of five camp periods, the final one closing Aug. 25. All are filled to capacity. He added that the organization's $100,000 camp expansion program, which included relocation of the camp at a site nearer the lake area and construction of five new buildings, is nearing completion. A special dedication program is planned for July 8.

MUSIC INSTITUTE CLASSES

Classes of a six-week summer session will start tomorrow at St. Louis Institute of Music, 7801 Bonhomme avenue, Clayton. Two three-week workshops for teachers will be held at the same time.

The summer session will start after a convocation at 9 a.m. tomorrow in the auditorium of St. Michael and St. George's Church, 6345 Wydown boulevard, Clayton. The six-week term will close July 27.

OPPOSITION PAPER SEIZED IN TURKEY UNDER NEW LAW

ANKARA, June 16 (AP)—Today's issue of the opposition weekly magazine Akis was confiscated by Ankara's public prosecutor, apparently as a preliminary to a court action under Turkey's new press law.

Akis usually is bluntly critical of Premier Menderes's Democrat party. The new press law prohibits publication of any comments which may be considered (by the courts) as insulting to or undermining the government's prestige.

30 EAT THEIR FILL AT SODA FOUNTAIN AS GIFT TO CLASS

ANDOVER, Mass., June 16 (AP)—The 30 boys and girls in the St. Augustine Grammar School graduating class got an unexpected graduation gift in last night's mid-90-degree heat—unlimited access to a soda fountain.

The eighth graders were led by classmate Marilyn R. Harty into her father's drug store and told to "help yourselves."

Kingsize — naturally — sundaes, frappes and ice cream sodas were quickly set up for the youngsters and as quickly downed. Each youngster had at least two orders "on the house."

Marilyn said her father gave the party because "we've always had a secret desire to squirt soda water and pour on all the syrup and whipped cream the dish would hold."

"Now we know and we've had our fill," she sighed contendedly.

NEGRO TO HEAD POLICE DISTRICT FOR FIRST TIME

Capt. Bolden to Command Deer Street — 18 Other Assignments Announced.

Police Capt. Edward S. Bolden, first Negro in St. Louis to hold that rank, has been assigned to command the Deer street district, Acting Chief of Police Joseph Casey announced yesterday.

The assignment, one of 19 announced by Casey, is the first in department history putting a Negro in charge of a police district.

All assignments are effective today. They include 14 officers who received promotions June 9, three who have been transferred as a result of new assignments for those promoted and three who were demoted.

Casey announced that Capt. James L. Shea will command the Magnolia district, replacing Capt. Maurice O'Neill, who has been assigned to the secret service division. Shea has been in charge of the Second district flying squad.

Maj. Troy Ferber will remain as night chief of police, and Capt. John A. Doherty will remain in the secret service division in charge of the hoodlum squad which he has headed since its formation last February.

Bolden will replace Capt. William Pleitner, who has been assigned to the chief's office as an aide. Pleitner will take the position now held by Capt. Joseph Lesyna, who is on sick leave and not expected to return before retiring in August.

Bolden, 51 years old, became a member of the department in October 1933. In 1941 he was promoted to the rank of detective sergeant. He was named head of the revived narcotics squad in 1951 and served in that capacity until his promotion to lieutenant in 1954.

At that time he was placed in charge of a detective squad operating out of the Lucas avenue station and covering three midtown districts.

In December 1936, Bolden shot and killed a Negro who ignored his command to halt after an attempted street holdup.

Ten other officers promoted June 9 will remain in their present assignments.

FIVE CANDIDATES IN COUNTY WITHDRAW FROM PRIMARY

Five candidates, two Republicans and three Democrats, have withdrawn from contests for party nomination for major offices in St. Louis county at the Aug. 7 primary elections, the County Board of Election Commissioners announced yesterday. Friday was the final day on which candidates could withdraw.

The Republicans who withdrew are Robert C. Kelly, constable in the third district, and Louis C. Brown, Valley Park chief of police, both of whom had filed for their party's nomination for Sheriff. Their withdrawal leaves three men in the race, Constable Orion J. Litzinger of the Second District, former Sheriff Arthur C. Mosley, who was ousted from the office by the Missouri Supreme Court, and Ernest Hadrick, a Negro, Robertson.

Democrats who withdrew and the offices they had sought are: Mrs. Mary Jane Randolph, 32 Willow Hill road, Ladue, Councilman, Fourth District; C. R. Kelley, 7542 Jerome avenue, Maplewood, State Representative, Sixth District, and Al Robnak, 7575 Melrose avenue, University City, Sheriff.

WASHINGTON U. GRADUATE WINS $3000 FELLOWSHIP

Klaus H. Kattentidt, a former Washington University student, is 1956 winner of the $3000 James Harrison Steedman fellowship competition, Buford L. Pickens, dean of the Washington University School of Agriculture, announced yesterday.

Kattentidt, whose home is in Kiel, Germany, received a bachelor of architecture degree at the university in 1955. He presently is pursuing a master's degree at the University of Illinois.

The fellowship provides for a year of travel and study in foreign countries. Selection of a winner was made by a jury from the University of Minnesota School of Architecture faculty.

NEW PHILIPPINE PRESS FREEDOM LAW IS SIGNED

MANILA, June 16 (UP)—The Philippine press today applauded the signing by President Ramon Magsaysay of a new press freedom law which affords newsmen greater protection in their work.

The chief executive also signed a corollary measure—the radio and television tax bill—which abolishes the taxes on these two media of information.

Under the new law, newspaper men cannot be forced to divulge their sources of information except in cases where the "security of the state" is involved.

TRUMANS GUESTS AT DINNER

THE HAGUE, June 16 (AP)—Former President and Mrs. Truman were guests of United States Ambassador Freeman Matthews at an embassy dinner tonight. Twenty guests, mostly Dutch officials, attended.

Truman and the ambassador will be luncheon guests tomorrow of Queen Juliana.

formation, said today at Castle Air Force Base in California that it missed by only about two miles. He also said "the Air Force has had definite instructions from the Atomic Energy Commission to say nothing."

Denial by Commission.

Scott was wrong on both statements, according to official Washington. Concerning the alleged AEC instructions, a commission spokesman said briefly, "That is not true." Concerning the miss, Quarles said:

"Due to a human error, the recent thermonuclear bomb dropped by a B-52 aircraft at Bikini exploded somewhat less than four miles short of the planned position.

"The error was in the manipulation of the bombing equipment and did not involve malfunction of the aircraft or any of the equipment which it carried.

"While the error was considerably more than normally expected, it was not great enough to have a serious effect on the success of the experiment."

It was reported unofficially that the figure used by Scott was based on preliminary calculations. Later computations, it was said, put the miss at about 3.6 miles.

Gen. Scott, in his explanation of the mission, said a "memory switch," a device used in correcting an aircraft's wind drift, apparently was not turned off when it should have been."

Success Indicated Earlier.

Newsmen who witnessed the May 21 explosion from the deck of a ship some 39 land miles from Namu were told by the test task force about 15 hours after the shot that:

"Our early reports indicate that the test detonation was successful from the scientific viewpoint. We have had no adverse reports from any phase of the operation."

That was interpreted by officials aboard the observer ship as meaning the bomb was "right on the button." The 50-odd scientific experiments connected with the success could not have been an unqualified success unless the explosion occurred at the point in space on which cameras and other precision instruments were focused.

By the second day after the explosion, rumors were heard in Honolulu that the drop plane had missed. Not until officials accompanying the observer group got back to Washington, however, did they learn the approximate truth.

The initial decision not to tell the public about the miss was credited here to Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission, and Quarles.

Plane's Ability Proven.

One high official said the admission would give aid and comfort to the enemy. He and others insisted the miss jeopardized nobody. They said the explosion proved the B-52's ability to deliver the H-bomb and so was a success. They said some instrument work was ruined but that much of it could be salvaged after making corrections for the bombing error.

The Defense Department was full of reports that another service supplied a version of the miss in order to discredit the strategic bombing ideas of the Air Force.

Scott and others pointed out that in warfare a near miss with a weapon of the H-bomb's destructive range would still be devastating. A bomb the size of the one dropped May 21 has a "total annihilation," or 100 per cent fatality, range of 3.2 miles. At a distance of 12 miles it can knock down two-story brick houses, killing 85 per cent of their occupants.

Crew Not in SAC.

The Strategic Air Command has boasted repeatedly that it is nearly immune from near misses.

SAC spokesmen have been telling Congress its bombers aim not at cities or even buildings but at "corners of buildings."

Since the May 21 miss, SAC spokesmen also have been pointing out that the drop crew belongs to the Research and Development Command, not to SAC.

The crew members were from the 4925th Test Group (atomic), Kirtland Air Force base, Albuquerque, N. M.

The bombardier, 37-year-old Maj. Dwight E. Durner of Charlotte, Mich., had been training with his colleagues for months for their proving ground mission. They had made more than 30 drops with dummy H-bombs. Their practice record was good.

Though the error was "human," there is no thought, it was said at the Pentagon, of disciplining anybody.

Though the AEC was keeping out of the publicity about the miss, it did reply to an assertion made in the Honolulu story that two persons at the proving ground were permanently blinded by the bomb flash.

The AEC got directly in touch with the task force today and issued a statement saying, "No persons have suffered eye injury as a result of detonations in the current series of nuclear tests."

AEC Chairman Strauss was not around to comment, or refuse to comment, on the miss. He was en route by Military Air Transport plane to the proving ground for the forthcoming "most interesting" test of the series. With him aboard the plane were Dillon Anderson, President Eisenhower's special assistant for national security affairs, and Central Intelligence Director Allen W. Dulles.

PRESIDENT MAKING STEADY PROGRESS, NO HINT OF PLANS

this would consist of custard and a glass of skimmed milk.

He told reporters the toast was considered part of the "soft" diet and did not represent a change from "soft" to "hard" food. On the instructions of the doctors, Mr. Eisenhower chewed the toast thoroughly, he added.

Text of Bulletin.

Text of the medical bulletin: "The President's condition continues to progress very satisfactorily. He has had another good day.

"The President had a nap in the early afternoon. Prior to the nap, he had a soft boiled egg and a half slice of unbuttered whole wheat toast. Liquid feedings by mouth were continued throughout the day. He will have another portion of soft food early this evening. The President was in excellent spirits throughout the day."

Sitting up in bed, Mr. Eisenhower ate four ounces of Cream of Wheat with a little milk and sugar this morning. It was the first time he had been given solid food.

Later, Hagerty told reporters: "you would have thought that the President was eating the best steak in the world . . . He really enjoyed it."

The attending physicians gave him permission to watch television for the first time this afternoon, and a TV set was moved into his bedroom.

Starting at 4 p.m., Mr. Eisenhower watched part of the final 36 holes of the National Open Golf Tournament at Rochester, N. Y. He was sitting up in bed, with the head elevated to support him.

A large greeting card signed by all participants in the tournament was delivered to the President this morning. Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower, an enthusiastic golfer, got "a tremendous kick" out of it and wanted to send his appreciation to all the signers.

The card, which Hagerty said had 156 signatures, read: "To Ike, who has done the most for golf. Get well fast." Many of the signers are personal friends of the President and some have played golf with him, Hagerty added.

Among the signers were Dr. Cary Middlecoff, Byron Nelson, Sammy Snead and Ben Hogan.

Cartoon On Card.

The card bore a cartoon by E. R. Messner, cartoonist for the Rochester (N.Y.) Times-Union. Representatives of the newspaper brought the greeting to the temporary White House at Walter Reed hospital.

Mr. Eisenhower followed progress of the tournament from wire service accounts and telephone messages relayed by his personal physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, as well as on television.

In a press conference after the operation, Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, commanding general of the hospital, predicted Mr. Eisenhower probably would be able to leave the hospital in 15 days.

Barring complications, this would mean he could leave sometime next weekend and go to a place of his own choice for four to six weeks of recuperation the doctors have said he will need before resuming the full duties of his office.

Hagerty has said the President will be well enough to "walk out" when he leaves Walter Reed. Where he will continue his convalescence is still unknown, although his Gettysburg (Pa.) farm is considered the most likely spot.

Getting Liquids by Mouth.

The President is continuing to get liquids by mouth. Tea, warm water and clear beef broth in two-ounce amounts are rotated every hour.

The added soft foods, Hagerty said, would be in the form of Cream of Wheat, custard and gelatin. Intravenous feeding, discontinued last Wednesday, has not been resumed, although the doctors have not yet announced that they are discontinuing it permanently.

In a 12:30 p.m. medical bulletin today, Gens. Snyder and Heaton said:

"The President's condition continues to progress very satisfactorily. His temperature, pulse, blood pressure and respiration are normal.

"The President took his walking exercises this morning and sat in an easy chair for about a half hour.

"Small amounts of hourly liquid feedings by mouth were supplemented this morning by the first soft food the President has had since his operation — four ounces of Cream of Wheat with a little sugar and milk."

'Very Good Night's Rest.'

The morning medical bulletin said he had "a very good night's rest" of more than eight hours, his longest night's sleep thus far. The previous high was exactly eight hours.

The text of the morning bulletin:

"The President had a very good night's rest. He slept almost continuously for more than eight hours. Feeding of liquids by mouth is being continued and will be augmented by soft foods later in the day.

"His temperature is 98.2, his pulse is 78, his blood pressure is 118 over 70, his respiration is 18—all of which are normal. The President is in excellent spirits."

Leaders Take Silence As Sign President Will Run.

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP)—Republican leaders today pointed out what they believe to be a strong sign that the President intends to run again. They noted that the White House has not made any move to delay final arrangements for the Republican national convention.

The Republican National Committee's arrangements sub-committee will meet here Friday to wrap up the last details for the party's August convention in San Francisco. Among other things the 46-member group will consider a proposal to telescope the proposed four-day convention into three days.

If it acts on such a proposal without any adverse White House reaction, the move will be interpreted as indicating that despite his operation Mr. Eisenhower is going along with plans for his renomination and that of Vice President Nixon.

A National Committee spokesman said that while the party organization has had no post-operation word on the President's political future, he does not believe the President would sanction a shortened convention if he were going to plunge the G.O.P. into the turmoil certain to follow any reconsideration of his Feb. 29 decision to seek a second term.

we did a better job of legislating, then I think we might expect to be painted in a better light than we have been. It certainly would do no good to hire a publicity man, if you are not doing a good job, because you can't fool the people with the help of such a man."

Opposed by Two Unions.

Oetter was selected by the caucus despite opposition from leaders of two unions in the newspaper industry, the St. Louis Newspaper Guild and the St. Louis Typographical Union.

Eight Democratic aldermen sought Friday to obtain a week's delay in acting upon the matter in order to give them an opportunity to inquire further into this question, the Post-Dispatch learned. They were outvoted, however, by the others in the caucus.

Some of these said they will not be bound by the caucus action and will vote against the appointment when it reaches the floor of the Board of Aldermen.

One of the first research jobs that Oetter will be given, Gunn told the caucus, is to analyze pending bills to provide city participation in off-street parking facilities.

Meanwhile, Chairman James E. Noonan of the aldermanic zoning committee, decided to proceed on his own. He announced public hearings for next Friday on bills to condemn two sites downtown for city parking facilities and for the following Friday on a bill to provide similar facilities in the Baden area.

steamer, they said, and had not seen any of the attackers before.

Assault Outside Tavern.

A similar incident occurred shortly before midnight Friday outside a tavern at 3002 Montgomery street when approximately 10 Negro boys about 16 or 17 years old assaulted three customers as they came out singly.

The first was Clifford Adams, 22, of 3224A Montgomery street. He told police he was walking home and had said nothing when one of the group suddenly said, "Let's beat him up."

Kent Stockwell, 33, of the same address, said he saw what was happening and came out to try to try to stop it. The group turned on him and then on John J. Dudzik, 22, of 2500 Bacon street, as he joined in.

The victims were treated for cuts at City Hospital. Adams clothing was badly torn.

Student Meeting Considered.

Meanwhile, officials of the St. Louis Public Schools Patrons Alliance are studying the advisability of calling a general meeting of high school students of the St. Louis area to discuss their ideas of combatting the juvenile delinquency problem here.

Daniel R. Cross, president of the alliance, told the Post-Dispatch last night a special meeting of his group to consider the proposal will be held this week.

Cross, a candidate for the Republican nomination for state treasurer, said Gov. Phil M. Donnelly has declined to act on a request from the alliance urging enactment of a parental responsibility law.

Maurice S. Karner, candidate for the Republican nomination for circuit attorney, promised action in combatting juvenile delinquency if he is elected. In a speech at the Seventeenth Ward Republican Organization last week he said "adequate laws should be enacted to place responsibility for proper supervision of juveniles as a parental job as well as one for authorities."

Greek Relics Found.

RAGUSA, Sicily, June 16 (AP)—Archeologists have found traces of the old Greek city of Casmene, buried for more than 2000 years. It was mentioned in the annals of the ancient Greek colonization of Sicily, then apparently abandoned. Diggers uncovered columns of a temple to Apollo, tombs and traces of roads.

REDS ASK ALLIES TO VIEW TROOP PULLOUT IN REICH

Invite Chiefs of Staff to See Withdrawal of 33,500 Men From East Zone.

BERLIN, June 16 (AP)—The Russians formally invited Allied Chiefs of Staff in West Germany today to attend he withdrawal of 33,500 Soviet troops from East Germany next Wednesday and Thursday.

Lt. Gen. N. P. Sidelnikov, chief of staff of Soviet forces in Germany, issued the invitations to his opposite numbers of the American, British and French forces in West Germany. The Russians also asked the Western Chiefs of Staff to relay the invitation to officers and enlisted men in West Germany.

At Heidelberg, a United States Army spokesman said "the invitation has been received and is under study."

There was no immediate comment from British or French headquarters in Germany.

Foreign Missions Invited.

Simultaneously, the Soviet commandant in Berlin, Maj. Gen. P. A. Dibrova, issued invitations to the three Western military commandants in the divided city and the heads of foreign military missions in Berlin.

The list of those invited, announced by the official East German news agency, A.D.N., left little doubt the Russians were aiming for as much "peace" publicty as the troop withdrawal might afford.

Even after the withdrawal of the 33,500 troops, the Russians, by educated guess, will still have about 235,000 men stationed in East Germany. The withdrawal was announced by the Kremlin last month as part of the Soviet Union's planned demobilization of 1,200,000 men within a year.

The Soviet invitations were sent out on the same day the official East German Communist party organ, Neues Deutschland, said the United States Army had increased its forces in West Germany by 35,000 men. United States European headquarters denied this.

Normal Replacement.

"We have had no more than our normal replacement of troops," said an official at United States' Army European headquarters at Heidelberg.

The paper asserted that at the time the Soviet Union was withdrawing "more than 50,000 troops" from East Germany, the United States was using "deceptive troop movements" to hide "war preparations."

Among other things, Neues Deutschland said, the Americans were bringing in pilotless aircraft capable of carrying nuclear warheads.

Officials at United States' Air Force in Europe headquarters at Wiesbaden said the 11th Tactical Mission Squadron composed of about 100 men was due here from Orlando, Fla., this month, a move that was announced a year ago. This squadron handles the Matador guided missile.

Other than this squadron, Air Force sources said, the United States has not increased its normal strength. One official said he thought the Communists were distorting the rotation of United States in which new men are brought in periodically while others are sent home.

The United States has an estimated 250,000 troops stationed in West Germany.

The mention of 50,000 troops being withdrawn by the Soviets was surprising. The paper apparently included 20,000 Russian troops reported withdrawn last year.

SUMMER SESSIONS OPEN TUESDAY AT ST. LOUIS U.

The first of two summer sessions at St. Louis University will be held Tuesday through July 27 with eight special programs offered with regular college courses. Summer terms at Maryville College will begin tomorrow and at Webster College Tuesday. Both also will end July 27.

Special programs offered this summer at St. Louis University are institutes in human relations and group guidance, hospital administration and teaching of chemistry, courses in kerygmatic theology, a special master's degree program in speech and drama for teachers, the ninth annual high school institute, speech clinic activities and techniques in biology.

Among courses offered at Maryville College will be social reconstruction, which deals with the social teaching of the Catholic Church as expressed by the Popes' Encyclicals.

METHODIST CONFERENCE TO HONOR BISHOP HOLT

Bishop and Mrs. Ivan Lee Holt will be honored at a dinner at the Chase Hotel Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. by the St. Louis Annual Conference of the Methodist Church over which he has presided for 12 years. About 1000 Methodists had made reservations today for the dinner.

Bishop Holt will retire July 1, after his successor has been named at a Methodist conference at New Orleans, La.

The principal address at the dinner Tuesday will be by Bishop A. Frank Smith of Houston, Tex. Former United States Senator Forrest C. Donnell will preside.

Soviet Ships to Shanghai.

MOSCOW, June 16 (AP)—Newspapers report a Soviet naval squadron will visit Shanghai next week. It includes the cruiser Dmitri Poznarski and two destroyers. They are presumably from Vladivostok and will be the first publicity announced naval mission to Shanghai since the Reds got in power in 1949.

Hostages, Captured Youth

MISS SELMA RICHTER and her escort, WILLIAM R. HORTON, of Pana, Ill., after being released by three Chicago youths who seized them as hostages following jail break at Hillsboro, Ill.

3 YOUTHS CAUGHT AFTER JAILBREAK IN HILLSBORO, ILL.

Leader, Last Seized, Is Taken in Chicago as He Leaves Plane From Indianapolis.

Chicago police yesterday arrested the last of three prisoners who broke out of jail at Hillsboro, Ill., Friday night and seized four persons as hostages.

Norman Patrick Kelly of Chicago was arrested as he left an airliner he had boarded in Indianapolis. Five detectives, acting on a tip from Indiana state police, were waiting for the plane when it landed.

Kelly, a Negro, 20 year sold, was said by authorities to be the leader of the jail break. He had been confined in the Montgomery county jail at Hillsboro since his arrest in St. Louis last May 21. Hillsboro is about 70 miles northeast of St. Louis.

Kelly's two companions, Warner Yates, 14, and Raymond Schneider, 20, both of Chicago, were recaptured early yesterday in Indianapolis after fleeing from the last of three automobiles which they and Kelly had stolen or commandeered.

Pursued at High Speed.

The youths abandoned the car after they had been pursued by Sheriff's deputies at speeds up to 100 miles an hour.

Kelly made good his escape when the three fled on foot. He stole another car and drove to Martinsville, 30 miles south of Indianapolis, police said.

There he purchased a change of clothing, took a bus back to Indianapolis and caught a cab to the airport. Police, acting on a tip, arrived at the airport moments after the Eastern Airlines plane Kelly had boarded had taken off.

All four hostages seized during the 200-mile flight from Hillsboro to Indianapolis were released without harm.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Fogler were seized in their car a short distance east of Hillsboro and forced to accompany the men to a point near Shelbyville, Ill. William R. Horton and Miss Selma Richter were taken from Irving, Ill., where their car had been commandeered, to Indianapolis where their captors fled on foot.

All of the captives were from Pana, Ill.

Attempt to Rob Motel.

En route to Indianapolis, Kelly and Schneider attempted unsuccessfully to hold up a motel at Bainbridge, Ind. A little later their car was spotted, and the chase followed.

The men escaped by overpowering relief jailer P. M. Bandy when he entered their cell with another prisoner. Seizing his keys they took a submachine gun, two rifles, two pistols and a shotgun from the jail's arsenal. Four other prisoners made no effort to join the escape.

The men escaped from Hillsboro in the car of James Bolton, deputy coroner, from whom they took $300. Bolton lives only a short distance from the jail.

Kelly, who was wanted in connection with a motel holdup in Hillsboro, was arrested in St. Louis last month after being traced here through a slip of paper that had been dropped at the holdup scene. It bore the name of a St. Louis hotel.

He admitted to St. Louis police five holdups in Chicago, including one in which a bus operator was shot and wounded.

After their recapture, Yates told officers he and Schneider decided to steal a car last Friday and run away. They were arrested that night when they stopped for gasoline at a service station near Hillsboro.

New Home-Reducing Plan Is Guaranteed to Take Off Pounds and Inches

Science does wonderful things. Latest in the field of weight control is the program developed by the famous Niagara Research Institute. This plan, which was produced under the supervision of competent medical authority, is unusual because it is the first home-reducing program to present a scientific, medically correct, three-way approach to the problem of excess weight. It is very economical, carries the Good Housekeeping seal and costs nothing to try in your home. For free booklet and information, write to Niagara of St. Louis, Dept. 2A, 6254 Delmar Blvd., or call PA 5-0990.

GIRL, 3, DROWNS IN STORM SEWER

Washington (Mo.) Child Washed Into Pipe While Playing in Gutter.

Lorraine Whitley, 3 years old, of Washington, Mo., drowned yesterday when she was washed into a storm sewer near her home during a rain storm. The child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Whitley, had been playing in a gutter which led into the sewer.

Her father, a factory worker, saw Lorraine disappear into the pipe and shouted for help. Two men ran to the pipe outlet, 100 yards away, and caught the child as she was washed into a pool. Efforts to revive her were unsuccessful.

Four older children of the Whiteys drowned in a slough on the Missouri river last summer when they entered deep water. There are seven other children in the family. Washington is about 50 miles west of St. Louis in Franklin county.

SCOTLAND YARD SEARCHES FOR BOMBS IN PARLIAMENT

LONDON, June 16 (UP) — Scotland Yard searched the House of Parliament early today and doubled the normal guard when a telephone caller warned Parliament would be bombed.

No bombs were found. Detectives said the call might have been a hoax, but police immediately added the Parliament building to the list of areas under special protection from possible attacks by Cypriot sympathizers.

Sir Anthony Eden and his ministers and the royal family got extra armed guards last month after police received reports that the Cyprus anti-British movement had spread to London.

CONFECTIONERY ROBBED OF $75 BY TWO MEN

Angelo Copple, operator of a confectionary at 2702 Goodfellow boulevard, reported the loss of $75 last night to two holdup men who entered the establishment as he was preparing to close.

One who had a white handkerchief over his face emptied the cash register while his companion, armed with a revolver, forced Copple into his living quarters in the rear of the store.

Mrs. Copple rushed out the rear door to call police but the two men, both Negroes, had fled before police arrived.

SOUTH KOREAN POLICE KILL 3 COMMUNIST GUERRILLAS

SEOUL, June 16 (UP)—Republic of Korea police shot and killed three Communist guerrillas believed to have crossed the truce line into South Korea recently, national police headquarters announced today.

The announcement said the North Korean guerrillas were killed in a 20-minute skirmish on a hill near Wonju, 60 miles east of Seoul. The infiltrators were armed with a Czech-made sub-machine gun and an American-made rifle and carbine, it said.

It was the first report of armed Communist Guerrilla activities in South Korea this year.

FOUND HANGED IN BASEMENT

The body of Mathias Baumann, retired, 7813 Clevedon street, Gardenville, was found yesterday hanging by a rope in a basement storage room at his home, St. Louis county police reported. Baumann's wife said he had been treated by a physician for a nervous condition. He was 68 years old.

ILLINOIS COURT ORDERS INJURY CLAIMS INQUIRY

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 16 (AP) — The Illinois Supreme Court announced today it would investigate the practice of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and similar organizations in employing lawyers to handle personal injury cases for members.

The court has appointed Charles H. Thompson of Harrisburg, a former State Supreme Court justice and State Senator, to head a special commission which will hear testimony and report back to Chief Justice Harry Hershey.

"This inquiry is an investigation of a condition, and not the acts of any designated person and for these reasons the commissioner shall not conduct public hearings until the report is made," the order said.

HELD ON MANN ACT CHARGE

Sidney M. Lauer, who gave an address in the 800 block of Longacre avenue, University City, was held yesterday after his arrest Friday on a federal warrant charging violation of the Mann Act.

The warrant, issued at Chicago, charges Lauer with transportation of a woman from Davenport, Ia., to Chicago for immoral purposes last December. J. E. Milnes, agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation here, said.

Kashmir To Be Discussed.

DACCA, East Pakistan, June 16 (AP) — Foreign Minister Hamidul Huq Chowdhery told reporters here this week Kashmir would be discussed at the London meeting of commonwealth prime ministers late this month. The future of the border state has caused friction between India and Pakistan since they became sovereign nations in 1947.

BIG BONE FOUND IN HARBOR IDENTIFIED AS THAT OF WHALE

SAN PEDRO, Calif., June 16 (AP)—The mystery of a monstrous bone dredged up from the harbor yesterday on a ship's anchor was solved today.

It was the lower left jawbone of a gray whale that died anywhere from 150 to 1000 years ago, said John Fitch, director of the state fish and game laboratory at nearby Terminal island.

The bleached bone, about 17 feet long and 1½ to 2 feet in diameter in the center, was hooked yesterday by the anchor of the coastwise lumber freighter Cynthia Olson. Capt. Anton Brix, the vessel's skipper, said he thought it was part of a prehistoric monster.

STRIKE HALTS PRODUCTION AT EAST SIDE AUTO PLANT

A strike of 25 machinists at the A. O. Smith Corp. automobile body plant an U.S. Highway 67 near Granite City, yesterday caused production to halt when 2000 boilermakers refused to cross a picket line.

The machinists, members of the International Association of Machinists, District No. 9, set up a picket line Friday night after contract negotiations broke down. The line did not affect nightshift workers already on the job. Thomas Sullivan, plant manager, told the Post-Dispatch ordinarily Saturday is not a normal work day, but that because of heavy production schedules, work had been scheduled yesterday.

The breakdown in negotiations came when the machinists refused to accept a 16-cent hourly wage increase and a job reclassification study. Sullivan said the workers are demanding an immediate 15-cent increase and an additional 10-cent hourly increase in September.

HOCKER BLAMES BLAIR FOR STEAL ATTEMPT IN 1941

Calls Democrat 'Architect' of Move to Block Seating of Donnell as Governor.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, June 16 — Lon Hocker of St. Louis charged tonight that Lt. Gov. James T. Blair Jr., leading candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, was the "real author" of the notorious 1941 attempted governorship steal.

Hocker, who is seeking the Republican gubernatorial nomination, blasted Blair for assisting in the Democratic partisan scheme to keep the Republican Governor-elect, Forest C. Donnell, out of office and to seat instead the late Lawrence McDaniel, the defeated Democratic candidate.

Denouncing Blair as the "architect of the most disgraceful political scheme" in Missouri history, Hocker served notice in a talk before the Jackson County Young Republican Club that he intends to make Blair's role in the governorship steal a major campaign issue.

Signed Contest Petition.

After Donnell had been elected Governor in 1940 by 3613 votes, on the basis of the official count, Democratic party officials announced the election would be contested. The contest petition filed with the Democratic-controlled Legislature was signed by Blair, then a practicing attorney in Jefferson City.

The Legislature then refused to permit Donnell to be seated as Governor. After he was kept out of office for more than a month, the Missouri Supreme Court upset the plan and ordered that Donnell be seated. The contest subsequently was dropped when a recount of ballots failed to sustain Democratic charges of fraud and improper tabulation of ballots.

In his speech, Hocker said Blair's contest petition, without supporting evidence, accused election officials of both parties of falsifying returns in that race. He said Blair was the only one who signed the petition and "he alone must bear the responsibility for this affront to honor, truth and democracy."

Hocker said the charge was "so outrageous and so plainly in violation of Missouri Constitution" that the Legislature's partisan contest plan was vetoed by holdover Gov. Lloyd C. Stark, a Democrat. He also pointed out that there were seven Democrats on the Supreme Court when it ordered Donnell seated.

Machine Still in Control.

"The machine politicians who engineered this disgraceful scheme are in large part the persons who today still control the machinery of the Democratic party, and who have forced L. C. Carpenter out of the race for the Democratic nomination for Governor," he said.

"They include Richard R. Nacy of Jefferson City, James M. Pendergast of Kansas City and, first and foremost, James T. Blair Jr., their present candidate for Governor."

Hocker also charged that the "Democratic machine" refused to let Blair run for Governor in 1948 and 1952, fearing the voters would recall his part in the attempted governorship steal. But they are letting him run this time because they think the people have forgotten it by now, he said.

The G.O.P. gubernatorial candidate again asked for the support of Democrats who favor maintenance of good government in Missouri.

HISTORICAL SERIES FOR CHILDREN TO OPEN TOMORROW

Thrilling stories of Indian fighters, frontiersmen, pioneers and early colonists will be told to the boys and girls—age 7 to 12 years—who attend the Missouri Historical Society's annual summer series, opening tomorrow morning.

Mrs. Frank Groom Kirtz, head of the education department, will start off the series, which is free and sponsored by a grant from Famous-Barr Co., with some exciting tales about Daniel Boone. She has a flintlock musket said to have been used by Boone and a scale model of Boonesborough fort which figured in a battle against Chief Blackfish.

The programs are Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 10:30 a.m. and at 1:30 p.m. through July 27. The youngsters will make coonskin caps for the boys and sunbonnets for the girls as souvenirs.

Other personalities in the program will include Davy Crockett, Lewis and Clark and Benjamin Franklin. A sure-fire thriller is expected to be the story of Absolom Grimes, the Confederate spy who escaped from prison 10 times and was finally pardoned by President Abraham Lincoln.

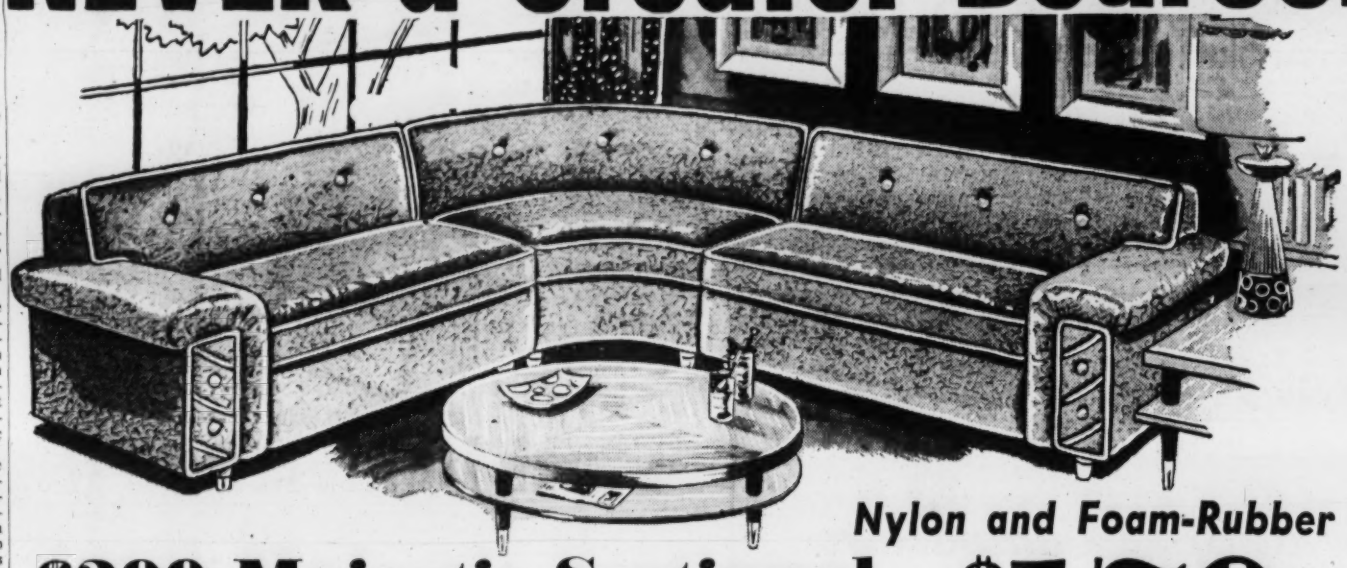

M. RITCHEY CRING ELECTED

M. Ritchey Cring, a public relations officer of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad, has been elected president of the St. Louis chapter, Public Relations Society of America, it was announced yesterday.

Cring will succeed Bernard A. Ehrenreich when he takes over the office July 1. James R. Hanson was named vice president and C. Russell Deyo was elected secretary-treasurer.

CHAIR OF CHILD PSYCHIATRY ENDOWED HERE

$400,000 Donated to Washington University School of Medicine by Ittelson Foundation.

A gift of $400,000 from the Ittleson Family Foundation to Washington University to endow the Blanche F. Ittleson Chair of Child Psychiatry in the School of Medicine was announced yesterday by Chancellor Ethan A. H. Shepley.

Believed to be the first endowed professorship of child psychiatry in the United States, the gift will materially strengthen the university's over-all program in child health and child development, Shepley said.

Set Up In 1932.

The Ittleson Family Foundation was established in 1932. Mrs. Ittleson, a native St. Louisan, is the widow of Henry Ittleson, who founded the C.I.T. Financial Corp. in St. Louis in 1908. It is now the nation's largest consumer and industrial financing firm, with headquarters in New York since 1915.

A graduate of Mary Institute and one-time student at Washington University, Mrs. Ittleson is one of the country's pioneers in the field of mental health. In 1954 she was the United States representative to the annual meeting of the World Federation for Mental Health, held in Canada. Last year, just before her eightieth birthday, she flew to Istanbul, Turkey, to attend a meeting of the same organization.

Before the gift was authorized, a professional advisory committee of the foundation visited St. Louis to determine whether Washington University, with additional support and leadership from the community, could provide an outstanding program in the field of child psychiatry.

National Importance.

After consultations with community leaders and officials of the university, the committee reported itself satisfied that such a program would become outstanding and would provide research and training resources of national importance.

However, in developing a strong integrated program of the kind envisioned, it was recognized that additional funds would be needed, Henry Ittleson, chairman of the foundation board of trustees, said. The university has announced it would obtain the additional needed support from the St. Louis community and other appropriate sources.

The new work in child psychiatry will be carried on in close relationship with the present work in psychiatry, pediatrics, psychology and other related fields, Shepley said.

OLD BATTLESHIP ILLINOIS HEADED FOR SCRAP HEAP

BALTIMORE, June 16 (AP)—The old battleship Prairie State, formerly the Illinois, which never fired a shot in action in its 55 years of existence, was headed for the scrap heap today.

The battleship, sold to the Bethlehem Steel Co. for $278,000, will be turned into steel plate for tankers and other naval vessels.

The ship was used to train about 10,000 Naval Reserve ensigns in World War II. Commissioned in 1901, it sailed around the world from 1907-09 to demonstrate United States might. It has been used as a training ship since 1924. Its name was changed when a new Illinois was commissioned.

The Prairie State arrived from New York Thursday at the end of a tow line.

SCHOOL FOR SLOW-LEARNING CHILDREN TO OPEN IN FALL

Plans for opening a new school for slow-learning children next fall by Miriam Lodge No. 17 of the United Order of True Sisters were announced yesterday.

The school will be operated for children recommended by a professional testing committee without restrictions because of race, religion or financial reasons, Mrs. Morris Wachtel Jr., recently appointed chairman of the board of the Miriam School, said.

It is specifically planned, she said, "to help individual children reach their maximum mental and social potential, and to assist parents and families in learning how to accept and deal with their problem."

ORPHAN HOME TO MARK ITS 106TH ANNIVERSARY

The 106th anniversary of the German St. Vincent Orphan Association will be held today at the home, Natural Bridge and Florissant roads, Normandy.

The program will include a thanksgiving high mass at 10 a.m. in the chapel, children's program and graduation at 11 o'clock and a barbecue beef and chicken dinner served from noon to 8 p.m. in the dining rooms.

Founded June 14, 1850, the association received a charter from the Missouri Legislature. In 1851, the first child entered the orphan home, and since then more than 5000 children have been cared for at the institution.

BUILDING TRADES, AFL-CIO DISPUTE REPORTED ENDED

Unions Said to Have Agreed to Withdraw Opposition to Labor Merger in States.

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP) —The controversy between the AFL-CIO leadership and the federation's powerful building trades unions was reported settled last night.

The settlement was worked out at a closed meeting between AFL-CIO President George Meany and presidents of the 19 building trades unions, representing more than 3,000,000 members.

The building and construction union chiefs had adopted a policy last April of seeking actively to block further mergers of AFL and CIO state and local groups until agreements were worked out in jurisdictional disputes with former CIO unions.

This controversy mainly centers on construction work around industrial plants. The building trades charged that plant production workers, members of CIO unions, were performing expansion and other construction work claimed by the building trades.

Meany proposed to name a committee of six members of the AFL executive council—three from former CIO unions and three from former AFL building trades unions—to resolve these jurisdictional squabbles, with Meany serving as the committee's chairman.

After hearing Meany's plan the building trades leaders reportedly approved it unanimously and decided to send out a letter to building trades union locals saying they now may withdraw opposition to state and local mergers. The letter was being drafted this weekend for Meany's approval Monday.

MORTON MAY AND PAUL NEFF TO DIRECT FUND PROMOTION

Promotion of the forthcoming United Fund campaign will be directed by Morton D. May, president of the May Department Stores Co., and Paul J. Neff, president of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, it was announced yesterday by Charles P. Whitehead, general campaign chairman.

They are to begin enrolling other volunteers immediately to help in interpreting the plan of a single annual campaign to the community.

Under the slogan, "One Gift . . . For All," the United Fund will raise funds for at least 114 organizations, many of which had separate drives until the new organization was formed last year.

ELECTED BY ACCOUNTANTS

Three persons from the St. Louis area have been elected to membership in the National Association of Cost Accountants, it was announced yesterday. They are Allen H. Lynch, 636 Dougherty Ferry road, Kirkwood, internal auditor of Laclede Gas Co.; John A. Gormley, Elm street road, St. Charles, chief accountant for A.C.F. Industries, and Leo L. Sarchett, 1209A Logan street, Alton, treasury manager, Shell Oil Co.

50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Dr. and Mrs. Jesse I. Chappell, 6023 Waterman boulevard, will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary today at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Bryon Wilson of Tampa, Fla. They were married in Dallas, Tex.

Dr. Chappell, 77 years old, has been an optometrist here for 52 years. His wife, 71, is the former Frances Bigger. They have three grandchildren.

ECONOMY STABLE, RESERVE BOARD SAYS

Report Based on Industrial Survey Covering May, Early June.

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP)—The national economy moved along at an even pace in May and early June, the Federal Reserve Board reported today.

On the bright side, the board noted that spending for new construction rose slightly, nonfarm employment continued at record levels, factory earnings were running ahead of May a year ago and prices of farm products continued at higher levels reached early last month.

The board's index of industrial production stood at 142 in May. This compared with 143 in April, 141 in March and 143 in February. The index is a percentage of the 1947-49 average which equals 100.

The board's summary of national business conditions said industrial production generally remained stable despite the curtailment of about 20 per cent in automobile assemblies and slow-up in steel output due to some work stoppages.

The survey showed steel industry operations at about 96½ per cent of capacity into early June. It said the work stoppages which began April 29 and continued into this month affected about 3 to 4 per cent of capacity.

On the industrial front, the board said over-all expansion in equipment-producing industries largely offset the decline in output of autos and parts and of other consumer goods. It said output of heavy trucks and other types of business equipment kept up in May at new peak rates reached in April.

As to finance, the board reported business loans declined slightly from early May to early June but real estate and consumer loans continued to expand.

Construction spending, still on the increase, was reported at an annual rate of $43,600,000,000 in May on a seasonally adjusted basis. The board said the value of new contracts the first five months this year was more than one-eighth above the like period of 1955. Private housing starts on seasonally adjusted basis continued in May at an annual rate of 1,100,000 units. This was off slightly from expectations.

PEARSON TELLS CANADIANS HOW RUSSIAN LEADER LIVES

BROCKVILLE, Ont., June 16 (AP)—Canadian Foreign Secretary Lester B. Pearson gave a Liberal party rally here last night a glimpse of how the other half lives in Russia.

"I have a little three-room (summer) cottage in the Gatineau hills (of Quebec)," he said. "When I go there I like to cook my own meals. When I was invited to Mr. Khrushchev's summer home in the Crimea last fall, it turned out to be a palace with 150 rooms.

"But then, he's a Communist party leader. I'm not even a capitalist."

STOLEN MODEL-T FOUND SUBMERGED IN MISSISSIPPI

The 1922 Model-T Ford that was stolen last week from the front of Mike's 66 Service & Auto Repair, 2402 North Nineteenth street, was found by police yesterday in the Mississippi river at the foot of Branch street.

Only the hood of the black, three-door touring car protruded above the muddy waters, officers said. They reported the machine's location to the service station and left the problem of fishing it out to the owners.

When the Model-T was stolen, it was serving as an advertisement. It ran perfectly, mechanics said, and was a dashing sight with its yellow-spoked wheels. How it will run when removed from the river remains to be seen.

Jews Are Denied Restitution.

BERLIN, June 16 (AP)—The East German Communist government said today it would refuse to pay restitution to Israel for World War II damages to property of German Jews now living in Israel. It said restitution could be made only to individual Israeli citizens if they returned to East Germany.

AID BILL IMPORT CURB HEADED OFF BY SENATE GROUP

Amendment Aimed Mainly at Japanese Textiles—Referred to Finance Committee.

The New York Times News Service.
(Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, June 16 — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee warded off a damaging blow to the reciprocal trade program today by rejecting a proposal designed to curb imports of Japanese textiles.

By a vote of 9 to 4, the committee refused to write into its $4,500,000,000 foreign aid bill a provision for mandatory quotas on imports of agricultural commodities that are in surplus supply here and of products made from them.

The proposal, put forward by Senator Green (Dem.), Rhode Island, was referred to the Finance Committee on the grounds it was essentially a tariff matter.

Debate on this and other issues bearing only indirectly on the size and scope of foreign aid outlays prompted the committee to abandon efforts to complete work on the bill today.

Another Session Called.

Another session was called for Monday with the aim of completing action in time for the Senate to start debating the bill before the end of next week. Leaders had been planning to call it up Tuesday.

Prior to today's meeting, the committee had restored $702,000,000 of the $1,100,000,000 slashed by the House from President Eisenhower's original request for $4,900,000,000 to carry forward the foreign aid program.

In today's voting, the committee took these actions:

1. Modified upon reconsideration its approval of a House proviso that $243,000,000 of development assistance (economic aid) for Asia, the Middle East and Africa could be extended only in the form of loans. The committee recommended authority for the Administration to disburse up to 25 per cent of the money as grants.

2. Approved a $1,000,000 increase in the present $2,000,000 ceiling on the United States contribution to the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization. It added a proviso that the contribution could not exceed 31½ per cent of the agency's total budget.

3. Accepted a proposal by Senator Fulbright (Dem.), Arkansas, for the transfer of $11,000,000 in foreign aid funds to the State Department to supplement a $20,000,000 appropriation for the educational exchange program.

4. Approved a House provision to extend and increase the Administration's authority to guarantee private United States investments abroad against losses from confiscation, expropriation and currency exchange restrictions. However, it eliminated language broadening the guarantees to cover losses by war, revolution and insurrection.

Backed By Textile Men.

Green's proposal for curbs on imports had the backing of domestic textile producers, who have been protesting bitterly against Japanese competition. It would have required the Administration to put quotas on imports from countries benefitting by the United States aid program. Imports of a surplus agricultural product in any year would have been limited to the average of the preceding three years.

3 BELIEVED KILLED IN ARKANSAS CRASH

Body of Man Who Died In St. Louis Also Aboard Private Plane.

HEBER SPRINGS, Ark., June 16 (AP)—A private plane, believed to be carrying two men, a 3-year-old girl and a body, crashed into a mountain south of Heber Springs last night. A search party which reached the wreckage early today said there apparently were no survivors.

The plane was believed to be carrying Jack Caruth, 44 years old, of Hot Springs, Ark., his 13-year-old daughter, Jill, and the pilot, Thomas G. Chambers, 27, also of Hot Springs.

At Hot Springs, the Caruth Funeral Home, which Caruth heads, and the SPA Flying Service reported that Chambers had left Hot Springs at 9 a.m. yesterday to transport a body from St. Louis to Hot Springs for burial.

The St. Louis airport reported that a plane—with the pilot identified only as "Chambers"—took off at 6:25 p.m. yesterday.

At St. Louis, the body was said to be that of Harry J. Cook, 56, a native of Little Rock who died in St. Louis Wednesday.

Sheriff Jack Price said the search for the plane began shortly after a farmer, Jim Snow, reported that he heard a plane crash about 8 p.m.

Heber Springs is about 70 miles north of Little Rock.

MERGER OK'D BY ASSEMBLY OF UNITED PRESBYTERIANS

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 16 (AP)—The ninety-eighth general assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in North America tonight approved union with the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. (Northern).

The vote, which followed a long but quiet discussion, was 189 in favor of the merger, 64 against. This was 20 more than the required two-thirds majority.

The proposal is subject to ratification by Presbyteries of both churches. If the Presbyteries approve, the merger will take effect in May, 1958. Results of the Presbytery actions will be known about the first of next year.

LIQUOR STORE OPERATOR BEATEN, ROBBED BY 3 MEN

George L. Whitelaw, operator of a liquor store at 6481 Chippewa street, was knocked unconscious and robbed of $130 last night by three young men who entered the store and bought whisky, he told police.

Whitelaw, 59 years old, who lives at 550 South Harrison avenue Kirkwood, said the robbers bought $31 worth of liquor. Then, as they were leaving the place, one of them struck Whitelaw on the head from behind, he said.

The robbers took the money from the cash register as well as the liquor they had purchased. Whitelaw was found and revived by a customer who came to the store later.

NEW MACHINE MAY REDUCE COST OF PHOSPHATE MINING

WASHINGTON, June 16 (UP)—The Bureau of Mines announced today it has developed a new type of mining machine that promises to reduce operating costs of underground phosphate rock mines in the West. The machine, called a "planer," was designed and built at the bureau's Spokane, Wash., field office.

The new machine consists essentially of a welded steel carriage which supports a vertical bank of chisels that chip out ore as the machine is pulled by cable.

Officials said the new machine increases productivity, recovers more phosphate and eliminates blasting.

NEIGHBOR TRYING TO STOP PAIR'S QUARREL IS KILLED

James Juhan, 3148A Rutger street, was fatally wounded by a shotgun blast yesterday in the rear yard of his home, police reported.

Juhan, 46 years old, a Negro, had attempted to break up an argument between a neighbor and the neighbor's wife, witnesses said. They said the neighbor went to his house, obtained the shotgun and shot Juhan. Police were searching for the man, also a Negro.

ELECTED ALUMNI PRESIDENT

Dr. Jerome I. Simon, assistant professor of clinical surgery of the School of Medicine of St. Louis University, has been elected president of the university's medical alumni organization, it was announced yesterday.

Dr. Simon, who lives at 12 Westridge court, University City, succeeds Dr. Alphonse McMahon, associate professor of internal medicine and chief-of-staff at St. John's Hospital.

ATOMS-FOR-PEACE PARLEY'S INVITATIONS ARE DELAYED

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., June 16 (AP)—Russian demands that Red China be invited to a world atoms-for-peace conference are holding up invitations to more than 80 countries, diplomats said today.

The United States and other Western powers refuse to send a bid to Peiping to occupy the Chinese seat in the conference opening Sept. 24. The ambassadors of 12 sponsoring powers arranging the conference have been called to meet next Friday in Washington in an effort to settle the dispute and get the invitations out.

President Eisenhower proposed the atoms-for-peace plan to the United Nations General Assembly Dec. 8, 1953. Russia at first held back, but in talks among the 12 sponsoring powers in February and March agreed to major points in a statute for the proposed agency. The Assembly specified that invitations be limited to members of the U.N. or non-U.N. members who belong to specialized agencies.

FRESH START MADE IN STEEL CONTRACT TALKS

New Meetings Set After Union Rejects Big 3 Offer of 5-Year Pact.

NEW YORK, June 16 (AP)—Steel management and union negotiators made a fresh start today in search of a contract agreement that would avert a 650,000-man strike the end of this month.

They met for two and one-half hours in an effort to break a stalemate that developed yesterday when the United Steel Workers of America rejected an offer by the "Big Three" steel firms—U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic.

The negotiators gave no indication of whether they had made progress, but the four-man negotiating teams agreed to meet tomorrow at 2 p.m.

It was understood each side would spend tonight and tomorrow morning weighing suggestions made by the other and report back at tomorrow afternoon's session.

The union's 170-member wage policy committee is scheduled to meet Monday afternoon.

Early to Talk Strike.

The committee could, at this time, authorize the negotiators to call a strike when present contracts expire June 30, but some union circles said it still was a "bit early" for any such action.

They expressed belief it was more likely the union negotiators simply would give the committee a report on negotiations up to that time. It was the wage committee which yesterday unanimously rejected the Big Three offer.

The Big Three proposed a five-year, no-strike contract calling for a wage increase annually for five years, a lay-off pay plan, premium pay for Sunday work, and other benefits.

The companies estimated the package had a cumulative worth of 65 cents an hour over the five years, and 17⅔ cents for the first year.

David J. McDonald, union president, said the actual take home pay increase would amount to "about a nickel" the first year and that this figure was "picayune."

'Too Little, Too Late.'

He said fringe benefits were "too little" and that most of them would take effect "too late" in the course of the contract, some of them two and three years hence.

He blasted the Sunday work premium pay offer as being only 4 per cent, compared with the double pay the union had asked, and stressed that no premium was offered for Saturday work.

John A. Stephens, U. S. Steel vice president in charge of industrial relations, later told a news conference the steel companies would not budge from their demand for a five-year contract nor add a penny to the cost of the package they proposed.

The union had asked a "substantial" but unspecified direct pay increase; a 52-week lay-off pay program; double pay for Sunday work and pay and a half for Saturdays; an insurance program to be borne entirely by the companies, and various other benefits.

Present average pay in the industry is $2.46 an hour.

FLORIDA'S G.O.P. DELEGATES SHY AWAY FROM NIXON

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 16 (AP)—Florida delegates to the Republican national convention shied away from indorsing Vice President Richard Nixon for either the No. 1 or No. 2 place on the ticket in November.

At the organization meeting yesterday for the 26 delegates a proposed resolution which said they are pledged to President Eisenhower and Nixon ran into immediate opposition.

"I think we should wait until we get further along," said Paul L. E. Helliwell of Miami, a district delegate and state chairman of the Citizens for Eisenhower Committee. "I'm for President Eisenhower until the cows come home, but if we pledge ourselves today to Vice President Nixon . . . we may destroy our freedom to vote at the convention if Mr. Eisenhower does not run for renomination."

The resolution praised Nixon for the "splendid service he has rendered" but did not indorse him for any office.

AIRLINES REPORTED AGREED ON TRANS-ATLANTIC FARE CUT

PARIS, June 16 (AP)—The major international airlines were reported today to have agreed to slash trans-Atlantic tourist faes 20 per cent.

The French trade newspaper La Vie Des Transports said European airlines bowed to strong American pressure for cheaper tourist fares in negotiations at the 46-nation airlines conference meeting in Cannes.

Responsible airlines circles in Paris said the report appeared correct, but a spokesman in Cannes refused comment while the closed conference is still in progress.

The newspaper said the new tourist faes would go into effect in April 1958. The cost of a round trip tourist flight, New York to London, would be cut to $425. Similar 20 per cent reductions would apply to trans-Atlantic flights to such other cities as Paris, Rome and Frankfurt.

NATIONAL CITY LINES DIVIDENDS UP 25 PCT.

50 Cents a Share Paid, 10 Cents Over 40-Cent Rate Effective Since 1953.

A 25 per cent increase in dividends of the National City Lines, Inc., which controls more than 40 transit lines throughout the country, including the St. Louis Public Service Co., was noted yesterday upon receipt by St. Louis shareholders of quarterly dividend checks.

Stockholders received 50 cents a share, marking a 10-cent increase over a quarterly 40-cent dividend return maintained since the middle of 1953.

The current increase, double the 25-cent quarterly rate in 1951, was put into efefct despite a general decline in the public transportation business which has been affected adversely by competition of private automobiles and other factors involved in the modern picture of mass transportation.

Earnings of National City, which also controls the East St. City Lines, as part of varied transit operations in 14 states, were $2.35 a share in 1953 and $2.76 for 1954, the last available figure, showing a 41-cent annual increase a share.

By coincidence, the new increased quarterly dividend was paid as sale was announced in Washington of Capital Transit Co., controlled by financier Louis E. Wolfson, to National City Lines, for $13,440,000. The deal is subject to Congressional approval.

If Congress approves the sale, Wolfson would end a controversial seven years in transit service in Washington with an estimated 320 per cent profit on the $2,200,000 he and associates invested originally.

The three commissioners who form the District of Columbia's municipal governing body, described conditions of the sale to National City Lines as "unacceptable" although Congress has the final word.

National City Lones, which has headquarters in Chicago, currently operates transit systems in 44 cities including Philadelphia, Baltimore and Los Angeles.

30-DAY OUTLOOK: TEMPERATURES ABOVE NORMAL

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP) —The Weather Bureau said yesterday its 30-day outlook for mid-June to mid-July calls for temperatures to average below seasonal normals west of the Continental Divide, in the North Atlantic states and in the Gulf Coast region.

In the remainder of the country above normal temperatures are predicted with greatest departures in the Midwest, the bureau said.

Precipitation is expected to exceed normal in the northwest quarter of the nation and in the southern half of the Mississippi Valley. Subnormal amounts are expected in the East and Southwest with near normal elsewhere, the bureau added.

ST. LOUIS FIRM SETS UP 4 COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIPS

Four full-time scholarships to Washington University for boys living in St. Francois county and attending high school there will be established by Valley Dolomite Corp. of St. Louis, the university announced yesterday.

Each scholarship may be renewed annually three times to provide the recipient with the full four-year undergraduate program at either the College of Liberal Arts, the School of Engineering or the School of Architecture.

The first scholarship will be awarded this fall. The second will be awarded a year later, the third in 1958 and the fourth in 1959. All four scholarships will be maintained thereafter. Full tuition for an undergraduate at present is $650 a year.

ST. CHARLES STUDENT WINS SCHOLARSHIP FOR 4 YEARS

Floyd M. Nolle, son of Mrs. Frieda A. Nolle, 533 North Sixth street, St. Charles, has received the annual General Motors scholarship covering tuition and expenses to Washington University for four years, Chancellor Ethan A. H. Shepley announced yesterday.

In the upper 10 per cent of the senior class at St. Charles High School, Nolle has also received the St. Charles Rotary Club good citizenship award and the National Mathematics Association contest award.

A General Motors scholarship is awarded annually by the university from funds provided by the corporation to recognize worthy students. Nolle will enter the university this September.

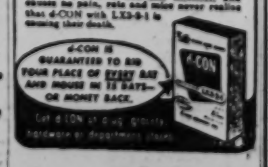

Use d-CON as directed and GET RID OF RATS AND MICE FOREVER!

You don't have to be an expert—anyone can use clean, odorless d-CON!

Don't gamble with the 37 dread diseases known to be carried by rats and mice. Kind property loss, food contamination and risk of fire caused by these vicious rodents. Follow simple directions and d-CON is safe to use around children and pets yet so effective it rids your property of rats and mice forever! Get d-CON today! Stop rat disease and destruction NOW!

d-CON with LX3-2-1 works where traps and poisons fail

Rats are smart. As soon as one or two are caught in traps or killed by poison, the rest of the rat colony becomes bait-shy. Because d-CON is odorless, tasteless, and causes no pain, rats and mice never realize that d-CON with LX3-2-1 is causing their death.

M'KNIGHT STUDENTS CITED BY IMMIGRATION MUSEUM

A citation of merit has been received by fifth grade students at McKnight School, University City, from the trustees of the American Museum of Immigration for their contribution toward establishment of the proposed museum at the foot of the Statue of Liberty, it was announced yesterday.

Pierre S. du Pont III, chairman of the museum's executive committee, cited the class for its "patriotic participation in operation unity," the project to mobilize the freewill gifts of the American people to "pay tribute to the epic role of immigration in building our great nation of nations."

Du Pont said in a letter to the class: "It is good to know that your contributions will be recorded in the permanent archives of the museum which will give new meaning to the Statue of Liberty. Having thus, as youths, identified yourselves with our national shrine which is dedicated to freedom and opportunity, you will, as adults, help to preserve our liberty and increase the harvest of our opportunity."

TOGLIATTI URGES MORE AUTONOMY FROM MOSCOW

Italian Defends Attack on Stalin, But Also Asks for Freedom of Judgment.

The New York Times News Service.
(Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

ROME, June 16 — Palmiro Togliatti, secretary of the Italian Communist party, came out today for greater autonomy for his party from Moscow.

Proofs of a 34-page article he has written for a magazine called Nuovi Argomenti were made available today. The article is in the form of a response to questions based on the anti-Stalin campaign in the Soviet Union.

Togliatti is the head of the largest European Communist party outside the Soviet Union. For many years he was a leader of the Communist International.

In his article Togliatti defends what Kikita S. Khrushchev, Soviet Communist party chief, and others have done in unmasking Stalin and professes the unity and solidarity of the Communist movement with Moscow and in the world.

Also Praises Stalin.

Yet he also goes to great lengths to explain how and why Stalin made his "errors." He also praises Stalin for many important accomplishments.

Togliatti has always been considered one of the most brilliant and subtle theoreticians in the world Communist movement.

In this article he faced the task of defending his own long pro-Stalin record and preparing the way for reforms in the Italian Communist party. Therefore he avoids in general any clear commitments until the end.

At that point, he tells how hard-hit he and other Communist leaders were by Khrushchev's revelations at the Soviet party's twentieth congress in February.

"However," he goes on, "I do not think it follows that there will be a diminution in mutual and solidarity among various parties of the Communist movement.

Plea for Autonomy.

"However, there is no doubt not only of the necessity but of the desire for an always greater autonomy of judgment, and this can only do our movement good. The internal political structure of the world Communist movement is changing today."

Togliatti then adds that the Soviet Union will always remain the "first great model of the construction of a Socialist society." But, he says, "the Soviet model cannot and should not continue to be obligatory."

"In every country governed by Communists, different objective and subjective conditions and traditions and organizational forms of the movement can and ought to have their influence," he declares.

He says one cannot speak of "a unique guide within the Communist movement but rather of progress accomplished by following different roads."

Problem For All Reds.

Out of criticisms of Stalin, he continues, a general problem arises to face all Communist movements. This is to avoid "the perils of bureaucratic degeneration, of the smothering of the democratic movement, of confusion between constructive revolutionary force and destruction of revolutionary legality, of detachment of economic and political direction from life initiative criticism and creative activity of the masses," Togliatti asserts.

"And it is up to us," he says of the Italian party at the end of the article, "to work out our own method and way of life so that we become clear guarantees against the perils of stagnation and bureaucratization."

This is a strikingly different theory from the one Togliatti was enunciating and following until recently.

By the Associated Press.

In further reference to Stalin, Togliatti wrote:

"The present Soviet leaders knew Stalin better than we did . . . and thus we have to take their word when they describe him in this way . . . . . .

"We can only think among ourselves that since it was so . . . they could at least have been more cautious in their public and solemn exaltation of that man, to whom they habituated us."

He added, "it is true today they criticize themselves, and this is their great merit, but in this criticism it is undoubted that they lose a little of their prestige."

"It seems to us without doubt," he went on, "that Stalin's errors were due to an excessive growth of the bureaucratic apparatus." This was caused, he said, by the urgent needs of the first years under the Soviet regime.

WORKERS AT PUBLICATIONS CENTER RECEIVE AWARDS

Five employes of the St. Louis Adjutant General Publications Center, 1655 Woodson road, Overland, have been awarded $200 bonuses for "sustained superior performances," it was announced yesterday. They are Lansing C. Brown, Kenneth C. Brinker, Vincent A. Turek, Manchester Winfield, and Mrs. Dorothy E. Stevenson.

Cash awards for efficiency suggestions were made to Mrs. Rosanne B. Smith, who received $25; Charles E. Ray, $25, and Mrs. Anna R. Moutrie, $10.

William J. McCorry received a pin honoring him for 20 years of service. Six others received 15-year pins. They are Dominic Beirne, Lansing C. Brown, James Comfort, Ambrose Cotter, Miss Minnie Romansky, and James J. Williams.

Missing Boy

JOHN DALE MOWER
Who has been the object of an intense search by police since he was reported missing from his home in Cleveland Thursday. Police believe the boy, 8 years old, may have been killed. His mother, Mrs. Theodore Haake, and her husband were being questioned for possible clues in the disappearance. His father has asked for a lie detector test as part of the investigation.

10-WEEK KETC-TV SERIES ON 'CREATIVE MARKETING'

A 10-week "Creative Marketing" series will be telecast by KETC on Tuesdays at 9 p.m. beginning this week. It will provide a look into the marketing revolution currently changing American buying habits, it was announced.

The series has been planned to cover such marketing elements as design and packaging, research, pricing and servicing, advertising, public relations, sales and promotion, distribution, credit and financing. Tuesday's program will be an introduction to the series.

Programs will be produced in co-operation with Frank Block Associates, advertising and public relations firm here.

They Are Well, 2 Priests Freed From Red Chinese Prison Report

Resting in Shanghai for a Few Days—Arrival in Hong Kong Expected Within a Week.

HONG KONG, June 16 (AP) —Two American Roman Catholic priests freed after three years in Red Chinese prisons reported today from Shanghai they are well and have been told to rest a few days in the Chinese city.

The two priests, the Rev. John William Clifford and the Rev. Thomas Leonard Phillips, both of San Francisco, talked with a reporter by telephone.

They were among 13 Americans known to be imprisoned in Red China. The Peiping radio said yesterday the priests were being released. Officials here said it was believed they would reach Hong Kong within a week

"Please tell our loved ones we have been released and we are well," said 39-year-old Father Clifford, speaking in a strong, clear voice.

They Are Told to Rest.

"We were just released last night and don't know exactly what the situation is. We have simply been told by authorities to come here and rest a few days. There's nothing wrong with us, but it is not clear yet what we are to do."

Father Clifford said they had not yet seen American Bishop James Edward Walsh in Shanghai, but "we expect to be seeing him soon."

Bishop Walsh of Cumberland, Md., is the last Catholic bishop remaining in Red China. He also was reached by telephone in Shanghai and said he is free from semi-house arrest for the first time in two years. He has said he would not leave Communist China until he was forced out.

Father Clifford and Father Phillips declined to discuss the treatment they received while imprisoned.

They were sentenced to three years in a special trial last November on charges of espionage and counter-revolutionary activity. They are the first Americans to be freed from prison by the Red Chinese since Dr. and Mrs. Homer Bradshaw, Presbyterian missionaries, were turned loose last Dec. 20.

Pledge Violated.

Red China refused last Jan. 6 to release the last 13 Americans they held despite a promise Sept. 10, 1955, to free all those held.

Geneva talks between United States Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson and Red China envoy Wang Ping-nan have been deadlocked for months on that issue and the Formosa dispute. The United States has accused Red China of refusing to make a "meaningful renunciation of force" over Formosa.

Release of the two priests raised hopes the Geneva talks might make progress on the question of other American prisoners.

RED CROSS OFFICIAL HERE SHIFTED TO WASHINGTON

Peter J. Murphy, assistant manager of the American Red Cross midwestern area headquarters at 4050 Lindell boulevard, has been named assistant to the organization's vice president in charge of area offices and disaster service, in Washington, it was announced yesterday.

Murphy, who lives at 2900 Middlebush court, Webster Groves, will leave next week to begin his new duties. He has been assistant manager of the 16-state area headquarters here since 1951.

55TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Wemhoener, 3820 Lawler drive, Normandy, will celebrate their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary tomorrow with a family dinner. He is a retired factory foreman.

They have three children and two grandchildren. They were married at the St. John's Evangelical Church here in 1901.

Own Your Own Vacation Spot

only 30 MINUTES FROM ST. LOUIS

Lake Lorraine

The Ideal Vacationland You Have Always Wanted

Only 30 minutes away from St. Louis a beautiful new Lake Vacationland is rapidly coming into existence.

Among the beautiful hills of Jefferson County there will soon be a 50-acre lake of clear, sparkling water, with picturesque lodges, where busy men and their families will enjoy life as they have always hoped to do.

The same men who developed Lake Montowese and Fond du Lac are building Lake Lorraine, near Goldman, Missouri, less than 26 miles south of Affton on Highway 21 (Tesson Ferry Road). One small lake is now stocked and ready for fishing.

Lodge sites vary in size from 50x150 feet and up. Modern conveniences are available. Lodge site prices start at $650, and may be bought on convenient terms.

Lake Lorraine will NOT be open to the general public. It is being developed —and will be maintained—for Lodge Site owners and their guests.

NINE INSTITUTIONS TO SHARE $500,000

Barnes Hospital to Get $166,000 of Trust Left by A. M. Keller.

A $500,000 trust fund set up under terms of the will of Albert M. Keller will be shared eventually by Barnes Hospital and eight other St. Louis and Marshall (Mo.) institutions. The document was filed in probate court at Clayton yesterday.

Keller, broker, civic leader and president of the Municipal Theater Association who died June 7, named the Mercantile Trust Co. and his widow, Mrs. Nellie Brown Keller, as trustees of the fund. She will receive the income during her life and the institutions will share the principal after her death.

Four-twelfths of the $500,000, which amounts to more than $166,000, is to go to Barnes Hospital for general needs and purposes. It is to be known as the Albert M. Keller and Nellie Brown Keller Fund. Lesser shares are to go to institutions as follows:

Methodist Children's Home of Missouri, 3715 Jamieson avenue, two-twelfths, or about $83,000; Missouri Valley College at Marshall, two-twelfths; Central Institute for the Deaf, 818 South Kingshighway, one-twelfth, or about $41,000; St. Louis Council, Boy Scouts of America, one-twelfth.

Georgia Brown Blosser Home for Crippled Children at Marshall, one twenty-fourth, or about $20,500; home of same name for aged at Marshall, one twenty-fourth; Fitzgibbons Hospital at Marshall, one twenty-fourth, and St. John's Methodist Church, 5000 Washington boulevard, one twenty-fourth, the latter as an unrestricted endowment fund to build a parsonage.

Keller's will, which he signed June 5, only two days before he died in his sleep at his residence at 4 Carrswold, Clayton, left $20,000 in trust with Mercantile Trust Co. to provide $50 a month income to a cousin, Maud Abel, Waco, Tex.

Other bequests to friends and relatives totaled $65,500. They included eight of $5000 each, seven of $2500 each, and eight of $1000 each. The remainder of the Keller estate was left to the widow.

Paul Beisman, manager of the Municipal Theater Association, was one of the persons named by Keller to receive $5000 bequests. Also to receive $5000 is Mrs. Eugene O'Connor, Keller's secretary.

Keller, 77 years old, was chairman of the board of trustees of Barnes Hospital. He was vice president of the Boy Scouts Council here and was on the boards of St. John's Church, the Methodist Children's Home and Central Institute for the Deaf.

MOTORIST GOING 100 M.P.H. SEIZED; PISTOL IN HIS AUTO

A motorist, who drove 100 miles an hour through heavy traffic on the wrong side of Lindbergh boulevard, was in St. Louis County Jail yesterday unable to furnish $7000 bond for careless and reckless driving and carrying a concealed weapon. Police said he appeared to have been drinking when arrested.

Charley Washington, a Negro, was named in warrants issued at Clayton by Magistrate Leslie T. Lewis, who fixed bond at $5000 on the weapons charge and $2000 for careless driving. Police said Washington, a meat packer living in the 4300 block of Easton avenue, had a fully-loaded pisttol in his glove compartment.

Highway Patrol Sgt. Louis Feco reported he observed the speeding automobile near Lambert-St. Louis Field about 9 o'clock Friday night. In a five-mile chase southward, Washington drove on the wrong side of the four-lane highway and chased other motorists off the pavement, Sgt. Feco related.

The speedometer on the pursuing machine registered 100 miles an hour, the sergeant added. When Sgt. Feco drew alongside the speeding machine, Washington refused to halt until a revolver was pointed at his head, the officer said.

HEAD OF ILLINOIS FIRM QUITTING TO TEACH IN ARIZONA

MOLINE, Ill., June 16 (AP) —A 55-year-old industrialist said yesterday he is giving up the presidency of an iron works to teach school in Arizona.

Three "likes" are behind the decision of Merle Caro Nutt, president of the Moline Iron Works who in the fall will start teaching industrial engineering at Arizona State College at Tempe: "I like Arizona, I like teaching and I like to travel."

He fell in love with Arizona years ago while vacationing there. Five years ago he built a home at Phoenix. His interest in teaching was whetted at the close of World War I when he was called back to his alma mater, Western Military Academy in Alton, to conduct classes.

The teaching contract he signed in April will cost Nutt money, but he declined to say how much his income will be reduced. He is not divorcing himself from business entirely, however. He will keep his directorship of the Moline Iron Works and his post on its finance committee. Nutt has been a director of the company since 1921 and president since 1940. His term as president will end Sept. 1.

'Black Hole of Calcutta' Just A Fabrication, Historians Say

Story of 124 Suffocated in Dungeon Believed Made Up to Hide Abandonment of British Battery.

CALCUTTA, India, June 16 (UP)—History records that 200 years ago next Wednesday 124 persons suffocated overnight in a dungeon that became known as "The Black Hole of Calcutta."

But modern historians say it just isn't true. These scholars believe the episode was fabricated by an Englishman named J. Z. Holwell to cover up his abandonment of a British gun battery in the face of Indian attack.

The story was that the Nawab of Bengal, enraged because the British sheltered a native official wanted for stealing treasure, sent his forces into an attack that routed the British-led garrison.

Holwell gave testimony in England that, after the surrender, the Nawab's men forced 146 men and one woman into a room 18 feet by 14 feet 10 inches, with two small windows, actually the jail of Fort William.

They were kept there overnight, Holwell said, and the next morning only he and 22 other men were alive.

That account went virtually unchallenged for about 150 years. Then British historian J. H. Little declared the legend "baseless."

Little said the only evidence came from Holwell and one other alleged survivor who told his story 16 years later. He noted Holwell changed his story several times.

Other scholars became interested. It was pointed out that Robert Clive recaptured Calcutta the next year, but that of two reports written by the British council of Fort William the first did not mention the incident and the second said:

"We think it incumbent upon us to acquaint you that the horrible massacres wherewith he (the Nawab) is charged by Mr. Holwell in his address to the proprietors of the East India stock are cruel aspersions on the character of that prince which have not the least foundation in truth."

Prof. Narendra Krishna Sinha, head of the department of Medieval and modern history at Calcutta University, says Holwell left the gun battery he was commanding to try to get his belongings on a ship sailing from Calcutta. When he returned his guns had been captured.

"So Holwell tried to prove himself a hero and reported that he escaped from the 'hole.' Actually, all the British killed or injured during the siege of Calcutta were included by Holwell as having been confined to the 'hole.'"

LINEMAN DIES OF BURNS

William C. Cooper, a lineman, died yesterday at St. Louis County Hospital of burns received Thursday when he came in contact with a 7200-volt line atop a utility pole at Ballas and Manchester roads, St. Louis county.

Cooper, 29 years old, of Sharon, Tenn., lived at the Kirkwood Hotel, Kirkwood. He was employed by a contractor installing high tension lines in the county for Union Electri Co.

TEN OKLAHOMANS REPORT ON VISIT TO RUSSIAN FARMS

NEW YORK, June 16 (UP)—Ten Oklahoma farmers came back today from a 20-day tour of the Soviet Union agreed unanimously that Americans could not learn anything from Russian agricultural methods.

They agreed also that the Russian people were eager to see Americans, that their standard of living was being raised and that the Russian people do not want war.

The farmers and cattle raisers expressed amazement at the amount of work done by women on Russian farms.

Ted R. Warkentin of Lawton, a cattle raiser, said the proportion of women workers on most of the collective and state farms visited was 2 to 1.

"I only saw one farm on which there was an equal number of men and women workers. The women milk the cows, clean the barns and do all sorts of menial tasks. You know Oklahoma women wouldn't stand for that."

Cut on Watch Tariff Urged.

BERN, June 16 (UP) — The Swiss government asked the United States today to reduce duties on imported Swiss watches to the level existing before the increase of about 50 per cent two years ago.

Stevenson Scoffs at Reports Of Split Over Civil Rights Issue

Predicts Democratic Unity on Problem—Also Believes Party Will Win Negro Vote in November.

(Related Article on Page 1C.)

By CHARLES B. CLEVELAND
The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch. Copyright 1956.

CHICAGO, June 16—Adlai Stevenson scoffs at reports that the Democratic party will split over the issue of civil rights.

He predicts also that the Democrats will win the Negro vote in November.

His comments came during an hour talk in his law office at 231 South LaSalle street, Chicago.

He talked of the explosive civil rights question, foreign affairs, his and the President's health and the views of his chief rivals, Senator Estes Kefauver and Gov. Averell Harriman of New York.

On civil rights, Stevenson pointed out that he has been consistent in his viewpoint that the Supreme Court decision is now the law of the land, but that the social change involved "creates massive problems of adjustment" which the courts "wisely left" to district courts.

He has been accused by some Northern Liberals of therefore advocating "gradualism." "I never used that word" Stevenson commented.)

He went on to set forth his reason for believing that the issue will not split the party nor alienate the Negro vote.

'Better Equipped.'

"We're better equipped to handle the problem," he said, "because we're a national party. The Republicans are not. They are a Northern party."

He pointed to the vote results in Florida, where he carried areas with a large Negro population and those with strong segregationists, and to his successes in Negro areas in California.

This was proof, he said, that his position was preferred by both groups rather than the extremist views of either side.

"The thoughtful Negro understands that he has won a great victory in the court decision," Stevenson said. "He does not want to jeopardize that victory through violence.

"Nor do I think he wants the Democratic party to split over this issue and force the South to walk out. Because this would put the extremists of the South in control."

Stevenson believes that both the Negro leaders and Southern leaders want to find a peaceful solution to the problems—and that they will resist the efforts by a few in both the North and South to make the problem unsolvable.

Critical of Failure.

He is critical of President Eisenhower's failure to use the prestige of his office to call in leaders of both groups to work it out.

Stevenson is confident, however, that the Democrats will meet the problem when both sides sit down in Chicago before the convention to work out the party platform, including a stand on civil rights.

He is also confident of Democratic victory in November.

"There is an unmistakable trend, I believe," Stevenson said. "It started with the victories in 1953 and continued with Democratic successes in 1954 and 1955."

He pointed to Governors, members of Congress and state legislators elected in the post-1952 contests as proof that the tide was running to the Democratic party.

To G.O.P. charges that the Democratic primaries had drawn few voters and hence showed party weakness, Stevenson replied that the turnouts had been heavy compared to similar contests in the past.

He took a slap at the press which, he said, had given a false picture of some primaries as contests between himself and President Eisenhower.

'Moderation' Issue.

He was asked whether his primary victories were the answer to critics such as Gov. Harriman, that Stevenson's course of "moderation" was unwise.

"I honestly don't think there was a difference between Senator Kefauver and myself on basic issues," Stevenson said. "We differed on some details, of course.

"I noticed that Gov. Harriman on TV the other day was saying what I said last February on civil rights.

"Until I see some signs of radicalism, I just don't see the difference between what they're saying and what I'm saying."

Asked whether foreign affairs were less important this time to the average voter, Stevenson recalled England's experience during the days when Hitler was preparing for war.

"In peacetime democracies are likely to be concerned about other things," he said. "Totalitarian nations are not. That is unfortunate.

"But I think the average citizen is concerned about foreign affairs—but in a different way than in 1952.

"Then the people were concerned about the war—the papers unfairly termed it 'Truman's war' although Republicans supported it. Now they are concerned in another way.

Conflicting Views.

"On the one hand the Administration is saying that everything is fine. But on the other it says it justifies every expense as defense and says it can't cut taxes.

"During the past few months many people have been asking me how it can be that everything is fine, yet they've got to continue heavy taxes and Johnny is still being drafted."

Despite the rigors of campaigning which ended only 10 days ago with the California victory climaxing a series of hot primary battles, Stevenson appeared rested and relaxed as he chatted informally.

It was apparent that Stevenson finds the infinite detailing of candidates' ailments distasteful.

He passed it off with a quip, however: "Apparently it's necessary for the newspapers to print diagrams on Page 1 showing one's insides with X's marking the suitable points of interest."

If Stevenson has any doubts about winning, they weren't apparent.

"Never felt better in my life," he said, with a grin.

"As I was telling somebody today, I'm glad the primaries are over. I enjoyed myself so much campaigning, I was afraid it might become habit-forming."

DEEP WATERING OF SHADE TREES IS RECOMMENDED

Deep watering of shade trees in the coming months of probable heat and drouth was recommended yesterday by City Forester E. J. Schrader.

He added that all evergreens should be sprayed at this time for red spiders and bagworms.

Watering of trees, Schrader pointed out, will help ward off such diseases as Dutch elm and phloem necrosis, which attack a weakened tree much more readily than a healthy one.

He recommended thorough saturation at the root level, preferably by use of a lance.

INQUEST PLANNED IN DEATH OF MRS. HERMAN NIEMANN

An inquest will be held tomorrow at Clayton in the death of Mrs. Herman M. Niemann, wife of a Post-Dispatch printer, whose body was found yesterday with a rope around the neck in her home, 35 Barat avenue, Ferguson.

Coroner Arnold J. Willmann said the rope was not attached to anything, and it was not immediately determined whether death was caused by strangulation or resulted from a heart ailment. Mrs. Niemann, 57 years old, had been under treatment for heart disease.

The body was found by Mrs. Niemann's daughter, Mrs. Charles H. Hoener, 6104 Wulff drive, Berkeley, who called to visit her mother. Niemann and his son, Melvin, also employed in the Post-Dispatch composing room, were summoned from their work.

C. OF C. TO CALL FOR DOWNTOWN BUILDING CLEANUP

A general cleaning of downtown buildings will be urged by the Chamber of Commerce of Metropolitan St. Louis in a mail campaign starting Thursday.

Sam Michelson, chairman of a renovation committee, said 4000 letters would be sent to building owners and managers and first-floor tenants from Third street to Eighteenth street, the alley south of Market street to the alley north of Washington avenue, and in the area bounded by Twelfth boulevard, Delmar boulevard and Broadway.

"The mail campaign is the first step in a long-range program to renovate downtown St. Louis and to refurbish as much as possible between now and the time for the Mid-America Jubilee in September," Michelson said.

War... visiting Family.

NEW YORK, June 16 (UP)—Chief Justice Earl Warren of the United States Supreme Court left here by plane today for San Francisco for a two weeks visit with his family.

Announcing an Entirely New Soap for Complexion and Healthful, Presentable Skin

ADJUSTABLE SOAP

The first soap to meet your every soap pleasure. The distributors of Adjustable Soap are so sure of this that every cake of this marvelous soap is sold on a money-back guarantee of its superiority "even to the last very small piece."

Why named Adjustable? For the simple reason Adjustable Soap conforms to or fits into the many features which you have been looking for in a soap.

When Its Adjustable You JUST Know You're Right.

Why not use Adjustable Soap which not only takes off that which is on the surface, including grime and stains, but really reaches well down into the pores, leaving the skin beautifully soft and presentable even under the arms.

When used for any purpose it leaves one with the feeling "Adjustable Soap For Me." It's really refreshing as it always leaves one with a grand feeling of floating away skin fatigue owing to the fact it contains A-7.

Soap and tooth paste have a great deal in common in that their use is often changed from one brand to another in an attempt to find a soap or tooth paste that will fit in with the users requirements. When you have used Adjustable Soap, you will not have reason to seek other brands. Your skin is one of the greatest organs in your body. Do you not think it necessary to keep it clean as possible? A healthy, beautiful skin is priceless to the one who possesses it.

Adjustable Soap is outstanding when used in connection with medical treatment for the skin. Does not affect the natural oil of the skin. It removes fish, garlic, onion and other odors. Mild and safe even for an infant's skin. Abundant soft lather even in hard water. Does not get mushy while not being used. Its cost does not waste down the drain. Its stay-hard, long lasting qualities make it less expensive.

It is outstanding as a shampoo, for shaving and for dry skin. Don't delay another day, come in and get some of this wonderful soap.

Many claims have been made for soap, but how many of those claims meet your soap requirements?

Buy Adjustable, be Adjustable, for an Adjustable skin with a more lovely appearance, a longer life and a more presentable nature.

FUNERAL TOMORROW FOR HAROLD G. BAKER

East Side Attorney Widely Known as U.S. Prosecutor From 1926 to '31.

Funeral services for Harold G. Baker, prominent East Side lawyer and former United States Attorney for the Eastern District of Illinois, will be at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Kurrus undertaking establishment, 2325 State street, East St. Louis, with burial in Mount Hope Cemetery, Belleville. Masonic services will be held at the undertaking establishment at 8:30 o'clock this evening.

Mr. Baker, 57 years old, died suddenly early yesterday of a heart attack at his home, 8 Country Club place, Belleville.

He was a member of the firm of Baker, Kagy & Wagner, with offices in the Murphy building, 234 Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis, and at 8 East Washington street, Belleville.

Named United States Attorney in 1926, Mr. Baker at 27 was one of the youngest federal prosecutors in the country. With a trio of assistants, all under 30, he attracted wide attention over a five-year period for vigorous prosecution of offenders, particularly in liquor and automobile theft cases.

He made effective use of the conspiracy statutes in connection with prohibition law violations and broke up several big liquor rings. In the fiscal year 1930-31, Baker's last in office, only two of 785 criminal cases in United States District Court in East St. Louis resulted in acquittals.

A Republican, he served one year in addition to his four-year term and was not reappointed. He charged at the time that his application for reappointment was rejected because he refused to grant favors asked by "certain Republican factional leaders in Southern Illinois."

He had been in private practice since leaving the federal post. In 1941 he was appointed to the Illinois Public Aid Commission and had been secretary of that body since 1943. In 1942 he was appointed by then Gov. Dwight H. Green to the board of trustees of the Illinois state teachers retirement system.

Born in East St. Louis, Mr. Baker studied at old Manual Training School and Smith Academy in St. Louis, and at the University of Illinois, receiving his law degree there in 1921. He was an Army second lieutenant in World War I.

Surviving are his wife, the former Bernice Kraft, and three sons, Harold G. Jr., a member of the Baker law firm; 1st Lt. William D. Baker, stationed at Travis Air Force Base, Calif., and Douglas M., a student at the University of Texas.

GERALD SMITH SAYS AIDS HEAD KNOWLAND GROUP

LOS ANGELES, June 16 (AP)—Gerald L. K. Smith, head of a right-wing political organization, said yesterday that two of his associates head a committee called the "Knowland for President . . . if . . . Committee."

Last week in Washington, Senator William F. Knowland (Rep.), California, said he knew nothing of the origin or sponsorship of circulars which the committee had distributed anonymously "I withdrew from the presidential race completely when Mr. Eeisenhower announced for re-election," said Knowland at that time. "I am an Eisenhower delegate and he has my complete support."

Smith told a reporter: "As far as I am concerned this committee is an independent political committee. It so happens that its officers are friends of mine within the orbit of my confidence. Naturally I shall advise my 400,000 enrolled followers in California and my followers in the other states to support this committee." Smith said the chairman of the committee is Charles F. Robertson, who is also editor of the Christian Nationalist Crusade magazine "The Cross and the Flag." He said his personal secretary, Miss Renata Legant of Glendale, Calif., is the secretary-treasurer of the committee.

FUNERAL OF LEON PRIWER TO BE AT 2 P.M. TODAY

Funeral services for Leon Priwer, president and owner of Acme Roofing Co. here for more than 30 years, will be at 2 p.m. today at Rindskopf undertaking establishment, 5216 Delmar boulevard. Burial will be in Mount Olive Cemetery.

Mr. Priwer, 81 years old, died of complications Friday at Barnes Hospital. He had been a Republican alderman in East St. Louis about 35 years ago, and was active in several fraternal organizations. He lived at 1075 Colby avenue, University City.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lena Frey Priwer; two sons, Charles and David Priwer; four daughters, Mrs. Milton Epstein, Mrs. Ephraim Miller of Montreal, Mrs. Alexander Sonnenschein and Mrs. Bernard Weinbach, and a brother, Aaron Priver of Los Angeles.

HOUSE BILL WOULD HONOR TWO UNKNOWN SOLDIERS

WASHINGTON, June 16 (UP)—A House Armed Services subcommittee yesterday approved a bill to bury an unknown soldier of World War II and an unknown soldier of the Korean War in Arlington National Cemetery near the remains of the Unknown Soldier of World War I.

The measure calls for ceremonies to be held on Memorial Day 1958.

The cost of construction of two more crypts, alteration of the present tomb of the unknown Soldier and the ceremonies was estimated at $457,000.

EXPRESS BUSSES START TOMORROW ON RIVERVIEW LINE

A network of 17 rush-hour express bus lines will be in operation in St. Louis with inauguration of the new Riverview express line tomorrow by the Public Service Co. Also in effect tomorrow will be rerouting of the Walnut Park and Lee bus lines and extension of the Natural Bridge express line in the downtown area.

Riverview express busses will leave Halls Ferry Circle at intervals of about 10 minutes from 7 to 8:15 a.m. Mondays through Fridays and will leave the downtown terminal, Eighth street and Clark avenue, between 4:35 and 5:45 p.m.

Inbound route will be south on Riverview boulevard, south and east on West Florissant and North Florissant avenues, south on Thirteenth street and Twelfth boulevard, east on Carr street and south on Eighth to Clark. Returning the route will be west on Clark, north on Ninth street and west on Delmar boulevard to Twelfth, following the inbound route from that point.

UNION ELECTRIC GRANTED PERMIT FOR 71-MILE LINE

Union Electric Co. yesterday was granted permission by the Missouri Public Service Commission to increase the supply of electric power in east central and southeast Missouri by constructing a new 71-mile transmission line.

One section of the line, 23 miles long, will reinforce the power system in St. Francois, Bollinger and Madison counties. A second section, about 48 miles, will connect with a new substation to be constructed at Cape Girardeau by the Missouri Utilities Co.

Authority for the 138,000-volt transmission line was granted without a public hearing, the commission said, because it was apparent there was no opposition from other utilities.

Arms Cache Found.

PARIS, June 16 (AP) — The French news agency reports three tons of arms and ammunition of the Communist-led Vietminh in Indochina have been found cached under a Buddhist altar in a pagoda near Long Xuyen, 90 miles west of Saigon.

9 HIROSHIMA VICITIMS BACK IN JAPAN AFTER U.S. SURGERY

TOKYO, Sunday, June 17 (AP)—Nine atom-scorred girls from Hiroshima returned to Japan today after 13 months of plastic surgery in the United States. They were the first to return of 25 girls who left Japan in May, 1955. They flew here in a United States Navy Constellation plane.

They carried the ashes of a tenth girl, Tomoko Nakabayashi, who died of a heart attack during the final stages of treatment.

Dr. Sadamu Takahashi of Tiroshima, who participated in the privately-sponsored treatment at Mount Sinai hospital in New York City, called the plastic surgery a great success and voiced hope that many thousands of bomb-scarred residents of Hiroshima and Nagasaki will be able to have similar treatment.

Always Get Their Man, Too.

$1,000,000 ROCKEFELLER PLEDGE FOR DARTMOUTH

HANOVER, N.H., June 16 (UP) — Dartmouth College announced today the gift of $1,000,000 from John D. Rockefeller Jr. toward the construction of a social and creative arts building, the Hopkins Center.

The wift was offered as a pledge that will be conditional upon matching gifts from other sources within the next two years. It was made as a tribute to President Emeritus Ernest Martin Hopkins, who retired from Dartmouth in 1945.

How Adlai Stevenson Stands

Only Harriman Candidacy Blocks His Nomination Now

Probable Democratic Candidate for President Is a 'Moderate'—Says He Will Not Take Positions Which Would Reduce His Effectiveness if He Is Elected in November—Pledges 'Leadership'.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 16.

HAVING disposed of Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee in the exhausting battle of the primaries, Adlai E. Stevenson is now engaged in a more subtle contest with Gov. Averell Harriman of New York for the loosely-bound "favorite son" and uncommitted delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

President Eisenhower's second illness in nine months has made the Democratic presidential nomination far more valuable than a year ago. Stevenson, by his recent primary victories in Florida and California, is the fortuitous beneficiary.

The former Illinois Governor is so far ahead of the defeated and greatly discredited Kefauver, the slow-starting Harriman and the inactive "favorite sons" that his supporters are saying privately but confidently he will be nominated on the first or second ballot. If he is not selected by the fourth or fifth roll call, the convention will be a wide-open affair, with Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri a likely nominee.

THE UNCERTAINTY of President Eisenhower's health and the prospect that Vice President Nixon may be the Republican presidential nominee or President by succession have increased the probability, however, that the various anti-Stevenson forces will try to combine their efforts to deny a second nomination to the 1952 standard bearer. The difficulty of this strategy is that the factions are so diverse they would find it almost impossible to agree on a compromise candidate of their own.

Stevenson is ahead of his active and inactive rivals because: (1) He is more widely known throughout the country as a result of his 1952 campaign, his speeches to raise money to wipe out the party deficit, his books and magazine articles; (2) his present campaign is better organized with more influential supporters in Congress and throughout the country than his rivals'; (3) he is an improved speaker and campaigner, and (4) he has a more comprehensive governmental record and more detailed program than the other aspirants.

The day after his smashing victory in the California primary, where he got 60 per cent of the Democratic vote to Kefauver's 40 per cent, Stevenson said he considered Harriman his strongest opponent and that he had not thought of Symington as a rival. These are the two men most frequently discussed as candidates at Chicago since Kefauver's chances rapidly slumped. A third man, Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, the "favorite son" of Texas, will probably be the recipient of early Southern votes on the first roll calls, but he has repeatedly emphasized that this year he is only running to restore his health.

Harriman, now an active candidate, as a part of his aggressive campaign met today with Rocky Mountain regional Democrats in Denver.

Stevenson has expressed his political views more definitely and comprehensively than Harriman and the other aspirants. During his four years as Governor he had the opportunity to clean up the mess in Illinois left by Republican Governor Dwight Green. Before that he served in the Department of Agriculture during the early New Deal years; as assistant to the Navy Secretary; on economic and Air Force missions to Europe; at the preparatory United Nations conference in San Francisco and as American delegate to the first U.N. sessions in London and New York.

After his defeat by Gen. Eisenhower in 1952, he made a tour of the world. In 1953 and 1954 he made about 100 speeches at Democratic dinners to wipe out the $800,000 deficit left by the 1952 campaign.

This record, plus his three books, "Major 1952 Campaign Speeches," "A Call to Greatness," the Godkin lectures at Harvard University, and "What I Think," a compilation of his recent speeches, gives as clear a picture as any candidate out of office would be able to give of what he would do if elected President.

A survey of Stevenson writing and his recent primary speeches disclose that his program closely parallels the record made by the congressional Democrats during the past four years under the leadership of Speaker Rayburn and Senate Majority Leader Johnson. Stevenson is an avowed "moderate" and has said:

"It seems to me that the right answers to most of today's hard problems do not lie at the extremes. But restraint and responsibility do not mean dilution or half measures. They mean, as St. Paul said to the Corinthians: 'And every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things'."

This "moderate" approach has been challenged by former President Truman, Harriman, Kefauver and Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, particularly on carrying out the Supreme Court decisions in the school desegregation cases. To these criticisms, Stevenson has replied:

"I do not intend to take positions in this campaign which would reduce my effectiveness as President—regardless of the cost in votes."

Two themes run through most of his speeches: First, that an effective President must take the risk and responsibility of personal leadership, and second, the Eisenhower Administration has favored big business and the upper income group at the expense of all the people.

"We must have national leadership," he said before President Eisenhower's last illness, "and the apex of leadership in the American system is in the office of the President. Only the President can provide the firm direction, the bold vision and the moral strength that made this country great.

"The American presidency is the greatest temporal office on our planet. Its capacity for good or evil, for influence on human affairs is almost without limitation. When the President leads, billions follow. When the President falters, the world trembles. When the President speaks, the world takes heed. When he is silent or when he is absent, chaos threatens.

"We cannot do things by drift, complacency, advertising, mottoes, slogans and fine moral sentiments."

In the primary contest, Kefauver attacked Stevenson's gubernatorial record on pensions for the aged needy and the blind and his stand on segregation. Stevenson replied by citing his recommendation for a state fair employment practices law, abolition of segregation in public schools and in the National Guard, increased workmen's compensation and unemployment insurance, increases in old-age pensions and the doubling of state aid to schools and increased pay to teachers.

FOLLOWING is his stand on national and international issues as compiled from his recent speeches:

Foreign Affairs—"In these last three years the United States has come dangerously close to losing, if indeed it has not lost, its leadership in the world—economically, militarily, and worst of all, morally. On all three of these fronts we have manifestly lost the initiative—and that is the prelude to the loss of leadership.

"At a time when the new leadership in Russia has been very successfully playing on the universal desire of people elsewhere for an end of the cold war tensions, the Administration has clung stubbornly to its military emphasis in pacts, foreign aid, trade and international exchanges of all kinds.

"On the question of colonialism the Administration has done nothing to evolve a reasoned and sound American position, linked to our own traditions as well as to respect for our friends and a due concern for world stability. In the absence of a rational attitude, we have floundered around, trying to be all things to all people and thereby antagonizing everyone.

"We must squarely face the fact that there is no time to lose in re-examining and in re-defining our policy to meet the challenge of today. So let me make some suggestions. . . .

"1. A decent respect for the opinions of others is still a basic requirement of a good foreign policy. Foreign policy is not only what we do, it is how we do it.

"2. I believe we should give prompt and earnest consideration to stopping further tests of the hydrogen bomb, as Commissioner Murray of the Atomic Energy Commission recently proposed. As a layman I question the sense in multiplying and enlarging weapons of a destructive power already almost incomprehensible. Of course, I would call upon other nations to follow our lead, and if they don't and persist in further tests we will know about it and we can reconsider our policy.

"3. We should seriously reconsider basic revision of our method of giving aid: specifically, we should, I think, make greater use of the United Nations as the economic aid agency."

Middle East—"Steps should be taken to make it unequivocally clear:

"1. That Israel is here to stay;

"2. That we will not tolerate armed aggression by either side;

"3. That an equitable balance of armed strength should be preserved between Israel and her neighbors.

"Once the balance of power is roughly restored, I think the United Nations should call on Russia and everyone else, including ourselves, to establish an embargo on the shipment of arms to the area."

Foreign Aid—"Any aid program we devise will be effective only as it expresses a healthy relationship between free and self-respecting peoples. We must show that we care about others in the world, not as bodies we would hurl into the military breach but as men and women and children who we hope will live lives of dignity and fulfillment.

"If we propose to make economic aid most effective we will have to stop demanding that recipient nations pass loyalty tests, and stop using our money to bribe feeble governments to set up rubber-check military pacts which will bounce as soon as we try to cash them. Rather we must convince the peoples of the underdeveloped world that we want no domination over them in any form and that we look forward to the end of colonialism in the world."

School Desegregation—"It is the sworn responsibility of the President of this nation to carry out the law of the land.

"The present Administration, in my judgment, has failed to meet its responsibility in meeting this most fateful problem. In these months of crucial importance, no leadership has been proved.

"As President, if that were my privilege, I would work ceaselessly and with a sense of crucial urgency—with public officials, private groups and educators—to meet this challenge in our life as a nation and this threat to our national reputation."

Labor-Management Legislation — "The Eisenhower Administration has completely denied the essential role played in this society and government today by free labor unions and free collective bargaining.

"The provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act which limit union security, permit the so-called state right-to-work laws, make organization difficult, prohibit legitimate, peaceful bargaining pressure—these and other provisions like them must be changed. . . . It is equally important that the NLRB be re-established as a fair-minded, non-partisan administrative agency—administering the law as it is written and not according to the partisan views of either labor or management."

Education—Stevenson has pointed out there is a shortage of classrooms for 5,000,000 children and that we need 180,000 more good teachers. He has indorsed pending legislation for federal appropriations of $400,000,000 annually for four years, to be matched by the states, for school construction, and of $50,000,000 to assist in teachers' education.

Public and Private Power—"One of the first things I propose to do is to stop the Republican giveaway of our great power resources and to begin again the big and vital job of development that was symbolized under Democratic administrations by the TVA, the Bonneville Power Administration and the rural electrification program."

He has specifically come up for federal development of the Hell's Canyon project on the Snake river, saying it will give three times the hydro-electric power contemplated by private interests and provide for additional irrigation. He quotes with approval Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon as saying that Hell's Canyon is "a symbol of the clear-cut differences between Democrats and Republicans in this election year."

He has persistently criticized the canceled Dixon-Yates contract with the Atomic Energy Commission as an attempt to cripple the TVA.

Natural Resources—In 1952 he angered Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas by his refusal to give the states jurisdiction over the oil-rich marginal sea beyond the low-tide mark. This refusal played an important part in switching Texas to Gen. Eisenhower, who supported the "giveaway." Stevenson's present position is:

"I will continue to fight to preserve the nation's heritage of natural resources—our sources of power, our public land, our national forests, our soil, our parks. They belong to all the people and should be fully developed for and used by all the people, not for a few profiteers."

Agriculture—"On basic crops, I am for price supports at 90 per cent of parity. But we must go on from there and consider production payments and incentives to transfer unneeded grain acreage into conservation crops. We must have fairer interest rates for farmers. We must use our abundance as an instrument of foreign policy and a weapon against hunger at home. Above all, I stand for preservation of the family farm and restoring agriculture to the equality it had with other parts of our economy."

Housing—"I want to see our children grow up, not in ramshackle country shacks or in ugly city slums, but in decent surroundings, where they can see the sun and breathe fresh air. I am convinced that government and private enterprise must work closely together if we are to clear our slums and house our people."

Taxes—He has opposed a tax cut at the present time, saying that any surplus could be properly applied to the national debt or to needed federal projects, such as schools, medical help and public works. If a tax cut is made, he says, the benefits should be to the lower income groups.

Civil Rights—He has praised former Republican Senator Harry Cain of Washington for his exposure of abuses under the Government's security program.

Medical Care and Insurance—He has advocated federal appropriations for researches into the cause and cure of heart disease, cancer, arthritis and mental illnesses.

As to health insurance, he has said:

"The most promising approach to the crisis of medical care seems to me to be the development of voluntary, private, prepayment health insurance programs providing comprehensive service at low rates. To stimulate growth of these plans there is urgent need, in my judgment, for a program of long-term, low-interest government loans to help the new prepayment groups to come into existence and government grants to meet part of the cost of comprehensive care for those whose medical needs are no less greater because their financial means are limited."

Social Security—He supports the Democratic legislation for payment of old-age insurance to women under the system at 62 years old and for payments to totally disabled men at 50.

This summary of Stevenson's position on important issues is a challenge to the other aspirants to come forth with their own programs. In the primary contests, Kefauver's answer was that during his 10 years as a Representative and eight years as Senator his record has been made by his yea and nay votes in Congress. Harriman, who has no legislative record, has less than two months to complete a comparable program. Symington has had successful records in private business, in the executive department and during his four years in the Senate. Until lately, when he took membership on the Agriculture Committee, he has concentrated his efforts on national defense.

Critical Time Is Ahead For NATO--Weaknesses, Strengths Are Added Up

Lester Pearson of Canada Points Out the Dangers in Talks With Dulles—U.S. Must Decide How Far to Go in Supporting an Atlantic Community Organi zation With Real Sovereign Powers.

WASHINGTON, June 16.

THE North Atlantic Treaty Organization is faced in the months just ahead with the most critical period in the seven years of its existence. The 15 member nations must agree on some vital and compelling means for drawing closer together in a true partnership or the erosion that has already weakened the alliance will continue.

In the most pessimistic view the crumbling away of NATO is inevitable, given the profound alteration in the world picture following the Soviet shift in tactics from threats to smiles. In this view the NATO alliance, the cornerstone of Western policy in the struggle with Communism, will become a futile debating society, its military strength gradually dwindling.

But that ignores the unifying forces making for strength in Western Europe. While there have been many setbacks, many starts and stops, a beginning has been made in the Coal and Steel Community, in the proposed European development of the atom for peace, in the Organization for European Economic Co-operation which includes the neutrals as well as NATO members.

And what is most important, the leading NATO powers have recognized the need to find new and compelling reasons for being. A committee of three NATO foreign ministers—Lester Pearson of Canada, Gaetano Martino of Italy and Halvard Lange of Norway—have been assigned to report on how the political and economic functions of NATO can be expanded to bring greater co-operation and harmony.

While he is confident the erosion of NATO can be checked and the alliance built on a broader and firmer base, Pearson in his talks with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles here this past week did not minimize the dangers of dissolution. He pointed to the unreality of present strategic concepts which continue to stress the maintenance of land armies. He talked about the serious disputes, conspicuously over the island of Cyprus, involving NATO members.

At the same time Pearson put questions to Dulles on how far this government would go in transforming NATO from a defensive military alliance into a long-time partnership for peace that would also preserve its military strength. If it were possible, for example, to get agreement on co-ordinating the NATO members' foreign policies through the NATO Council, would the United States be bound by the commitments taken in the Council? Or would this be considered a surrender of sovereignty that the American Government could not sanction?

A task force is now at work in the State Department with the responsibility for furnishing the Secretary with a range of possibilities for NATO within the framework of American policy. At the outset it is recognized that the NATO Council has been hardly more than a kind of casual clearing house at which members through their foreign ministers presented reports to which no one paid very much attention.

Under present circumstances the French representative might present to the NATO Council France's plans for coping with the rebellion in Algeria. The Council could take due note of what was proposed but could do nothing more.

As an operating body—a cabinet for the Western alliance—the Council might discuss the plan for Algeria and might even modify it with the approval of a majority. If this were done it would then be up to each NATO member to sustain the French in carrying out the approved solution.

THOSE WHO STRESS the strengths of NATO point to its acceptance in this country as a pivot of American policy. The Democratic opposition has aimed increasingly tough criticism at the conduct of foreign policy. But no one, not even the neo-isolationists, have proposed that the 250,000 American troops in Europe as part of the NATO force be withdrawn or reduced. A few years ago such a permanent contribution to the strength of Europe and the West of that magnitude would have been unthinkable. American spending for defense continues to be about 15 per cent of total gross national product.

Nor have any of the NATO powers openly suggested withdrawal even though there have been increasing indications of restiveness. Here is a country-by-country analysis of the 15-member nations at this uncertain point between the military alliance held together by fear of Soviet aggression and the new partnership that may or may not come into being:

Great Britain — Although conscription will be abolished perhaps as early as April 1957, the British have given assurances they can sustain their present military strength with a 700,000-man professional army, navy and air force including four divisions in Germany. Britain puts 9 to 10 per cent of her gross national product into defense and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd says this may increase slightly next year.

France—The French have withdrawn virtually all their NATO contingents to "pacify" the rebellion in Algeria. But their air force is intact in France and the equipment furnished French contingents is also there along with the vast structure — lines of communication and and transportation—built with United States help from the Rhine to the French ports on the Atlantic. Taking the most hopeful view of the French picture, NATO military men have said that with Algeria in rebellion NATO's southern flank was imperiled and therefore if France can, by force plus negotiation, restore peace there it will be all to the good. If the war in Algeria is included France is estimated to be putting 7.7 per cent of G.N.P. into "defense."

Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg — The rating "good" or even "excellent" is on the report card of the low countries. Both Belgium and Holland maintain conscription at 18 months although in the former there has been strong political pressure to reduce it. The average of G.N.P. going for defense is 4.1 per cent. Expenditures estimated to go up next year.

West Germany—Chancellor Adenauer during his recent visit assured Dulles and the President again that the conscription law would be passed and the 12 NATO divisions brought into being in two to three years. But his position has been greatly weakened and there is a strong pull toward neutralism in return for reunification of East and West Germany. As a compromise the Germans might make an ecomonic contribution to NATO in lieu of the divisions. If conscription is adopted despite current foot-dragging the Federal Republic will devote an estimated 8.3 per cent of G.N.P. to defense in 1957.

Portugal—Military contribution is small despite an estimate of 4.4 of G.N.P. in defense. But here, as in almost every country with special emphasis on France, geography is vital. Air bases in the Azores are of the first importance.

Denmark—Most troublesome of all the 15, with strong neutralist-pacifist pull. But 44,000 men are under arms in permanent force, 51,000 conscripted annually. Again geography: The air bases in Greenland and an agreed Danish mission to close the Baltic straits on M-day with equipment provided by America. NATO commanders believe the Danes entirely capable of carrying out this mission.

Norway—Holding up pretty well with 16 months' conscription for the army and 18 for air force and navy. Air bases built by NATO but neither United States nor NATO planes may be stationed on these bases prior to outbreak of war. Estimated 4.1 per cent of G.N.P. which means spending for defense in '56 of $140,000,000.

Iceland—Geography vital — to keep American air bases there. The political situation is extremely touchy with the parliament having passed a resolution calling on the government to end United States lease on bases. The final outcome depends on forthcoming election.

Italy—With an estimated 332,000 men under arms in the three services in a poor country the necessity is to de-emphasize land army. The Italians are too ambitious. They over-committed themselves with a planned increase in forces from '54 to '57 of 115,000 men; 3.9 per cent of G.N.P. goes into defense.

Turkey—As in Italy, military force of 20 divisions means serious over-commitment for a primitive economy. Of these divisions eight to 10 are in the first echelon, meaning readiness for M-day. The government has until recently shown little willingness or capability to deal with serious inflation, black market and resulting corruption. Government officials now reported to be taking advice which economic chiefs in American mission have long been urging. No figure for percentage of G.N.P. in defense but a total of 12.9 per cent goes for government expenditures and most of this is military.

Greece—The issue of independence for Cyprus has become so inflamed that Greece could cancel her NATO membership. This is a major goal of Communist diplomacy with Dmitri Shepilov, new Soviet Foreign Minister, shortly to visit Athens. As in Turkey the discrepancy between a primitive economy and the effort to maintain a modern military establishment is sharp. The total number of high school graduates is 8000 to 10,000 a year, in itself a limit on the number of young men capable of being trained to operate jet-electronic equipment. Total percentage of G.N.P. to government is 13.9.

Canada—A major contribution to NATO both in leadership and in materiel; 7.1 per cent of G.N.P. is going into defense this year. In addition to the Canadian contingents maintained in Europe, over a billion dollars during life of NATO has been contributed in air equipment and air crew training for NATO units other than Canadian.

This brief summary shows that in almost every country there are elements of both strength and weaknesses. And in virtually every country geography is of paramount importance in the total structure NATO has sought to build.

The future of the alliance, both on the military and on the political side, is inextricably tied up with the decisions that are taken or not taken here in Washington. The Administration has done a poor job in presenting the need for American military assistance in western Europe, failing to stress the need to introduce new weapons and initiate a new strategy for NATO. If there is a substantial cut in the foreign aid bill it will have a damaging effect on the long-term development of NATO.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

All About Lisa

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

A visitor to Bellefontaine Cemetery was disappointed in not being able to locate the grave of fur-trader Manuel Lisa.

Apparently the visitor did not check the cemetery's interment files, or inquire at the superintendent's office, where he would have been quickly directed to the grave. The cemetery files are unusually well kept, and are an invaluable source of information to historians as well as visitors.

Manuel Lisa was first buried in the old Catholic cemetery located on the site of the present old Cathedral, and later his body was moved to the Hempstead family cemetery now included in the present Bellefontaine tract. The diary of Lisa's father-in-law, Stephen Hempstead, a Revolutionary War hero and friend of Nathan Hale, is owned by the Missouri Historical Society. In it Hempstead describes Lisa's death, burial, and reinterment.

Under the entry of Aug. 12, 1820, Hempstead writes:

"I go with wife to the Sulphur Springs, find Manuel very low. He continues until three quarters after 6 o'clock in the afternoon and then expired. He died without distressing struggles. He was taken to his own house in St. Louis in the evening. Dr. Farra (B. G. Farra) was with him day and night for some days before he died. I stopped all night with the corps."

The following afternoon, Aug. 13, Lisa was interred in the Catholic cemetery, and the funeral mass was sung the following morning. In 1830 the old cemetery was abandoned in preparation for building the present old Cathedral. And on Dec. 6, "a cloudy cold day," Hempstead went to the cemetery with two slaves and "began to take down the railing and tomb of my son-in-law Manuel Lisa to remove his remains to the grave yard on my farm and sent out the tomb . . : a very uncomfortable day."

The work of exhuming the remains and dismantling the box-like monument continued the following day. Not until the eighth was the work finished and, apparently, the remains reburied on the Hempstead farm. Although the original monument was re-erected over the new grave, it was later removed and replaced by the present monument.

Brickbat and Bouquet

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Your editorial "Mrs. Kling's Testimony," was amazing, to say the least. It had no place in a publication supported by loyal subscribers and advertisers.

There are many of us who would feel very badly about "snitching" on people who may have been our friends. But I am proud to say that I am among the group who, in a case of patriotism to what our Government stands for, would be willing to subordinate my reluctance to "snitch" to a feeling of loyalty and co-operation with a properly constituted committee authorized by Congress. JAMES V. HUFFMAN.

Your editorial on the testimony of Mrs. Kling before the House Un-American Activities subcommittee reminds me that the Post-Dispatch is one of the chief reasons for living in St. Louis. Such an editorial would appear in very few newspapers in the whole of the United States. But that is only another way of saying how very fortunate the readers of the Post-Dispatch are. I hope you never weaken in your devotion to your platform. BERT ALBRIGHT.

No Place to Park

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I'd like to know where those who are employed in the downtown area will park when the influx of Mid-America Jubilee is upon us and those visitors occupy the space which is already over-taxed. The wage earner will be driving around looking for space.

Of course, he can always leave his car at home and use our wonderful public transit system. Who knows, if things continue, he may have a good excuse not to go to work at all.

The selection of a site for the Jubilee requires adequate parking area. The judgment of those who selected the riverfront must certainly be questioned. They have taken vital facilities, already too crowded, and thereby created a still more critical parking problem. The hard thing to swallow is that it was "planned" that way.

Instead of Idiocy

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Of all the things the kids have been doing the past few weeks, drag racing blindly across Highway 66 sent a chill right down my spine.

To think that on this busy highway, carrying thousands of innocent workers, tourists and families, kids would drag blindly across it. Possibly my wife, children and I on an evening ride could be killed, mangled, crippled, our car a total loss!

I think the police are 20 years behind times. Instead of fighting the kids, why don't they work with them? Why doesn't each district sponsor athletic teams of all ages in all the sports? Why don't they have gyms where the kids can spend time? Why don't they sponsor a drag strip and supervise the running? Why don't they contribute the time of a good mechanic to work with the kids?

Brave Men Speak Out

Missouri's two Senators—Hennings and Symington—presided over hearings last week at which testimony of the utmost importance was presented by Eisenhower appointees who unquestionably know what they are talking about. The American people owe a vote of thanks to both Senators and to the men who testified.

Trevor Gardner, who was appointed to the critical post of Assistant Secretary of the Air Force for research and development, explained in plain and simple terms why he resigned last February, after holding office for only 11 months. He appeared before the Senate Armed Forces subcommittee headed by Senator Symington.

Harry P. Cain, who still is a member of the Subversive Activities Control Board but has predicted that he will not be reappointed in August, described Attorney General Brownell's unexplained and undefined list of "subversive organizations" as "a weapon from the arsenal of a tyrant." Mr. Cain appeared before the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on constitutional rights, headed by Senator Hennings.

The Gardner testimony could not have been much blunter. He told the investigating Senators that he quit the post for which he was drafted by President Eisenhower because the Administration's budgetary policy "would not permit the United States to remain superior to the Soviet Union in air power."

Asserting that Soviet progress in air power is astounding, in that the Russians have developed larger jet engines than we have and also have "a large and excellent turbo-prop engine that the United States does not have," Mr. Gardner described the Eisenhower Administration's "austere" air budget as guaranteeing us "the second best air force."

If by those words Mr. Gardner refers to the combined resources of Air Force and naval air, his statement is shocking indeed. The nation cannot afford to be a second best air power.

Mr. Gardner, now chairman of a Los Angeles company which produces missile equipment, said that while the United States has depended on quality to overcome Soviet superiority in quantity, "we are now losing the race for quality." A main trouble has been, he went on to say, that the Defense Department avoids "taking the necessary decisions to stay ahead." Red tape and delays are allowed to snarl up and block testing programs and other necessary research and development.

That is the depressing testimony of Mr. Gardner in terms of the outer defenses. The testimony of former Republican Senator Cain on the inner defenses is if anything still blacker. For the President's own SACB appointee analyzed Attorney General Brownell's list of more than 300 so-called subversive organizations and reported that only about 15 to 30 are even thought to be Communist fronts. He also said that more than half the 300 have been out of existence for many years.

Yet this largely dead and meaningless list is the measuring stick by which, as Mr. Cain said, "the loyalty and security liability of citizens are judged." Unless and until the Brownell list, in Mr. Cain's words, "is made intelligible through the issuance of factual information about it, the list will continue to be harmful to the preservation of free institutions and free thought throughout the world."

Thanks to Mr. Cain's forthright testimony justice finally was done to one more victim of the Eisenhower security program—for Mr. Cain made the point that the Truman program was better than the Eisenhower system. Harry Cain, himself a battlefield veteran of World War II, revealed the shocking case of Irving August of Seattle, a Korean combat infantryman who was denied clearance by the Army and then was given the choice of being fired or resigning from his job in the Red Cross.

Although Mr. August's inquiries as to the reason had gone unanswered for months, the Defense Department immediately called for job restoration without loss of pay—after Mr. Cain made public the outrageous conduct of the Defense Department. Obviously if Secretary Wilson's department could act on the heels of unfavorable publicity it could have taken steps long ago to clear this young Korean war veteran.

Now Attorney General Brownell has responded to last Monday's Supreme Court ruling by suspending the application of its security program to all persons holding non-sensitive jobs. This is a most gratifying development even though it is an admission that the program has been seriously at fault all along.

And so we repeat, the country has occasion to be grateful to Senators Hennings and Symington for their investigations and to the leading witnesses of the week, Trevor Gardner and Harry P. Cain—two of the very best of President Eisenhower's appointees.

Middle East Revisited

Foreign Minister Dimitri Shepilov of Russia plans a return trip to the Middle East. His visit there last August was followed by Communist arms for Egypt. Syria is now seeking arms supplies from behind the Iron Curtain. Let us hope the Shepilov revisiting does not mean new fuel for trouble in Syria as it meant new fuel for trouble in Egypt 10 months ago.

To Keep It That Way

Minoru Yamasaki, one of the architects for the new airport terminal, has done a refreshing thing. In the current issue of Architectural Forum, he lists four "mistakes" in the design—things he would do differently if he were doing them over.

For one thing, he would make the spectacular roof vaults parabolas instead of arcs of a circle. Next, he would express visibly the massive columns that support the vaults at each corner, instead of hiding them inside the lower floors. The window mullions he would like to have more slender, so that nobody would mistakenly think they support the vaulted roof. And finally he would echo the curves of the roof in the entrance and exit canopies, which are now flatly horizontal.

Mr. Yamasaki's reflections undoubtedly will stoke the fires of many an architectural bull session. For instance, the parabola thing. Mr. Yamasaki says a parabola is always definitely and perceptibly complete, whereas the arc of a circle, like a rising sun at the horizon, suggests a hidden part of the form. That's why he wishes he had used parabolas.

Maybe so, and maybe Mr. Yamasaki is right. But, much as we hate to be reactionary, we like his terminal just as it is. It is the kind of building that grows on you with time, as exciting an experience as a cathedral, as rich in unfolding moods as a fine tapestry. And it has a special magic at night, when the sweeping roof lines enclose inverted hemispheres of soft light.

No. Instead of tinkering with the design, the thing to worry about is housekeeping. If the floors are kept continuously clean and unlittered, if the commercial exhibits are held within severe bounds of good taste and restraint, if the concession areas continue to be subordinated to the majestic proportions of the structure—then this terminal will continue to be one of the finest sights in the country. Let us all look to it. A thing of such beauty should be cherished most carefully.

First Build the Schools

A certain sad eloquence attaches to the House Rules Committee's preliminary vote on two pieces of legislation that have been before it for some time. On the same day, and by substantially the same division, the committee agreed to vote this week on reporting out the Administration's civil rights legislation and the school aid bill. With one exception, the opposition to both measures was confined to Southern Democrats.

The sad part of it is that a bill to provide $1,600,000,000 in federal aid for construction of critically needed schools should be linked with civil rights legislation.

To avert any misunderstanding, let it be said at once that we favor the civil rights bill. But anybody who has been around a few years knows that its chances of passage are remote. Civil rights bills are always coming up in Congress, usually in election years. The House usually passes them and then they die in the Senate as the result of a real or threatened filibuster.

And why is the school aid bill so much in the same fix that it is bracketed with civil rights before the Rules Committee? The reason is that some well intentioned congressmen and others not so well intentioned have determined to try to add a rider barring federal aid to school districts that have failed to start compliance with the Supreme Court's decision against segregation.

This would make a "civil rights" bill out of the school bill. Its prospects would thus become the standard ones for such legislation—probable passage in the House, certain defeat in the Senate. And that is sad.

Law is made in two ways—by congressional legislation, and by court interpretation of Constitution and statutes. The unfortunate truth is, however, that Congress under its present rules and make-up cannot legislate in the field of civil rights so long as a determined minority opposes such legislation.

In these circumstances it is much wiser to let the courts, rather than Congress, establish the principle that federal funds cannot be used to support segregated schools. As the courts have already held that local funds cannot be so used, there cannot be much doubt that in the long run the principle will be established. But trying to establish it in Congress is almost sure to defeat school aid.

This is why we earnestly hope that the House, when the time comes, will defeat the anti-segregation rider.

Not Dollars But Emphasis

Senators Fulbright of Arkansas, Mansfield of Montana and Morse of Oregon are no isolationists. They have all shown many times their awareness of the role which this country must play in world leadership. They have voted many times for foreign aid. Yet they all voted against both a Democratic and a Republican move, in the Foreign Relations Committee, to restore all or part of the foreign aid funds cut out by the House.

Senator Fulbright must have spoken the thoughts of many citizens when he explained his vote. He said:

> I don't object so much to the amount, but to the emphasis on military aid. Instead of being 85 per cent military, it should be 30 to 50 per cent military, and the rest should be cultural and economic aid to increase the vitality of these countries instead of loading them down with guns.

The committee voted to restore $100,000,000 to the President's discretionary fund for Asian economic development. But for military aid in various parts of the world, it voted to restore $600,000,000. Is that the proper division of effort for the present condition of the world? A good many Americans will join Senator Fulbright in doubting it.

They Forgot the Memory Switch

As always in cases like this, the main point of interest in Air Secretary Quarles's disclosure of the H-bomb miss at Bikini is why it was not made sooner.

The miss was "somewhat less than four miles." The Secretary sounds convincing when he says this was not great enough to have a serious effect on the experiment. But, if so, why be so secretive about it? And why assume, as the Air Force information chief did, that "only enemies of strategic bombing would have wanted to bring this out"?

Somebody forgot, so we are told, to turn off the memory switch. Just a human error. No punishment of the crew expected.

No animosity toward strategic bombing is implied if anybody cares to sit quietly and think this over. Here was a highly trained and carefully disciplined crew, flying at 50,000 feet in one of the most complex and technologically advanced machines known to man, surrounded by automatic gadgets of all kinds, carrying in the bomb bay the awesome device which represents at once the summit of scientific achievement and the unmet challenge of human affairs. And the result was a four-mile miss—because somebody forgot to turn off the memory switch.

A Few More Facts, Please

Nobody has proved that tobacco causes cancer in the same way that chickens cause eggs, but the statistics are raising more and more suspicion. The Third National Cancer Conference in Detroit has heard a report from a team of seven physicians and two statisticians who examined 117 pairs of human lungs. This group makes no conclusive claims but does report these findings:

Abnormal changes of the linings of the windpipe and its branches are two to seven times more common in smokers than non-smokers who died of some disease other than lung cancer.

As soon as the Cancer Conference heard this report, Timothy V. Hartnett, chairman of the Tobacco Industry Research Committee, issued a statement asserting that the research group did not claim to have proved anything and that "final conclusions will have to await further investigative efforts."

These are what we now await from the Tobacco Industry Research Committee, which was formed by the tobacco industry itself more than two years ago with a pledge to "get at the facts." So far the industry group has issued several statements challenging findings of other agencies. The public may wonder just what facts it has got at in two years.

THE BIG '56 QUESTION

Eisenhower and Stevenson: Four Years Later

Two new books provide interesting views of the men who were rival candidates for the presidency in 1952—and may well contest for that high office again this year. Clinton Rossiter, professor of government at Cornell University, discusses President Eisenhower in part of a chapter of The American Presidency (Harcourt, Brace & Co., 175 pgs., $2.95). John Mason Brown, author and an editor of The Saturday Review, depicts Adlai Stevenson among outstanding men of government in Through These Men (Harper & Bros., 302 pgs., $4).

Clinton Rossiter in 'The American Presidency'

For all President Eisenhower's bold talk in 1952 about a crusade, we knew —and if we did not know it then, we know it now—that his mission was to bring us peace at home and abroad. We were weary of reform in the one area and of adventure in the other, and we elected a President who would give us a breathing spell from both without taking us back over the ground we had already covered.

His manner of meeting his responsibilities, which are still huge by the old standards, is that of the moderate conservative he professes to be. In some domestic areas — for example, that of labor-management—he has been spared the nasty necessity of acting at all. In others—for example, the elimination of corruption in high places—he has been largely content to govern by setting a tone for others to match as best they can, and by cutting a man loose when he has made too unpleasant a mess.

To his credit are the measures against recession in 1954 and his continued alertness in this field, the steady pressure in word and deed against racial discrimination and the vastly improved administration of the defense budget.

Dwight D. Eisenhower

To his debit are the blunder of Dixon-Yates, the continued injustices and inanities of the loyalty-security program, the miscalculation of the public interest in the broad fields of conservation and regulation, and untidy handling of the Government's obligations in the polio vaccine fiasco.

More serious than this, his total performance during the first year in office was that of a man who had apparently never heard of Sancho Panza's wise counsel that the essence of good government is "to make a good beginning."

In foreign affairs he has been, on his own terms, something of a master. His leadership has been conservative, and therefore more negative than what we were accustomed to receive from his predecessors, but he leaves no doubt in our minds that he is in command—except perhaps when Mr. Dulles speaks as sounding brass.

Certainly he has come a long way back from the degrading days of Cohn and Schine and a long way up from the self-dug pit of Quemoy and Matsu. We have as satisfactory a peace as we could possibly expect in Korea; we are not bogged down in the morass of French colonialism; we have been to the Summit and heard our President speak out for peace as only he can do; we have taken the lead, thanks to his simple faith, in bringing the atom to the service of all mankind. We are still in a moral and economic position, if we will use it shrewdly, to beat the Soviet Union roundly in the new game of competitive coexistence.

No Room for the Bloody Shirt

Men may well debate whether the leadership of this Republican President was given a check or a boost by the loss of his congressional majority in 1954, but no one can deny that he has taken steps toward peace in the last two years that no Democrat would have been permitted to take. No one can wave the bloody shirt of treason at Dwight D. Eisenhower, even when he exchanges notes with Marshal Zhukov and initiates negotiations with China.

Eisenhower's character is not above criticism. Certainly no scholar can look with delight at the occasional surfacings of the current of anti-intellectualism that flows beneath the President's love of all mankind. Certainly no observer can fail to be troubled by the gap that often exists between what the President says and what he does about reducing tariffs or protecting our natural heritage or playing fair with those accused of disloyalty.

Yet it cannot be doubted that his character, like his life, is an amazingly accurate projection of much of what is best in the American dream. He is charming, manly, brave, honest, capable, democratic, fair-minded and incredibly lucky and who, asks Leonard Hall complacently, could ask for anything more?

During Eisenhower's first year it often seemed that his influence on the Presidency would be harmful, if not disastrous. It was not so much his unwillingness to exercise his legitimate prerogatives that troubled students of the Presidency, but rather his indifference to an unruly Congress celebrating the end of 20 years of "executive encroachment" with some encroachments of its own. Some time in 1953 Eisenhower came to an understanding of the modern Presidency, and since then he has been, if not a "strong" President, certainly a firm one.

He may have earned himself a special place in history for his leadership of that difficult but essential minority, the Republican party.

By a route that often seemed much too circuitous but had a final logic of its own, he has brought the Republican party, and with it the business community, very near to accepting once and for all the ground rules of the New Economy and the burdens of the New Internationalism. And in doing this he has, as the columnists like to put it, "widened the center" so much that the country is basking in a climate of unity it has not enjoyed for 30 years or more.

Win or lose, and the odds in the forthcoming election seem to be with him, this President has done a job that the American people wanted to have done, and history ought to make a special effort to remember him for it.

John Mason Brown in 'Through These Men'

Oscar Wilde once said that he sometimes thought God in creating man somewhat overestimated His ability. The average American professional politician, though he would never think of questioning God's ability, manifestly has his doubts about the mentality and decency of the voters to whom he appeals. Not so Adlai E. Stevenson.

He does not have to be at a university to address an audience as if it were educated, its ideals schooled, its reason trained. He has lived up to his promise of talking sense to the American people, because his belief in their basic sense is the basis of his belief in America and a major reason for his entering politics in his own way.

Though inevitably far more experienced in national politics than he was four years ago, and possessed of a greater knowledge of the world, he is in essence and by endowment the same. He is as moderate as he was before, to the dismay of those Democrats who believe that the abandonment of reason which is immoderation is the function of their party. He is as much the true hater of dulling conformity as he ever was, and the champion of the free and uncoerced mind. Though the welfare of the average citizen and small business man is as genuine an absorption of his as peace, he cannot bring himself to attack Big Business merely for the political gains he might make, because he is convinced that Big Business and Labor are twin essentials to America's health that must, and can, find peaceful means of coexistence.

He believes as he did before that too much government is dangerous, and does not want a warmed-over version of the Fair Deal. The proof to him that the New Deal and the Fair belong to the past is that they served their purposes so well that the Republicans have felt safe in appropriating many of their major programs.

Because of all this, some Democrats, yearning for war whoops and the good old days, have convinced themselves that Stevenson has changed since 1952 and that the rattled youth who greeted him then in Spokane by screaming, "Hooray for Stevenhower!" must have been right after all.

Stevenson has changed in certain respects. He has grown in confidence and authority. He has not lost his admiration for Eisenhower, though he is no longer inhibited by it as some say he was in the last campaign. He has become convinced that Eisenhower has often been ill-advised, ill-used, and ill-served by those who have protected themselves by relying on the magic of his name.

He knows also that any Democratic candidate in 1956 is the gainer because of his party's loss in 1952, since "time for a change" is a slogan the Democrats can now adopt instead of having to combat. The house cleaning needed after 20 years of one party rule has been done. The nominee, if elected, would be free to form his own administration rather than inherit another's.

Adlai E. Stevenson

Stevenson's admirers run into millions and remain both grateful and enthusiastic, but he continues to be eyed with suspicion by a large number of Republicans and even some Democrats.

He is witty and delights in laughter. He is educated and does not hide the fact. And he is a master of words, fluently and brilliantly articulate. These are the charges, odd and contradictory, as seriously brought against Stevenson by some people as if they were Articles of Impeachment.

Stevenson's wit, delightful and irrepressible as it is, is more than an expression of gaiety. It speaks for his reason and also his strong sense of right and wrong. "Man," said Hazlitt, "is the only animal that laughs and weeps; for he is the only animal that is struck with the difference between what things are, and what they ought to be."

Most Republicans who admit the merits of these passages know that Stevenson is a profoundly thoughtful man. But ask the Republican who dismisses him as a buffoon if he has read the "Major Speeches," "Call to Greatness," or "What I Think," and his reply, honest though not open-minded, is apt to be either "No" or "Of course not." If he has read them, he usually retreats from the "buffoon" or "gagster" charge and attacks Stevenson for being an egghead, a doubledome, and too intellectual a type for the Presidency.

Invaluable to American Politics

No country has ever spent so much (however inadequate) on education as the United States. Yet for a man in high office to let his education show is held to be an act of indecency.

Stevenson has another mark against him in the demonology of American politics—his incredible way with words. Strong men, masters of things but not of ideas, find it easy to convince themselves that their inarticulateness is an indication of their strength.

Right as they are in their awareness of how close gaiety can be to gibness, and fluency to mere facility, they are on dangerous ground when they look with suspicion on the responsible leader who includes the use of words among his responsibilities. The leader's voice is more than his own. It is the echo to a people's needs and dreams. And these are worthy of the best statement they can have.

Because of using them and himself as he has and because of believing in the best and giving of his own best, Stevenson has already made his invaluable contribution to American politics.

GEN. PHILLIPS

Unification of Armed Forces Far From Achieved; Disputes More Numerous Than Ever

Major Conflict Concerns Jurisdiction Over New Weapons—Wilson Says 'One Uniform, One Chief of Staff' Idea Will Not Solve Problem.

By BRIG. GEN. THOMAS R. PHILLIPS, U.S.A. (Ret.)
Military Analyst of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 16.

SECRETARY OF DEFENSE CHARLES E. WILSON has replied to current widespread sentiment for more effective unification to overcome the service fights for jurisdiction over new weapons and elimination of waste and overlapping.

He is against more unification. "There are those," he told the Air College in an address Friday at Maxwell Air Force Base, Alabama, "who seek a magic formula to remove all differences of opinion and who advocate such things as 'complete unification,' placing everyone in the same uniform, a single chief of staff, or similar ideas.

"It would only force differences of opinion to appear in other forms, and could not in itself remove the cause for such differences of opinion."

Wilson did not recognize in this statement that more is involved than differences of opinion. Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery of Alamein, who believes in close integration of the armed services, said: "It is a grave question whether any large military organization which is not gripped tightly at the top can adapt itself successfully to the required speed of modern life. If this is not done, the lack of adaptability of the organization as a whole will tend continuously to promote individual service interests over those of the nation concerned."

Already Begun, Some Believe.

There are many distinguished observers who believe that this is already happening. The almost innumerable service differences that are cropping up in the United States armed forces are concerned primarily with jurisdiction over new weapons, not with matters of opinion as to their value nor how they should be used.

The National Security Act of 1947, the so-called unification act which created the Department of Defense, did not provide for unification. Instead it attempted to provide in the Secretary of Defense and the Joints Chiefs of Staff for coordination between the services.

It provided for "three military departments, separately administered . . . for their integration into an efficient team of land, naval and air forces but not to establish a single chief of staff over the armed forces nor an armed forces general staff."

Distinguished Secretaries of Defense, including James Forrestal, Gen. George C. Marshall, Robert E. Lovett and the present Secretary have attempted to make this prescription work. None has succeeded.

Differences Multiply.

Service differences are more numerous today than ever before and feelings are just as violent, even though suppressed, as at the time of the "revolt of the admirals" when Adm. Arthur W. Radford, present chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, present chief of naval operations, were leading the naval revolt against the theory of strategic bombing.

It is of passing interest to note that two of the three principal leaders of the Navy's mutiny against the decisions of their civilian chiefs have been rewarded with the two highest positions in the naval and military hierarchy by the present Administration. But Wilson said about the current controversies that it might be dangerous to the next man who stuck his head up.

When the 1947 unification act was under discussion, the Army led by Gen. Marshall and the late Secretary of War Patterson, and supported by the Army Air Corps, favored a tighter organization than was adopted by the Congress. The Navy was against it, as it traditionally is against anything that limits the automony of the Navy.

Congress Objection.

The Congress at that time was fearful of giving too much power to a chief of staff and general staff of the armed forces. It feared that a single chief of staff might turn into the "man on horseback" and go beyond his military advisory functions in seeking power.

The present compromise was the result. In 1947 there was negligible overlapping between the services. The demand for unification was to provide for tighter control, better operation and economy. The enormous wastage of resources in the Pacific during the war to maintain two great competing commands under Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Adm. Chester W. Nimitz was fresh in mind.

This type of overlapping was due to feudal views of service chiefs and service prides that demanded autonomy. As a result of the unification act, unified commands have been provided for all overseas operations and for a partly unified command for continental air defense. Nevertheless, there are two such commands in the Pacific, one under the Army and one under the Navy, with a dividing line between Japan and Formosa, that would again split the war effort between two powerful claimants if there were a war, and has something of the same effect today in competing demands for military resources.

Weapons Competition.

But the major waste of resources today comes from the overlapping and competition between the three services for jurisdiction over new weapons.

The obvious solution is a single War Department with sufficient authority at the top to settle jurisdictional problems. Technological unemployment would be taken care of by a single promotion list and the transfer of personnel from weapons that are phasing out to new ones coming to the front.

This sort of defense organization is favored by Montgomery and by Gen. Carl E. Spaatz, U.S.A.F., retired, formerly chief of staff of the Air Force. There is substantial sentiment for it in the Army and Air Force.

Gen. Thomas D. White, vice chief of staff of the Air Force, in an address June 1 said: "I believe our military services will move toward more complete unification. We need a military organization that will help us all to be free of conflicting service loyalties."

Radford for 'Evolution.'

Adm. Radford, however, does not go so far. In an address on teamwork to the Industrial College of the Armed Forces, June 13, he said: "As to how our armed forces teamwork is succeeding, I think it should be borne in mind that unification stemming from the National Security Act is necessarily an evolutionary process. Progress is being made."

Objectors to tighter integration usually refer to doubtful historical examples to prove that it will not work. They point to the German over-all chief of staff and general staff as one reason Germany lost the war. The fact is that this organization conducted the war on the eastern front, while the army staff conducted the war on the western front. The air force was under Goering and not under the national general staff. The SS military formations more or less were on their own. The only unification in Germany was through Hitler's over-all command.

Eisenhower, 1945 and Now.

President Eisenhower was once an advocate of more complete unification. Nov. 16, 1945, in testimony before the Senate Committee on Military Appropriations, he said: "you could develop a more efficient fighting force with unification, with 75 per cent of the men that you would have if you had separate forces . . . I am certain that almost any professional officer that has studied this thing would agree."

"Real unification of our armed forces has yet to be achieved," the general declared in Baltimore Sept. 25, 1952.

"With three services," he explained, " in place of the former two, still going their separate ways, and with an over-all defense staff frequently unable to enforce collective action, the end result has not been to remove duplication, but to replace it with triplication."

The condition has gotten worse and not better since he has been President. The evolution of new weapons has outpaced the evolution of unification and multiplied interservice problems.

David A. Hamil, Named to Head REA, Typifies Appointees Eisenhower Favors

He Is an All-in-the-Family, Non-Controversial Figure.

By GEORGE H. HALL
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 16.

DAVID A. HAMIL'S nomination to be administrator of the Rural Electrification Administration continues the current Administration policy of selecting non-controversial all-in-the-family-type figures to head federal agencies.

Hamil, a 47-year-old Colorado rancher and speaker of the state's General Assembly since 1951, has had REA associations for many years but is not known primarily for his activities in the field of power distribution and use.

His nomination by President Eisenhower followed closely on and was of a nature similar to the choice of Fred A. Seaton of Nebraska to be Secretary of the Interior. No one had any particular objection to Seaton, who is an amiable and capable young politician. But there was nothing in the Seaton record to suggest a deep interest in or capacity for dealing with the vast and diverse problems that come before the Interior Department.

Little Known Among Co-Ops.

Hamil is little known among rural electric co-operative leaders, who appear disposed to take a non-committal attitude toward him. They think he will be a competent and understanding administrative officer, but no zealot who will fight their battles. So far no opposition to the appointment has been expressed. The nomination is before the Senate Agriculture Committee; hearings have not been set.

Seaton and Hamil have been friends for a good many years. Both are trustees of Hastings College, Hastings, Nebr. Both are old friends of Senator Gordon L. Allott (Rep.), Colorado, who supported Hamil for the REA post. As Colorado Lieutenant Governor, Allott served as presiding officer of the state's upper house while Hamil was speaker of the lower house. Allott and Seaton were active in Young Republican Club affairs in the 1936 Landon campaign and have been friendly since.

Hamil is said to have considered making the race this year for the Senate seat now occupied by Eugene D. Millikin, Republican, who is seriously, ill. Charles F. Brannan, former Secretary of Agriculture, who has the powerful backing of Gov. Ed. Johnson, is seeking the Democratic nomination to oppose Millikin. Hamil reportedly dropped the idea of the Senate contest when the REA post was offered him.

Hamil will replace Ancher Nelsen of Hutchinson, Minn., who quit May 15 to seek the Republican nomination for Governor of his home state. Nelsen was the first REA administrator appointed by Mr. Eisenhower and had served from April 29, 1953. REA co-operatives were critical of Nelsen's appointment on the ground Nelsen, a corn-hog farmer, knew too little of their problems. During Nelsen's tenure they thought he placed too much stress on the Administration private-public power "partnership" principle.

Operates Ranch.

Hamil, with his brother, Donald, operates a large cattle feeding ranch at Atwood. Another brother, Harold, heads the public relations department of the Consumer's Co-operative Association at Kansas City. Harold Hamil was an editorial writer on the old St. Louis Star-Times. Because he is a resident of a western state David Hamil is considered to be automatically more sympathetic to REA ideals than a person from the east.

DAVID A. HAMIL

Becoming interested in REA shortly after the agency was founded by President Roosevelt in 1935, Hamil and some neighbors set out to organize a co-operative in the vicinity of Sterling, Colo. They participated in the formation of the Highline Electric Association, with headquarters at Holyoke, Colo., which was incorporated in 1938.

Hamil was one of the original directors of the highline association but became less active in it as his interest in politics grew. He resigned the directorship in 1943. He was elected to the Colorado House of Representatives for the 1939 General Assembly and served continuously through 1948. He left the House in that year for an unsuccessful race for Governor and was re-elected to the House two years later.

The nominee has declined to comment, pending study, on Nelsen's policies with respect to loans for the generation and transmission of electric power and for rural telephone systems. He has said he has no fixed opinions regarding rural electrification and is not obligated to anyone.

Earlier Administrators.

Hamil and Nelsen, the two Eisenhower appointees, are men of a type quite different from the early administrators. These were, in order:

Morris Llewellyn Cooke, now 84 years old, who has spent a lifetime battling for cheap power, conservation and various liberal causes.

John M. Carmody, a management expert who had served with several federal agencies and had been chief engineer of the Civil Works Administration and a member of the National Labor Relations Board.

The late Harry Slattery, who had served as secretary to Gifford Pinchot, founder of the United States Forest Service and one of the great conservationists of his day. Slattery also had been an under secretary of the Interior.

Claude R. Wickard, who was Secretary of Agriculture for five years before becoming REA administrator in 1945. Wickard remained in office until the Eisenhower Administration took over in 1953.

The Rural Electrification Act, passed 20 years ago last month, made statutory provisions for REA. It was sponsored in Congress by Senator George Norris of Nebraska, father of the Tennessee Valley Authority, and House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas.

The agency had come into existence a year earlier, however, when President Roosevelt signed an executive order creating it and naming Cooke as its head. Cooke had previously made a survey which showed that only about 650,000 of 6,000,000 farms in America had electric service of any kind.

Despite opposition, REA has been a success in making electric power available in rural areas and also in stimulating the development and production of electric appliances and power equipment particularly suited to rural use. It was estimated that as of last June 30 about 93.4 of America's farms were electrified; more than half obtained electricity from REA-financed systems.

REA has made more than 90 per cent of its electrification loans to co-operatives organized under state laws by rural people seeking service. As of June 1 the agency had approved more than $3,200,000,000 in loans to 1077 borrowers; about $2,700,000,000 had been advanced for construction.

As of last April 1 electric borrowers had paid the Government $236,000,000 in interest and had repaid $471,000,000 on their loans. Only $459,000 was delinquent.

Analyzing Basic Policy Changes In Soviet Moves Since Stalin Era

Writers in New Republic Symposium Think They See Significant Shifts in Direction of Reducing Terrorism.

By DONALD GRANT
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

AS THE PROCESS of re-thinking Soviet-American relations continues, the New Republic, liberal weekly, has contributed to the debate a special issue, "The Soviet Union Since Stalin," composed of 18 articles by qualified students of the subject.

How seriously are we to take the changes that have gone on in Russia since March 1953? The answer we give to this question will influence our views on a whole series of specific foreign policy issues—military pacts, disarmament, foreign aid, colonialism, recognition of Red China, our attitude toward the uncommitted nations of Asia, to name only a few.

New Republic writers are understandably cautious even in defining the nature of the change inside Russia. One way or another, however, they make the point that not only have the new Soviet leaders attacked the "cult of the individual" and the image of the dead dictator, Joseph Stalin, but they also have moved significantly in the direction of reducing the establishment of government by terror.

Externally, there has been a shift toward accepting the notions that there is more than one road to socialism, and that war between the "two camps" of capitalism and Communism is not necessarily inevitable.

Ilya Ehrenburg's View.

Not surprisingly, the one article in the New Republic series written by a Russian presents the change as deep and profound, reflecting the logical and progressive development of Soviet society. The author is Ilya Ehrenburg, whose novel "The Thaw" seemed to hint at a coming shift in the Soviet line even before Stalin's death.

Changes in Russia, says Ehrenburg, simply show that the Soviet people have come to distinguish "principles which seem to us correct, from the mistaken application of those principles." Furthermore, the very admission of error is proof of strength, not weakness. And finally, Russian changes reflect changes in the world, especially the growing realization that "the Cold War has come to disgust hundreds of millions of people in both camps."

Russia—if Ehrenburg is its authentic voice—now appears to extend the hand of friendship to the United States: "Why can't we and the Americans try to find a common language? . . . It is time now to change our tone and our tune. Mankind demands this much of us."

But will the change in the Russian mood last? Merle Fainsod of the Harvard University Russian Research Center warns that "we need to remember that this is not the first quasi-liberal interlude in Soviet or Russian history, that the experience of the past has been one of alternating phases of pressure and relaxation, that great secular transformations take place slowly, and that the dynamism of Soviet Communism is still far from contained. Thus far, at least, the party's monopoly of power remains unimpaired. As long as the party retains its grip on Soviet society, the end of Soviet totalitarianism is not in sight."

Reasons for Policy Changes.

Without necessarily subscribing to the idea that the Russian change is profound and lasting, Marshall D. Shulman, associate director of the Russian Research Center at Harvard, finds some concrete reasons why the Soviet Union might wish to make some real policy changes. The Russians, he believes, have come to realize that the era of expansion by military means—without meeting serious resistance—is about over. Europe has become relatively stabilized. The Korean war was not conspicuously successful. These events have "hastened a re-evaluation by the Soviet Union of the effect of its previous policies, and made more urgent the introduction of alternative policies."

"The real question," adds Shulman, "is . . . whether the free world will understand and accept the requirements of this period in history, and make of it an advantage rather than a disaster."

Several of the New Republic writers point out how many of the potential advantages—and disasters—involve the new nations in Asia and the Middle East which so far have not joined either of the "two camps" mentioned by Ehrenburg. The new Russian leaders, seeking friends in these areas, have abandoned the former Soviet hostility toward non-Communist governments and pretend to be encouraging an attitude of "neutrality." The refusal of countries like India to join the American alliance irritates many Americans, who feel this is playing into Russian hands.

Lucian W. Pye Is Skeptical.

But Lucian W. Pye of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Center for International Studies believes both that the Russian pretense is insincere and the American irritation is mistaken:

"It cannot be emphasized too strongly that . . . our policy objectives can be fully and completely realized if all the countries in Southeast Asia can achieve their aspirations and become healthy, independent societies committed to republican institutions of government. On the other hand the Russian objectives require the establishment of Communist regimes. We must continue to recognize, just as the Russians do, that there is a whale of a difference between a Communist government and a 'neutralist' one."

Reading the New Republic articles as a whole, one is left with an impression that most of the writers would like to see the Russian change met by a flexible, cautiously optimistic American policy, in which nonmilitary means are emphasized without letting down our military guard. This has been said before. The New Republic symposium presents this general viewpoint in a useful package.

Kennan's Opinion.

Perhaps the most hopeful of the New Republic writers is George Kennan, former United States Ambassador to Russia:

"No one is more pleased and encouraged than I am about the changes that have recently occurred in Russia. They have unquestionably helped to reduce world tension. They represent, I think, the beginning of that mellowing process which overtakes sooner or later all military movements and which has been the source of hope for many of us who refused, in the darker moments, to take a despairing view of the Soviet problem. . . .

"But . . . we would be ill advised to ignore the very real differences of historical experience and tradition and outlook that still divide us from the Russian people and would continue to divide us even under the most liberal conceivable Russian regime . . .

"We must both take care to be modest in the demands we place on each other. If we can move in this direction, I am of good heart about the possibilities for the remote future in our relations with Russia."

REPORT SHOWS LAG OF 17 PCT. IN HOME-BUILDING

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP) —The Government reported today home-building in the first five months of 1956 ran 100,000 units or 17 per cent behind the rate in the same period last year.

The Labor Department's statistics bureau estimated home construction in the January-May period at 463,000 units compared with 561,000 during the same 1955 period. However, this year's total compares favorably with similar 1951-54 periods, it said.

Builders started 108,000 home units in May, a seasonal gain of 2000 over April, but about 30,000 fewer than May last year.

Units begun under FHA and VA inspection during January through May dropped 27 per cent below the comparable months of 1955.

A Texan's Return to His Native Acres

By
THOMAS B. SHERMAN
Book Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

STANLEY WALKER'S "Home to Texas" is a personal narrative dealing with the author's return to the old homestead and his reasons for so doing. The material is not unusual. The backwoods are full of refugees from the asphalt jungles and one explanation—"I got tired of the rat race"—will cover many case histories. It also applies to Stanley Walker. Nevertheless this book commands an unflagging interest by reasons of its rare frankness, its dry humor and its ability to make the reader feel the presence of things described.

Mr. Walker escaped from Texas in his early youth and in the course of time—and not too long a time at that—became city editor of the New York Herald Tribune. From all accounts he was a smart newspaper man; and the local staff of the Herald-Trib was undoubtedly more aggressive and more effective under his stewardship than it has been of recent years. He also became something of a New York personage and well acquainted with others of a like eminence.

The time came, however, when the newspaper business and the business of life in general, as it is lived in a great cosmopolitan community, had ceased to enchant him. So he went back to Lampasas, Tex.—near Waco—the scene of his birth and of a vividly remembered boyhood. He is now operating a ranch near Lampasas.

STANLEY WALKER

HOME TO TEXAS, by Stanley Walker. (Harper and Brothers, 307 pgs., $4.)

THE return of the native is in its nature a sentimental theme but Mr. Walker is singularly free from sentimental indulgences of any kind. As a consequence his descriptions of Texas will confirm everybody's worst opinions of that well-advertised state. The summers are broiling around Lampasas and in the winters the water in the bedroom drinking glass sometimes turns to ice. Texas cooking which was in a pioneer stage about 50 years ago is now definitely worse. Texas drinking is confined to hard stuff when you can get it which is not too easy because Lampasas is dry under Texas local option.

The picturesque characters which the author describes with a degree of fondness are mostly dead or removed to another earthly habitat. Nobody ever laughs on the streets of Lampasas. Texans, as a whole, are "incurable bellyachers." As for the supposedly life-giving properties of the Texas sun and soil Mr. Walker disposes of these with a single anecdote.

He attended the funeral of a family friend with his uncle Ernest. When the ceremonies were finished Uncle Ernest turned to Stanley and said of the deceased:

"Oscar looks in better health than half the people here."

MR. WALKER is not trying to make a case against Texas. He loves it, or so he writes, and feels that he is a part of its history and destiny. So he's anchored to his farm at Lampasas for the rest of his days come drouth or blizzard or winter's chill of which he has had a plenty since his return. Among the compensations of his present life are a "decent solitude," an opportunity to read and fill in the gaps in his education and a chance to enjoy his wife's cooking. (She's no Texan.)

Even more compelling, it seems to me, are the reasons that are merely implied: the craving for independence at any cost, the deep feeling of satisfaction in reclaiming a virtually abandoned ranch and making it—if precariously—a going operation.

Literate Texans should enjoy this book along with literate outsiders. It's an honest book, and an engaging one, and its lean and sinewy prose discloses a writer who can make every word carry its share of the load.

Rewarding Look at Past

SOMETHING ABOUT MY FATHER AND OTHER PEOPLE, by Charles Angoff. (Thomas Yoseloff, 366 pgs., $4.50.)

Reviewed by
WILL WHARTON

THESE reminiscences begin with a study of the author's father, a kindly man, a klooger (clever one) but by his own admission virtually a kabtzen (pauper). Then they take up with friends of the author's youth in Boston and how they grew.

Charles Angoff, who was managing editor of the American Mercury when it was still a magazine, winds in and out of the lives of Jewish persons young and old. For me of the goyim it is difficult to convey how rewardingly he has delved into the cultural lode of his people—but one gets the impression that among these people the leitmotif is the constant search.

As one of Angoff's characters might ask, so is this bad? It is regrettable that the treasures of tradition Angoff records are disappearing, ground out by the age of standardization. It is fortunate, though, that here he preserves them and that never will the thin thread of the search, the ferment, of this great people, disappear, no matter what strange land they populate. I shall offer an epilogue to Mr. Angoff's chronicles, and let it be from Psalm 137: "If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, let my right hand forget her cunning."

New Look at Old Theme of Prewar South

ABIGAIL, by Louise Mally. (Appleton, Century, Crofts, 307 pgs., $3.75.)

Reviewed by
HARNETT T. KANE

LOUISE MALLY, remembered for her previous historical novel, "The Mockingbird Is Singing," returns to a Southern theme and acquits herself ably in a consistently interesting narrative. In a well-wrought study of plantation society in the days shortly before the Civil War she deals rather thoughtfully yet also colorfully with problems of human bondage, of master-and-bondsman attitudes, and with the operations of the Underground Railroad over which thousands of the enslaved escaped to freedom.

Abigail, the writer's central figure, is the daughter of a Southern woman but a girl who joins the anti-slavery movement in New York. Whatever her opinions, however, she falls in love with a dashing Southerner. Randolph Harrison, her new husband, has a high place on the Kentucky scene, a shining facade of a plantation property but a less than well-filled family treasury.

The bluestocking Abigail's money is clearly intended to bolster the Harrison family fortunes. Complications develop, involving a firm-minded "Aunt Bessie," a Kentucky neighbor and one or two dominant Negro figures. Using materials which may be a bit familiar, Miss Mally presents duels, family dissension and decadence, slave uprisings, and a young heroine kept captive in her own residence.

Neverthless the author flavors her material with skill and credibility, covering her well-filled canvas with sharp details of life in the Negro quarters and also of contesting social activities in the candle-lighted drawing rooms of Louisville. Most vivid of all is her heavily detailed re-enactment of the Underground Railroad, in which men and women risked their lives to help others to liberty.

A Modern Gothic Tale

THE UNQUIET SPIRIT, by Marguerite Steen. (Doubleday & Co., 253 pgs., $3.75.)

Reviewed by
HARRISON SMITH

AFTER 25 novels, including a highly successful trilogy dealing with a family of Bristol shipowners engaged in the African slave trade, Marguerite Steen has again demonstrated her versatility by producing a spine-chilling tale of witchcraft and death. "The Unquiet Spirit" has the advantage of being short enough to read at one sitting preferably after dark in a lonely house in the country. The danger hovering over Arnold Lewes and his perverse and sadistic small son is the product of an ingenious mind as well as a manifestation of the supernatural. In an odd way "The Unquiet Spirit" combines the eerie elements of Henry James's "Turn of the Screw" with its household of bedeviled children and William March's "The Bad Seed"; for what can be more horrendous than a child born to evil?

THE novel begins when Lord Whittenham meets Arnold Lewes, his Oxford classmate, and accepts his invitation to stay at his house on the moors with his wife, her sister and his strangely brilliant son. He knows that Arnold is an esoteric poet, perhaps a genius, and that he has not fulfilled his early promise. He soon finds out, however, that he is a manic-depressive who has come to London to visit his psychiatrist. There are more startling discoveries when he reaches Arnold's country house. Fabienne, his wife, and her rival, Violet, are both in love with him, and

MARGUERITE STEEN

Dominick, the pale, elfin boy, is alarmingly intelligent and cannot be controlled. He runs naked over the lawn, sleeps in strange hiding places; disturbed by a sick cat, he throws it into the furnace. His favorite toy is a ouija board.

There are even darker aspects to this strange family. In Arnold's room there is a crude but powerful seventeenth-century portrait of a woman with the eyes of a demon. She had been hung by the villagers for witchcraft. A stake was driven through her heart; but before she could be buried her body was stolen and her son was given to an unknown couple that was never seen again.

AS the story progresses the weird aspects of the household assume a bolder outline. By the time Miss Steen has set the stage for the last act all the elements for the climax are present.

Actually, the plot of the novel is based on the popular fiction of two centuries ago, when the British public avidly read "Gothic" horror stories set in ancient houses on lonely moors or in ruined castles. A few months ago an enormously popular book was based on reincarnation. Thousands of contemporary Americans now believe that the dead can return to life. The readers of Miss Steen's hair-raising novel are entitled to ask why a more alarming incarnation than Bridey Murphy cannot also survive to entertain our midnight hours.

Irish Stories Of Men Close To the Earth

THE STORIES OF LIAM O'FLAHERTY, introduction by Vivian Mercier. (Devin-Adair, 419 pgs., $5.)

LIAM O'FLAHERTY began publishing in 1924; since then he has written 14 novels, including "The Informer," six books of short stories (from which most of this collection is taken), and a number of critical and autobiographical studies. This volume is the latest in an Irish Short Stories series, published by Devin-Adair.

About a fourth of O'Flaherty's stories are about animals; "The Blackbird." "The Rockfish," "His First Flight" "The Conger Eel," "The Wounded Cormorant," "The Wild Goat's Kid," "The Wild Swan," among others. Most of these take a single incident — the blackbird escapes from a stalking cat, the eel is caught in a net, but escapes from the boat—and tell it in sensitive and pictorial detail. They are not symbolic, and not humanized, but the incidents chosen so parallel human situations that they powerfully demonstrate a unity of man and nature.

The other stories, all set in Aran, similarly find their interest and their effectiveness, not as a plotted sequence with suspense and climax and curiosity as to outcome, but in the sensitive recognition of the universality imminent in the individual situation. Herbert Read once defined poetry as the statement of the abstract in terms of the concrete, the general in terms of the particular.

O'Flaherty comes close to this—but it is more accurate to say that he states the particular — an old woman dying, a girl getting married, a young couple planting their first crop, a boat of fishermen escaping a storm—in such a way that the universal is clearly implicit.

Rather surprisingly, the style is restrained and non-emotional, in places rather awkward in its insistence on avoiding sentimentality.

The kind of sleep you get counts more than the number of hours.

In sleep, as in many other things, quality counts more than quantity. The average person spends at least one-third of his life sleeping. But this doesn't mean that he gets eight hours of necessary rest each 24-hour day because sleep is not the same as rest.

In a series of articles which begins today in the Everyday Magazine, International News Service science writer Ed Diamond presents valuable advice from America's top experts on how to get the most out of your leisure time to combat anxiety and tension.

Do children and flowers go together?

CLARISSA START

A lot of parents will tell you that children and flowers just don't go together, that you can't keep petunias or marigolds where there are little hands to pick them and little feet to trample them. Post-Dispatch columnist Clarissa Start questions this thinking. In her column, "The Little Woman," in Tuesday's Everyday Magazine, Miss Start contends that most children can be trained to appreciate flowers and shrubs and even help care for them. And she cites several examples to prove it. No matter which side of the fence you're on in the "children and flowers" argument, you're sure to enjoy reading Clarissa Start's amusing column, "The Little Woman"

WALL STREET ASSERTS BASIC CONFIDENCE IN FUTURE

Sharp Rally From Slump Seen as Reflecting New Crest of Prosperity Is Not Behind Us—Imprint of Professional Activity.

By JOHN G. FORREST
Financial Editor, The New York Times.
(Copyright, 1956, by The New York Times Co.)
NEW YORK, June 16.

WALL STREET'S basic confidence that the crest of prosperity is not behind us asserted itself this week. After the brief shake-out that occurred a week ago Friday on news of President Eisenhower's illness, the stock market rallied sharply. As measured by the New York Times combined average of 50 stocks, the list not only recaptured all of that day's losses, but pushed forward to the best levels in nearly a month.

The rebound halted at mid-week and prices drifted thereafter. Activity contracted steadily from 2,000,000 shares on Monday to a million and a half or so on Friday.

Steel Negotiations Watched.

The recovery bears the imprint of professional activity, with most of the public on the side lines wondering what will take place next. Heading the list of items that may be expected to have an immediate bearing on the market are the steel negotiations. This week, these talks appeared to progress along "friendly" lines, with a minimum of acrimony.

It seems that the steel industry recognizes the inevitability of certain union demands and has offered a package plan in an effort to obtain a long-term contract. John A. Stephens, vice president of United States Steel said it was hoped that it would bring "a speedy settlement with equity to everyone involved."

The package includes immediate pay increases, automatic raises in subsequent years, a "limited liability" guaranteed annual wage and other concessions. It also offered "premium" pay for Sunday work and increase in the present premium for the second and third shifts.

In turn, David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers, rejected the offer as "unfair and one-sided." He said the producers had offered a five-year contract with take-home increases amounting to only 5 cents an hour each year. He also charged that the lay-off plan was inferior to that given to the auto workers last year.

The Credit Problem.

Meanwhile, George M. Humphrey, Secretary of the Treasury, and William McChesney Martin Jr., chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, still may not be at the Damon and Pythias stage, but the two men found themselves of the same opinion—at least in principle—on some matters. Both agreed at a congressional hearing that they had had differences of opinion regarding the latest increase in the discount rate.

Mr. Humphrey said that he was not "alarmed" about the present tightness of money, even though tight credit was "probably one of the causes" for the troubles in the automobile industry. Mr. Martin said he was not certain that reserve requirements for banks were not too high. He indicated that new plants and equipment should be financed for long-term credit, instead of short-term bank credit. If the short-term financing is continued, he added, the nation could have a "bust."

For Coal Export.

It does not take a war to bring normally opposing factions together for the common good. This was indicated during the week when the United Mine Workers, coal operators and coal-carrying railroads brought forth a project to expedite the shipment of coal to Europe. The project partly unveiled to Wall Street security analysts last winter by Walter J. Tuohy, president of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, is a $50,000,000 shipping corporation.

Mr. Tuohy noted that it now costs as much to move a ton of coal across the ocean as it did to mine, prepare and move it by rail to tidewater. This joint effort should work to the benefit of all parties. Furthermore, it should support a coal market for Europe for many years to come.

U.S. TREASURY ISSUES, CORPORATES STEADY

NEW YORK, June 16 (AP)—The corporate and United States Treasury bond markets were steady this week in one of the lightest trading periods of the year.

For the week, the Government 2½s of 1963 added 2-32 at 97 8-32 bid. The Victory 2½s of December, 1972-67, the 30-year 3¼s and the 40-year 3s were all unchanged for the period at 95 8-32, 105 and 99 30-32 bid respectively.

At these prices, the 2½s of 1963 would yield 2.91 per cent; the Victory 2½s would yield 2.85; the 30-year 3¼s would yield 2.93, and the 40-year 3s would yield 3 per cent.

HOGS STEADY TO HIGHER

NATIONAL STOCK YARDS, Ill., June 16—Breaking sharply for the second straight week, lamb prices sagged to the lowest level since early last spring, according to the Producers' Live Stock Marketing Association. Results in cattle were mixed and hogs closed the week steady to slightly improved.

"Hogs generally were under moderate buyer pressure but sales in the closing session figured steady to 25c higher than a week ago," it said. Bulk of 180 to 240 lb. offerings Friday was $17@17.25 cwt., and select lean porkers reached $17.50 and $17.75, the top. Some late sales Friday were made at $16.75.

Prime steers topped at $22.50 and a small lot of similar grade mixed yearlings reached $22.75. Most choice steers and heifers realized $20 to $21.50; good and low choice $18.50@20. Veal calves late sold downward from $22.

From a top of $26 Monday, best lambs on the close had dropped to $22.50.

DOW-JONES INDEX UP 10.62 POINTS ON INDUSTRIALS

NEW YORK, June 16 (UP)—At the close of the week, the industrial stocks registered their best weekly gain since Feb. 3 and rails since Nov. 21, 1955. Trading, however, fell each day and the daily average of 1,774,978 shares was the smallest since the week ended Oct. 21, 1955. The Dow-Jones industrial average closed at 485.91, up 10.62 points, against a loss last week of 5.34 points. Rails rose to 166.80, up 4.77 points against a loss of 2.83 in the previous week. Utilities closed at 66.32, up 1.11 against a loss the week before of 0.27 point.

COMMODITY PRICE INDEX DECLINES 5TH WEEK IN ROW

NEW YORK, June 16 (AP)—The Associated Press Index of 35 important commodity prices declined for the fifth consecutive week, but was still about 2½ per cent above the same week in 1955. At 176.57, the index compared with 177.49 last week and 172.30 a year ago.

The industrial and textile sections of the index hit new lows for 1956. Food, livestock and grains and cotton also declined.

Nonferrous metals were the only higher segment of the index.

ELECTIONS TODAY IN 2 LATIN NATIONS

Danger of Revolution in Both Bolovia, Peru — Test for Democracy.

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

LIMA, Peru, June 16—Two predominantly Indian countries of South America will go to the polls Sunday to elect a new president, vice president and congressmen.

The elections in the two countries can be considered of paramount interest to the Western Hemisphere. They provide a test of whether democratic processes will advance or suffer another setback.

In Peru events have compelled President Gen. Manuel Odria to terminate his eight-year military dictatorship and to allow the public to restore democratic and constitutional government through Sunday's elections.

About 1,500,000 registered voters will choose among three candidates—Dr. Manuel Prado, Dr. Hernando De Lavalle and Fernando Belaunde Terry—as president to succeed Gen. Odria.

In Bolivia, 1,200,000 registered voters will elect a successor to President Victor Paz Estenssoro. Herman Siles Zuazo, vice president in the Paz Estenssoro government, is certain to be elected since the principal opposition candidate, Oscar Unzaga de la Vega, leader of the Fascist-tinged Falange party, withdrew charging fraud.

There is danger of a revolution upsetting the elections or results in both countries.

The Bolivian government already has accused its political opponents and refugees in Buenos Aires of preparing military coup to block the election of Siles and thereby to prevent him from continuing the economic, political and social revolution which he and Paz Estenssoro began in 1952.

In Peru there are doubts whether Gen. Odria would turn the government over to Belaunde Terry, a Texas-educated architect, in the event the latter wins tomorrow. The other two candidates are acceptable because Odria is confident his personal future position would be secure under either.

Peruvian voters are to elect 53 Senators and 182 deputies. In Bolivia, 18 Senators and 68 members of the House are to be chosen.

RADER WINGET DIES; WROTE BUSINESS NEWS FOR A.P.

PORT WASHINGTON, N.Y., June 16 (AP)—Rader Winget, business news reporter and writer of the daily stock market story for the Associated Press, died today. He was 50 years old.

Winget was preparing to launch his small boat in Manhasset bay for the summer season when he collapsed.

Winget joined the A.P. in September 1933, working in the feature service in New York. He served in the wire service's London and Paris bureaus from 1936 to 1939. One of the stories he covered then was the abdication of King Edward VIII. In World War II he served as a Major in military police and military government in North Africa, England, France, Germany and Italy. He was editor of Stars and Stripes, Army newspaper, in London. He became a member of the business news desk in 1948.

Among other major stories he covered were the New Deal's changes in Wall Street, the Lindbergh kidnaping, the coronation of King George VI and the Munich crisis.

He leaves his widow, the former Catherine Jane Brown of Goshen, Ind., and a son, Rader William.

OLD CROP SOYBEANS WEAK, OATS STRONG IN WEEK

CHICAGO, June 16 (AP) — Old crop soybeans were weakest and oats strongest in a mixed market on the Board of Trade this week.

Wheat mostly wound up lower despite some midweek strength. In contrast, most rye futures ended higher. Old crop corn eased but the new crop months gained. New crop soybeans lost a little ground.

Wheat closed 1⅜c lower to ¼c higher, corn 2¾c lower to ⅞c higher, oats 1¾@2¾c higher, rye ⅜c lower to 1½c higher, soybeans ¼@7c lower and lard 30@55c cents a hundred pounds lower.

A sustaining factor in wheat was the hope held by some traders that more of the bread grain going abroad would be exported by the private trade and less by the Government.

This demand, shifted from the CCC's old crop wheat stocks to the private trade's holdings of current crop wheat, would help maintain prices of the 1956 crop, the trade argues.

Dear Neighbor:
Five years ago we at Susman's converted much of our huge factory and warehouse space to showrooms, bypassed window displays, fancy floors, fancy fixtures and the like. We offered nationally advertised brands of furniture and home furnishings, bedding, carpeting, jewelry, leather goods, sporting goods, bicycles, toys and many other items too numerous to mention at sensational savings. Thousands of people took immediate advantage of these terrific savings and today, being one of the largest sources for such items, we offer you even lower prices than ever! We cordially invite you to visit our show rooms and take advantage of the tremendous savings available. Everything fully GUARANTEED. Exchange and return privileges. Service, installation (where applicable). We deliver.
Cordially yours, J. Susman

RULES AND REGULATIONS

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to classify ads under appropriate headings. The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to revise or reject advertisements or to retain answers to any box number advertisement. If this right is exercised the amount paid for the advertisement will be refunded to the advertiser.

It is agreed that the liability of the Pulitzer Publishing Company in the event of failure to publish an advertisement for any reason or in the event that errors occur in the publishing of an advertisement shall be limited to the amount paid by the advertiser. Claims concerning omissions or incorrect insertion will not be considered unless made within 30 days from date of publication.

To Place Ad, phone Main 1-1111 and ask for an adtaker. It is not necessary to open an account—just say "charge it." Both cash and charge ads may be placed at the Want Ad Counter, 12th and Olive.

Advertisers using box numbers please ask for "Want Ad Answers" when inquiring about replies. (C)

Looking for More Satisfying and Challenging Work?

McDONNELL ENGINEERS are engaged in fourteen separate development projects covering the entire spectrum of aeronautical engineering endeavor.

You need not be an experienced aircraft engineer to qualify. Graduate engineers, or those with equivalent experience, can make the transition into aeronautical fields with little difficulty. Our organizational system, working in small groups, insures your individualism and the recognition of your abilities.

Needed immediately are:

- DESIGN ENGINEERS
- FLIGHT TEST ENGINEERS
- THERMODYNAMICISTS
- STRUCTURAL ENGINEERS
- DYNAMICS ENGINEERS
- WEIGHTS ENGINEERS
- AERODYNAMICISTS
- LINESMEN
- ENGINEERING WRITERS
- DRAWING CHECKERS
- TECHNICAL ILLUSTRATORS—WRITERS
- TOOL DESIGNERS

INSPECTORS
MACHINISTS
SHEET METAL MECHANICS

Seven Reasons
why it will pay you to come to HUGHES
in
SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

We sincerely believe that we can now offer you an unbeatable package . . . and here's what we mean:

1. As industry continues its westward movement, Hughes is increasing its facilities and leadership in advanced electronics Research and Development. This means that we now have many new and exceptional opportunities for skilled machinists and experimental sheet metal mechanics.

2. Here is your chance to give yourself and your family the enjoyment of luxurious, semi-tropical living . . . Southern California living.

3. Not only will you receive top wages and steady year-around employment, but also Hughes-paid group insurance, sick leave, 7 holidays per year, paid vacations, and a retirement program.

4. MACHINISTS on the R & D team will work on all of the standard tool room machinery, doing only short runs of small precision parts made from a variety of materials.

5. EXPERIMENTAL SHEET METAL MECHANICS' contribution to the R & D effort will consist of the layout and formation of small intricate parts, using a variety of gauges. You will have the opportunity to work from blueprints, sketches, and verbal instructions. INSPECTORS will check the experimental machine work.

6. You will work in the friendly air-conditioned R & D Machine Shops with excellent lighting, new tools, and finest modern equipment.

7. Hughes will assist with your moving and travel expenses to sunny Southern California.

ST. LOUIS INTERVIEWS

Chance Vought Aircraft
NEEDS
ENGINEERS EXPERIENCED

This may be your opportunity to join the winning team in Dallas that has designed and is producing in quantity the Chance Vought CRUSADER, "World's Fastest Navy Fighter," as well as the highly successful REGULUS guided missile.

Aircraft experience is not essential but we do want aggressive, imaginative engineers—men whose growth potential can parallel the rapid industrial expansion of this area. Enjoy a low cost of living and the friendly, informal, outdoor life typical of Texas. Opportunities at many levels exist in these areas:

AERODYNAMICS
(Preliminary Design, Wind Tunnel, Stability, Control).

AIRFRAME DESIGN
(Fuselage, Wing and Tail).

MECHANICAL DESIGN
(Equipment and Engine Installation, Electrical and Hydraulics Systems, Landing Gear, Controls and Armament).

ELECTRONICS SYSTEMS DESIGN
(Automatic Controls and Guidance Advanced Systems Development, Reliability and Packaging).

PROPULSION ANALYSIS
(Installed Engine Performance, Heat Transfer, Duct Design).

WEAPON SYSTEMS
(Development and Evaluation).

STRUCTURES DESIGN
(Stress, Analysis, Materials, Weight Control).

FLIGHT TEST ENGINEERING
(Flight Test Analysis, Testing, and Instrumentation).

Substantially increased salaried rates are in effect, plus paid vacations, group insurance, retirement plan, sick leave and generous moving allowance.

MR. AND MRS. HOMEBUYER—You are entitled to a beautiful, efficient kitchen in your home. Be sure when you're looking for a new home that you give the kitchen an extra-close inspection.

Compare quality in the kitchen. Look for and insist on these kitchen advantages . . .

1. Lasting beauty—Will the kitchen stay beautiful for the life of your home? And is it easy to keep clean?

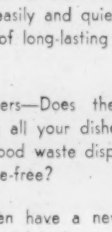

2. Color—The trend is to color! Will the color of the kitchen blend with any decorating scheme, or any of the new appliances?

3. Quality—Be sure to check for doors that won't sag; drawers that will open easily and quietly, won't bind and stick. Is the finish of long-lasting baked-on enamel?

4. Dishwashers and Disposers—Does the kitchen have a dishwasher that does all your dishes in one load? And does it have a food waste disposer that operates quietly and is service-free?

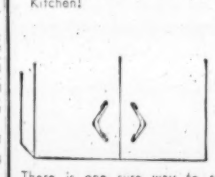

5. Built-ins—Does the kitchen have a new built-in oven and cooking top with solid built-together construction and safety from the wrapped-in-steel design?

Chances are you won't buy the first new home you see. So look for the home with the kitchen that gives you all the above advantages. You can get them all in a Youngstown Kitchen!

For a book in full color to help you select your new-home kitchen, send 25c with your name and address to:

SCHWANDER CO.
3920 Olive Street
St. Louis 8, Missouri
JEfferson 1-5000

There is one sure way to recognize a Youngstown Kitchen: Look for the Easy-V handles.

No doubt you'll have a choice, so tell the Builder you want a Youngstown Kitchen

APPEAL TO A BUYER

Are you renting now. Far from a school?
Need more space? Don't be a fool—
Our beautiful homes are appealing and spacious.
The conveniences many, the living is gracious.
Dishwasher, disposal and decorating too.
Utility room and sodding to name just a few
Of the luxury appointments to be found in our homes.
The carports are large, the kitchens have domes.
If you're a G.I., but maybe you're not,
The down payment is small, the rent less than a lot.

"The Family of Man" is generally recognized as the greatest photographic exhibition ever assembled. The 503 photographs in the exhibition, representing the work of 273 professional and amateur photographers, are mounted on 117 panels of various sizes up to 4 feet by 6 feet. The panels will occupy 650 running feet of display space at the City Art Museum. The work of selecting the photographs for this exhibition was directed by Edward Steichen, Director of The Department of Photography at The Museum of Modern Art, New York City, where "The Family of Man" was seen by more than a quarter-million visitors during its premier presentation. Its St. Louis showing is being sponsored by the Post-Dispatch in co-operation with the City Art Museum.

ADVOCATES TRAINING MENTALLY RETARDED

Dr. S. G. DiMichael Says Tow-Thirds Cured Become Self-Supporting.

At least two-thirds of all mentally retarded persons could become self-supporting if given proper instruction and aid, Dr. Salvatore G. DiMichael, executive director of the National Association for Retarded Children, said here last night.

He told a convention of the Missouri Association for Retarded Children that about 4,800,000 Americans are mentally retarded. "The retarded outnumber all other groups of physically handicapped children in America," he stated.

To help retarded persons become self-supporting requires clinics, home training for parents, special classes, occupational training centers, counseling and selective placement, Dr. DiMichael declared.

In recognition of the problem the Federal Government has appropriated $3,955,000 for assistance programs, he told his audience at Hotel Sheraton-Jefferson. Bi-partisan support of this appropriation shows Congressional awareness that mental retardation is a national problem, because a backward child can be born in any family, he said.

Dr. DiMichaels pointed out most handicapped persons are able to overcome their disabilities by using their intelligence to meet their needs. "But the cause of the intellectually subnormal must be championed by individuals not of their own group else they will be forgotten," he said.

TRANQUILIZING DRUGS SAID TO SPEED RECOVERY

The use of tranquilizing drugs has resulted in a 36 per cent increase in the number of chronically-ill mental patients discharged from a Veterans Administration hospital in a recent survey, it was made known yesterday.

Dr. Lester Drubin, manager of Jefferson Barracks Hospital here, said the experiment at the VA hospital at Northampton, Mass., also showed that the percentage of improvement in patients treated with tranquilizing drugs also was greater than that of patients given other types of psychiatric treatment. Many patients successfully treated with the drugs had failed previously to respond under other methods of treatment, he said.

Dr. Drubin said the drugs have been used at Jefferson Barracks for the last two years when the hospital started specializing in the treatment of neuropsychiatric patients. "We are discharging more patients than in the past, insulin treatment and lobotomy have been eliminated, and electric shock treatment has been reduced tremendously," he said.

OLDER JOBLESS PERSONS ENROLL IN TRAINING COURSE

More than 700 unemployed older persons in the St. Louis area applied for technical training courses which begin tomorrow in an experimental program at St. Louis University, Anthony A. Salamone, director of the university's adult education department, said yesterday.

Only about 100 persons could be enrolled in the courses, which are being given without charge to unemployed women 35 years of age or older and to unemployed men 45 or older, he said.

Salamone said the courses constitute a pilot program in teaching new skills to older jobless persons, being carried out under a federal grant. One question involved in the study — whether these persons have a desire to learn new skills — already has been answered, he said.

MRS. FRANCES M. FORD DIES; WROTE CHILDREN'S STORIES

PHILADELPHIA, June 16 (AP)—Mrs. Frances M. Ford, author of a number of widely read children's stories, died in her sleep yesterday at the age of 102.

A claim was put forward by a relative in recent years that Mrs. Ford was the author of the well-known story, "The Little Engine That Could," which she was said to have written in 1911 under the pen name of "Uncle Nat."

However, an attorney for the New York publishing firm of Platt and Munk, which for more than 30 years has been publishing the story under that title, said the company after much effort had never been able to establish the authorship.

STRAUSS, ALLEN DULLES LEAVE TO SEE NUCLEAR TEST IN THE PACIFIC

WASHINGTON, June 16 (UP)

LEWIS L. STRAUSS, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission and Allen W. Dulles, Central Intelligence Agency Director, left for the Pacific today to witness what unofficial sources have called "the most interesting" shot of the current nuclear test series.

It is widely believed that the explosion Strauss and Dulles are to see will be an experimental hydrogen warhead tailored for delivery by guided missiles.

President Eisenhower has said the tests now going on at the Eniwetok-Bikini proving ground are essential to development of an intercontinental ballistics missile.

Preparations for the delayed wedding were made in secrecy and the ceremony performed under heavy guard.

All Cigarette Smokers Are Held Subject to Risk of Lung Cancer

Statistical Study by National Institute Also Finds Evidence of 'Multiple Environmental Factors.'

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP)—The National Cancer Institute said today a new statistical study concludes that the entire cigarette - smoking population "appears to be subject to the same high risk of lung cancer which was found in earlier studies of selected groups of smokers and non-smokers."

At the same time, however, the institute said the study produced new suggestive evidence of "multiple environmental factors in lung cancer" aside from the question of whether or not smoking is a cause.

An announcement said these conclusions were reached by two of the institute's researchers in a report published in the institute's journal. Authors of the report are William Haenszel, head of the biometry section, and Dr. Michael Shimkin, chief of the biometry and epidemiology branch.

An institute spokesman told a reporter the new report was based on an analysis of a number of previous reports as related to special population groups—including studies sponsored by the American Cancer Society and by the cancer institute itself.

Analysis Application

Then, he said, results of the analysis were applied to "the distribution of smoking patterns of the population as a whole" as indicated by a survey made by the Census Bureau for the institute last year.

He said this survey involved questioning about 40,000 persons throughout the United States.

The researchers, he said, also used lung cancer prevalence and mortality data obtained in a number of different studies.

The announcement said the whole new study "represents the first attempt to test the consistency of data found in a number of studies relating to the risk of smokers developing lung cancer, smoking habits of Americans, and the general distribution of lung cancer in the population."

"In general," the institute said, "consistency was noted."

A spokesman said the authors of the report had reached this specific conclusion: "The weight of the evidence favors the conclusion that the excess lung cancer risk among cigarette smokers, demonstrated in special study groups, occurs in the total (smoking) population as well."

Further Findings.

The institute's announcement said further:

"The male-to-female ratio of lung cancer deaths, now five to one, represents the highest sex ratio known for any major disease. The adjustment for smoking history (in the study) brought the sex ratio for lung cancer into line with those observed for other causes of death.

"The authors further indicated that if smoking is, in fact, a cause of lung cancer, the following two trends should prevail: The rate of deaths from lung cancer for females will rise by 1965, in accordance with the trend to smoking at earlier ages among women; and the increasing rate of deaths from lung cancer for males will slow down by 1965."

Asserting that all sources of information used in the study "agree that lung cancer incidence and deaths are higher in urban than in rural areas," the statement said: "Adjustment (in the new study) for different smoking patterns in rural and urban populations accounted for only a part of the urban-rural differences in lung cancer mortality.

"In the opinion of the authors, this urban-rural discrepancy represents a real finding and is a manifestation of multiple environmental factors in lung cancer."

BLOODMOBILE SCHEDULES ARE LISTED BY RED CROSS

A St. Louis Chapter Red Cross bloodmobile will receive blood donations from 1 to 8 p.m. tomorrow at the American Legion Post Home, 310 East Argonne drive, Kirkwood. Donations also can be made at units tomorrow from noon to 6 p.m. at the American Legion Hall, Breese, Ill., and 1 to 7 p.m. in the school gymnasium at New Baden, Ill.

Tuesday bloodmobiles will visit the Standard Oil Refinery Plant, Alton, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and from noon to 6 p.m. at the Lutheran School, Belleville. Units will be stationed from noon to 6 p.m. Wednesday at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall, Wood River, Ill., and Thursday from nooon to 6 p.m. in the American Legion Hall, Marissa, Ill., and Masonic Temple, Centralia, Ill.

SISTER MARY ELIA FUNERAL AT VILLA GESU TOMORROW

Funeral services for Sister Mary Elia, member of the School Sisters of Notre Dame for 40 years, will be at 9 a.m. tomorrow in the chapel of Villa Gesu, 11755 Riverview drive. Burial will be in the convent cemetery.

Sister Mary Elia, 58 years old, died of complications Friday at Villa Gesu, where she went in retirement in 1953. She entered the order in 1912, and had taught a total of 29 years in New Athens, Dubois and Radom, Ill. The former Mary Rose Pedtka, she took her final vows in 1921.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Anna Kobus and Mrs. Bertha Para, both of Nashville, Ill., and three brothers, the Rev. Luke Pedtka O.F.M. of Pittsburgh; Paul of Radom and Anthony Pedtka of Dubois.

NORMANDY PHYSICS TEACHER WINS SPECIAL STUDY AWARD

Clifford T. La Roge, science teacher at Normandy High School, has been awarded a 1956 General Electric fellowship for a special summer program of study in physics at Case Institute of Technology, Cleveland, it was announced yesterday.

The tenth annual General Electric fellowship program, which will be held today through July 27, provides traveling expenses, books, tuition fees and living expenses. The study program, taught by the institute's faculty members, will include three courses designed to provide a review of fundamental concepts of physics and recent developments in the physical sciences.

Beside the academic program, fellows will visit the Nela Park Laboratories of General Electric and the Lewis Flight Propulsion Laboratory. Evening lectures by widely known persons in the field of science and recreational programs also have been planned.

'FINDER' PRESENTS ESSAY AWARDS TO 11 CHILDREN

Eleven children have received prizes from Steve Bloomer, "The Finder" over educational station KETC, for winning essays which they wrote about their experiences on an all-day trip with Bloomer to Hannibal and the country of Tom Sawyer and Mark Twain.

First place winners, presented with awards on Bloomer's final television show of the season, were: Miss Barbara Herchert, 11 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Herchert, 1610 Bradford avenue, Pagedale, senior girls' division; Edward Pisoni, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Pisoni, 2616 South Fifty-ninth street, senior boys' division.

Other blue-ribbon winners were: Miss Kathianne Knaup, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren C. Knaup, 1230 Selma avenue, Webster Groves, junior girls' division; Danny Jaco, 8, son of Mrs. Frank Schmieder, 5931 Drury lane, junior boys' division.

ADENAUER PLEASED WITH TRIP RESULTS

Returns From U.S.—Found Much Interest in German Problems There.

BONN, June 16 (AP)—Chancellor Adenauer returned from the United States tonight and declared: "I am extraordinarily pleased with the results of my trip."

Looking fresh and relaxed after a non-stop flight from Milwaukee, the 80-year-old statesman told newspapermen:

"Everywhere I found an extraordinary interest in German problems, especially on the question of reunification. President Eisenhower made a surprisingly good and fresh impression during our talk in Washington. The President himself brought up the question of German reunification."

Adenauer proudly displayed to a crowd of spectators the Indian headdress he received in Milwaukee. Urged by photographers to don it, he smilingly declined but said:

"This was a rare honor by the Indians. I also smoked a peace pipe with them."

He then permitted a small boy to inspect the headdress but told him he could not put it on.

In his seven-day stay in the United States, his fourth visit there, Adenauer spent two days in high-level talks with State Department officials and conferred briefly with the ailing President.

In visits to New York, Chicago, Milwaukee and New Haven, he received two honorary doctorates, delivered three major speeches and became an adopted son of American Indians.

In Germany his trip has intensified the political controversy over German unification. Opposition parties are charging Adenauer and Dulles for failing to announce any new plan to break the East-West deadlock on German unity.

EUREKA TO VOTE ON $268,000 WATER SYSTEM ISSUE

Residents of Eureka, in St. Louis county, will vote next Tuesday on a proposed $268,000 bond issue for a water system to replace the individual wells and cisterns that now serve that community.

Mayor Ervin E. Drewel, a dentist, said Eureka, with 1023 population, is the largest city in Missouri without a water system. The 20-year bonds, if approved by a two-thirds majority, will pay for necessary wells, fire hydrants, water mains and two 50,000-gallon storage tanks. To get the system started, the first 255 connections would be made without charge, Mayor Drewel promised. Thereafter connections will cost $93.

The rate for the city-owned water will be $2.50 for the first 2000 gallons and 90 cents for the next 3000 gallons. Mayor Drewel said. A probable offset against the water rate will be an estimated reduction of 12 cents per $100 valuation in fire insurance rates, the mayor said.

THOMAS A. TERRY, ORGANIST AT ARENA 10 YEARS, DIES

Thomas A. Terry, organist at the Arena for the last 10 years and organist and choirmaster for Holy Name Catholic Church for 20 years, died of complications yesterday at his home, 8706 Hoover avenue, Richmond Heights. He was 70 years old.

Mr. Terry, who was named one of the nation's outstanding theater organists by the Music National Magazine two years ago, played for more than 25 years at the Fox, Loew's State, Missouri and the old Lyric theaters. He also was organist at police circuses and for conventions, and each summer played for outstate and local college horse shows.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lucina Corkins Terry; a brother, Leo Z. Terry of Chicago, and a sister, Mrs. Edward Tomaso of Pensacola, Fla. Funeral services will be at 9:15 a.m. Tuesday at Immacolata Catholic Church, 8900 Clayton road, Richmond Heights, with burial in Calvary Cemetery.

11 SCHOLARSHIP AWARDS FOR SOCIAL WORK SCHOOL

Eight tuition remission scholarships and three Henry F. Putzel scholarships for study in the 1956-57 academic year have been awarded by the George Warren Brown School of Social Work at Washington University, Dean Benjamin E. Youngdahl announced yesterday.

Recipients of the tuition remission scholarships are: Roland E. Dolgin, Tucson, Ariz.; Richard E. Edgar, Carbondale, Ill.; Walter A. Huber, San Francisco, Calif.; Miss Carol A. Rausch, Joliet, Ill.; Carl Siegenthaler, 1611 Missouri avenue; Miss Vivian Tedeschi, Cairo, Egypt; Miss Betty Woods, Springfield, Mo.; and Miss Carol Zies, College Park, Md.

Henry E. Putzel scholarships were awarded: Floyd R. Finley, 3931 Palm street; Miss Margaret Kim, Wahiawa, Oahu, T.H.; and Miss Tedeschi.

HONORED FOR BOND SALES

Mrs. Shirley Graves, a secretary at the St. Louis Ordnance District, has received a United States Treasury Department citation for voluntary services in selling savings bonds at the district, it was announced yesterday.

She was praised for her efforts which "have not only improved the savings bond record of the district, but also helped in the over-all campaign which continues to be an important part in the debt management of the Government."

Union Building Colony of Florida Cottages for Retiring Members

Upholsterers' Convention Here Given Report on Project — Project Being Paid For by Employers.

Retirement under the Florida sun in a modern cottage flanked by tropical fruit trees is in prospect for members of the AFL-CIO Upholsterers' Union.

Progress of this unusual plan, scheduled to begin operations in November, was reported to delegates at the union's convention at the Coronado Hotel last week. The project is under auspices of the union's welfare fund, financed by employers through a 2 per cent gross payroll levy.

Under construction now are 20 cottages. They represent the first unit of a colony which may include several hundred, on a 634-acre tract 13 miles north of Palm Beach. It overlooks the intercoastal waterway.

Title to the dwellings is retained by the welfare fund. Any union member 30 years of age or more may rent a cottage at a monthly rate of about $50. Cottages, equipped with all utilities, contain from one to three bedrooms. The smallest lot is 80 by 100 feet. Each lot has at least three citrus trees, bearing oranges, grapefruit or lemons.

A central administration building contains a clinic, auditorium, workshop, and various recreational facilities. Over-all planning for the project was aided by an advisory committee of sociologists, physicians and specialists in other fields.

ONE KILLED, 9 HURT IN RAID FROM LEBANON, ISRAEL SAYS

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, June 16 (AP)—An Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman charged tonight an attack from Lebanon killed one Arab and wounded nine others in Israel Thursday night.

The frontier with Lebanon has been the calmest of all those surrounding Israel.

The spokesman said a mixed armistice commission investigation with United Nations observers proved the attacks were directed at three villages all in the Arab El Armashe area of Israel. He said tracks of the attackers led to Lebanon's frontier.

FOUR MORE FIRMS LICENSED TO PRODUCE JUBILEE ITEMS

Four more firms here have been awarded contracts for the manufacture and sale of licensed merchandise bearing the Mid-American Jubilee emblem, bringing the total number of such firms to 10, it was announced yesterday by Alfred Stern, managing director of the exposition.

The companies, which will sell their products in the area's stores and at the jubilee, are: Midwestern Manufacturing Co., selling Mid-American Jubilee dolls; Rosenthal Paper Co., shopping bags; St. Louis Greeting Card Co., packaged postal cards, and Lehart Sales, pennants, caps and hats.

In addition, the Berlo Vending Co., has contracted for the operation of two popcorn, peanut, candy and cigarette stands on the jubilee grounds, Stern said.

Why sergeants lose their stripes

Will Stockdale has "No Time for Sergeants"

If every Air Force sergeant had a man like Will Stockdale around for long, he'd probably lose his stripes, too, just like Sergeant King did. Will's the hero of Mac Hyman's hilarious best-selling novel, "No Time for Sergeants," which has been adapted for the stage and is a current Broadway hit.

Beginning next Sunday, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch will publish a 10-installment condensation of "No Time for Sergeants." It's the story of a Georgia farm boy who gets drafted into the Air Force. Will Stockdale means well. But because of his obvious lack of worldly knowledge and his slow country drawl, he's immediately the target of sarcastic jabs from his fellow Airmen.

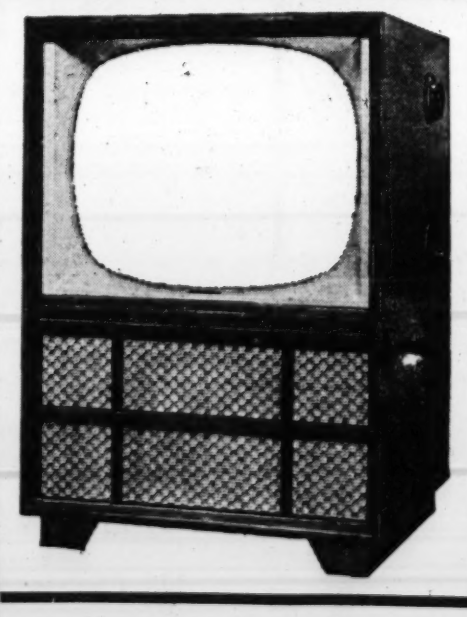

However, Will proves to be more than a match for them all—including Sergeant King who becomes more befuddled and deeper in trouble after each of Will's humorous escapades. For laughs galore, be sure to read, "No Time for Sergeants" beginning in

Middlecoff Wins Second U.S. Open With 281; Hogan Fails

BEN AT 282 WITH BOROS, FURGOL ONE OF 3 AT 285

ROCHESTER, N.Y., June 16 (UP)—Dr. Cary Middlecoff, a man with a seven-year itch, scratched out a final round 35-35—70 today to nose out record-hungry Ben Hogan for the United States Open gold championship with a 72-hole aggregate of 281.

Seven long years the slender dentist from Memphis had waited since the day he first won "the big one." That time, back in 1949, Hogan was on the sidelines with near-fatal automobile accident injuries.

But today as Middlecoff set the pace over rugged Oak Hill Country Club, it was the mighty Hogan—seeking a record fifth championship—who took a run at him and failed to catch him.

Bantam Ben had his chance. And, as they hammered down the cloudy stretch, so did two others—former champion Julius Boros and 36-year-old Ted Kroll.

None of them could make it.

Thus, when it was over, Middlecoff stood alone at 281; Hogan and Boros at 282; Kroll all the way back at 285 with Peter Thomson and St. Louis's Ed Furgol; Arnold Palmer at 287; Ken Venturi, the low amateur at 289; and young Wesley Ellis, Doug Ford and Jerry Barber at 290 to round out the first 10.

And once again it was disappointment for Slammin' Sammy Snead as he turned in a 35-38—73 for a 296 which was 15 shots behind. But his loss was buried in the wake of the three who gave it the big try and failed.

Hogan failed first, as the nervous Middlecoff fidgeted in the club house. But needing two final pars, Bantam Ben missed a three-foot putt on the seventh hole and finished with a 35-35—70 for a 282.

Then it was Boros, the burly, quiet man with the ice-water nerves who took it away from Hogan at Dallas in 1952. The "Moose" had his shot for at least a tie when he went gunning for a birdie on the final hole—and missed a 14-foot putt by inches for a 35-34—69 which tied Hogan for second at 282.

But Middlecoff, so nervous he couldn't sit still and admitting "I'll settle right now to get into a playoff," still wasn't out of the woods. Because out there making another run was the pressurized Kroll, a man who learned how to take it as a sergeant on Anzio beach.

Ted gave it the big try as he tried to cap his "long, hard scramble." He went ahead momentarily on the fourteenth with a birdie, lost that shot back with a bogey on the fifteenth—and then needed three pars in for a tie.

But once again the breaks went against the man from Fort Lauderdale, just as they did in the long ago when shrapnel cut him down in Italy. For Kroll missed his tee shot, smashed grimly forward and, when that horrible 16th hole was over, had hacked out a triple bogey seven.

That finished what was a real scrambling day for Middlecoff, because the man from Memphis almost kicked this one away after taking a one-stroke lead on the morning round with a 70. For as they went to it in the afternoon he looked like he was going to run away and hide—and he almost just ran away.

Because, going to the last three holes, Cary was two under par, and then he ran into a pair of frightening bogeys. Both times it was approach irons which went astray and then, on the 72nd hole he hooked his approach into the rough again.

But Middlecoff, who had said before the tournament "I'll take 281 and never leave the locker room," proved then that he was a real champion. Standing ankle deep in the rough, he flicked a wedge shot which rolled 60 feet across the green and bit to a stop a mere three feet from the pin. He ran it down for a par—and what finally proved to be his margin of victory.

It looked bad for a while, though.

There were 13,914 fairway fans — the biggest single-day crowd in open history—banked around the mighty Hogan as he came storming down to the wire. Hogan, shooting to break his four-victory tie with Bobby Jones and Willie Anderson, gave it a game try with a birdie on the fourteenth and he needed four pars home to tie.

Then came that three-foot putt on the seventeenth—and the crowd shifted back to Boros.

Boros, two shots back as he started the final round, was

Lane May Be Right, Fans Don't Think So.

FRANK LANE apparently has decided that the 1956 pennant race is a wide-open affair and that it's worth while to go all out for the immediate opportunity and never mind about the future.

Frank, of course, has a big edge over all the grandstand and press box managers. The managers in the stands have the voice, but Frank has the vote. Perhaps that's the way it should be. He sold himself to Gussie Busch as a baseball general manager and a general manager without full authority wouldn't be worth the big money it costs to have an experienced front office director.

It's most difficult, however, to persuade the volunteer and unsalaried grandstand manager, including this one, that the trades that have been made have improved the Cardinals, either for the future or for the 1956 pennant race.

It's true that the Cardinals needed a shortstop and a first baseman. And it's true that Alvin Dark should play a better shortstop than Don Blasingame has been playing and that Whitey Lockman should be a better defensive first baseman than Wally Moon.

However, there's another way of looking at the manipulation of the players and between phone calls from irate fans and nasty letters urging that Lane be exterminated, we keep looking at the picture that other way.

Take all the players involved in the transactions and put them in a pool. Play that you're the manager of the Cardinals and that you can pick five players from the pool for the team you are managing.

We'd Have an Outfield Better Than Mr. Lane's.

REAL quick, we'd pick Red Schoendienst, Bill Virdon, Bill Sarni, Harvey Haddix and Jackie Brandt.

We still might have infield problems, but we'd have a better outfield than Fred Hutchinson can field today. With Virdon in center and Brandt in left, Stan Musial wouldn't have to cover as much ground as he did when he was a young man. True, Stan can't throw even as well as he could a few years ago, but we'd have two strong-armed fly-chasers in Brandt and Virdon. And it would be possible to help that infield situation. Musial wouldn't protest if he switched back to first base and then we'd have a spot for Moon and-or Repulski. Wally and Repulski would make a pretty fair country platoon for one outfield post.

We wouldn't trade Haddix for any of the pitchers Lane acquired, though we would be glad to have Murry Dickson on the staff. Baseball men wouldn't hesitate to call Sarni a better catcher than Katt. And we don't consider the Cardinals are a sufficient pennant threat in 1956 to justify trading away Brandt, admittedly the best young outfield prospect the farm system has developed lately.

Lane does his own thinking and it's presumptuous, perhaps, to try to read his mind. But who minds being presumptuous now and then, especially when he has the nerve to make deals like that? It must be that Frank figures it would be a tremendous feather in his cap if he could change a seventh-place club into a pennant winner in less than a calendar year. Gussie Busch would be so happy he'd probably give Lane the pick of the Clydesdales, a span or three of Sicilian donkeys, anything else he wanted from the Grant's Farm zoo and substitute Lane's mug for the eagle in the company emblem. Then, when anybody hit a home run, Frank would grin in technicolor, flap his wings and thumb his nose at Chuck Comiskey.

What irks the grandstand managers, though, is that those five best players we'd skim off the pool, are all with other ball clubs, and we don't think the eagle, the Clydesdales or the donkeys have anything particularly to worry about.

And of course, Lane has another point. Nobody ever has asked us to be general manager and none of the other grandstand managers has reported a firm offer from any ball club.

GRIMM QUITS AS MANAGER OF BRAVES

NEW YORK, June 16 (AP)—Charley Grimm resigned tonight as manager of the Milwaukee Braves and was replaced immediately by Coach Fred Haney.

Haney was hired as a Milwaukee coach early this season after serving three years as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates and will head the Braves for the remainder of the season.

"He is filling out Charley's tenure," said Braves' president, Lou Perini. "He's not assured of anything. Time will tell how far he'll go."

Grimm said he had been offered the job of director of personnel procurement of the club.

"But I haven't decided whether I'll take it," he said. "I'm going to go back home and think it over."

Fails to Win Pennant.

Grimm, who had failed to bring a pennant to Milwaukee in three years at the helm, resigned after the Braves dropped a 3-2 decision to Brooklyn today for their 12th defeat in their past 17 games. This slump sent Milwaukee from first to fifth in the standings in 13 days.

Grimm made the announcement to newsmen himself at a meeting with club officials at a hotel here.

The 56-year-old Grimm, who piloted the Chicago Cubs to three pennants during his 40 years in baseball, stepped out with the Braves only four games out of first place.

CHARLEY GRIMM

The Braves' recent power dive from first place to fifth in their home stand concluded Thursday was believed to have triggered Grimm's decision.

Braves's owner, Lou Perini, known to crave a pennant this year, had for three consecutive "also ran" finishes, indicated just before the current season started that he was tired of the Braves's bridesmaid standing in the National League.

At a dinner for the Braves players a few days before the season's opener, Perini said "I will be a little disappointed if we don't win the pennant this year."

Last Year of Contract.

Grimm will be paid the remainder of his salary, said to call for $35,000 a year. This was Grimm's last year of a three-year contract.

Grimm, who compiled a lifetime batting average of .290 with the Philadelphia Athletics, Cardinals, Pittsburgh Pirates and Chicago Cubs over a span of 19 years was a great defensive first baseman, was named manager of the Braves in May of 1952. That was the year before the club switched from Boston to Milwaukee and its attendant turnstile gold mine. Perini plucked Grimm from the Braves' Milwaukee farm team after Grimm had nailed four pennants to the flagpole as pilot of the old Milwaukee Brewers of the American association.

The majors' most accomplished lefthanded banjo player led the Milwaukee version of the Braves from seventh place to second in 1953, third in 1954 and second again last year.

Rumors that "Jolly Cholly"—who never was heard to "blow his top" at his players—was to get the hook cropped up during the last two years. Reports that Perini, anxious to produce for the majors' best drawing city, was losing his patience, came to a head at the close of the 1955 season.

There was a shakeup — inspired it was said by Perini's desire to instill "fire" into what many regard as a docile club—in the coaching staff. Bucky Walters gave way as pitching coach to Charley Root and Haney replaced Johnny Cooney as Grimm's other aide.

Our Man Furgol Brooks No Nonsense

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

They called him "Furgol the Frogman" after Ed Furgol made this shot in the third round of the U.S. Open yesterday at Oak Hill Country Club in Rochester, N.Y. The Westwood Country Club pro took his bare feet and his rolled-up trousers and a trusty iron into the creek and stroked the ball back to dry land, at No. 13. Furgol finished in a three-way tie for fourth with 285. He had final-day rounds of 73 and 71.

PIRATES WIN SHORT GAME WITH 2 HITS OFF WEHMEIER

By Bob Broeg
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

PITTSBURGH, June 16—The Cardinals continued to be confused and confusing today. They were confused once more by the priceless pitching of Pittsburgh's Bob Friend and they were confusing with the most recent wrinkle in the new administration's Operation Shimmy-and-Shake.

Fewer than 48 hours after a four-for-four deal in which Whitey Lockman was obtained to fill a first base gap, it was said at the time, Stan Musial was moved in from the outfield to play the position and Lockman went to left. Hank Sauer was benched, Bobby Del Greco played center and Vally Moon, who had played center the first night after his rescue from first base, was moved to right.

Furthermore, Musial was demoted to fifth in the batting order and Moon promoted to third, but the mental gymnastics failed to keep the Cardinals from suffering a fourth straight defeat, a 2-0 seven-inning setback to the astounding Friend and incredible last-to-first Pirates in a rain-abbreviated ball game.

The Forbes Field phenoms are so successful putting one victory after another currently that they even contrived to beat their No. 1 nemesis, Herman Wehmeier, even though they collected only two hits.

Can't Bunt So He Homers.

Bobby Bragan's brilliant young Bucs might be too hot not to cool down, begging Cole Porter's pardon, but they're sizzling right now. They even turned failure into success this afternoon, for after Frank Thomas skipped a sharp bad-hopping single off Ken Boyer's glove in the second inning, Lee Walls twice was unable to sacrifice. Then the sturdy bespectacled outfielder who couldn't bunt leaned into a hanging curve and belted it over the ivy-draped brick wall in left field for a homer that gave Brother Friend one more run than he needed to win.

For Wehmeier, permitting only three base-runners in the six innings he hurled, the defeat was only his third in his last 23 decisions against his long-time Pittsburgh Patsies. Herm has a 2-4 record with the Redbirds after previously dropping two games with the Phillies this season.

Friend, meanwhile, extended to 27 his amazing string of scoreless innings against the Cardinals, who assembled eight hits, drew a walk, had the benefit of an error and still couldn't score against the remarkable young righthander. He has 11 victories against only three defeats and has a running start toward matching the mark for pitching supremacy over one club. Back in 1916 Grover Cleveland Alexander, then with the Phillies, shut out Cincinnati five times.

Opportunities Wasted.

The Cardinals had some dandy chances this time. Ken Boyer, for instance, walked to open the second inning. In the third the Redbirds filled the bases with two out on singles by Hal Smith and Lockman, who shared four safeties, and an error by Shortstop Dick Groat. However, Boyer, who had walked the time before and singled the next time, popped out.

In the fourth singles by Del Greco and Smith were wasted and in the sixth after Boyer and Musial opened with safeties and Del Greco bunted them into scoring position, Don Blasingame flied to shallow left field and Smith grounded out.

The seventh was most promising, too. With one out Lockman singled and stopped at third on a pop double squibbled over first base by Alvin Dark. Moon, failing for the second time in his promotion to the responsible third spot in the batting order, popped to short and Boyer lifted the belt-hitching Friend's fast ball a mile high—just in front of the plate.

When Musial started up to the plate to start the eighth, the skies opened. Rain still was falling an hour and 27 minutes later when the umpires called off a contest in which Manager Fred Hutchinson's unexpected shakeup saw Musial, who had been quoted as saying he preferred the less wear and tear of the outfield, return to first base and drop lower than third or fourth in the batting order for the first time. He's hitting .301, Moon .330.

"No," said the 35-year-old star, "I don't mind going back to first base if it'll help the

NEEDLES WINS BELMONT STAKES

Career Boy Is Second And Fabius Runs Third

NEW YORK, June 16 (UP)—Kentucky Derby champion Needles, with his famed stretch-running finish, won the eighty-eighth running of the $119,650 Belmont Stakes at Belmont Park today to win two segments of the shattered triple crown.

After trailing the field just as he did in the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness stakes, Needles started to run on the turn into the home stretch. Half-way through the straightaway he fought his way to the front and then withstood a gallant but futile challenge by C. V. Whitney's Career Boy to win the mile and one-half race by the length of his neck.

Calumet Farm's Fabius, which spoiled Needles' bid to become the ninth triple crown winner in American turf history when he beat Needles in the Preakness, was third.

Needles Tires.

With Dave Erb in the saddle—just as he was when Needles won the Flamingo Stakes, the Florida Derby and the Kentucky Derby—Needles appeared to tire slightly at the end of the gruelling race. But his rivals were just a little more fatigued.

Needles flashed under the finish line in 2:29 4-5, one of the fastest Belmont Stakes on record. But it still was 1 3-5 seconds slower than the stakes record set by County Fleet in 1943 and equalled by Citation in 1948.

The crowd of 32,441 shirt-sleeved fans backed Needles with confidence for the Florida-bred colt went to the post at about 3 to 5. Some of that confidence vanished as Needles dropped back to last in the field of seven three-year-olds before a sixteenth of a mile had been covered.

Down the back stretch Needles was about 20 lengths behind the pace-setting Charlevoix and then Fabius, but he was right there at the finish to collect a winner purse of $83,600 for D and H Stables.

Needles, which cost Jack Dudley and Bonnie Heath of the D & H Stables $20,000, raised

Golden and Contrares in Tennis Final At Triple A

By Harold Flachsbart

Francisco (Pancho) Contrares, the hard-hitting Mexican from the University of Southern California, and Grant Golden, 26-year-old Chicagoan who still has earnest hopes of making the U. S. Davis Cup squad, will meet for the Triple A Open tennis title this afternoon.

The 1 o'clock match will climax a six-day tournament in which oldsters and youngsters alike appeared from all parts of the country and South America and Mexico as well. There will be finals in seven divisions at the Triple A courts in Forest Park, beginning at 11 a.m. with the women's title match between Mrs. Merceina Parker of St. Louis and Mrs. Lucille Davidson of Kansas City.

Two National championships will be decided, one a duel scheduled at noon in which Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, the scrappy little shot specialist from Atlanta, Ga., will try to capture his second straight U.S. Senior singles clay court title when opposing David Freed of Salt Lake City, Utah. The other U.S. crown up for grabs is the Father-Son Doubles championship, in which Cecil (Sure-Shot) Powless and his son, John, of Flora, Ill., will oppose Clarence and Eddie Sledge of Dallas, Tex., the defending champions. That is slated for 2 o'clock.

Hot Time for All.

Tempers flared, rain drops fell hither and yon, and matches generally were hotly contested in an interesting Saturday program in which Golden, using sharp volleys, a smashing overhead and lazy drop shots as well, ousted Armando Vieira.

Needles, badly outrun for first mile, was eased to outside thereafter to circle his field when rallying, lost additional ground when being carried wide by Fabius through early stretch, put that one away under pressure inside furlong marker and was all out to hold Career Boy safe. Latter, taken in hand early and dropped far back, commenced to advance on rounding second turn, came to inside in stretch and was going strongly at the end. Fabius, held under light restraint while following in close pursuit of early leaders, raced wide on both turns, drew into a long lead on stretch turn and gave way suddenly a sixteenth out. Beau Diable, slow to settle in stride, made his bid after going a mile and while working his way between horses finished fastest of all. Ricci Tavi held on fairly well after showing good speed for first mile. Frosty Mr. was always outrun. Jazz Age raced wide on second turn and lacked the necessary rally. Charlevoix saved ground while showing the way for first seven furlongs.

Strong Ukrainian Team Blocks Kutis's Path to Soccer Title

Meet Here In First Of 2 Games

By Dent McSkimming

Four members of the United States Olympic soccer squad will be in the lineup of the Kutis team when it faces the Ukrainians of Philadelphia here this afternoon in the national Amateur championship final. Herman Wecke, Harry Keough, Bill Looby and Ruben Mendoza, the Olympic selectees, give the St. Louis team a hard core of experience that should prove valuable in this match against the completely strange, unfamiliar visitors.

The second game of the final series will be played at Philadelphia next Sunday, total goals in the two games to win the title.

Today's match will be at Public Schools Stadium, starting at 2:30, with no preliminary. A Milwaukee referee who had extensive league experience in Germany, Julius Riepze, will handle the game, assisted by two local linesmen.

Seven Are Students.

The young players forming the Philadelphia team are all recent arrivals in this country, natives of that southeastern Europe area, the Ukraine, now incorporated in the U.S.S.R. Seven of their starting players are students at Philadelphia colleges and another (the outside left) is a graduate veterinarian.

Perhaps not all are as skilled as the little redheaded player, Zenon Snylyk of Chicago, the transplanted Ukrainian who starred in the United States Olympic trials here last February, but all were subjected to the same intensive soccer training as schoolboys. Soccer is their favorite, and in most cases, their only athletic endeavor.

In advancing to the eastern United States amateur championship, the Ukrainians upset some good clubs including Baltimore's colorful Pompeii; Fall River's Ponta Delgada and the Harmarville (Pa.) Hurricanes. The first game of the eastern final series, at Harmarville, was described in press reports as "one of the roughest games ever played in West Pennsylvania. Finally, the Philadelphians came off with a 3-3 draw at Harmarville and then beat the Hurricanes in the return match at Philadelphia, 2-1, in overtime. Harmarville, as St. Louis soccer followers know, earlier captured the United States Open Cup. This adds up to a very high recommendation for the Ukrainians.

Kutis has had a less spectacular passage to the national final. Four early-round victories were scored over local teams, three were over Dallas and Chicago clubs.

All but one of Kutis's starting players figured in the brilliant 3-0 victory over Schwaben of Augsburg here one month ago. Two others who starred in that game (Bob Rooney and Tom Julius) are not eligible under Amateur Cup rules. They signed professional baseball contracts, hence can't play for the national amateur soccer title.

Scoring Leaders.

The local team's two scoring leaders, Bill Looby and Ruben Mendoza, will carry the attacking load against the Philadelphia team. Looby has scored 12 of his team's 35 goals in the seven Amateur games. Mendoza tallied 7, Butch Cook 5 and Freddie Vasquez 4. Oscar Corona, the other starting forward, tallied one goal, a very important one against the Eagles at Chicago. That's a total of 29 in seven games for the five forwards who start today.

Philadelphia's scoring punch is concentrated in Center Forward Ihor Chyzowycz, but Outside Right Bohdan Cenyk scored the goal that beat Harmarville in the replay. Dr. John Pawlichka, the veterinarian and left winger, scored the only goal of the game last Sunday as the Ukrainians defeated Philadelphia Phoenix in an important eastern Pennsylvania league match.

Only Dr. Pawlichka and Center Halfback Wolodymyr Harasym are veterans; the doctor 35, Harasym 33. Inside Right Wolodymyr Chyzowycz, at 17, is the youngest on either team, six others of the visitors starting eleven are under 21.

The national Junior soccer final will be played here next Sunday night, June 24 with St. Engelbert representing St. Louis against Heidelberg (Pa.), eastern champions. . . . The Ukrainians were knocked out of the National Open Cup competition by the Uhriks of Philadelphia, 2-1. . . . Uhriks are regarded as the top Open team of the New York-Philadelphia area, champions of the American Soccer League. . . . They played Kutis a 2-2 draw here at the start of the past season in one of the best of the local club's intercity exhibition series.

Melvin Merz, of 6902 Dale ave., a cadet at the Air Force Academy at Denver, received an award for his performance on the Academy's soccer team which finished second in the Rocky Mountain Intercollegiate League.

Grant Takes Respite

Golden and Contrares In Feature of Seven Triple A Tennis Finals

the smooth Brazilian champion from Sao Paulo, 9-7, 7-5.

Earlier, Contrares, the No. 2 man on the Trojan team which this week moves to the National Collegiate tourney at Kalamazoo, Mich., needed only 40 minutes to defeat a promising United States junior player, 16-year-old Eddie Sledge, 6-2, 6-2.

Vieira, at 30 an experienced international player with lots of court savvy, even if he doesn't use the "big game" volleys and net-rushing of Golden and Contrares, didn't take his loss too kindly. He was irritated by children in the stands and at a couple of calls made by Umpire John Fowler, working without the aid of linesmen. And at the finish, he and Golden, who poured over a steaming service ace for the clinching point, had words.

Those words continued loud and hot into the locker room but no blows were struck and some 45 minutes later the two had to take the court as doubles partners in a semifinal against Contrares and Alex Olmedo of Lima, Peru, the No. 1 man on the U.S.C. team.

"This ought to be a hell of a doubles match," Golden quipped as he passed the officials' table.

Armistice and Defeat.

Even though they were back on speaking terms after one set, Vieira and Golden lost the match, 6-1, 6-4, and the Contrares-Olmedo team at 4 o'clock today will meet Art Andrews of Iowa City, Ia., and Crawford Henry of Atlanta, Ga., who eliminated St. Louis's Al Holtmann and Carl Noble of Danville, Ill., 6-1, 6-2.

Bitsy Grant, scrappy little shot specialist who was entering the top 10 in America as Bill Tilden was fading out, had a narrow squeak as he labored his way to the final. He just lasted to edge Jack Staton of St. Petersburg, Fla., 7-5, 9-7, despite several service losses.

In the end Bitsy was just too steady for Staton, who didn't start playing tennis until nine years ago and who won this senior national title in 1954, the year before Grant was eligible. Bitsy still covers the court better than 90 per cent of the players much younger than he is, but his legs and wind aren't what they used to be. Bitsy will be 46 next Christmas day.

Long and Short Court at Triple A

TRIPLE A tennis officials were somewhat embarrassed to find, after several days' competition in their tournament, that two of the courts were off "a couple of feet" in measurement.

A tape measure disclosed that the courts just west of the clubhouse were two feet longer on one side of the net than on the other.

In addition, the base line wasn't even straight. The variance from net to baseline was less than two feet in some places and more than two feet in others, meaning that some of the national matches were played on a pentagonal surface.

"No wonder I hit so many balls out," was the cry of not one—but almost all the losers on those courts.

De Marco Gains Clear Decision Over Martinez

BOSTON, June 16 (UP)—Brawling Tony DeMarco shook off five rounds of stinging lefts and finally made his pier-side projects pay off tonight for a unanimous decision over Vince Martinez in a battle of welterweight hopefuls at Fenway Park.

DeMarco was practically a sitting duck for the cool Martinez' setup lefts and short jabbing rights for the first five rounds. Then the 23-year-old Boston North Ender, constantly stalking, rushing and slashing, caught up with his older foe to make the last five rounds "big."

Judges Joe Santoro had it 91-87 and John Norton scored the full-speed 10-rounder 98-95 for the winner. Referee Jimmy McCarron's card read 96-93 for DeMarco and the United Press tallied it 91-89.

Both fighters weighed 146¾ for the open air match staged before an estimated crowd of 12,000. The fight was neither televised or broadcast.

The closest thing to knockdown in the "half and half" bout was a slip by each man, De Marco in the fourth as he lunged with one of his targetless right and Martinez in the ninth when he missed connecting.

DeMarco, the former welter titlist, was fighting his first match since a knockout win over over Lightweight Champ Wallace (Bud) Smith and he showed his style had not changed one bit. He contiinually ran after the Paterson, N.H., sharpie, but Martinez kept him at bay with his buils-eye left jab.

It was De Marco's 44th triumph in 51 professional bouts and only Martinez's fourth licking in 54 ring battles.

A.A.U. Making Poll To Get Suggestions to Revise Amateur Code

NEW YORK, June 16 (UP)—The Amateur Athletic Union is polling sports writers, meet directors and other track authorities for suggestions on possible revisions of the general rules pertaining to the amateur code.

This questionnaire resulted from a controversy which arose from the suspension of miler Wes Santee.

club. I don't believe it'll bother me."

Manager Hutchinson, obviously concerned about his outfield's over-all limited ground coverage and mediocre throwing, presumably felt he had strengthened by taking Musial out of the outer defense, but the realignment still left it far from topflight.

How About Repulski?

For instance, in answer to a question he said he preferred Moon in right field over Lockman because of alleged stronger throwing by Moon. Yet, when Wally joined Musial and Sauer in the St. Louis outfield Friday, the night Dark and Lockman made their Redbird debut, Manager Bragan of Pittsburgh reportedly told his players:

"When you hit to that outfield, go for two (bases)".

The strong-armed ballhawking Del Greco's appearance in center field is certain to help defensively, but his light-hitting is likely to create another problem, Hutchinson acknowledged. Asked what he'd do when Rip Repulski, the league's leading batter, is ready to return to duty, Hutch said:

"I might have to platoon him and Lockman in left field, or play the one who is hitting."

Yes, Operation Shimmy-and-Shake has become a little confusing, as confusing as Pittsburgh's Bob Friend's priceless pitching is to the Cardinals.

redbird notes

PITTSBURGH, June 16 — In Sunday's doubleheader the Cardinals will pitch Tom (3-4) Poholsky and either Willard (3-3) Schmidt or Don (1-2) Liddle, just obtained from the Giants, against Vernon (2-6) Law and Luis (2-0) Arroyo, ex-Redbird lefthander who beat his former teammates a week ago at St. Louis.

Bill Virdon received the Sporting News Award as 1955 National League rookie of the year. The presentation was made in pregame ceremonies by Pie Traynor, the Pirates' Hall of Fame third baseman, on behalf of Publisher J. G. Taylor Spink.

The bespectacled Virdon, batting .304 at Pittsburgh since General Manager Frank Lane traded him in mid-May, was accompanied by his parents, who were flown here for the occasion by the Chamber of Commerce of West Plains, Mo., his home town. The player's wife and two small daughters also were present.

"I want to thank the St. Louis Cardinals for having given me the opportunity to win The Sporting News award," said Virdon, "and I want to assure Pittsburgh fans I'll do my very best to help keep the Pirates on top."

A wise guy on the Cardinal roster, overhearing a conversation in which it was mentioned that Red Schoendienst had hit a two-run pinch homer in his New York debut, said sarcastically, "Well, I guess he got a fast ball belt high."

Someone else countered, just as sarcastically, suggesting that Red had stayed in the big leagues 12 years by hitting more than just belt-high fast balls. Schoendienst will be long remembered after the wise guy is long forgotten.

Indians Put Woodling Back on Active List

CLEVELAND, O., June 16 (UP) — The Cleveland Indians today reinstated Outfielder Gene Woodling to the active list and optioned Outfielder Rocky Colavito to San Diego of the Pacific Coast League on 24-hour recall.

Woodling was placed on the disabled list a month ago due to recurring headaches and dizzy spells. The former New York Yankee outfielder apparently has completely recovered after treatment in a New Jersey hospital.

Needles Wins Belmont, Career Boy Second

his lifetime earnings to $570,655 as he paid $3.30, $2.40 and $2.10 across the board. Career Boy, under the guidance of Jockey Eric Guerin, paid $2.90 and $2.20 while Fabius, with Paul Bailey riding, paid $2.30.

The race was run in two sections until the field hit the turn into the stretch.

Charlevoix, Fabius, and Ricci Tavi, raced in a close knot up front. Then there was a gap of about 15 lengths to the second flight led by Jazz Age, another Whitney runner, with Needles at the very tail end of the parade.

But once he started to run Needles came fast.

Needles Tries to Stop.

Erb guided Needles inside Frosty Mr. and then around the rest of the field to zoom into fourth place as Needles reached the head of the stretch. Fabius, Career Boy and Ricci Tavi still were ahead of him.

In short order Needles took care of Ricci Tavi, Career Boy was next to go but there still was fight left in this gallant colt. Finally, with less than an eighth of a mile left, Needles roared into the lead. Fabius was a tired horse and no longer could keep up.

Then suddenly Needles tried to stop with only a sixteenth of a mile to go. Career Boy, now along the rail, still was fighting on. Erb went to the whip in desperation and Needles managed to outrun Career Boy in the last few strides.

"Needles thought he had the race won at the 16th pole and he started to pull up," Erb admitted after the race. "I had to work hard on him and he responded."

Beau Diable was fourth with Ricci Tavi, Frosty Mr., Jazz Age and Charlevoix completing the field in that order.

Snider's Homer Beats Braves; Yankees Down Indians, 3 to 1

BETWEEN ROUNDS

by W. J. McGoogan

School for Boxing Officials in Chicago.

TWO of the three members of the Illinois Athletic Commission are former professional referees, since Frank Gilmer's appointment to succeed Livingston Osborne as chairman. And the third member, Lou Radzienda, who is also president of the National Boxing Association, has done considerable work as the third man in the ring, too.

As a result, the Commission has decreed a training program for Illinois officials. This idea was advanced by Johnny Behr, former coach of the Chicago Golden Gloves team and physical director of the Illinois Athletic Club, who refereed, among other bouts, the second Tony Zale-Rocky Graziano fight in Chicago.

Under the new order of the commission, all referees and judges are required to attend matches in Chicago, when they are not working, and to score all fights.

"We don't expect to get all score cards uniform," said Gilmer, to the Associated Press, "but we certainly would like to avoid a situation where all three officials are far apart in their scoring.

"There are no more small clubs operating in Chicago and the Stadium has about five to eight shows a year. That means fight officials aren't getting too much experience. A referee, especially, needs to watch and work fights regularly to keep his reflexes and judgment sharp."

After several shows have been scored by observing officials, a "classroom" study will be held by the commission to study the scoring results and determine who was consistent and who was off base.

This plan, if it proves successful in Chicago, likely will be copied elsewhere and should result in better scoring by boxing officials.

Gilmer, himself, was in the center of a hot one in April when, as referee of the Carmen Basilio-Johnny Saxton welterweight championship match, he voted for Saxton in the split verdict which stripped Basilio of his crown.

In Public Eye.

ONE thing is sure, attention of the country has been riveted on the scoring of boxing bouts. And it is quite likely that out of all the welter of opinion may come a more satisfactory manner of deciding winners.

Walter McGinnis, Alhambra, Calif., puts forth his ideas in a nine-page document which he declares will simplify and make more accurate scoring of boxing.

And the "office referee" states his views in six paragraphs which could be boiled down to two words "effective punching."

That there has been great dissatisfaction on the part of the public with decisions is quite evident.

In the recent bout in New York in which Floyd Patterson gained a split decision over Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, Harry Kessler, the referee, cast the dissenting view from the judges. Harry thought Jackson had won and explained that he scores fights by the clock. That is, he thought Jackson should have been credited with winning two minutes out of the three of many rounds.

That was where Harry made his mistake, if he was mistaken, and most observers think that he was.

It is the same as saying that a ball club which put more men on base in eight of nine innings but failed to score should win over the team whose players were kept off base most of the innings but managed to score.

Reds Nick Giants to End Slump

BROOKLYN, June 16 (UP) —Duke Snider's fifteenth home run of the season on Ernie Johnson's first pitch in the eighth inning broke a 2-2 tie and gave the Brooklyn Dodgers their sixth straight victory, 3-2 over the Milwaukee Braves today.

It was Brooklyn's tenth victory in its last 12 games. Snider's homer came shortly after the Braves had ended a seven-inning scoring drouth by tying the game with a pair of runs off starter Roger Craig and reliever Clem Labine.

The victory kept the Dodgers one game behind the National League-leading Pittsburgh Pirates.

Third-place Cincinnati snapped a four-game losing streak when it defeated the New York Giants, 3-1, on Rookie Frank Robinson's sacrifice fly with the bases full in the eleventh inning.

In the American League, Mickey Mantle blasted his twenty-fourth home run, enabling Pitcher Tom Sturdivant of the New York Yankees to gain a 3-1 night victory over the Cleveland Indians. Sturdivant yielded only two safeties and struck out 11. Herb Score was the loser before 40,964 fans at Cleveland.

Gene Stephens singled to center in the twelfth to score Dave Sisler from second base and give the Boston Red Sox a 6-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The Chicago White Sox, cossting behind Jack Harshman's four-hit pitching, whipped the Washington Senators, 7-0.

Johnny Temple singled to open the eleventh for Cincinnati at the Polo Grounds. Bob Thurman walked. Gus Bell's sacrifice bunt advanced both men. Ted Kluszewski was purposely walked. Robinson, who drove in Cincinnati's first run, then hit a fly to center field and Temple beat Willie Mays's throw to the plate. Thurman scored when Al Worthington, who went all the way for the Giants, uncorked a wild pitch.

Wiffi Smith Reaches French Golf Final

PARIS, June 16 (UP) — Margaret (Wiffi) Smith of St. Clair, Mich., gained the final of the French women's international golf championship today by scoring two victories and will play Angela Ward of Britain tomorrow for the title.

The 19-year-old Miss Smith who starred in a losing cause for the United States Curtis Cup team last week in England, scored a 4 and 3 victory over Mrs. J. Prion of Belgium in the quarter-finals this morning. The American then defeated Miss Arletta Jacquet of Belgium, 3 and 2, in the semi-finals.

Signal Event—Chicago Clubs Sign Quarterbacks

CHICAGO, June 16 (AP) — The Chicago Bears and the Chicago Cardinals today announced that two 1955 quarterbacks have been signed for 1956.

For the Bears it was George Blanda, who is ready for his eighth season with the club. He scored 82 points last season. He holds the National Football League record for consecutive points after touchdown—143.

For the Cardinals it was Ogden Compton, who was tutored by Sammy Baugh at Hardin-Simmons College in 1952. In 1954, his first season with the Cardinals, he completed 22 of 61 attempted passes.

Roving Rovero.

Dartmouth's Lou Rovero gained 108 yards against Harvard and 124 against Cornell in Ivy League games last season. He's a left halfback.

Styrunner Wins in Fairmount Handicap

By Herman Wecke

Mrs. A. M. Creech's Styrunner, scored a smashing six-lengths triumph in the $15,000 Fairmount Handicap last night.

The horse which ran second in the 1955 St. Louis derby and was ridden last night by John Heckmann, took the lead in the stretch, passing French Blue, and after that won as it pleased.

Second choice in the betting, Styrunner paid off at $7, $4 and $3.40. M. H. Van Berg's Rivergate was second and Lord Henry, owned by a St. Louis woman, Mrs. Elizabeth Muckler, was third.

The mutuel handle on the race was $64,501 of which $9489 was in the win pool.

Earlier during the evening, the stewards allowed a claim of interference which resulted in Jo Time getting the decision in the fifth race, over Began, placed second because of interference on the back stretch.

The win price on Jo Time, ridden by L. Meaux, was $20 for a $2 ticket. Bogan, second choice, refunded $5.60 and $4.00.

C. Meaux registered his forty-third victory of the meeting, scoring with How Bouthat in the third race. The win price was $5.20.

The Daily Double on Old Frank and Copper River refunded $129.80.

A crowd of 11,015, attracted by the $15,000 Fairmount Handicap, watched the eight-race program.

Crucial County Game in Legion Play Thursday

A newcomer in the American Legion Junior baseball ranks—the Cecil Ritchey Post of Vinita Park—could gain some important ground in the County League this week.

The squad recruited from Normandy-Wellston - Ferguson-Fairview area which formerly played under the Pine Lawn banner could take over first place with a pair of victories. Vinita will play Kirkwood at Maplewood Tuesday and then oppose Thomann-Boothe at Heman Park Thursday.

Vinita has a 3-1 record, the same as Thomann-Boothe, the 1955 state champion which was jarred by a 6-3 loss to Creve-Coeur. Overland's game Tuesday will be against Missouri-Pacific at Heman Park.

In the city race, the Stockhams appear well on their way to the championship with a 4-0 record in a season which goes 10 games. The leaders play Rallo-Galcaterra Tuesday and St. Louis No. 4 Thursday at Fairground. Rallo and St. Louis are 1-3.

Aubuchon-Dennison, now second with 3-1, takes on Anheuser-Busch Tuesday and Gardenville-Affton Thursday.

Middlecoff Has 281 To Capture U.S. Open

even par through 13 holes and then, needing two birdies for a tie, he banged one home on the fourteenth hole. Now he needed only one and the roar of the crowd split the heavens as, on the 449-yard last hole, he smashed the ball to within 14 feet of the pin. But Boros couldn't quite get it down.

Now there was only Kroll left. When they started the last 18 holes broad-shouldered Ted stood only one shot back. His chances looked bright as he played like a mechanical man, shooting 10 straight pars and slamming home a birdie on the eleventh.

Almost automatically, Kroll stroked out two more pars and he had the coveted Open in his pocket when he birdied the fourteenth. Now all he needed was par for four holes and he was the champion. But he bogeyed the fifteenth and now it was par for a tie.

Then the roof fell in. He triple bogeyed the sixteenth, bogeyed the seventeenth and finished up with a heart-broken par for a 35-38—73 and a 285 total.

Pitt's Arnie Sowell Breaks U.S. 800-Meters Mark; O'Brien Wins Discus

10 Records In NCAA Meet Fall

BERKELEY, Calif., June 16 (AP) — Pittsburgh's speedy Arnie Sowell bettered the American record in the 800-meter run at the NCAA championships today while Abilene Christian's Bobby Morrow captured both the 100 and 200-meter sprints.

Villanova's Ron Delany furnished another feature in the University of California's Edwards stadium as he shattered the meet record for 1500 meters in outrunning Oregon's Jim Bailey.

UCLA won the team championships, ousting the University of Southern California which has held the title for seven years.

UCLA had 55.7 points, Kansas 50, and USC 34½.

Highlights of the two-day meet were many as ten NCAA meet records fell, with the collegians trying to win places in the final Olympic tryouts at Los Angeles, June 29-30. The top six United States finishers in each event here compete at Los Angeles.

Dave Sime, the great Duke sprinter, placed second to Morrow in the 100 meters but pulled up lame in the 200. Sime had never lost a sprint until this meet.

In all, meet records fell in the 1500-meter run, shot put, hop, step and jump, hammer throw, 10,000-meter run, 110-meter hurdles, 400-meter hurdles, steeplechase, 200-meter dash, and 800 meters.

The best mark of the day was Sowell's 1:46.7 in the 800, clipping a tenth of a second off the American record set last year by Fordham's Tom Courtney. It smashed the NCAA mark of 1:49.5, also by Courtney.

Morrow outran Sime in the 100 but the Duke sprinter couldn't finish the 200 because of a pulled groin muscle suffered as he rounded the curve.

Won't Run in 200.

Sime qualified for the Olympic trials in the 100 but his coach, Red Lewis, said he won't be able to go in the 200 at the AAU finals at Bakersfield next week, the last chance to win a place in the trials.

Morrow, only double winner of the day, ran the 200 in 20.6, breaking the NCAA mark of 20.7 and tying the American record at that distance around a curve. Dick Blair of Kansas was second and Bobby Whilden of Texas third.

Three men tied in the high jump at 6 feet 6¼ inches—Phil Reavis of Villanova, Bob Lang of Missouri and Nick Dyer of UCLA.

St. Louis's Charles Batch, representing the University of Missouri, finished seventh in the 400-meter hurdles with a time of 54.7 and qualified for the Olympic tryouts.

Aubrey Lewis of Notre Dame set the 400-meter hurdle mark of 51 second flat, eclipsing the record of 51.7 by Bob Devinney of Kansas set four years ago.

Fourth place in the meet went to Michigan State with 29 points, followed by Abilene Christian 25, Villanova 24, Oregon 20, Michigan 19.7, Oklahoma A&M 19 and Manhattan 17.

Sime Loses, Pulls Leg Muscle

—United Press Telephoto.

DAVE SIME (foreground) of Duke U., who had never lost a sprint, was beaten twice at Berkeley, Calif., yesterday. He is shown here finishing second in the 100-meters. Later, Sime was beaten in the 200-meters. Bobby Morrow of Abilene Christian (Texas) won both sprints. Sime told reporters he had pulled a muscle in his groin, hoped to be back in shape for the final Olympic trials next week.

Sets Pace In Olympic Team Bid

LOS ANGELES, June 16 (AP) —The Air Force's Parry O'Brien today won the discus throw to make it a double weight victory in the interservice track and field championships.

O'Brien, who bettered his own world shotput record last night, threw the discus 173 feet, 9½ inches.

Des Koch, also of the Air Force, was second at 170-10½; Al Thompson of the Navy, third, 163 feet.

O'Brien, former University of Southern California ace, uncorked a shotput of 61-4 to lead three serviceman qualifiers for the final Olympic trials here June 29-30.

Bob Mathias of the Marines, 1948 and 1952 Olympic decathlon champion, won his specialty handily although not eligible for this year's trip to Melbourne.

Competing in only nine of the 10 events, Mathias scored 7193 points, far outdistancing Jim Klein of the Air Force, who was second with 6234 points.

Ken Kelly, Army, was third with 6081 and Hubert Moore, Marines, fourth, with 5899 points.

Mathias, now a professional, stayed out of the decathlon 1500-meter run to save himself for the regular competition in the discus throw. He warmed up for that event with a discus flip of 160 feet 2¼ inches in the decathlon.

He also threw the javelin 204 feet, 1¼ inches, best of his career.

Mathias's points counted in the meet scoring table, but as far as the AAU and the Olympic committee are concerned, Klein and Kelly are the top decathlon hopes from the military service.

Dazzling 400.

The Army's Lou Jones raced a dazzling 400 meters in 45.7 to beat Jim Lea of the Air Force.

Jones, former Manhattan College star, repeated his 1955 Pan-American Games victory over Lea and equaled the fastest time for the distance in the United States. He was three-tenths behind his own world mark of 45.4 set in the Pan-American race.

Lea was clocked in 46 seconds flat. Tom Courtney, Army's 800-meter winner yesterday, finished third in :46.7. Lon Spurrier of the Air Force was fourth, :46.9.

It was believed to be the fastest four-man finish in an American metric quarter.

Jones was one of many army stars to lead Olympic servicemen qualifiers for the final trials here two weeks hence. Army won the team title with 91 points. The Air Force, led by double winner Parry O'Brien, was second with 48½. The Navy finished third with 40½, and the Marines trailed with 29.

The Marines' Wes Santee held back for 2½ laps and then romped past the field in the 1500 meters to win in 3:47.3, a new meet record, but nearly five seconds behind his own best mark. Art Dalzell and Lowell Zellers, both of the Army, were second and third.

Santee's performance eased the sting of his thumping defeat by Courtney in the 800 meters.

The top three finishers in each event, exclusive of the pros, qualified for the final Olympic trials.

Three Records Stand.

The two-day meet saw all previous meet records except three broken. Only the high and broad jumps and the hop, step and jump standards remained intact.

Today's crowd of 5062 got its biggest kicks in the closing 400 meter event. Lea, who ran 45.7 at Compton June 1, jumped off to a short lead in the first 200 meters, but the powerful Jones forged ahead by three yards at the 300-meter mark.

Lea surged again with a magnificent effort, closed one yard in the stretch, but then hung there. Jones won by a clear two yards.

Gets Air Force Award.

The Air Force Academy at Denver has announced that Cadet John Reeves has been awarded a freshman numeral in intercollegiate sports. A St. Louisan, Reeves competed in both singles and doubles for the Academy Tennis team.

By Harold Tuthill

"What would happen if nobody purchased a win ticket on the winner in a horse race? Has this ever happened either at tracks near St. Louis or in the United States? Also, what happens when nobody picks the winning combination on the daily double pool?" Al Walser, 2303 Shenandoah.

Paul D. Halphen, manager of the mutuels department at Fairmount Park, said that in the event no ticket was sold on the winner of the race, all the straight money goes to the horse which is placed second.

Regarding the daily double, Halphen explained it this way: In the event 2-2 should win and no ticket was out on the combination, all those who had No. 2 in the first race with any other in the second race would collect; all those with No. 2 in the second, coupled with any horse in the first race, also would collect.

Halphen could not remember either of the above situations occurring at a recognized track.

"Runners on first and second base. Batter hit ground ball to second baseman who stepped on second forcing runner formerly on first. Runner who had been on second continued on home. On this force play was batter credited with a run batted in?" Victor E. Zeller, 5308 Fletcher.

Yes, unless the force play resulted in the third out in which case the run would not count and no run batted in credited to the batter.

Wightman Cup Victory by U.S. Delayed by Rain

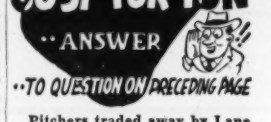

WIMBLEDON, England, June 16 (UP)—Rain halted America's march to its twentieth straight Wightman Cup triumph today by washing out the last four matches of the twenty-eighth series between the top women tennis players of the United States and Britain. The contests were rescheduled for Monday.

The day-long downpour only delayed almost certain United States victory. The Americans swept the first three matches Friday for a 3-0 lead and needed to take only one of the last four to win the series for the twenty-fourth time.

Lovenguth's No-Hitter Wins for Toronto

TORONTO, June 17 (AP)—Righthander Lynn Lovenguth tonight became the first Toronto to Maple Leaf pitcher to hurl a nine inning no-hit, no-run game since 1939. Lovenguth pitched to only 29 batters as the Leafs defeated the Richmond Virginians 8-0 in the International League.

The 32-year-old pitcher, who joined the Leafs a few weeks ago from the Philadelphia Phillies organization, walked three batters and struck out seven.

Pitchers traded away by Lane had a combined 17-5 record through Saturday's games. Hurlers obtained by the Redbirds showed a 10-9 mark. Records with their new clubs are: Lawrence 7-0, Arroyo 2-0, LaPalme 2-1, Haddix and Stu Miller 3-2; Collum 3-1, Kinder 2-0, Dickson 3-3, Wehmeier 2-4, Littlefield (with Cards) 0-2.

Champion Goalby to Face Keen Competition in District

GOLF by ROBERT MORRISON

Club Illini and 19th Hole.

SOMETIMES paths and wires get crossed. When the Illinois U. football staff gathered for an afternoon of golf at St. Clair Country Club in Belleville, there were no lulls in the conversation and it was well mixed.

Line Coach Burt Ingwersen, who is as eager a baseball fan as anybody, was wondering about the latest Cardinal trade—like everybody else. As for golf, there were a few groans from old athletes who walked with one leg shorter than the other after touring St. Clair's uneven terrain.

But showers had cut short the golf and in the evening, the telecast of the Cardinal-Pirate game quieted the baseball-minded, and so there was a moment of football talk after all.

Head Coach Ray Eliot, however, was having none of it. He played a see-nothing, hear-nothing, say-nothing game.

When somebody stuck an Illini football schedule card in front of his face, he held his hands over his eyes, then grabbed the card and tore it to pieces in mock terror. You had to read only as far as Ohio State at Champaign Oct. 13 and Michigan State at Champaign Oct. 27 to know why.

Then somebody else began to sing, "California, Here We Come," and Eliot held his hands over his ears.

But from Champaign the word is that if they can solve the quarterback and lack-of-depth-at-end problems, there may be something stirring come November and the stretch portion of the Big Ten race.

That's the word, but alumnus Norm Gundlach cautions that it's better to wait and see who'll be scholastically eligible come fall. The final tally on the second semester is just being completed and there may be summer school make-up work for some.

Surprise Attack.

CLARENCE VOIGT, St. Clair assistant pro, was talking about Bob Goalby, Belleville's St. Louis District Amateur champion who will defend his title at Algonquin this week.

"Yes, I heard about his getting nervous during the Western Amateur and his putting troubles, and it was a little surprising," Voight added.

"In friendly matches here he was never nervous before. If he needed a 10-foot putt on the last hole to win, he would just step right up and tap it in. But it's something he'll probably get over with more tournament play."

Goalby is getting quite a bit of tournament play this season. He's at Carmi, Ill., this weekend for the Southern Illinois title meet, and after the district tournament, he'll head for the Illinois state championship at Champaign the following week.

If he goes far in all of these events, Goalby could get his fill of tournament golf for a while. But he still has in mind trying to qualify for the National Amateur in late summer, and he also is likely to go to the Cobb Memorial tournament at Paducah, Ky., in August.

After having spent a considerable time in Florida during the winter, Belleville Bob should have a good idea of what he can do in this amateur game when he finishes this season. But he has had to bear down like this because he hadn't played much tournament golf up to a couple of years ago.

Social Climber Wins

INGLEWOOD, Calif., June 16 (AP)—Social Climber came with a rush in the stretch to win the $35,000 El Dorado handicap at Hollywood Park today. The Llangollen Farm's colt drove between horses to grab the lead and hold off Count Chic in the final rush. Blen Host, the pace setter, finished hird. Top-weighted Terrang finished ninth in the 11-horse field.

Algonquin Scene of Golf Title Tourney

By Robert Morrison

Bob Goalby, the 26-year-old automobile salesman from Belleville who took the District Amateur golf trophy to the East Side a year ago, should find competition aplenty in his title defense at Algonquin this week.

A district tournament field of 156 that includes most of the strong contenders in the recent Missouri Amateur at Meadow Brook will begin qualifying Tuesday in the St. Louis championship.

Bob Barton, surprise winner of the state crown, and five other state quarterfinalists are in the field shooting for match-play berths in the two-day, 36-hole qualifying contest.

Goalby is exempt from qualifying and has indicated to tournament officials that he will take his automatic No. 1 spot without trying to shoot for the medal honor. He is scheduled to play each day, however.

Jim Jackson Is Out.

Walker Cupper Jim Jackson, who hasn't played in the District in five years, is the most notable absentee. He will be busy this week at Oklahoma City trying to win a third straight Trans-Mississippi title, a not too probable development because Jackson has been off his game so far this year.

The district tournament nevertheless has a lot of class and presents, among others, Meadow Brook's 24-year-old Gene Spilker, who defeated Jackson in a second-round state match, 3 and 2. Spilker went on to the quarterfinals where he lost to Jefferson City's Jim Tom Blair.

Ken Heilemann of Greenbriar, Milton Frank of University City, Joe Switzer of Old Warson and Mel Wilke of Glen Echo are other 1956 state quarterfinalists in the district play.

Another man to mark well, however, will be the greatest winner the district championship ever has had—43-year-old Bob Cochran, who despite back trouble is playing better than he has for several seasons.

Former Champions.

Cochran, who won his first District title 23 years ago and his most recent of six crowns in 1948, said he expects to return in time from a business trip to be able to compete in this 37th annual St. Louis tournament.

In the recent state tournament Cochran was beaten by the title-defending Blair, who was one under par in that match. Blair in losing the final to Barton was eight over par.

Besides Cochran, former champions in the district event are Les Slattery Jr. (1954), Jonas Weiss (1951 and 1939), Jack Geiss (1950), Heilemann (1949) and Elliott (Cotton) Whitbread (1930 and 1936).

After qualifying play Tuesday and Wednesday, 18-hole match play through Friday will determine the finalists who will play their 36-hole title match Sunday.

Binghamton Team Wins Handicap Pin Tourney

The McFarlands of Binghamton totalled 3171 to win the first prize of $6000 in the national team handicap bowling tourney of the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America, recently held at Dayton, Ohio. The Bouchards of Louisville, Ky., finished second and the Lantz quintet of Greenville, O., third.

In the singles competition, Ernest Peia of Secaucus, N. J., totalled 1006 to win the $500 top prize. Ted Karris, Cuyahoga Falls, O., was second with 938 and Robert Morris, Conneaut, O., 934, third.

Benefit for Kids' Baseball.

The Berkeley Youth Activities Association will hold a benefit carnival at Jackson Park Thursday through next Sunday. All proceeds will be used to buy uniforms and other kids' baseball equipment.

Practicing for competition in the newly projected St. Louis Water Polo League are members of the Shaw Park team in their pool at Clayton. They will join teams from the Downtown Y., Missouri A.C., Meramec Patrol and other clubs in twice-weekly games at Marquette Pool. Competition is expected to open early in July after a two-week teaching and training period. The league will be under the sponsorship of the St. Louis Water Polo Association.

Kimacks Play Defending Champs In Muny League Feature Today

By Neal Russo.

Kimacks, chief threat to Carondelet Sunday Morning Club No. 1 in recent South Side League seasons, gets another crack at Carondelet's defending champions this afternoon at 12:45 at Carondelet Park No. 1 diamond.

Having stumbled before Kutis South, 16-6, last Sunday, Kimacks, with a 2-2 record, needs a victory to keep the race a three-team fight. Carondelet, also the Muny champion last season, has a 3-1 record. Kutis South (also 3-1) faces Gravois (0-4) in the 3:30 game.

Kurt Krieger will start against Kimacks' Mel Anderson. Les Hohl, former St. Louis U. star, has been signed by Kimacks. He will play third base.

In the Heine Meine circuit, Hoffmeisters (3-3) may need a victory over Carondelet No. 2 (4-2) to keep from falling three games off the pace. The leading Red Villas (5-1) have an easy task in Simpkins (0-6) in the 12:45 opener.

Lackey Ready for Duty.

The 1-2 teams in the North Side League are expected to keep rolling at Fairground No. 1 diamond. First-place Borbein-Young (4-0) will oppose Union Printers (1-3) at 12:45. Then Kutis North (3-1), with Will Lackey again available for mound duty, takes on the Polish Falcons (0-4) at 3:30.

In the new Lemay Art Rogers senior league at Titanium Field, Broadway and Horn, the Jokers, leading the pack with a 3-0 mark, all with Bill Kindle on the mound, plays Titanium in a doubleheader starting at 10:30 a.m.

Wilson Aces, who strengthened their lead in the Berkeley circuit with a 12-2 triumph over Carter Wednesday night, meet the Overland Braves in the 1 o'clock opener at Jackson Park. The Aces counted 10 times in the seventh in the Carter game. It was the Aces' third straight victory after an opening loss.

Unbeaten Holy Rosary Faces St. Philip Neri.

Holy Rosary, defending C.Y.C. baseball champion and the only senior team still unbeaten this season among the 18 in four leagues, meets an old rival in today's feature game—St. Philip Neri.

In four games in the Bishop Helmsing League, Holy Rosary has won three, tied one. St. Philip, the 1 o'clock rival at Fairground Park No. 2, has a 3-1 record. Dan Rohne manages Holy Rosary, Jesse Cherry Sr. pilots St. Philip.

Two Khoury Senior Nines Still Undefeated.

Only two Khoury senior baseball teams remain unbeaten as the season goes into its fifth week. The Clowns (3-0) today met the winless Ballwin Eagles in the 1 o'clock game at Forest Park No. 2 in the St. Louis League. Gladiators (2-1) and Cheetahs (1-2) tangle in the second game.

The Orlando Brothers, pacesetters in the University City League with a 3-0 mark, take on St. Louis County A.C. at 1 o'clock at Heman Park.

The leader in the Missouri circuit at Fairground No. 6, Manager Edmund Blank's Second Ward Democrats face Local 25 at 3:30. The Democrats have a 3-1 record.

Close Races in Both County Loop Divisions.

Both divisions of the County Baseball League have developed into three-team races which may be further scrambled today.

Florissant, the County's defending play-off champion as well as National Division titleholder, will try to avenge a season-opening 11-4 loss to Glencoe in a game at Glencoe.

Glencoe leads with 6-1, Twin City has 5-1 and Florissant 4-2. Twin City plays Creve Coeur.

In the American Division, Vigus (5-2) is at Ballwin (6-2) and Twin City (5-2) visits Creve Coeur (3-5).

Triple Play Features Khoury Midget Game

Waterson Leopards turned a triple play in the seventh inning yesterday to climax a 5-0 victory over Hampton Village Merchants in the Khoury baseball midget division.

With the bases filled, Third Baseman Bill Trost fielded a ground ball and threw home to Catcher Richard Kranze for a force-out. Two more force-outs, Kranze to Trost to Second Baseman Wayne Eck, completed the triple play.

Managed by Harry Vierheller and coached by Harold Wertich, the Leopards have a 6-0 record. They have been scored on in only two games and all six runs allowed have been unearned. Dan Rudanovich fanned 10 in gaining his fourth win.

C.B.C. Rehires Wilcutt; King New Grid Coach

D. C. Wilcutt returns to Christian Brothers High as head basketball coach and athletic director, it was announced by school director Brother Conrad yesterday. For the past year, Wilcutt, former basketball star, was assistant to Coach Eddie Hickey at St. Louis University, and prior to that had put in three years as a coach at C.B.C. High.

Also appointed to the C.B.C. staff was John E. King, coach and athletic director at Kansas City Bishop Hogan for three years. King, whose Bishop Hogan team won the Prep League grid title last fall, will replace John (Babe) Murphy as football and baseball coach. King also will instruct Class C basketball.

Hawks' Share Signs Contract

Charley Share, 6-foot-11 pivot star of the St. Louis professional basketball Hawks, has moved to St. Louis from Fort Wayne, Ind., and will make his home here. He will work for the front office of the N.B.A. team during the summer in sales promotion.

The crafty center enjoyed his best season in pro basketball last winter "except the one coming up," he slyly remarked as he went on Owner Ben Kerner's payroll again. Share improved his marks in all departments. He and league scoring champion Bob Pettit each had a shooting average of 42.9 per cent, fifth best in the circuit.

In rebounds the former Bowling Green star ranked sixth in the N.B.A. and he had the best point average per game he ever recorded—13.9. He played all 73 games but naturally had to sit out much time because a big man guarding another big man usually accumulates many early fouls.

Share's job in the off season will be the confirmation and renewal of season ticket transactions and he also will be available for speaking engagements—morning, noon or night. His wife and two daughters, Cynthia, 4½, and Suzanne, 18 months, are due here this week.—H.F.

Sweden Reaches European Zone Davis Cup Finals

Britain Is Beaten in 3 Matches

STOCKHOLM, June 16 (AP)—Sweden qualified for the final of the European Zone Davis Cup by winning today's doubles match against Britain.

Sven Davidson and Torsten Johansson defeated Roger Becker and Michael Davies, 6-3, 8-6, 7-5, giving Sweden a decisive 3-0 lead in the meet. Tomorrow's two singles will be played but can not change the outcome.

Sweden now meets the winner of the France-Italy duel in the European Zone final.

A downpour some minutes before start delayed the match for half an hour and neither King Gustaf Adolf of Sweden, nor the Duke of Edinburgh, who had announced their intention to watch, showed up.

PARIS, June 16 (AP)—The Italian tennis doubles team of Orlando Sirola and Nicola Pietrangeli today defeated Paul Remy and Marcel Bernard of France, 6-2, 6-2, 2-6, 6-1, in the semi-final round of the European Zone Davis Cup eliminations.

The victory kept Italy in the race with one victory against yesterday's two singles losses. The two decisive singles matches will be played tomor-

Swede Noses Out Woman to Win Olympic Medal

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 16 (UP)—Henri St. Cyr led Sweden to the individual and team championships today in the Grand Prix de Dressage at the 1956 Olympic equestrian competition, but the Danish polio victim received the biggest cheer for placing second after being lifted onto her horse.

St. Cyr, a 52-year-old cavalry major, retained the individual championship he won in the 1952 Games by scoring 860 points for the 33 tricky school figures. His almost flawless ride enabled Sweden to accomplish a rare Olympic feat when it also retained the team title with a total of 2,475 points.

The Dressage was the first equestrian event in which women were admitted and Lis Hartel, a Danish housewife once stricken with polio, won the hearts of the 20,000 spectators.

The 35-year-old woman, mother of two children, nearly stole the individual crown from St. Cyr, finishing second with 850 points, only 10 fewer than the Swede received. Mrs. Hartel also placed second in the event in 1952.

Liselott Linsenhoff of Germany also celebrated the first appearance by women in the equestrian Olympics by capturing third place with 832 points.

Maj. Robert Borg, a 43-year-old rider from The Dalles, Ore., finished 17th in the field of 36 riders. He was the first of the 14 riders who performed today and received 720 points, a good score considering the turf was soggy from a heavy overnight rain.

Borg, who finished eighth in the Dressage competition at the 1952 games in Helsinki, Finland, rode a 15-year-old chestnut gelding named Bill Biddle. The horse was making his third and final appearance in Olympic competition. Olympic rules stipulate no horse can compete more than three times.

The riders had to do the 33 figures from memory in not more than 16 minutes. The movements take years of practice. There are no upstarts in Dressage.

Fishing to Remember.

CAPT. LESTER MARTIN of St. Louis police department put a red circle around June 2 on his calendar when he and his wife returned recently from a fishing trip to Lake Norfolk.

"Each year I'll make it a point to be on the lake on that date in the hope of getting a repeat performance," Capt. Martin said. "What a day for fishing! My wife Billee had the morning and I had the afternoon. We took at least 40 pounds of bass."

Mrs. Martin recalled that she and her husband had fished for eight consecutive days with little success. Not discouraged, they started out early on the morning of June 2, believing that fishermen who keep their bait in the water long enough are bound to succeed.

By 9 a.m., Mrs. Martin, casting toward shore with a spinner-type weighted lure, caught a 7-pound bass. To break her husband's bad luck, she suggested trolling. Hardly had they got their lines out, when she hooked into another lunker.

"Instead of making for the boat, to try to shake the hook, as most do, this fellow took off the other way," Mrs. Martin said. "When it grabbed the hook, I had most of my 300 feet of line out. The little I had left was not enough to play the fish, and the line snapped right at the reel.

As Capt. Martin was offering the consoling philosophy, "You can always catch another," his wife spotted the end of the broken line floating on the water. They quickly brought the boat around, and she grabbed the line just as it started to move beneath the surface.

End of Line for Bass.

Refusing to pull it in hand over hand, Mrs. Martin calmly retied the line on the reel, while her husband almost exploded with impatience.

"I don't care how big that fish is," she said. "If it waited this long to be caught, it can wait a little longer."

When the bass was reeled in, it proved to be another 7-pounder. The plug was wedged in the mouth in such a manner as to keep the jaws open, explaining why the fish was unable to make off with the broken line.

Mrs. Martin also caught a 3½-pound bass later in the day but her husband took over the No. 1 fisherman's spot, hooking fish that weighed 4½, 4 and 3 pounds, in addition to several others of more than 2 pounds.

"It turned out to be one of those days in which the bass hit everything we threw at them," Mrs. Martin explained.

To the Martins' surprise, they found on their return to the boat dock they were the only anglers who had had any success that day.

In the eight years in which Capt. Martin and his wife have been making trips to Lake Norfork, they have taken 51 bass weighing more than 5 pounds each.

Good News for Hunters.

Another good year for waterfowl is in prospect, B. W. Cartwright, chief naturalist for Ducks Unlimited (Canada), reports.

Surveys show a substantial increase in breeding stock in the Manitoba and Saskatchewan provinces, while nesting conditions appear to be about the same as last year in Alberta.

The Canada geese hatch is good and is practically complete, Cartwright says.

The Missouri Conservation Commission has issued a statement on the policy to be in effect this fall on state-controlled lands open to duck hunting along the Mississippi river, from the Alton dam north to the Iowa border.

"Construction of a blind or other hunting facility on public lands shall not give the builder any preference or priority on the use of such blind or hunting facility," the commission said.

"Neither shall it give the builder any preference or priority rights on the construction of a blind on the same site in any subsequent year."

The commission has ruled that hunters on public lands may not leave the decoys out overnight, but must remove them daily.

Edward Holton of East St. Louis caught six largemouth bass weighing a total of 38 pounds at Little Grassy lake in southern Illinois. He was using a spoon, with black pork eels.

At Kentucky lake, Dale Bolyard, W. E. McKuin and Clarence Leach of St. Louis caught 99 crappie, using minnows at a 15-foot depth.

Cornell Crew Again Wins College Title

SYRACUSE, N.Y., June 16 (UP)—Cornell's superbly-conditioned varsity crew turned back the challenge of 11 rivals on placid Lake Onondaga today to retain its Intercollegiate Rowing Association championship and became a prime favorite to represent the United States in the 1956 Olympics.

Rowing the race that Coach Stork Sanford predicted for them, the Cornell eight beat fast-closing Navy by two full lengths in 16 minutes, 22.4 seconds. This was far under the Lake Onondaga record but good time considering moderate head winds over the three-mile course.

The record is 15.08.1, established by Navy's great Olympic winners in 1952 through the help of a stiff tail wind. The same crew, now reassembled from all over the world as the Navy admirals, will provide Cornell with some of its stiffest competition 10 days hence when Olympic tryouts begin over the same course.

Wisconsin was third in 16:34.7, just a few feet ahead of Washington. The Huskies from the far west had been expected to provide Cornell's veterans with their stiffest competition but it was Wisconsin which kept challenging the Big Red for the lead in the middle stages.

Buchholz to Defend Title in District Tennis Tournament

Action in the St. Louis District Tennis Association's annual junior tournament starts tomorrow morning at the Tower Grove Park courts. The junior and small boys singles events take place on the opening day with the junior and small girls' competition commencing Tuesday morning at the same time. All players must report at 9 a.m.

Earl (Butch) Buchholz was a double winner last year. He paired with Neil Drury to win the junior doubles and with Rodney Susman to win the small boys doubles. Butch will compete in the junior division only this week. Chuck McKinley is the top candidate for the small boys' crown.

Erika Puetz will defend her junior girls' title and Mary Clendenin the small girls' championship.

No-Hitter for Koenig

Celeste Reese Engaged To John Forrest Wight

THE engagement of Miss Celeste Michel Reese, daughter of Mrs. Carlos Reese and the late Mr. Reese, to John Forrest Wight was announced last night at a cocktail party at her home, 4914 Argyle place. Mr. Wight is the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Edward Wight Jr., 29 Lenox place. The wedding will be a fashionable September event.

The party was presumably a surprise home-coming for Mr. Wight's sister, Miss Nancy Ewing Wight, and Miss Patricia Yeldell, who flew home Thursday after two months in Europe.

A graduate of Villa Duchesne, Miss Reese, her mother's namesake studied for a year at Maryville College. She made her debut in the 1953 season at a cocktail dinner at Black Oaks, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Harney's home in Ferguson. That year she was maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball. She is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Michel and the late Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Reese and a niece of Mrs. Eugene R. Kilgen and Charles E. Michel Jr., St. Louis, and Miss Mary Reese, Mrs. F. R. Stephens and Mrs. David Montgomery, Birmingham, Ala. Her brothers are Carlos and Eugene Michel Reese.

Mr. Wight is a graduate of Georgetown Preparatory School, Garrett Park, Md., and St. George's School, Newport, R.I. Then, enlisting in the Air Force, he served four years, three years of the time in England and France. Grandson of Mrs. Ira

Miss Neubeiser, Lt. J. W. Thompson Are Married

MISS JANET ANNE NEUBEISER, who made her debut a few seasons ago, and Lt. John William Thompson III, a Navy doctor on duty with the Fleet Marine Force in Honolulu, were married Friday afternoon in Central Presbyterian Church. For the next year they will live in Honolulu.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Benedict Lawrence Neubeiser of Sibley road, St. Charles; the bridegroom is the only son of Dr. and Mrs. J. William Thompson II, 92 Lake Forest, Richmond Heights.

A large group of relatives and friends, some of them from out of town, attended the ceremony which was performed by the Rev. Dr. J. Layton Mauze Jr. Candles fastened to the pews with white ribbon and greenery lighted the center aisle and a profusion of woodwardia fern was massed in chancel where standards of larkspur and stock and candelabra provided further decoration.

The bride and her father, who gave her in marriage, were preceded to the altar by her three sisters, Miss Nina Neubeiser, maid of honor; Miss Marcia, a bridesmaid, and Karen, junior bridesmaid, and several friends, Mrs. Oliver Abel III, matron of honor, and Mrs. Boyle O. Rodes Jr., Mrs. Robert F. Malkemes and Mrs. William C. Purdy, Storrs, Conn., who was Miss Myrna Moman.

They were dressed in pale yellow organdy trimmed with matching lace banding the round necks and cap sleeves and bordering tucked panels in the front of full waltz-length skirts. Their crownless garden hats were also yellow organza, lace trimmed. White daisies were arranged in basket effect for the bridesmaids and were mixed with yellow daisies for baskettes carried by the honor attendants.

The bride's gown was white organza over taffeta fashioned with heirloom point venise lace adorning the bateau neckline. A lace juliet cap with orange blossoms across the back secured the tulle veil which cascaded over the train of the gown. Instead of a bouquet the bride carried a white lace fan overlaid with lilies of the valley and white orchids.

Charles E. Thomas II of El Dorado, Ark., a John Burroughs School classmate, was Lt. Thompson's best man. Ushers were C. Edwin Meyer Jr., Great Neck, L.I.; Saxon Cole Jr., Dr. Oliver Abel III, Clifford P. McKinney Jr., Herbert C. Phillips Jr., J. Kerlin Rowland and Ens. Roger Ellis Neubeiser, the bride's brother, who is stationed at Patuxent River, Md.

Mrs. Neubeiser's gown was pale pink chantilly lace, with which she wore a small pink

Afternoon Wedding At Church

Miss Lynn Giessow Becomes Bride of the Rev. Donald Gilbert Stauffer.

THE Church of St. Michael and St. George was illuminated with candlelight for the wedding Friday afternoon of Miss Lynn Giessow and the Rev. Donald Gilbert Stauffer, assistant rector of the church. The bride is the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Giessow, 11 McKnight lane, Ladue; the Rev. Mr. Stauffer's parents are the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Milton T. Stauffer, Bedford Village, N.Y.

Woodwardia fern was arranged in the chancel as a background for bouquets of white snapdragon and chrysanthemums and hurricane candelabra holding white tapers. Vases of the white blossoms adorned the candlelighted altar. The center aisle was set off by tall white candles, with hurricane shades, garlanded with greenery and tied with white satin bows. The Rev. Dr. John Francis Sant, rector, assisted by Dr. Stauffer, performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her sister, Miss Ann Giessow, as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Elizabeth Brokaw, Center Island, Long Island, N.Y., and Miss Nancy Allen, Washington, former classmates of the bride at Briarcliff Junior College; Mrs. Russell Howland DeGraff, Denver; and Miss Joan Singer and Miss Barbara Schofield Burton.

Dr. David Stauffer, Schenectady, N.Y., was his brother's best man. Another brother, Dwight G. Stauffer, Miss Cunningham Becomes Bride Of W. T. Olson Jr.

MISS MARY CAROLYN CUNNINGHAM, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin John Cunningham, 7341 Maryland avenue, University City, became the bride of William Theodore Olson Jr., yesterday morning at Our Lady of Lourdes Church. Msgr. Edward A. Rogers performed the ceremony.

Miss Ann Cunningham was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were the bridegroom's cousin, Miss Dorothy Brady, Lancaster, Pa.; the bride's cousin, Miss Katherine Gibson, Kenilworth, Ill.; Miss Maryann Coles, Mrs. Edward J. Gaus and Miss Patricia O'Hallaron.

Mr. Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Olson, 7515 Washington avenue, University City, had his brother, John M. Olson, as best man. His cousin, Kenneth O. Olson, Robert T. Clark, Joseph Heneberry, Robert J. Koster, William R. Murphy, Mr. Gaus and the bride's brother, Edwin J. Cunningham Jr., were ushers.

Mr. Cunningham escorted his daughter down an aisle marked with white candles in hurricane lamps and gave her in marriage. Vases of white flowers decorated the altar which was lighted with white tapers. In the sanctuary candelabra holding white candles stood before masses of woodwardia fern.

The bride wore a white organdy gown over taffeta made with a short-sleeved bodice and a bateau neckline edged with seed pearl leaves. The full skirt swept into a long train. Her fingertip veil was gathered to a rose point crown made from lace on the wedding gown worn by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. James C. Peck. Yesterday's bride carried a bouquet of white orchids, lilies of the valley and stephanotis.

Attendants for the bride were in French blue dotted swiss dresses, ballet length. The skirts, over crinoline, fell from matching narrow velvet

Cowdery-Crain June Wedding

MISS JOAN WINSTON CRAIN and William Clayton Cowdery, who were graduated earlier this month from Washington University, were married last night at Union Avenue Christian Church. The Rev. Dr. G. Curtis Jones performed the ceremony after which the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Lee Crain Jr. of Denver, gave the reception in the church parlors. The Crains are former St. Louisans.

The bride wore a white taffeta gown designed with a bateau neckline banded with lace which also was used to finish the short sleeves and to suggest a bolero on the bodice. The skirt was full. A lace crown held her fingertip veil and she carried a spray of stephanotis.

Maid of honor was Miss Carol Lemkemeier and bridesmaids were Miss Clare Harding, Miss Sally Dell Rottman and Miss Carol Sauer. They wore China blue shantung gowns fashioned on princess lines. On their hair they had matching velvet circlets tied at back in tiny bows extending in streamers to their waistlines. They carried pale yellow and white daisies.

Mr. Cowdery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Drew Cowdery, 6604 Waterman avenue, University City, had Charles P. Duncker as best man. Ushers were Robert D. Cowdery, Des Moines, Ia., brother of the bridegroom; Daniel U. Johnston, Charles Lebens, Howard M. Nelson and Richard Ogelsby.

Mr. Cowdery and his bride will live in Houston, Tex., after a wedding trip.

Evelyn Mae Ford Married at Home To V. T. Potter

MISS EVELYN MAE FORD and Voluntine Turner Potter were married Friday evening in a ceremony for the families at the home of her mother, Mrs. Verda Ford, 501 East Fifth street, Alton. Two huge bouquets of red roses stood at either side of the living room windows, where Judge Thomas E. May performed the ceremony, and arrangements of greenery and summer flowers decorated the lower floor of the house. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Potter, 9746 Litzsinger road, Ladue.

The bride wore a simply styled white organdy gown over satin, sleeveless, with a high neckline and deep lace yoke. Her skirt was ballerina length and full. Around the back of her hair she pinned a wreath of white daisies. She carried a garland of the same flowers.

Mrs. Pierre Phillipe Chouteau (Agnes Farrar Potter), sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Her pink summer gown combined a lace bodice featuring a boat-shaped neckline, and full organdy skirt over satin. Her flowers were white daisies arranged in a colonial bouquet.

The bride's niece, Linda Kay Ford, was ring bearer, wearing a blue nylon frock tied with a pink silk cord and carrying a white satin pillow

Elizabeth Busch Guest of Honor

MISS ELIZABETH OVERTON BUSCH, debutante daughter of Mrs. Overton Busch, 5577 Lindell boulevard, and August A. Busch Jr. of Grant's Farm, was honor guest last Friday night at a dance with the theme, "This Year of Your Life." Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baskowitz were host and hostess for the party in the Tiara Room of the Park Plaza Hotel.

Guests were received in a garden setting of greenery massed about wrought iron gates. Contemporaries of the debutante and a few members of her family were entertained. Miss Busch wore for her party a pink embroidered organdy dress with a wide skirt. Her flowers were white orchids.

Centering the pink-covered tables were small styrofoam figures, each representing a phase of Miss Busch's activities during her debut year. One showed the debutante with a cactus tree, suggesting her recent trip West, while others portrayed her at a ball game, a horse race and modeling.

Virginia Thym, Dr. N. C. Clements Are Married

LADUE CHAPEL was the scene last evening of the marriage of Miss Virginia Lee Thym, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Paul Thym, 6 Ridgetop drive, Richmond Heights, to Dr. Neil Carlton Clements. The Rev. Dr. W. Davidson McDowell performed the ceremony by candlelight. White larkspur, asters and gladiolas provided decoration.

The former Miss Thym wore an embroidered organdy gown fashioned with a short-sleeved, fitted bodice and a four-tiered skirt. Her fingertip veil was secured by an embroidered organdy Juliet lis of Bremen, Ga., an uncle of the bridegroom, performed the ceremony. White gladiolas, smilax and magnolia leaves adorned the church and white candelabra held lighted tapers near the altar and in the windows.

The former Miss Truitt wore a white gown of heavy taffeta. Featuring princess lines, the gown was simply designed with tiny cap sleeves and a U-shaped neckline outlined with a self-band finished with cording. Her princess lace veil, held to her hair with a taffeta band, cascaded over her full skirt which extended into a short train. She carried a white prayer book, white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Neuhoff, David Robertson Married in West

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ESTES PARK, Colo., June 16

MISS JANET ETHEL NEUHOFF and David Robertson were married here this afternoon at the Community Church of the Rockies by the Rev. Harold James Braden. After the ceremony, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman George Neuhoff, 560 Warren avenue, University City, a St. Louis suburb, gave a reception at Meeker Park Lodge near their summer home at Allenspark. Mr. Robertson's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Campbell Robertson, came from their home in Lewiston, N.Y.

Church decorations consisted of baskets of peonies and lighted candles arranged before palms.

Mr. Neuhoff gave his daughter in marriage. Miss Janis May Barnett, Homewood, Ill., was maid of honor, and Miss Margaret Jane Clarke, Colorado Springs; Miss Jeanine Ardourel, Boulder; and Miss Margaret Powers and Miss Sarah Hoper, Denver, were bridesmaids.

Mr. Robertson was attended by his twin, Philip Robertson, as best man. Ushers were the bride's brother, George Louis Neuhoff III; Dean Reid Castor, Philadelphia; Robert Sutton and Lt. Harry Waldrop, Boulder.

The bride chose a waltz-length white silk taffeta gown designed with a scoop neckline appliqued with alencon lace which extended over the shoulders to form cap sleeves. Insets of the lace were scattered over the full taffeta skirt which was held wide by layers of tulle. The illusion veil was secured to a lace

Helen Bridge, W. D. Forsythe Are Married

THE marriage of Miss Helen Durkee Bridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Durkee Bridge of Elsberry, Mo., to Walter DeMotte Forsythe took place last night at Memorial Presbyterian Church. White flowers and greenery provided decoration and lighted tapers were attached to alternate pews along the center aisle. The Rev. J. Allen Blair officiated.

The bride wore a white embroidered organdy gown with a short train. A half-hat of the organdy secured her tulle veil which fell to her waistline. She carried a bouquet of blue delphinium, white roses, stephanotis and orchids.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Donald L. Read of Dallas, Tex., was her sister's matron of honor while bridesmaids were the bridegroom's sister, Miss Johnye Lee Forsythe, Waukegan, Ill.; Mrs. Walter Baker, Dallas, and Mrs. Richard Gross, Fort Smith, Ark. They wore terrace-length white organdy gowns. Mrs. Read's dress featured a pink sash matching her slippers while the others had blue sashes. The honor attendant carried a bouquet of pink and blue daisies; the bridesmaids held blue daisies. In their hair were wreaths of the summery blossoms.

Mr. Forsythe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester DeMotte Forsythe, Waukegan, had Edward Hucker of Waukegan as best man. Ushers were Norman Linhardt, Mr. Baker and Lorren F. Bridge, brother of the bride.

Stephen and Linda Bridge lighted the candles and serving as flower girl and ring bearer were Anne and Robert Bridge. They are nieces and nephews of the bride.

The reception was given at the church Sunday School room which was decorated with white blossoms accented with fern. The bride's mother was in a gray shantung and lace dress with which she wore a pink hat and accessories and an orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother chose a pink lace gown. Her flowers were pink orchids.

Here for the wedding were three of the bride's aunts, Mrs. John Pitman, Long Island, N.Y.; Mrs. Theodore Weld Sterling, Philadelphia, and Mrs. Benjamin O'Fallon Randolph, Millwood, Va.

The bride and bridegroom, who will spend their honeymoon at Lake Murray, Okla., will live in Dallas where he is a student at Dallas Theological Seminary and a first lieutenant in the Chaplains' Reserve Corps. The former Miss Bridge has been teaching physical education at a Dallas grade school. A member of old St. Louis families, she is a granddaughter of the late Capt. and Mrs. Lorraine F. Jones and the late Mr. and Mrs. Hudson E. Bridge.

Marriage Abroad For Miss Myers, W. S. Meredith

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made of the marriage March 24 in Copenhagen, Denmark, of Miss Nancy Jane Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh E. Myers of Decatur, Ill., to William Sterling Meredith, son of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. John Wesley Meredith, 5545 Maple avenue. For 25 years Dr. Meredith has been pastor of Maple Avenue Methodist Church which was destroyed by fire last January and is now being disbanded.

Both the bride and bridegroom are artists. She, a graduate of Washington University School of Fine Arts where she became a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, was awarded a Fulbright scholarship to the Royal Danish Academy of Art at Copenhagen, where she has been studying since last August. Mr. Meredith joined her early in March and is also taking courses at the academy.

They were married at the Town Hall, attended by Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Laursen of Copenhagen, who did medical research work at Barnes Hospital here. Two services in Danish united 40 Danish couples, before and after a single ceremony in English for Miss Myers and Mr. Meredith. Present were Fulbright scholars at the academy who entertained the couple at a wedding luncheon at the Golden Prince.

The Meredithses honeymooned at the famous Asminerode Kro. They have an apartment in Copenhagen. On the faculty's recommendation the bride has been granted a three-month extension of her scholarship.

Mr. Meredith studied at the School of Fine Arts of Colorado University and served two years in the Marine Corps before continuing his art studies at Washington University. He is the brother of John W. Meredith Jr., St. Louis; Mark Meredith, stationed with the Navy in Norfolk, Va., and Mrs. Norman John Merritt, Centralia, Ill.

On completion of their work at the Royal Danish Academy, the bride and bridegroom will visit Sweden, Germany, the low countries, France and England. They will return to St. Louis in October.

Miss Hutchison Becomes Bride Of C. R. Taylor

A BRIDE of June 8 was Miss Matred Eileen Hutchison whose marriage to Charles Robert Taylor took place at Campbell Memorial Chapel of Union Avenue Christian Church. The Rev. Dr. G. Curtis Jones performed the ceremony by candlelight.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clay Hutchison, 2515 Bellevue avenue, Maplewood, had Mrs. Ronald Nelms as matron of honor; Mrs. Nathan Mascia as bridesmaid and Mary Ruth Hutchison, niece of the bride, as junior bridesmaid. They wore blue polished cotton dresses and matching tulle and velvet headpieces. Their flowers were blue and white painted daisies.

The former Miss Hutchison chose a lace and tulle gown fashioned on princess lines with scalloped ruffles at each side. A cap secured her short veil and she carried a Bible covered with white orchids.

Mr. Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Waldron Taylor, 8 Fielding road, Ladue, had Norfleet Rand Johnston of St. Louis as best man. Ushers were Thomas Kempson, Phoenix, Ariz.; William Crabbe, Robert Stuart and Lee Sherman Gintz.

A reception was given in the church parlors with Mrs. Frank First and Miss Joann Catanzaro assisting.

The bride and bridegroom will live in St. Louis after a wedding trip.

MRS. ROY WORTHEN

Miss Donata Marie Lee Married to J.J. Magee At Morning Service

MISS DONATA MARIE LEE became the bride of James Justin Magee June 9 at St. Roch's Church with the Rev. Joseph T. Schejbal officiating. After the ceremony her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick W. Lee, 6003 Waterman avenue, gave a small breakfast in the Lido room of the Chase Hotel and later a reception at their home.

White spring flowers in gold vases stood on the candlelighted altar and greenery was massed inside the sanctuary rail.

Mr. Lee escorted his daughter down the center aisle, which was illuminated with white candles, and gave her in marriage. Miss Suzanne Laufer was maid of honor and the bride's sister, Miss Mary Katherine Lee, and Miss Mary Catherine Alleway were bridesmaids. Miss Rene Lee, younger sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. They were in white embroidered organza ballerina dresses, the pleated bodices trimmed with red velvet bands which extended to the back in streamers and bows. They wore white small brimmed hats, with velvet crowns, and all carried red carnations with the exception of the honor attendant whose bouquet consisted of red carnations and stephanotis.

Chantilly lace and tulle were combined for the bride's gown which was styled with a lace bodice and front and back lace panels falling over a bouffant tulle skirt. Her four-tier illusion veil was held in place by a lace demi-crown embroidered with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis.

Mr. Magee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Magee, 7422 Warwick drive, Normandy, had William F. Slattery as best man. His cousin, David Lundgren; Irving Lee, the bride's brother; Robert Donovan, and Daniel Ham escorted guests to their pews.

Mr. and Mrs. Magee will go to Florida and Bermuda on their wedding trip and will make their home in St. Louis.

Wedding in Doniphan For Miss Edwards, Robert L. Wright

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH in Doniphan, Mo., was the scene yesterday afternoon of the marriage of Miss Margaret Ann Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Edwards of Doniphan, to Robert Larry Wright. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Denver M. Wright, 1 Lindworth lane, Ladue.

Fern trees and daisy-covered trellises formed a background for the ceremony performed by the Rev. James Estep.

The bride wore a white chantilly lace and tulle gown trimmed at the V neckline with mother-of-pearl sequins. Her veil was gathered to a lace cap and she carried gardenias and lilies of the valley with variegated ivy.

Miss Ruth Peyton Burford of Doniphan served as maid of honor and Miss Bonnie Jane Wilkerson, Fort Recovery, O.; Miss June Hodo, Doniphan; Miss Carolyn Sawyer, Cape Girardeau, Mo., and Miss Helen Benton, Springfield, Mo., were bridesmaids. Wearing white tulle gowns over yellow net and taffeta, they carried bouquets of white daisies and tiny yellow chrysanthemums, arranged to suggest a large daisy, and wore tiny yellow blossoms in their hair.

Richard Baalmann served as best man. Ushers were a brother of the bridegroom, Lester K. Wright, Doniphan; Richard Williams, and William Milligan, St. Louis, and Everett McGonigal, Doniphan.

After a reception in the church parlors, the bride and bridegroom departed for a tour of the South, including visits to Mobile, Ala., Gulfport and Biloxi, Miss., and New Orleans. They will live in Doniphan.

Miss Oelze Married To Dr. Roy Worthen

MISS JANE ELLEN OELZE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben C. Oelze, 8138 Vena avenue, Clayton, and Dr. Roy Worthen were married June 9 at Christ Evangelical and Reformed Church by the Rev. C. P. Fritsch. Afterward a reception was held in the church dining room.

The bride's ballerina gown of alencon lace over tulle and satin featured a ruffle of pleated tulle at the hemline. Her short veil was held to a satin and lace headpiece and she carried white daisies and stephanotis.

Miss Judith Mae Oelze, her sister's only attendant, wore blue crystallette, pink pompon clusters in her hair and carried pink daisies. Dr. Worthen was attended by Dr. Alan Johnson as best man and Dr. Hubert C. Huebl and Harry C. Gibson as ushers. The bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Worthen of Yakima, Wash., were here for their son's wedding and his graduation Wednesday from Washington University School of Medicine. He and his bride will live in Seattle, Wash., while he serves his internship at the King County Hospital. The bride attended Monmouth (Ill.) College and Washington University.

trimmed in yellow daisies. Neil Brent Ford, the bride's brother, served as best man.

The candlelighted buffet in the dining room was adorned with summer flowers and a lattice-work of greenery while garlands of greenery surrounded the cake table. In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Potter and Mr. Chouteau other St. Louisans present at the wedding and small reception that followed were the bridegroom's uncles and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. Eston Randolph and Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Bull.

The bride, daughter of Everett Nelson Ford of St. Louis, attended Blackburn College, Carlinville, Ill. Mr. Potter, who has a brother, Horatio Potter Jr., is an alumnus of Yale University and did graduate work at Columbia University. Descendant of old St. Louis families, he is a grandson of the late Prof. and Mrs. William Bleeker Potter and the late Mr. and Mrs. Voluntine C. Turner. He and his bride will combine a motor and camping trip through Nebraska and Minnesota and will live in Alton on their return.

ribbon sashes tied in bows with long streamers. They wore French blue velvet bows in their hair and held small bouquets of mixed garden flowers.

After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham gave a breakfast for 250 guests in the main dining room of Missouri Athletic Club. Guests were received before a background of woodwardia and were seated at tables centered with summer flowers. The bridal table had as its central decoration an epergne holding white blossoms—carnations, stock and snapdragon—at each side of which silver candelabra were filled with white tapers and low arrangements of the white flowers.

After a wedding trip to Key Biscayne, Fla., Mr. Olson and his bride will live in University City.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. George M. Gibson and their son, George M. Gibson Jr., Kenilworth, uncle and aunt of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. J. William Brady and their daughter, Miss Mary Kay Brady, Lancaster, Pa., uncle and aunt of the bridegroom; Miss Ann Smith, Mobile, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Karl Clay and their son, Robert, New Ulm, Minn., and the Rev. plateau sprinkled with seed pearls. The bride's bouquet was white orchids and stephanotis.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore aqua taffeta dresses, ballerina length, and matching straw bandeaux finished with short veils. They held colonial bouquets of pastel sweet peas.

Guests included the bride's uncles and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wiese and Raymond Wiese of St. Louis.

The former Miss Neuhoff, a graduate of John Burroughs School, St. Louis, completed her junior year at the University of Colorado, Boulder. Her sorority is Gamma Phi Beta. She is the granddaughter of George L. Neuhoff and the late Mrs. Neuhoff, and of Mrs. Edward William Wiese and the late Mr. Wiese all of St. Louis. Mr. Robertson is a 1956 graduate of Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa., and a member of Chi Phi fraternity. His father is head of du Pont Research Laboratories, Niagara Falls. He and his bride will spend their honeymoon in the Pacific Northwest.

Lynn Giessow Married At Church Ceremony

Cleveland; the bride's brother, Gary Giessow; William W. Sant II, William R. Cady Jr., and John M. Drescher III escorted the guests to their places.

The bride wore a white silk taffeta gown styled on princesse lines. The scoop neckline and short sleeves were overlaid with re-embroidered alencon lace sprinkled with pearls. The lace continued into the full skirt which was draped to a polanaise from which deep folds of the taffeta fell into short train. The bride chose a fingertip silk illusion veil, held in place by a small crown of the pearl-studded lace, and carried a shower bouquet of white moth orchids and split carnations.

The honor attendant and bridemaids were in summery white organza dresses over pale yellow taffeta designed with fitted bodices and bouffant terrace-length skirts. Wide yellow taffeta sashes were tied in back in large butterfly bows. They wore yellow taffeta crowns, trimmed with pearl tear drops, and carried bouquets of white daisies and sprays of ivy.

After the marriage service Mr. and Mrs. Giessow gave a reception at the University Club. A bower of greenery provided a background for the receiving party. The bridal table, draped with smilax, was decorated with white daisies and white candles while small tables for the guests were centered with yellow and white daisies tied with yellow satin bows.

Mrs. Giessow wore a navy blue alencon lace gown and a small white chiffon hat. The bridegroom's mother was in raspberry lace and chiffon and a matching hat. Both mothers pinned clusters of white roses to their purses.

In addition to the bridegroom's parents and his brothers those from out-of-town were his sister-in-law, Mrs. Dwight Stauffer; the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar E. Arbogast, and Miss Eloise Goddard, Detroit, and Mrs. Edwin Bronson, Willowdale, Toronto, Ont.

After a wedding trip in the east, the newly married pair will live here.

Miss Kriegshauser, David G. Muckerman Plan Autumn Wedding

MR. AND MRS. LAWRENCE A. KRIEGSHAUSER gave a cocktail supper last night at their home, 18 Oak Park, Creve Coeur, to announce the engagement of their only daughter, Miss Patricia Moore Kriegshauser, to David George Muckerman, son of Mrs. Alexander J. Muckerman, 10240 Clayton road, Ladue, and the late Mr. Muckerman.

Miss Kriegshauser, known to her friends as Patti, is a graduate of St. Joseph's Academy. She recently completed her sophomore year at Loretto Heights College, Denver.

Mr. Muckerman is a graduate of Chaminade College High School and St. Louis University with a degree in commerce. In World War II he served with the Army in the European theater. One of a large family, he is the brother of James I., William J., Ralph A. and Paul E. Muckerman, Mrs. William E. Flynn, Mrs. Charles H. Murphy, Mrs. William A. Kriegshauser, whose husband is the brother of Miss Patricia Kriegshauser, and Miss Lucy Muckerman.

The wedding will take place early in October.

Macheca - Shaw Church Wedding

VASES of pink and white flowers — peonies, larkspur, stock and other summer blooms — decorated the altar at Immaculate Conception Church June 9 when Miss Katherine Ann Shaw became the bride of Arthur Michael Macheca III. The Rev. William B. McCarthy performed the ceremony after which a breakfast was given at Le Chateau. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Elsie Rossier Shaw, 7516 Piccadilly avenue, St. Louis county, and John Henry Shaw, 5439 Janet avenue, Jennings. Mr. Macheca's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Macheca Jr., 44 Conway lane, Ladue.

The bride was attired in blush silk organdy with self folds forming a V neckline framed in embroidered lace while the bouffant circular skirt swept into a chapel train. Her tulle veil was caught to a matching organdy cap and she carried a colonial bouquet of white lilies of the valley, roses, candy tuft and stock.

Five young women who attended the bride were gowned alike in white embroidered organdy over blush pink silk which had square necklines and skirts gathered to side fullness. They were the bride's sister, Miss Suzanne Marie Shaw, honor attendant, and Miss Anita Brown, Miss Jayne Merz, Miss Rosemary Robben and Miss Martha Lucks Macheca, the bridegroom's sister, bridesmaids. They wore bonnets to match their gowns and carried old-fashioned bouquets containing pale pink garnet roses, blue cornflowers and white summer flowers. Blair Macheca, the bridegroom's cousin, flower girl, wore white organdy with a pink sash and a bandeau of flowers in her hair and carried a miniature of the bridesmaids' bouquets. Ring bearer James Arnold Kaimann, cousin of the bride, carried a white satin pillow trimmed in stephanotis and white rose buds.

Serving as best man for Mr. Macheca was John Alvin Griesedieck, and as ushers, Jeremiah Rearden, Terrance Connaughton, James Barry Gunther, William Tracy, Andrew Felthan Watson, fiance of Miss Merz, and Mr. Macheca's brother-in-law, Gerald J. O'Connor of Scarsdale, N. Y.

Pink and white flowers decorated Le Chateau where the receiving line stood before the bay windows. Following a trip to Point Clear, Ala., the newly-married pair will live at 1320 McCutcheon road, Manhasset Village.

Ice Cream Social.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Evangelical Deaconess Society will give its annual ice cream social from 7 until 10 o'clock Friday night in the auditorium of The Sisters Home, 6150 Oakland avenue.

Miss Wood Married To N. R. Johnston

honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Gale F. Johnston Jr., St. Louis, sister-in-law of the bridegroom; Miss Enid Slack, Miss Shirley Ann Whelchel, Miss Elizabeth Ann Rogers, Miss Margie Meeks and Miss Lavinia Whatley, all of Gainesville, while junior bridesmaids were Margaret Rose Whiddon, Tifton, Ga., and Carole Hughes, Gainesville. They wore pink taffeta gowns with drapery at the neckline, and held sheaves of red roses.

The former Miss Wood chose a peau de sole and alencon lace gown embroidered with opalescent sequins. Her tulle veil was gathered to a seed pearl crown and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

Charles Robert Taylor of St. Louis served as best man. The large usher corps consisted of Gale F. Johnston Jr.; the bridesgroom's other brother, Dr. Chambless Rand Johnston, Rochester, N.Y.; William Roumillat, Fayetteville, N.C.; Robert Reynolds, Gainesville; John Frierson, Birmingham, Ala.; Kimont Hoitsma, Washington; Stantley Sieja, Princeton, N.J.; Bill Ursnel, Bowling Green, O.; Lovick Pierce, Nashville, Tenn.; Frank Rand III, cousin of the bridegroom, and Peter Gravely, St. Louis, and Andy Hall III, Neosho, Mo.

The immediate families were entertained after the ceremony by Mrs. Sam Ham, godmother of the bride, at her home. Mr. Johnston and his bride departed afterward for a week in Jamaica. He will report soon for duty with the Navy in the Philippine Islands to be joined later by his bride.

Garden Club Meeting.

Lakeside Garden Club will meet Thursday night at the home of Mrs. William J. Meckel Jr., 1917 Hurstgreen drive, Overland, at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Marjorie Billings will show colored slides of her trip to Hawaii. Mrs. Edward R. Spence is president of the club which was organized this spring.

Elizabeth Miller, John Milton Boyce Married at Church

WEBSTER GROVES PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH was the scene of the wedding Tuesday of Miss Elizabeth Ivy Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivy Curgus Miller, 414 Gray avenue, Webster Groves, and John Milton Boyce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Selwyn Jackson Boyce, 112 Roseacre lane, Webster Groves. The Rev. Dr. Harry T. Scherer performed the ceremony and a reception was held afterward in the church parlors.

A deep sculptured neckline and apron skirt of embroidered lace, sweeping into a tiered train, were features of the Italian silk wedding gown which was worn with a pearl-trimmed tulle cap and fingertip veil. The bride carried white orchids, white roses and stepanotis.

Miss Miriam Miller, her sister's maid of honor, wore pale pink organdy, waltz length, and matching headband, while the bridesmaids, Miss Bettye Boyce, Miss Carolyn Beasley, Miss Mary McKinley and Miss Lucinda Benzel, and junior bridesmaids, Miss Ann Miller, sister of the bride, and Miss Susan Boyce, the bridegroom's sister, wore similar frocks in aqua. They carried pink and aqua roses.

The bridegroom's attendants were David Ferguson, best man, and Louis Booth, Robert Smith, Dick Ehlers, Charles Gilbert of Chicago and Robert Fariss.

The former Miss Miller, who attended De Pauw University, is now a senior at Washington University where her sorority is Pi Beta Phi. The bridegroom, a student at Washington University Medical School, was graduated from Grinnell College, where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

Miss Truitt Bride Of Dr. L. T. Furlow Jr.

(Alma Furlow) of St. Louis, sister of the bridegroom, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Elizabeth Wilson, Keysville, Va.; Mrs. John C. Hasty, Raleigh, N. C.; Mrs. James R. Weaver, Macon, Ga., and Mrs. William Dosher, Wilmington, N. C. Their pink tulle gowns were fashioned with apron effects. With them they carried deep red rose bouquets.

The bridegroom, son of Dr. and Mrs. Leonard T. Furlow, 21 Fair Oaks, Ladue, Mo., had his father as best man. Ushers were Samuel B. Grant Jr., A. Wimmer Carr and James F. Wittmer, all of St. Louis, and Mr. Weaver.

The reception was given in the garden of the large ante bellum home of Mrs. Guy Thurmond, a close friend of the Truitt family. White gladiolas, carnations and roses provided a contrast with garden shrubbery.

The bride's mother chose for the wedding a gray lace gown, over pink taffeta, embroidered with sequins at the neckline. Her flowers were white orchids. Mrs. Furlow was in pale gray chiffon touched at the neckline with rhinestones. Pink camellias composed her corsage.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Carr, St. Louis, and the bridegroom's uncle and aunt, Adm. and Mrs. Charles Furlow of Charleston, S. C., and their sons, Lt. Charles Furlow III and John Furlow.

Dr. Furlow and his bride will visit the Bahamas on their wedding trip. They will live in Charlottesville, Va.

Barbara Barnard Is June Bride

TALL candelabra and standards of white flowers decorated Central Presbyterian Church Friday night for the wedding of Miss Barbara Tipton Barnard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Barnard, 613 South Central avenue, Clayton, and Alexander Ritchie Snedden Jr. of Albuquerque, N.M. The Rev. Dr. J. Layton Mauze Jr. and the Rev. Dr. William B. Lampe officiated, after which a reception was held at the Gatesworth Hotel.

The wedding gown was fashioned with an alencon lace off-the-shoulder bodice and panels of the lace inserted in a full tulle skirt. The bride wore a fingertip veil held to a chantilly lace crown and carried her maternal grandmother's fan with white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Sue Seeger was maid of honor, and Mrs. Robert M. Williams, the bride's cousin; Miss Ann Hoch, Miss Joan Auer and Mrs. Robert Matteucci and Mrs. Paul Curtis Rea, both of Albuquerque, were bridesmaids. They wore ballerina gowns of white popcorn lace and pale pink taffeta with scooped necklines. Their headpieces were miniatures of the bride's crown with short scalloped veils. Their flowers were nosegays of split carnations and roses.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander R. Snedden of Albuquerque, who were here for the wedding, had his father as best man. Ushers included Mr. Williams, William Geitz and Don Schlapprizzi of St. Louis and Jack Carnahan, Mr. Rea and Mr. Matteucci of Albuquerque.

Both the bride and bridegroom were graduated last week from the University of New Mexico, Albuquerque. He and his bride will go immediately to Quantico, Va., where he will report as a second lieutenant for duty with the Marine Corps.

Jeanette Delhouse, B. J. Groff Engaged

INFORMAL announcement is being made of the engagement of Miss Jeanette Elizabeth Delhouse and Bernard J. Groff. The bride-elect, whose mother is the late Mrs. D. Schmittel Delhouse, makes her home with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd H. Marx Jr., 7352 Pershing avenue, University City.

Mr. Groff is the son of Mrs. Jacob Groff, 716 North Price road, Clayton, and the late Mr. Groff. He has two sisters, Miss Jane and Miss Mary Groff.

Miss Vickroy, H. M. Nelson Jr. Are Married

MISS DOROTHY ANN VICKROY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore S. Vickroy, 106 Mason avenue, Webster Groves, and Howard Marks Nelson Jr. were married in a candlelighted setting of ferns and white flowers Monday night at Webster Groves Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Dr. Harry T. Scherer performed the ceremony after which a reception was held in the church parlors.

Miss Betty Fritz, the bride's roommate at Purdue University, maid of honor, and Miss Alberta Nelson, the bridegroom's sister; Miss Esther Pastene, Miss Mary Custis and Miss Patricia McCoy, bridesmaids, wore ballet gowns of pink pique with matching lace panels in the backs. Their headdresses were bandeaux to match and their flowers were pink and white daisies, with stephanotis added to the honor attendant's bouquet. Carole Deane Vickroy, the bride's niece, as flower girl wore white organdy over pink and carried a nosegay of pink roses. John Southern Vickroy Jr., a nephew, was ring bearer.

The bride's chantilly lace over taffeta gown was trimmed at the neckline with iridescent sequins. A juliet cap of lace and pearls held the fingertip veil and she carried stephanotis centered with white orchids.

Albert Wade Anderson served as best man for Mr. Nelson, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Howard N. Nelson, 1114 Cheshire lane, Webster Groves. His other attendants were Charles P. Duncker, William C. Cowdery, Michael Manning, Michael Richmond, Ralph Nelson Jr. of Bloomington, Ind., a cousin, and the bride's brothers, John S. Vickroy and William R. Vickroy, Mamaroneck, N. Y.

After a trip to Kentucky Lake Mr. Nelson and his bride will live in Baton Rouge, La.

of Brookline, Mass., who motored to Providence with their daughter, Mrs. James Gaff Hinkle, and Mrs. Hawley Ward and Mrs. Gilman Perkins, Rochester, N. Y., Dr. and Mrs. Mastin's daughters.

The wedding took place this afternoon at St. Martin's Episcopal Church; the reception was given at the Agawam Hunt Club. Miss Patricia Watson Davis was her sister's maid of honor and Miss Natalie Flather, Miss Caroline Collins and Mrs. Randall Bliss, Providence; Miss Molly Young, New York; Miss Judith Prior of Connecticut, and Miss Frances Hust of Maryland were bridesmaids.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Henry Leverett Trowbridge, best man, and a group of ushers which included three cousins, Charles and Robinson Trowbridge and Charles Smith Jr., and Duncan Mauran, Dudley Devine, New York, and Charles Makepeace.

White silk bombazine was fashioned into a princess gown, with a chapel train, for the bride, who wore an heirloom Brussels lace veil and carried lilies of the valley and gardenias. Miss Davis was in aqua silk organdy which she complemented with lavender larkspur, while the bridesmaids wore pale pink silk organdy and held blue delphinium.

The bride attended Mount Holyoke College. Mr. Trowbridge is a graduate of Hotchkiss School, Lakeville, Conn., and Jonathan Edwards College of Yale, class of 1951, where he joined Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Mr. Trowbridge and his bride will spend their honeymoon in Bermuda and will reside in Providence.

To Install Officers.

Officers for St. Louis Toastmistress Club will be installed Wednesday evening at 6:15 o'clock at the Claridge Hotel, with Mrs. David C. Phillips as president. A program, "St. Louis Activities," will precede the installation which will be conducted by Miss Marguerite Grumme, past international president of Toastmistress Clubs and a member of the St. Louis club. In addition to Mrs. Phillips, other new officers are: Mrs. Marcelline Nevins, vice president; Miss Marie Woehler, secretary, and Mrs. Jacquelin Allen, treasurer.

To Discuss Musical Play.

"Oklahoma," by Rogers and Hammerstein, will be discussed at a meeting of the Rubinstein Music Club Thursday morning at the home of Mrs. W. A. Hummel, 44 Grantwood lane, Affton, at 10:30 o'clock. This will be the last meeting of the club until next fall. Mrs. Kenneth Hartung is program chairman; Mrs. Henry Ruppert is to be co-hostess for Thursday's meeting, and Mrs. Roy Venarde, president; will preside.

malines hat and white accessories, and carried a purse to which she fastened shaded pink slipper orchids. Mrs. Thompson Sr. was in cafe au lait lace over taffeta, with touches of cocoa-colored velvet, and a green malines hat. Green cymbidium orchids were pinned to her purse.

After the ceremony Dr. and Mrs. Neubeiser gave a reception at Glen Echo Country Club. A hedge-bordered walk led from the foyer to the sunroom, where the receiving line formed before an arch of white summer flowers. On the terrace and the lawn small tables with hurricane lamps for centerpieces were arranged for the guests. Two special tables, one, with a lace cloth and roses and lilies of the valley for decoration, was set for the wedding party; the other was for the families.

From out of town came Mr. and Mrs. Peter Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Howell, Beloit, Wis.; Dr. and Mrs. Edward C. Thompson, Champaign, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Flinn, Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gilliland, Kansas City, Mo., all relatives and friends of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Clive Jones, Kenilworth, Ill., former St. Louisans; Dr. Eric Cunningham, Louisiana, Mo.; Andre Noel of Rabat, Morocco, and his daughter, Miss Nicol Noel, who will marry Ens. Miss Barbara Lange, Kenneth K. Baker Jr. Married at Church

THE wedding of Miss Barbara Claire Lange, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Lange, 7828 Gannon avenue, University City, to Kenneth King Baker Jr., took place Saturday afternoon, June 9, in Samuel Evangelical and Reformed Church. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth K. Baker, 7118 Stanford avenue, University City.

Candelabra and greenery provided decorations at the church, where the Rev. Roland H. Pantermuehl performed the ceremony in the presence of a large group of friends. Mr. Lange gave his daughter in marriage. She wore white point d'esprit with short sleeves, a sweetheart neckline and a bouffant skirt, over crinoline, with tiered ruffles down the back. Her short veil was attached to a small seed pearl crown. She carried snow drift pompons and a white orchid.

Mrs. J. Shields Christy was her sister's matron of honor and Miss Linda Lou Baker, the bridegroom's sister, was bridesmaid. Both wore bouffant frocks of white cotton lace, Mrs. Christy's with mint green taffeta interlaced through the skirt and forming a huge bow in back. Her headdress was mint green net with a spray of flowers and her bouquet was made up of white roses, and carnations and green larkspur tips. Miss Baker's costume had a pink sash and bow and her headpiece and flowers were also pink.

Mr. Baker was his son's best man. Ushers were Mr. Christy, Richard F. Lange, the bride's brother, and James Carl.

Mrs. Lange wore mauve nylon chiffon and pink orchids, while Mrs. Baker Sr., was in Copenhagen blue with white orchids.

A dinner for the families and bridal party was given at Le Chateau.

The bride and bridegroom are spending their honeymoon in the Ozarks. They will live here.

Alice Ann Dean Becomes Bride

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, where Mr. and Mrs. John Edgar Dean were married nearly 24 years ago, was the scene Tuesday of the wedding of the Deans' daughter, Miss Alice Ann Dean, and Jerry Loton Wanninger. Woodwardia fern and lighted candles provided the background for the ceremony performed by the Rev. Dr. Frank Porter, who had also married Mr. and Mrs. Dean. The reception was given afterward in the Fellowship Hall of the church. The Deans live at 4475 West Pine boulevard.

The bride wore a white embroidered organdy gown designed with a scalloped neckline and full ballerina skirt scalloped at the hemline and sweeping into a train. A fingertip veil was held to a jeweled shell cap. The bride carried a white fan covered with white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Miss Nancy Wobbe, maid of honor, and Miss Jean and Miss Judith Wanninger, sisters of the bridegroom, and Miss Linda Lee Peters, the bride's cousin, bridesmaids, were in white organdy embroidered in pink and banded with wide pink satin sashes which terminated in bustle bows. Their Amish bonnets were of matching satin.

Mr. Wanninger, son of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Wanninger, 203 Royal avenue, Ferguson, was attended by Robert McNeeley as best man. Ushers were Jack Kuhl, Wayne Heermann, Gene Hoefel and George Vreeland, and Kort John Peters, cousins of the bride.

Patricia Schultze, Wendell K. Stewart Married at Church

THE wedding of Miss Patricia Eleanor Schultze, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rheinholdt Schultze, 5869 Itaska street, and Wendell Kirwin Stewart took place Friday night, June 1, at Tyler Place Presbyterian Church. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Wendell Stewart, 18 South Kingshighway, and the late Dr. Stewart.

Bouquets of white flowers and lighted white candles, against greenery, provided the setting for the ceremony which was performed by the Rev. Dr. Charles Bowler. Guests remained for a reception in the church parlor.

Mr. Schultze gave his daughter in marriage. She was attended by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Raymond Schultze, matron of honor, and Miss Carola Utsche, bridesmaid. Karl Baer was best man for Mr. Stewart whose ushers were Donald Zork, Raymond Schultze and Robert Kern.

The bride wore a white satin gown trimmed with alencon lace, and a fingertip illusion veil gathered to a half-hat of illusion embroidered with sequins. She carried a prayer book covered with white spray orchids and stephanotis. Her attendants were in floor-length aqua taffeta gowns and small matching hats trimmed with brief veils. Their bouquets were pink carnations.

Mr. Stewart and his bride have gone to Houston, Tex., where he is a sophomore at Baylor University Medical School. The bride will return here in the fall to finish her studies at Washington University from which she will be graduated next January.

Bright Angel Point

Union Pacific R. R.

This classic shot of the mammoth abyss of Grand Canyon taken from the north rim is a bright view anytime. This picture was taken in the morning as the first rays of the sun touched the varied array of colors.

IMPROVEMENTS MADE THIS YEAR AT GRAND CANYON

Almost everything will be better at the Grand Canyon this spring except the scenery, the mules and the weather.

Two new highway modernization programs will make the traveling to and from the Canyon easier and more pleasant—particularly for the sunseekers who are already in the Phoenix-Tucson area to the south, and travelers to and from California resort areas.

A one-million-dollar improvement program for facilities on the South Rim is well under way, and the 1956 season is already off to a booming start.

Improvements have been made at the famous resort hotel on the South Rim of the Canyon. Dining facilities have been enlarged and improved at the lodge and a new luncheonette and soda fountain has been opened near the Watchtower at Desert View.

From 1919, when the Grand Canyon was made a National Park, to 1954, the average annual increase in the number of visitors has been 22,000 a year, according to a recent Grand Canyon Travel Survey conducted by the Arizona Highway Department and the United States Bureau of Public Roads in cooperation with the National Park Service.

IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

Out of more than 2000 hostelries of all types in New Hampshire, some are similar, but none are quite the same. They range from tourist homes and small roadside cabin establishments to huge, luxurious hotels that have been famous for generations in the White mountains or along the seacoast.

They vary from the snug, comfortable small inn in a quiet resort town to the modern motel on the outskirts of the busy resort center.

NEW ERA

A new era in vacation travel to Central and South America is in the making, reports A.A.A. After lagging for many years far behind other foreign areas of comparable and even greater distance, the signs finally point to Latin America rising in importance and appeal to travelers of the United States.

Trolling from Cruiser in Gulf Stream

—Delta Air Lines.

Trolling from a cruiser out in the Gulf Stream, but within sight of Miami Beach, is one of the exciting features of a Florida vacation. Over 600 types of game fish teem the tropical waters.

There's Always Manana.
Jamaica's version of the easy-going Spanish "manana" (tomorrow) is contained in the proverbs: "Too much hurry, get dey tomorrow; tek-time, get dey today."

Growing Fast.
Trinidad, southernmost of the West Indies islands, is one of the fastest growing vacation areas in the Caribbean. A new $5,000,000 hotel is scheduled to open early in 1958.

ORAL DECLARATION

An experiment in oral package declaration for travelers to Latin America is being conducted at Miami's international airport. Conditions for the declaration are that a nonresident of the United States may declare orally if he has with him only his personal effects and does not have over one quart of liquor, 50 cigars or 300 cigarettes in his possession.

For American travelers, the oral statement may be made if the value of the articles does not exceed $100 and if he has nothing in his possession on which duty or internal revenue tax is collectable.

FIRST CAPITAL

St. Jago de la Vega, known today as Spanish Town and former capital of Jamaica, British West Indies, was established by Diego Riviera, son of the great explorer Christopher Columbus.

It was established after the Spaniards abandoned Nueva Sevilla, first settlement built by the Spanish on Jamaica's north coast.

MIAMI BEACH 'IDEAL,' SURVEY INDICATES

Entrants in the recent nationwide Mrs. America contest voted two to one for Miami Beach as "the ideal spot for an ideal vacation."

Miami Beach was chosen because of its first-rate entertainment, excellent climate and low prices in spring, summer and autumn, according to a poll conducted by a travel bureau.

Changes in American vacation habits also were revealed in answers to the travel questionnaire submitted by Mrs. America contestants.

The women reported short trips now form a substantial part of periodic family entertainment, with major excursions planned once or twice a year. Long trips, according to the poll, entail no more planning than short ones, and are growing in favor.

Recreation for the entire family is one of the major points in vacation planning, according to the women, and Miami Beach scored highly on this factor also.

A 'TRIP ABROAD' IN TAMPA'S LATIN AREA, YBOR CITY

Does your travel budget say "no" to a trip to foreign lands? Then you may take a trip "abroad" right in Tampa. A very inexpensive trip taken by hundreds of visitors every week of the year.

Many Florida tourists find their flavor of foreign lands in Tampa's Latin Quarter, known as Ybor City. Here in a few square blocks the visitor will find the Old World charm of Spain, Cuba and Italy in one package.

Ybor City was founded by two Cubans in 1886 who set up the cigar industry here. Because Spanish, Italian and Cuban workers came in such large numbers they did not lose their native identity. Instead, they formed a small city of their own within Tampa, and it has remained set apart even to this day.

Today Tampa's Latin population tops 45,000 and is divided fairly equally between Spaniards, Italians and Cubans. Both Spanish and Italian is spoken in the Ybor City stores, clubhouses, restaurants, and coffee houses, often to the exclusion of English.

Besides its sightseeing attraction, most tourists are drawn to Ybor City because of the many fine Spanish restaurants there.

Unlike many other foreign settlements in this country the Spanish, Italian and Cuban flavor is not just a window dressing for the benefit of tourists. The tourist business accounts for only a small share of the income of this Latin Quarter where the cigar industry rules the economy.

The tourist will find the coffee houses, shoppers bargaining over items, the street vendors and curio shops just as in an Old World city.

NORWAY'S NORTH CAPE ROAD TO BE OPENED ON JULY 1

One of the great events in Norway this summer will be the official opening on July 1, by Crown Prince Olav, of the road leading from the world's most northerly village, Honningsvaag to the North Cape plateau.

A daily bus service will operate between Honningsvaag and the North Cape. This is a fascinating trip leading past a Lapp encampment at Nordmannset, through the magnificent Skipsfjord Canyon and past the white "Duken" ("The Tablecloth) mountain. From many points en route there will be a fine view of the Cape with its characteristic "horn."

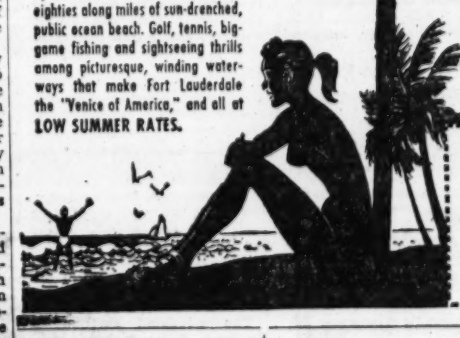

After the last climb up to the 1000 feet high plateau there will be a splendid view of Hornvika, where North Cape bound tourists hitherto have landed by boat. From the pavillion at the top of the Cape the view of the midnight sun and the Arctic ocean is magnificent.

The distance from Honningsvaag to the North Cape is 22 miles.

A CROSS MARKS HOME OF AUTHOR OF FAMOUS HYMN

REED CITY, Mich. — A huge rustic cross at a turnout along Highway U.S. 131, five miles north of Reed City, is erected in front of the home of the Rev. George W. Bennard, author of the popular hymn "The Old Rugged Cross."

Tourists who stop at the dwelling of the retired clergyman receive a genuine welcome.

Another marker in tribute to the Rev. Bennard is a granite stone and plaque in the yard of a country church along Highway M-40, midway between Niles and Cassopolis, where he was pastor at the time he composed the hymn.

NEW ROAD FACILITATES VISIT TO MONTANA LANDMARK

Pompey's Pillar, one of Montana's most famous natural landmarks, will be readily accessible to visitors for the first time this summer.

The Pillar, a rock formation overlooking the Yellowstone river 30 miles east of Billings, was discovered just 150 years ago by Capt. William Clark of the Lewis and Clark Expedition, and named by him for Sacajawea's little son, Pomp.

Like modern tourists, Clark couldn't resist the temptation to carve his name on the huge rock. This summer's visitors will see, neatly and legibly inscribed, "Wm. Clark, July 25, 1806."

The entire area—more than a hundred acres—surrounding Pompey's Pillar is now being made into a park, adjacent to United States Highways 10 and 12, main east-west route through Montana.

The park will feature a replica of a pioneer fur-trading post, built like a fort. Inside the fort, visitors will see some of the state's earliest buildings, including the first cabin in the Yellowstone Valley and the first schoolhouse.

The woodland surrounding Pompey's Pillar is being converted into picnic grounds. Except for picnicking facilities, the area will be preserved in its natural state.

A herd of buffalo will be on hand to add realism, since Clark reported seeing a large herd there, and killing one of the animals for breakfast.

A new road will permit motorists to drive directly to the Pillar.

New Jersey's Resorts.

Over 55 popular shore resort communities and 21 miles of boardwalks lined with seafood restaurants and amusement centers make New Jersey's 120-mile stretch of sand beaches and ocean frontage a key attraction for millions of vacationers each year.

'BERMUDA OF NORTH'

Mackinac island is often called "The Bermuda of the North," since automobiles are not permitted.

Since Bermuda has lifted the ban on cars, Mackinac now holds the distinction of being the only resort area in North America where the horse and carriage and the bicycle are the only modes of transportation.

Far, Far North.

Regular tours are operated from Fairbanks, Alaska, to the farthest north settlement at Pt. Barrow.

Elephant Rocks Near Graniteville

—Massie, Resources and Development.

Elephant Rocks, giant boulders of granite, are located near Graniteville, Mo., in the heart of beautiful Arcadia Valley. They present a fascinating attraction by their huge size and odd forms.

Special Events in Missouri Spotlighted During July

JULY is a big month for folks who like to see special events in Missouri, according to the Missouri Division of Resources and Development. It's a month which starts summer-long activities such as the Shepherd of the Hills Theater, and which includes some of the biggest single events such as the J-Bar-H Rodeo at Camdenton, second largest in attendance in the nation.

The month-long schedule starts off July fourth with the annual Pineville Fourth of July celebration. Standing events, such as the Water Ski Show at Lake Ozark, the Municipal Opera in St. Louis or the Starlight Theater in Kansas City and major league baseball in both of Missouri's major cities, are always a drawing card, too.

July 4-8, the Shepherd of the Hills outdoor Theater in Branson opens with showing of the original stage adaptation of "Shepherd of the Hills" presented by players from Southern Illinois University.

The theater includes, in July, "Dial M For Murder," July 11-13; "Shepherd of the Hills," 14-15; "See How They Run," 18-20; "Shepherd of the Hills," 21-22; "Papa Is All," 25-27 and "Shepherd of the Hills" again July 28-29.

The big J-Bar-H Rodeo at Camdenton, featuring nine contest events including bull fighting in a 60-foot pen, will feature top name cowboys and is expected to draw almost 70,000 people in its six-day program, July 10-15.

Other July events include the third annual Gerald Livestock and Home Show; July 4; the Sullivan Centennial, July 25; the Ravenwood Horse Show, July 27-28 and the State American Legion Convention in St. Joseph July 27-29.

Detailed information on any of these events may be obtained from the Chamber of Commerce in the town where the event occurs or the Missouri Division of Resources and Development, Jefferson bldg., Jefferson City, Mo.

WATER A PART OF BERMUDA'S LEISURELY LIFE

The great variety of water sports is the spice of Bermuda's way of life in the summertime.

The coral reefs that encircle the mid-Atlantic resort make for excellent protected bathing. They also create a majestic ribbon of churning white foam which serves as a pleasing contrast to crystal-clear waters that fill the colony's picturesque bays and harbors. Bermuda's average temperature during the summer is 79 degrees.

There are more than a dozen miles of beaches in Bermuda. Some are long sweeps of unbroken sand while others are divided by romantic coral cliffs into protected little coves. And all covered by a pink-tinted sand—the result of tiny pieces of pink coral being ground fine and smooth by the natural action of wind and waves that is washed up and deposited upon the beach front.

Popular Softball.

Popular with summer visitors to Fort Lauderdale are the nightly softball games at Holiday and Southside parks. Two and three games are played under lights each evening through September.

Married at Church

MRS. CHRISTIAN H. WINKELMANN

Miss Fawcett Becomes Bride

MISS Patricia Jean Fawcett was married yesterday to Christian H. Winkelmann at the Church of the Annunziata. The Rev. Bernard A. Kramer performed the ceremony.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Fawcett, Spoede road, Creve Coeur, had a sister, Miss Kathleen Fawcett, as maid of honor. Her other sister, Miss Nancy Jane Fawcett, Miss Dorothy Maher and Miss Patricia Harshany were bridesmaids and Chrissey Yoey, the bridegroom's godchild, was flower girl. They wore white embroidered organdy dresses over pale green taffeta. Designed with deep round necklines trimmed with white lace, the gowns featured green bustles. Green net bonnets and yellow and white colonial bouquets completed the attendants' costumes.

The former Miss Fawcett wore a silk organdy gown cut on princess lines and trimmed with a wide band of jeweled lace at the neckline. Garlands of the lace were appliqued around the full skirt. A tiny pearl-trimmed bonnet held the bride's veil. Her bouquet was composed of stephanotis and white orchids.

Mr. Winkelmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Christian A. Winkelmann, 3026 Keokuk street, was attended by Carlo S. Bossola as best man. Ushers were Thomas G. Felke, Ernst J. Winkelmann, a cousin, and the bride's brother, Charles W. Fawcett Jr. Thomas J. Fawcett, another brother, was ring bearer.

The wedding party attended a breakfast at Norwood Hills Country Club where additional guests were entertained at an afternoon reception. The bride and bridegroom, who will live here, will visit Colorado Springs, Colo., on their wedding trip.

Miss Thym Married to Dr. N. C. Clements

cap. She carried a spray of white orchids and feathered carnations.

Miss Carol Cullenbine served as maid of honor and Mrs. James Martin (Deborah Bair), Bainbridge, Ga., was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Mary Nelson Lawnin, Miss Eleanor Rowland and Miss Marjorie Liss, Schnectady, N.Y. They wore sheer white gowns, over pink taffeta, designed with fitted bodices and circular skirts. Wide, crushed pink taffeta sashes formed large poufs at back and pink taffeta headbands with veiling covered their hair. They carried pink split carnation sprays, the honor attendants' bouquets distinguished by the addition of clusters of red roses.

Dr. Clements is the son of Mrs. Gretchen Hartmann Clements of Dayton, O., who was here for the wedding, and George B. Clements of Tucson, Ariz. Theodore Floridis of Dayton served as best man and Theodore Stoycos and Warren Kandall Parker, Dayton; Howard R. Nay, Wheeling, W. Va., and Robert Henry Thym, brother of the bride, were ushers.

The reception was given at the University Club. White snapdragons and asters adorned the bridal table while tables for the guests were centered with hurricane lamps, holding pink candles, surrounded by pink carnations.

The bride and bridegroom, who will spend their honeymoon on Nantucket, Mass., will live in New York. A graduate of Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons on June 5, Dr. Clements will begin serving his internship July 1 at Bellevue Hospital in New York. The former Miss Thym received her degree in nursing last Sunday from Skidmore College.

Play Day for Club.

St. Louis Shakespeare Drama Study Club had its annual Play day Wednesday at St. Albans at which time the program for next season was outlined. Mrs. William A. Hoeflin is president and Mrs. Harris Herbert is program chairmen. Hostesses for Play day were Mrs. William A. Adams, Mrs. Herbert, Mrs. R. Walter Thomas, Mrs. Edward Ferrenbach and Mrs. Charles E. Luntz. The group will resume activities in the fall.

MRS. DONALD SMITH WILSON

MRS. ALAN ESCHENROEDER

Polly Harrison Is Married to D. S. Wilson

THE wedding of Miss Polly Randall Harrison and Donald Smith Wilson took place June 9 in Washington, D. C., at Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Church, where the bride's grandmother was married and where her great-grandmother shared her pew with President McKinley. One end of the pew is marked "Haines," the family's name, and the other end "President." The bride is the daughter of R. Adm. (ret.) and Mrs. Lloyd Harrison, 5 South Hartnett avenue, Ferguson, who gave a reception afterward at the Woman's Club of Chevy Chase, Md.

Ivory silk satin, brought by the bride's father from Hong Kong, was fashioned into the wedding dress, which was princess styled and had an heirloom lace collar. The Brussels lace veil was previously worn by six brides in Mrs. Harrison's family. The bride carried a white Bible from which cascaded gardenias, roses and baby's breath.

Miss Nancy Brooke Peterson of San Francisco, former roommate of the bride at Stephens College, served as maid of honor in deep green chiffon, waltz length, with a darker green cummerbund and carried a basket of red roses and white garden flowers. Bridesmaids: Mrs. Joseph Strasser, Miss Martha Moncier, Knoxville, Tenn., the bride's cousin; Miss Christine Wilson, Boston, the bridegroom's sister, and Miss Marilyn Hiltibidle and Miss Jane Hickson, Washington, wore similar gowns in pale green. They carried baskets filled with white peonies, daisies and pink roses. All attendants wore green hairbraid hats.

The bridegrom, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson of Washington and Orleans, Mass., on Cape Cod, had his brother, Neal Wilson, as best man. Two brothers of the bride, Lloyd Harrison Jr., St. Louis, and William S. Harrison, a Washington and Lee University student; Bruce Wetmore, Bradley Hanson and Len Bolz, all of Washington, were ushers. Mr. Wilson and his bride will reside in Bethesda, Md., after a wedding trip South. He is a Navy architect with the Bureau of Ships.

Miss Wood Married To Gordon M. Beaver

MISS MARY JOYCE WOOD, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Lyman T. Wood, 321 East Swon avenue, Webster Groves, and Gordon Manley Beaver, St. Joseph, Mo., were married Friday night, June 8 at Webster Groves Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Dr. Harry T. Scherer performed the ceremony in a setting of white flowers and candlelight. Guests remained for a reception in Fellowship Hall of the church.

Miss Dorothy Gould was maid of honor; the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. L. Ralph Wood, was matron of honor; Miss Lynn Munger and Mr. Beaver's sister, Miss Mary Beaver, were bridesmaids, and the bride's niece, Cathy Lynn Wood, was flower girl. Dr. Wood gave his daughter in marriage.

Mr. Beaver, son of Mrs. Gordon Beaver, St. Joseph, and the late Mr. Beaver, had Robert Wilson as best man. Mr. Beaver's uncle, Wilson Huntsman, St. Joseph; Edward Morris, Kansas City; Roger Robenson, St. Joseph, and L. Ralph Wood were ushers.

The bride wore a floor-length lace and tulle gown and a fingertip illusion veil gathered to a lace cap. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and carnations. Her adult attendants were in white lace and net dresses and held bouquets of lavender carnations which matched the flowers they wore in their hair. The flower girl wore a white nylon frock, embroidered with small pink flowers, and had a nosegay of miniature pink roses.

Mr. Beaver and his bride will live in St. Louis.

Thomas-Bonville June Wedding

A LARGE group of St. Louisans motored to the wedding at First Presbyterian Church in Belleville last evening of Miss Virginia Bonville and Ens. Robert Morgan

—Martin Schweig Photograph.
MRS. ROBERT M. THOMAS

Thomas, stationed with the Navy at Freeport, Tex. The Rev. Dr. Frank Eversull officated at the ceremony, which was followed by a reception in adjoining parlors, given by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth William Bonville, Belleville.

The bride's gown of blush silk taffeta was distinguished by embroidered organza outlining the portrait peckline and ornamenting the bouffant chapel length skirt. A silk taffeta bonnet secured her finger-tip length veil. She carried lilies of the valley.

Miss Cynthia Haw served as maid of honor in a porcelain blue linen dress complemented by a blue bonnet and a bouquet of white carnations and baby's breath. Bridesmaids, similarly attired, were Mrs. George F. Gunn, Miss Mary Karon, Springfield, Ill.; Miss Carole Lakeman, Chicago, Ill.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas of Belleville, was attended by John Rudy of Indianapolis as best man. Ushers were Clark Wagner and Richard Tinkham, Hammond, Ind.; Thomas Basich, Chicago; Raymond McCallister and William David Bonville, the bride's brother, and Charles Lawrence Thomas, the bridegroom's brother.

After a wedding trip to Havana, the young couple will live at Lake Jackson, Tex.

The bride is a graduate of Washington University, where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and prominent in student activities. Mr. Thomas attended Washington and DePauw University before graduating from the University of Miami at Coral Gables, Fla.

Elizabeth Roehl Is Married at Ladue Chapel

AT a candlelight ceremony at Ladue Chapel last night Miss Elizabeth Janet Roehl and Army Lt. Alan Q. Eschenroeder were united in marriage by the Rev. Dr. W. Davidson McDowell. After the ceremony the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Joseph Roehl, 2814 North Geyer road, Frontenac, gave a reception at Le Chateau.

A chantilly lace gown trimmed with pearls and sweeping into a chapel train was worn by the bride whose veil was secured to a pearl tiara. She carried white stephanotis and orchids. Mrs. James W. Fullerton, matron of honor for her sister, wore white organdy over yellow taffeta with a yellow straw picture hat and carried matching daisies in a nosegay. Bridesmaids, Miss Mareth Sandrock and Miss Frances Doherty of Verona, N.J., wore similar gowns of white over aqua, had aqua picture hats and carried daisies to match.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Eschenroeder, 695 Hawbrook road, Glendale, had his brother, Dr. Harry Cappel Eschenroeder, as best man. Serving as ushers were Richard A. Strouce, Bethlehem, Pa.; Carl Hobelman, Harrington Park, N.J.; Lt. Harry Schlafman, U.S.A., Fort Story, Va., and Robert Busse, the bridegroom's cousin.

The former Miss Roehl, an honor graduate of Mary Institute, has been studying home economics at Cornell University, from which her husband was graduated a year ago. He and his bride will spend the next year at Aberdeen (Md.) Proving Ground, after which he will return to Cornell for graduate work and she will resume her studies toward a degree. His fraternal organizations are Tau Beta Pi and Pi Tau Sigma, engineering; Phi Kappa Phi, scholastic; Sigma Chi and Quill and Dagger, senior men's activities society. They will spend their honeymoon in Bermuda.

Betty Auer Married To M. Alan Sickles

THE Stockholm room of the Park Plaza Hotel was the scene of the marriage June 2 of Miss Betty Auer, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Albert E. Auer, 18 Ladel court, Olivette, to M. Alan Sickles of Philadelphia.

The bride chose a bouffant gown of flesh-colored organza, trimmed at the shoulders with pearls, and carried pink Cymbidium orchids and lilies of the valley arranged on a white family Bible. Mrs. Philip Wit of Philadelphia, the bridegroom's sister, matron of honor, wore pink taffeta and carried pink garnet roses. William Bloom of Miami Shores, Fla., served as best man.

Present for the wedding were the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morton Sickles of Philadelphia. After a wedding trip to Bermuda he and his bride will live in Elkins Park, Pa.

Prosposed St. Luke's Hospital Medical Building on Delmar

Sketch of the proposed eight-story medical building for St. Luke's Hospital staff members, designed for the western edge of the hospital's site at 5535 Delmar boulevard. A glass-enclosed arcade would connect it at second floor level with the hospital. The building would be financed by a loan to be amortized by rentals. Wells & Wells, architects and engineers, developed the preliminary plans.

McDonnell Aircraft Corporation's New $1,000,000 Office Building Completed

Continued McDonnell expansion at Lambert-St. Louis Municipal Airport is evidenced by the completed Missile Engineering building pictured in the foreground. Occupied within the past week, the new structure houses 500 of McDonnell's 16,200 personnel. The excavation, in the rear of the building, is for the second in a proposed group of buildings which will form the company's "Engineering Campus" at Lindbergh boulevard and Brown road. Plans are for three complete engineering divisions—airplane, helicopter and missile—to explore and develop aeronautical science.

Medical Building Is Proposed

A proposal for the erection of an eight - story air-conditioned medical building at St. Luke's Hospital, 5535 Delmar boulevard, was presented this past week to members of St. Luke's medical staff by the hospital's board of directors.

The structure, which would be known as St. Luke's Hospital Medical Building, would provide office space for St. Luke's Hospital staff members only.

Construction would be financed by a loan to be amortized by rentals.

Of concrete and steel construction, the Medical Building would be located west of the main hospital in an area now used for parking.

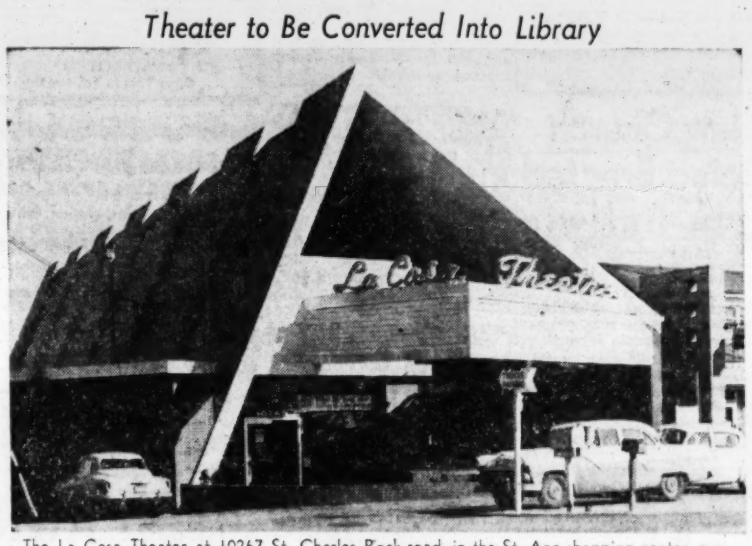

A glass enclosed arcade would connect it at the second floor level with the hospital proper. Floor space would total more than 55,000 square feet, of which approximately 43,000 would be planned to provide from 40 to 50 office suites.

In announcing the proposed project, the hospital's board president, Eugene F. Williams, Jr., said, "It is our belief that the new building would be one of the most significant developments in St. Louis hospital history. Convenience of geographical location, easy and direct access to all the facilities of the hospital proper, and ample parking would be advantageous for doctor and patient alike."

Two new parking lots to serve the expanded hospital and the medical building are contemplated, it was announced.

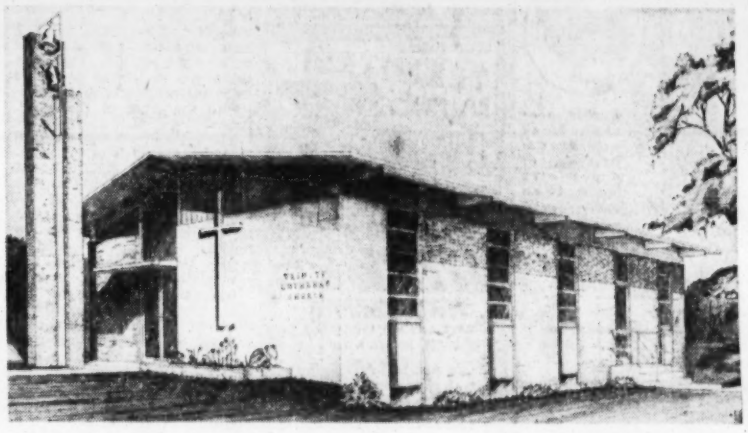

It is estimated that the Medical Building would be ready for occupancy early in 1958. Wells and Wells, architects and engineers, have developed the preliminary sketches and plans.

Theater to Be Converted Into Library

The La Cosa Theater at 10267 St. Charles Rock road, in the St. Ann shopping center, purchased by the St. Louis County Library from Charles F. Vatterott Jr., developer of the community. The air-conditioned building will be remodeled into a library. The St. Louis Amusement Co. canceled its long-term lease as part of the negotiations.

Church Under Construction in Ballwin

Drawing of the Trinity Lutheran Church being erected in section four of Westridge Acres subdivision, south of Clayton road in Ballwin, Mo. Completion is scheduled for September, according to the Rev. Gustav Schupman, pastor. Future plans are for a school adjacent to the church. Arthur B. Rathert is architect and George Paffett, general contractor.

McDonnell Building Finished

McDonnell Aircraft Corporation's missile engineers are moving into their new $1,000,000 office building, the first of a series of structures that will form an "engineering campus" on the company owned 16-acre tract at Lindbergh boulevard and Brown road, near Lambert-St. Louis Municipal Airport.

This latest addition in the company's expansion program of more than $20,000,000 embodies the latest in architectural progress, both inside and out. The rectangular, two-story building contains approximately 34,000 square feet of floor space to be utilized for the engineering and administrative activities of the Missile Engineering division.

Exterior treatment and open landscaping are designed to provide the "engineering campus" effect different for the usual industrial practice. The layout and landscaping are enhanced by a free-form pool with fountains that also serve as "cooling towers" to dissipate heat removed from the building by the air-conditioning equipment.

Exterior construction is colorful, with porcelain enameled panels in spruce greeen at either end, gunmetal gray bands between windows on the long sides and vermillion red panels setting of the sides of the lobby entrance.

The foundation area up to the first floor level is of rounded granite paving stones with a color range of pink through blue.

The back or south side of the building has yellow translucent plastic sunshades over the windows and, except for the glass entrance, is similar in appearance to the front of the building.

The interior of the new building has acoustical ceilings with concealed lighting, asphalt tile floors and porcelain enameled steel for the interior faces of walls beneath the windows. Interior end walls will be plastered, and stairwells will be of architectural concrete.

The lobby is entered through glass revolving doors and its interior is of wood, with a natural walnut finish.

The building is designed to provide maximum comfort. Irritating factors, such as sun beating in through unshaded windows, stuffiness, temperatures too hot or too cold, are eliminated by an effectively-planned combination of build-

Theater To Become A Library

The St. Louis County Library has purchased the La Cosa Theater at 10267 St. Charles Rock Road, in the St. Ann shopping center, for conversation to a library building for St. Ann and the northwest county area, according to Charles F. Vatterott Jr., developer of the community.

The building was occupied by the St. Louis Amusement Co., which has canceled its long-term lease as part of the negotiations.

The 750-seat theater is on a tract of ground with a 225-car parking lot which the library is acquiring with the building. Plans are for remodeling to convert the building which is air-conditioned.

Two other tenants occupy portions of the building. The St. Ann Savings and Loan Association will vacate its office in the building sometime during the summer. The St. Ann Junior Achievement, which occupies the basement under an existing nominal lease arrangement from the St. Louis Amusement Co., will continue to occupy the quarters.

The purchase is in accordance with the library's policy of locating in primary commercial type locations rather than secondary locations, and of utilizing commercial type structures

Lazar Opens Sixth Appliance Store In St. Louis Area

Starting tomorrow and continuing during the week, Lazar and Sons will celebrate the opening of its sixth appliance store in the Greater St. Louis area. The new unit is at 1131 Brentwood boulevard, Richmond Heights. A color television set will be awarded as grand prize in the celebration.

Other Lazar stores are at 2206 South Broadway, 2120 South Broadway, 8632 Gravois, Affton, 6602 West Florissant, Jennings and 10473 St. Charles Rock road.

Lazar and Sons is a family organization consisting of Lazar Giulvezan, Sr., founder of the company, and four sons, George, John, Nick and Pete. Larry Martin is manager of the new store in Richmond Heights and Elmer Austermann of the outlet in Jennings.

Third Expansion On Olive for Firm

Church-Craft Pictures have leased an additional 4500 square feet of ground floor space at 3309 Olive street for its third expansion in the building during the past 10 years.

Church-Craft is a national distributor of religious color film and educational material.

The property is owned by the Idalene Hotel Co., headed by Harry Israel. The lease was negotiated by the Carl G. Stifel Realty Co., managing agent for the property.

Insurance Company Buys Corner Lot at Sixteenth and Olive

Vacant property at the northwest corner of Sixteenth and Olive streets has been purchased by General American Life Insurance Co. from the Ide Co., Inc., a holding company of Glick Real Estate Co.

The site fronts 140 feet on Olive and 109 feet on Sixteenth. It was reported that the purchaser plans to use the ground for a parking area at present and for expansion later.

Whitelaw T. Terry represented the insurance company, with the Glick Real Estate Co. acting for the seller.

$1,750,000 Addition Started

Breaking ground for the new Chase Hotel ballroom and annex are, from left: John Bryan, executive vice president of the Hotel Association of St. Louis; Mayor Raymond R. Tucker; Harold Koplar, president of Chase Hotel, and Frederick H. Rein, executive secretary of St. Louis Convention and Publicity Bureau. The new ballroom, to be completed by Dec. 1, will have a capacity of 2200 in auditorium setting and 1600 in banquet arrangement; an 18,000 square-foot exposition hall in the basement with an additional 10,000 square feet of storage space in the subbasement. Latest features, including ceiling of thin-shell construction, developed recently in Mexico, will be used in the building. The nine-story addition will be erected between the east end of the Chase and joined with the Chester apartments on Lindell, will add 45 rooms to the hotel's 500-room capacity. Contracts have been awarded to the Fruin-Colnon Contracting Co. as general contractor.

New Buildings to Be Started Within 60 Days for Biscuit, Box Board, Appliance Firms

In a diversified real estate transaction motivated by the distribution of electrical appliances, corrugated boxes and bakery products, three companies have purchased ground in the newly developed Lindbergh-Warson Industrial Center and announced plans to start construction of three new building projects on the St. Louis county site.

The Lindbergh-Warson Industrial Center, which was planned by Harland Bartholomew & Associates, is a 2,000,000-square-foot industrial community east of Lindbergh boulevard, midway between Page boulevard and Olive Street road. The development is served by the Rock Island Railroad.

Headlining the list of purchasers of the industrial ground was the General Electric Appliance Co., of the General Electric Corp., which acquired more than 300,000 square feet of ground for a large new distribution showroom and warehouse building.

Present operations at the existing warehouse site at 5021 Fyler avenue warrant a move to larger quarters, and the expansion provides for a modern 128,000-square-foot warehouse, served by rail siding and truck-loading facilities. The building, 255 by 500 feet, is to be on the south side of Lindbergh-Warson Industrial Center, with the front elevation of the building along a 320-foot frontage on Warson road.

G-E Appliances Co. began operations in the St. Louis area after World War II at 1031 North Grand avenue. In 1949, it built and moved into the 80,000-square-foot office and warehouse on Fyler avenue.

This department of the General Electric Co. is distributor for G-E products in Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas and Oklahoma. The company expects to occupy its new quarters about April 15, 1957.

Directly west of the General Electric site, the American Box Board Co. purchased more than 200,000 square feet of ground.

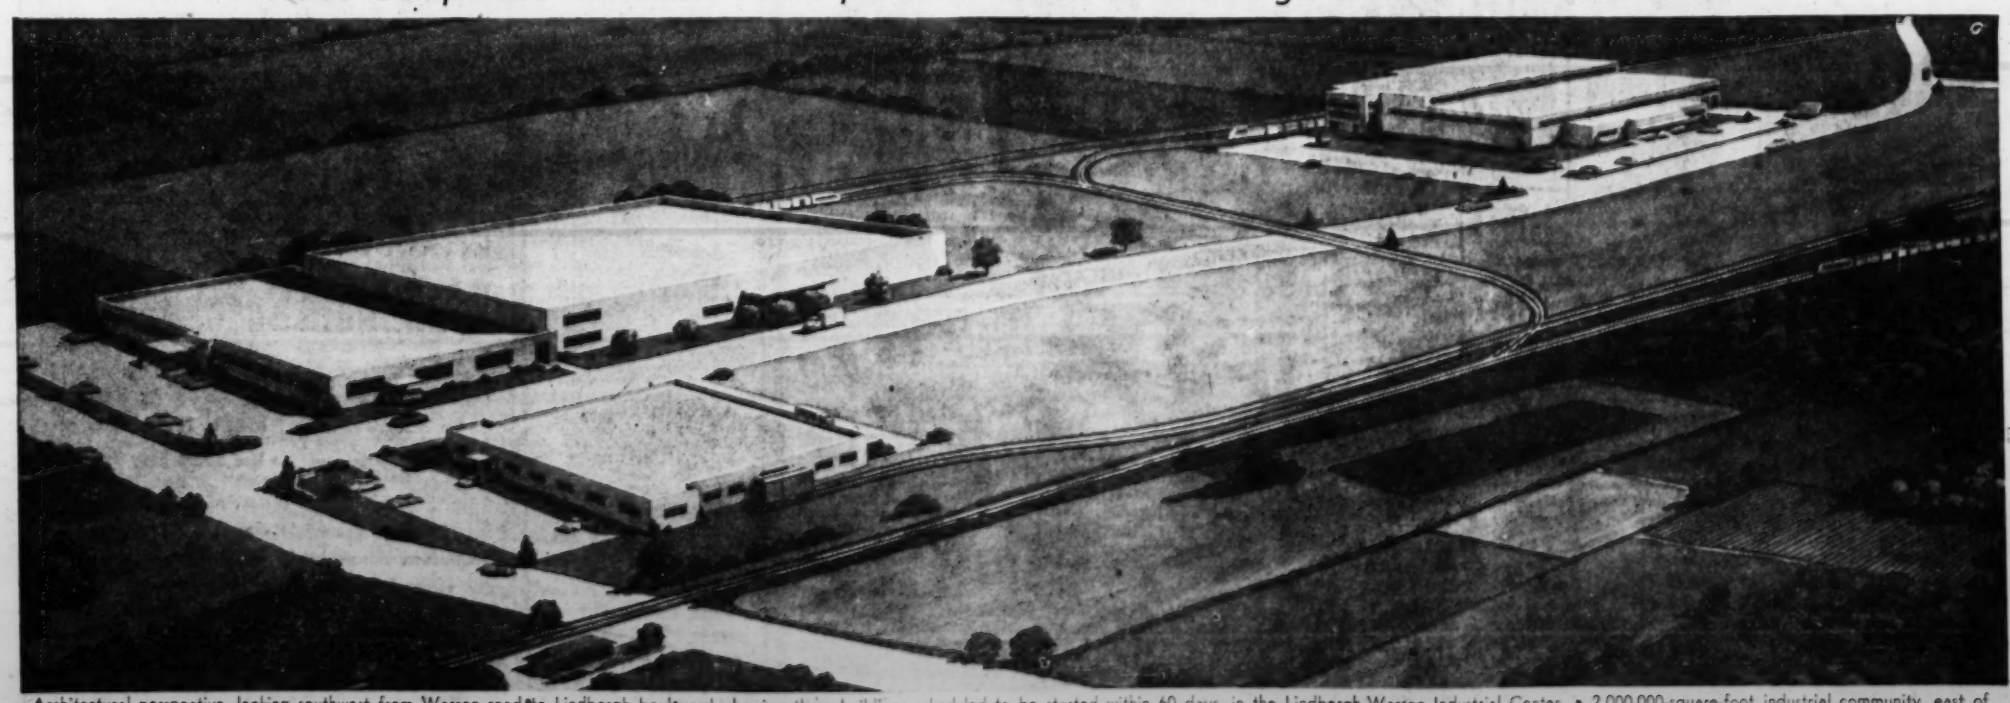

Details of the new corrugated shipping container plant to be built for the company, a 53-year-old organization with headquarters in Grand Rapids, Mich., were announced this week by the company president, Walter S. Goodspeed. The plant will be separately incorporated as the American Box Board Company, Inc. of Mo.

The Standard Paper Co., which has the sales offices for the American Box Board Company in this area, states that the new plant will provide additional service to its customers.

This project will become the Expansion For Church Is Finished

A $175,000 expansion and modernization program for the University Methodist Church, 6901 Washington avenue, University City, has been completed and dedicatory services are scheduled for 11 a.m. today, with Bishop Ivan Lee Holt delivering the sermon. Bishop Holt delivered his first sermon in this 48-year-old institution.

Dr. John F. Caskey, who occupied the pulpit for more than a quarter century, will participate in the ceremonies with Dr. Herman A. Luetzow, superintendent of the St. Louis district of Methodist churches.

The improvement program was designed by P. John Hoerner and Associates, architects, and the general contract was awarded to Vollmar Bros. Construction Co. According to Rev. Jesse E. Thomas, present minister, the work was completed within cost and time schedules.

The program included construction of a two-story and basement educational wing, which squares off the northwest corner of the main building. The additional 7500 square feet houses two study rooms, a choir room, three nursery rooms, a kitchen, two kindergarden rooms and a college class room.

Modern design predominates in the interior of the structure, with some of the class rooms having the ceiling and three walls painted buff, and the remaining wall in a brilliant shade of cardinal red. Woodwork in all rooms, including built-in cabinets and cloak rooms, is "leaded" oak.

With economy of construction being a major consideration, it was decided to construct the educational wing of light-colored brick, to form a deliberate contrast to the stone of the original structure. On the east wall of the building, where a new entrance vestibule and stair were added, the face stone was reclaimed and used to retain architectural continuity to the front of the structure.

The old stairway was removed to add more room to the original educational facilities. A narrow winding stair at the rear of the building also was removed and the space converted to corridors connecting the old building with the new addition. A new stair was built into the rear of the new wing.

General modernization of the older areas involved partitioning a 15 by 40-foot area out of a class room for conversion into a new church office and pastor study.

A room which served as the construction office during the building program, has been converted into a sanctuary storage area. Second floor improvements include the installation of a kitchen with new skylights and exhaust fans.

Church activity was uninterrupted throughout construction, which started last July.

Dedicatory Services Today

A $175,000 modernization and expansion program has been completed for the University Methodist Church, 6901 Washington avenue, University City, and Bishop Ivan Lee Holt will deliver the sermon at dedicatory services scheduled for 11 o'clock this morning. P. John Hoerner and Associates were architects with Vollmar Bros. Construction Co. as general contractor.

Five Local Builders Attend Finance Clinic Held in Des Moines

Five members of the Home Builders Association of Greater St. Louis attended a regional Mortgage Finance Clinic held in Des Moines, Ia., the past week. The one day meeting was sponsored by the mortgage finance department of the National Association of Home Builders.

The program opened with a panel discussion covering FHA, VA, and conventional financing. The afternoon session was devoted to an informal discussion of current FHA-VA requirements and procedures regarding cost estimation, compliance inspections and mortgage credit analysis.

Local builder members attending were: Bernard McManus, who heads his own building firm; Elmer Vorhof and Chester O. Disss, affiliated with Milton Construction Co.; Richard E. Stoughton with C. T. Wilson Homes, Inc., and Burt Wenneker of L. J. Wenneker, Inc.

Realty Board Dinner

The St. Louis Real Estate Board will hold its annual dinner dance for members and guests Thursday evening at Norwood Hills Country Club, according to Quentin P. Alt, committee chairman. Dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. on the terrace, followed by dancing.

New Church Being Erected In Ballwin

Construction of the new Trinity Lutheran Church in Westridge Acres subdivision has been started and completion is scheduled in September, according to the Rev. Gustav Schupman, pastor.

"The Trinity Lutheran Church is the second in a group of churches and schools to be built in Westridge Acres," said Dale J. Notestine, president of St. Louis Construction Co., developers of the 500-home community. A shopping center is the next phase of construction planned for the development.

Site of the new church is in Ballwin, south of Clayton road, inside the main entrance to section four of Westridge Acres. The building will front Kehrs Mill road on the north, on Sunset drive on the east, and on Crestland drive on the south.

Arthur B. Rathert, architect, designed it in conservative contemporary styling. George Paffett is general contractor.

The front of the church, which will be two stories high, will have a Pitford stone panel, reaching gable height, one half of the way across. That portion of the gable will be done in textured spandrel wood. The other half of the front wall will be of glass and brick.

The entrance area will be of glass from ground level to roof, a brick belfry to the left.

All windows will be aluminum with "cool-light" glass, extending almost to the roof. Textured wood spandrel walls run from the sills to the head of the basement windows, providing contrast to the brick wall panels dividing them. An element of height is attained through the columnar arrangement of window panels.

Low pitched in design, the roof will be built-up with tar and white crushed marble over plywood decking on laminated beams with a large overhang on gable and eave ends. "A white roof of low pitched design has two purposes," according to the architect. "It not only is attractive, but is also an excellent barrier against the heat rays of the sun."

The floor plan, in addition to the main assembly area, includes a sanctuary, vestibule, altar, office, organ room, and sound-proof nursery. "V"-jointed decking supported by exposed laminated wood beams will complete the ceiling.

In the beginning, the main portion of the basement will be used for Sunday school classes. Later, a kitchen and air-conditioning system will be added.

Future plans are for an addition of a new school adjacent to the church. Presently the congregation is holding services in the American Legion Hall in Manchester, Mo.

The Rev. Gustav Schupman will be assisted by the Rev. Albert M. Schupman.

with parking facilities rather than institutional type buildings.

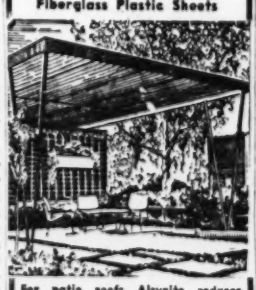

It is estimated that the acquisition cost, including the remodeling, will be considerably less than newly built quarters of similar size and with similar equipment.

Negotiations were handled directly between Vatterott, as owner of the property, the St. Louis Amusement Co., as tenant, and the St. Louis County Library, as purchaser.

Real Estate Women Will Be Honored

St. Louis women in real estate will be honored Wed., June 20, when the Women's Division St. Louis Real Estate Board will sponsor a special day for them, according to Clara Pendleton Welsch, president of the Division.

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker will issue a proclamation proclaiming the day "Women in Real Estate Day."

Women in all phases of real estate business, who are associated with companies affiliated with the St. Louis Real Estate Board, will be honored with luncheons in various parts of the city and county and a dinner at the Congress Hotel.

Included will be women in the real estate departments of banks, building companies, mortgage lending agencies and title companies.

The downtown luncheon will be held in the St. Louis Room of Famous-Barr with Marie Holman Morris in charge. The south side group will meet at Bevo Mill with Arlene Fischer in charge. The north side meeting will be at Howard Johnsons with Mary Linton in charge. The county women are scheduled to meet at Stix, Baer & Fuller tea room with Allison DeLustro in charge.

Special recognition will be paid to Nell Hurley Gross, real estate editor of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Since she will be sailing for Europe on that day she will be unable to be present.

The following, each of whom has contributed 25 years or more of service with a realtor organization, will be presented with placques at the dinner in recognition of their services, by Clarence C. Lang, executive secretary of the St. Louis Real Estate Board:

ing orientation, window design and balanced air-conditioning.

This was made possible by using a relatively narrow structure with floor-to ceiling windows along the entire length of the northern exposure to take advantage of natural north lighting. Along the south side, projecting horizontal overhangs prevent direct sunlight from entering.

A sloping "studio" type of ceiling on the second floor permits the natural north light to penetrate the width of the working area.

All windows are of the sealed "vaccuum sandwich"-type of glass that prevents heat transfer through the glass, and helps to maintain uniform temperatures.

The interior also has been color conditioned. Both end walls are finish in a textured golden brown that complements the simulated cork tile floors. All supporting columns are spruce green and all doors are dark red to accent the general color scheme. The main lobby is paneled in natural walnut, with the main entrance doors of heavy tempered glass slabs.

The structure was designed by Harris Armstrong, architect, and built by the Gamble Construction Co.

Parking for personnel has been planned with emphasis on easy access as well as ample space. A parking lot on the east and south of the building will accommodate the cars of McDonnell employes, spaces are assigned on the circular entry drive for visitors and official cars.

"Where You Can Buy With Confidence"

FHA Steps Up Trade-In Home Plan

Under the terms of the recently-expanded trade-in house program of the Federal Housing Administration, real estate dealers are in a position to help home-owners buy a better house with almost the same ease with which they turn in their car on the purchase of a new model, Eugene P. Conser, executive vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, said yesterday.

Through the new FHA action, Conser explained, the real estate broker now is able to qualify for loan insurance in taking over the present home. This makes it easier for him to arrange for interim financing, accept title to the original home and arrange for a client's equity as down payment on the purchase of a second home.

Before FHA took this action, only builders were able to take part in the trade-in program in this manner.

"This plan can be a real boon to families who need either to expand or to contract their housing facilities," Conser said. "A family needing a larger home hesitates to take title to a second home until the old home has been sold and cash received, unless it has substantial cash reserves.

"Likewise, a family hesitates to offer its present home for sale unless it holds at least an option for the purchase of the home of its choice. The resulting complications discourage many families from making a change.

"Now the dealer, with relatively small capital of his own, can be the intermediary through which the change from one home to another is made without danger that the client will find himself financially embarrassed with two homes on his hands at the same time."

Three groups of families will benefit from the trade-in program, Conser reported. The first, and probably largest, group is made up of families now owning two-bedroom homes. Since these homes were bought, the birth of children has made them either uncomfortably crowded or definitely too small. Families in this group are in the market for three-bedroom houses, and many will find the best buys among existing houses, he said.

Making up the second group, also substantial in size, are families enjoying increased incomes who wish to upgrade their housing in the same way that a car-owner turns in a low-priced car on one in the middle price range.

There are also many couples whose children have grown up and established homes of their own. These people are thinking of exchanging their present home for a smaller and more easily maintained one, Conser said.

Many realtors expect the revised FHA trade-in rules to have a marked effect on NAREB's efforts to aid the nation-wide drive to eliminate slums. By making it possible for middle-income families to upgrade their housing standards, thousands of good quality homes will be made available to families now living in less desirable neighborhoods, Conser concluded.

Mount Vernon-Style House in Ladue Sold

Four-bedroom, white brick Colonial design residence at No. 5 Wickersham sold for Mr. and Mrs. Russell A. MacDonald to Mr. and Mrs. V. V. Netchvolodoff. It is air conditioned and on a three-quarter-acre tract. Both parties were represented by Laura McCarthy, Inc.

New Subdivision In County Features Split-Level Design

Approximately 10,000 persons attended the opening last Sunday of the 185-home Winston Park subdivision off Sulphur Springs road in Manchester, Mo., according to Richard T. Murray, general manager of the Parkchester Development Corporation, developer.

He said the development marks the first time in the St. Louis area that a subdivision of this size is under construction with all homes of split-level design. According to officials of the General Electric Co., it is the first time in the United States that a subdivision of moderate - priced homes has been equipped with year-'round air-conditioning with a heat pump which requires no fuel to heat or water to cool.

The architect, Frank McGuire, designed the homes "with the family in mind."

The houses are built with three separate living levels to give the advantage of an upstairs-downstairs home. The levels are estimated to be only five short steps from each other. There is also a fourth level, a full basement designed to be converted into a rathskeller if desired.

Each home contains a garage and large family area on one level; three bedrooms and two full baths on a second level; living room, dining room and kitchen area on another, and a basement on a fourth level.

Other features include:

Wide areas of glass to give a panoramic view of the site; full-wall brick fireplaces; open beam ceilings, and glass-walled kitchens.

The heating and air conditioning unit pumps heat out of the air in summer, into the air in winter. The subdivision will have concrete streets, storm and sanitary sewers.

Display homes, open daily, are furnished by the General Furniture Co.

Last Leases In Northland Are Signed

Signing of the final lease to complete occupancy of all 44 stores in Northland Shopping Center was announced this week by G. J. Nooney & Co., developers and operators of the 62-acre retail center.

The lease was for an 1100-square-foot store to be occupied by Mavrakos Candy in the corner of the upper level nearest to West Florissant avenue. Interior construction and decoration will start immediately for completion in time for opening of the store in September. This will be the thirteenth store in the Mavrakos chain.

Two other tenants of the shopping center will open in August and September. They are Pope's Cafeteria, in a space of 5800 square feet, and Western Auto Co. in a 4900-square-foot store. This will be Western Auto's tenth store in the St. Louis area.

The cafeteria will be Pope's third operation in the area and the first in the county. Other locations are at Eighth and Washington and Grand and Washington.

G. J. Nooney, president of the development company, said: "Opening of the last three stores in Northland fulfills our objective of bringing to the St. Louis area a complete auto-age regional shopping center, including everything from a large, up-to-date department store to a bank."

Northland Shopping Center has a parking area for more than 5000 cars. First stores in the center were opened last August and all except the last three tenants are now in operation.

New Building

company's seventh box plant in the Midwest and will contain facilities and machinery to make all types of corrugated shipping containers. American Box Board is an integrated paper board manufacturer with its own mills and timberlands.

The company's mills are at Grand Rapids and Filer City, Mich., with box plants at Grand Rapids and Kalamazzo, Mich., Chicago, Ill., and Madison and Colby, Wis.

The new plant, designed for any area of 112,000 square feet, will be of structural steel framework and will be divided into 60 by 50-feet bays with structural bar joists supporting an insulated steel roof deck.

The building will have a concrete floor and concrete block walls. The plant, fronting on Baur boulevard will contain 3500 feet of air-conditioned office space. Exterior construction will be of brick.

The third transaction was with the United Biscuit Co. of America for a one and a half-acre tract at the northeast corner of the Lindbergh-Warson Industrial Center as a site for a distribution warehouse for the Sawyer Biscuit Division of Melrose Park, Illinois.

The new structure will replace the present distribution building at 1110 North Sixth street. It is designed for 25,000 square feet of warehouse and office space, served by rail siding and trucking facilities, and will front on Warson road.

In announcing the sale of the three parcels of ground, Andrew H. Baur, president of Industrial Properties, Inc., planners and developers of the Lindbergh-Warson Industrial Center, expressed the belief that the development of controlled and zoned industrial subdivisions would start a new phase in county real estate transactions.

"Judging from the calibre and interests of our clients," Baur stated, "industry is interested in and is requiring attractively planned industrial communities which offer large tracts with access to adequate rail and highway facilities serving the Metropolitan St. Louis area."

Negotiations for the three transactions were handled by the Edward L. Bakewell Real Estate Co., with Edward L. Bakewell, Jr., as sales agent for the development.

Builder Buys 20 Lots

Twenty lots in Larimore Hills subdivision, just off Larimore road on Walker, June and Prigge avenues, have been sold by the Northdale Investment Co. to Ira McClellan, builder, who plans to erect bungalows on the sites. John H. Armbruster & Co. was agent in the sale.

Concrete-Bubble House.

A concrete-bubble house, a house with a cork exterior, and another with a swimming pool patio are three of the 29 best contemporary architect-designed houses featured in Record Houses of 1956 published by F. W. Dodge Corporation.

SALES NEARLY COMPLETED IN SECOND SECTION OF REAVIS GARDENS SUBDIVISION

The sales on the second section of Reavis Gardens Subdivision are nearly completed now with only eight more houses to be sold out of the forty-six in the subdivision. A third section consisting of 103 homes is being planned now by M. Shapiro & Son., Inc., Developers & Contractors. David P. Leahy, acting as sales agent, completed sales on the first section of 55 houses, as well as the sales on the second section.

The subdivision is conveniently located on Reavis Barracks Road between 9500 Gravois Road and Union Road. It is only 20 minutes from downtown St. Louis and the bus runs on Reavis Barracks Road. The many shopping areas along Gravois Road are easily accessible to the subdivision.

All homes are brick ranch houses with full basement and attached garage. Quality construction and a variety of choices by the owner present a nearly custom made house. The future owner has the choice of 6 different floor plans, 2 or 3 bedrooms, 1 or 1½ baths, basement door and picture window, large den; 2-car garage, and built-in stove and oven. The contractors are very proud of the large and efficient kitchen, with its many steel (or wood) cabinets, separate pantry, and eating area.

Quality construction is used from the foundation to the roof. All basements are poured concrete and reinforced with steel. In addition to quality, the house has been designed to require a minimum amount of maintenance. To accomplish this, brick wall construction is used along with aluminum windows, screens, and storm door, marble sills, genuine plaster walls, vinyl plastic tile floor in kitchen, clay tile walls in the kitchen and bath, copper water pipes and cast iron plumbing.

The subdivision is located in a high area and overlooks much of the surrounding territory. The standard lot size is 61'x125' and there are others which have larger frontage and larger depths, some up to 260' in depth. The subdivision boasts of concrete streets and full sanitary and storm sewers service. The adjoining areas consist of attractive and well kept brick ranch styled homes, assuring high property values for years to come.

To climax the theme of the variety of choices, the future owner has many price ranges to choose from. The houses begin to sell at $16,550 and go to $20,000. All homes are FHA financed and inspected, so minimum down payment is available, along with assurance of quality construction. To allow the future owners to give their houses the individual touch, all materials that require a choice of colors are selected by the owner. This includes the floor and clay tile colors, kitchen cabinets and formica top colors, interior and exterior wood trim colors, and of course, the brick and roof colors. The house is designed for the progressive home owner in all respects. The developers have found that at least half of their home buyers are previous home owners who needed larger living quarters; are looking for a newly built house with all the modern conveniences that are available today; or desire to live in a more beautiful and substantial neighborhood.

The completion of section Two of Reavis Gardens will bring the number of homes built by M. Shapiro and Sons, Inc., to about 300, and marks the sixth subdivision developed and built. The present company represents the third generation of builders, (established 1892) who have built their reputation throughout the years on quality, value, and service to the home owner of North and South St. Louis. The company invites you to visit their furnished display house, and see for yourself the quality and value that is being offered.

Plymouth Dealers Meet to Introduce New 'St. Louis Blue'

A breakfast meeting of more than 300 Plymouth dealers and salesmen from the Greater St. Louis territory was held at the Congress Hotel Thursday morning as the kickoff for a special program to introduce to St. Louis a new Plymouth car, known as the "St. Louis Blue" and made especially for St. Louis dealers.

The meeting was conducted by Pat Patterson, local zone manager for Plymouth, former vice president, who retired after more than 25 years with the company. His subject was, "Salesmanship and Know Your Product."

William Martin, salesmanager of the Plymouth division, also addressed the meeting. William J. Bird, vice president and general salesmanager of the Plymouth division of the Chrysler Corp., was guest of honor.

Commercial Methods Used In Residences

Application of light commercial construction methods and materials to residential building is becoming increasingly popular with St. Louis merchant builders and in at least one subdivision as many as five such procedures are being used.

The cavity wall is an insulating technique in which foamed plastic batts are slipped into a cavity left in a masonry wall between the face brick and the back-up block. Its use for homes was approved less than a year ago by the Unit Masonry Association.

The flat built-up composition roof, a standard feature of most commercial building, is being used in a number of subdivisions. Preferred for its modern architectural lines and its resistance to the elements, the roof consists of layers of asphalt and asphalt paper, topped with a layer of coarse gravel.

In commercial uses, such roofs are ordinarily bonded against leakage for 20 years, although the actual bond is not generally purchased in home building. The mass-production techniques of modern subdivision developers have reduced the cost of the built-up roof.

Another development, virtually unheard of in home construction 10 years ago, is radiant heating with a network of heating pipes usually imbedded in concrete slab to warm the floor, which in turn warms the house.

Steel strapping has been in use some two years on joists, eliminating some carpentry and lumber. One subdivision is using the strapping to provide added rigidity to partition walls. It is drawn taut over the studs in an "X" shape and nailed in position.

An item responsible for reducing the price of the mass-produced home is the use of steel concrete forms. Maximum usage of plywood forms is said to be about six times, but one builder, Edward Fischer of Fischer and Frichtel, Inc., reports over 150 foundations have been poured into one set of steel forms, which are still good as new.

Standard Oil Honors Retiring Employees

Edward Wittmond, assistant southern regional office manager, after more than 40 years service has retired from the Standard Oil Co. He joined the company in 1916 as a general clerk in the St. Louis Division office, "maintaining an inventory of oats, corn and hay for horse drawn tank wagons."

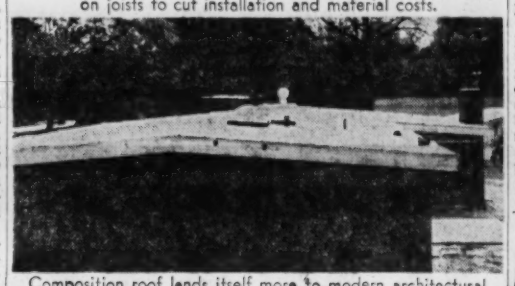

Other Standard Oil employees retiring are Marie Ethyl Doerr, Charles Compton, Anna McCoy, Raymond W. Tell and Fred L. Truebe.

They were presented with gold wrist watches from the company and gifts from their fellow employees.

Commercial to Residential

Steel strapping being fastened in "X"-shape to partition wall studs, making partition rigid. Same strapping is used on joists to cut installation and material costs.

Composition roof lends itself more to modern architectural styling and requires less maintenance. Roof shown above has skylight bubble, to provide natural illumination in one of home's two bathrooms.

Studebaker St. Louis Zone Sales Increase

The major reason for the Studebaker sales increase in St. Louis was attributed to public acceptance of the new design of the 1956 Studebaker line, especially to the Studebaker Hawk series of family-size sports cars, according to Frank T. Corcoran, St. Louis zone sales manager for Studebaker.

These cars now account for 27.5 per cent of all Studebaker sales in St. Louis.

"Studebaker sales are holding up especially well in the St. Louis zone, which includes Southern Illinois, Eastern Missouri and Western Kentucky, with 53 per cent of the zone's dealers showing increased sales in 1956 over the same period in 1955," Corcoran concluded.

Commercial Lot Sold

In a recent transfer of title, the Lindbergh Realty & Development Corp., Inc., acquired the southwest corner of Watson and McCausland from Mrs. Mary S. Muckerman. The site fronts approximately 90 feet on Watson by a depth of 140 feet.

The Branch Realty Co. represented both parties in the transaction.

President

Eugene Weissman of People's-905 retail liquor chain here has been elected president of the National Spirits Guild of America, an organization of selected retail liquor dealers dedicated to the upgrading of the operations of these businesses. The convention was held in San Francisco. Self-service package stores, a 1955 innovation started here by Weissman, was a principal topic of discussion at the convention along with matters of ethical practices, education against abuses in liquor usage.

Soil District Board Elects Supervisors

Henry Blesi, retiring chairman of the Franklin County Soil District Board Supervisors, has announced results of the election for new supervisors. Paul Duebbert of Labadie was elected from Area I; Joseph Jasper of Washington from Area II; Dolph Halmich of Sullivan from Area III and Henry Gerdes of New Haven from Area IV.

At a joint meeting of the old and new boards the following officers were elected for two-year terms: Paul Duebbert, chairman; Henry Gerdes, vice chairman, and Joseph Jasper, treasurer.

Henry Blesi and John Evins, retiring members of the board, were not candidates for re-election. Both men served on the board since 1944 when the Soil District was organized. Blesi has also served as president of the State Association of Soil District Supervisors.

Robert S. McClelland of Columbia, executive secretary of the State Soil Districts Commission met with the group to discuss district activities and to answer questions on the duties and responsibilities of district supervisors.

The new board approved applications as district co-operators for John Rolf and Tom Mauntel of Washington, Mo.; Leo Straatmann, Villa Ridge, Mo.; Paul Bartlett, Lonedell, Mo., and Harry R. Engelhart of Pacific, Mo.

William C. Shotwell of the Soil Conservation Service reported basic conservation farm plans had been developed on the farms of David Hagedorn, Harry Freitag and Paul Zimmerman of New Haven, Mo., and Merlin and Joy Carl of Berger, Mo.

Others at the meeting included Roy LaRose and Donald Wheeler of the Soil Conservation Service.

Seller — Not Buyer

The underline of a picture of the Sunset Acres Motel in this section of the Post-Dispatch last Sunday incorrectly identified Frank J. Lama as the buyer. He was the owner of the property at Lindbergh boulevard and St. Charles Rock road, and sold it to Alfonse and Evelyn Koch.

U.S. Builders On Tour in Soviet Union

A delegation of American home builders left New York Monday on the first leg of trip to the Soviet Union to inspect housing in 12 cities from Leningrad, on the Gulf of Finland, to Tashkent in Asiatic Russia, near the border of Red China.

The delegation, representing the National Association of Home Builders, is headed by Earl W. Smith, who as 1955 president of N.A.H.B., acted as official host to Soviet housing technicians when they visited the United States as guests of the association.

"The reciprocal visit will complete an exchange of information on home building in the United States and the Soviet Union which was inaugurated with the visit of the Soviet delegation to our country last fall," Smith said.

"The itinerary proposed by the Soviets indicates that our delegation will have a good opportunity to inspect highly varied types of housing and construction. We feel certain that we will, in accordance with the pattern established by N.A.H.B., be accorded ready access to information concerning their materials and techniques."

The tour includes visits to Moscow, Leningrad, Minsk, Kiev, Zaporozhe, Kakhovka, Kadievka, Krasnodar, Stalingrad, Baku, Ashkhabad and Tashkent.

The delegation entered the Soviet Union via Prague after a stop-over in Paris. The tour will end in Moscow about July 15.

Members of the delegation are: John R. Worthman, Ft. Wayne, Ind.; S. N. Adams, Houston, Tex.; Thomas P. Coogan, New York City; Hans Heymann, Jr., Bethesda, Md.; Arthur Oman, Norwell, Mass.; Carl T. Mitnick, Merchantville, N. J.; Harry A. Boswell, Jr., Mt. Rainier, Md.

Edward W. Pratt, Royal Oak, Mich.; Martin L. Bartling, Jr., Knoxville, Tenn.; August Rahlves, Oakland, Calif.; Ernest Fritsche, Columbus, O.; Andrew S. Place, South Bend, Ind., and Marvin M. Helf, Cleveland, O.

Bertram Druker, Newton, Mass., and William H. Dolben, Jr., Reading, Mass., representing the Boston Rental Housing Association which acted as co-host with NAHB when the Soviet delegation visited Boston; Robert F. Loftus, NAHB public relations director, and Vladimir Pojidaeff, Mount Kisco, N. Y., the delegation's interpreter.

Local Woman Winner In National Contest

Mrs. H. C. Benz of 25 Clearview drive, Florissant, has been named grand prize winner in a nationwide contest conducted by Weather-Seal, Inc., home products manufacturer. She received the award for submitting the best suggested name for a new colored storm-screen door introduced by the company.

A $500 check was presented by William Musgrove, manager of Weather-Seal's St. Louis branch, 3615 Page avenue, who said that Mrs. Benz' entry was judged best among more than 25,000 submitted throughout the country.

One Dad Speaks Up

How to Get Child To Go Right to Bed

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, June 16 (AP).

ARE you the boss in your family, Mister?

If you are, you are an unusual husband and father. It is getting harder and harder in our times for a man to act the role of the family boss. The former lord of the manor has become something of a mouse in his own house.

Some psychologists say it is a good thing that father is no longer the final boss. They believe the modern family doesn't need a boss, that authority and responsibility can be shared.

Maybe so, but I doubt it. You can't run a railroad or any other business without a boss, and I suspect the same thing is true of a family. A family, of course, isn't a business—but it has to be a going concern, and it needs someone at the head of it who, in a crisis, can make a final decision to which the others agree.

It is fashionable in literature now to picture the old-fashioned father as a tyrant who often inflicted his will on his family in a selfish manner, who ruled by fear more than by love.

But is this portrait true? I suspect it to be false. I believe that most old-fashioned fathers held their authority because their children both loved and respected them.

The trouble with the modern father is that he often is either too spineless or lazy to assume the proud role nature intended him to take. No wonder his children treat him like a harmless middle-aged fossil. That's what he is.

● I HAD an old-fashioned father. He and my mother married young, and had five children. While Mama ran the house, there was never any doubt about who was the final boss—it was Dad.

I can still remember how on a summer night we children used to urge hoptoads to hop-race across the street under the lamplight, worrying that if we touched them our fingers would break out in warts.

Promptly at 9 o'clock Dad would take his feet off the front porch bannister and stand up—the tallest tower of my lifetime—and beat his palms together like thunderclaps.

"Whap! Whap! Whap!" There was no missing his bedtime summons. It could be heard for two blocks. Dogs and children might growl or grumble, but they all headed for home and slumber.

There was no whining or grumbling about it. It wouldn't do any good. Before kneeling in his old-fashioned long underwear and saying his nightly prayer, Dad checked to see that every kid was under his covers and the lights were out. He thought all children should sleep in their own homes, and we were never allowed to stay overnight with neighbors. Most of us never slept away from home until we left home forever.

● MY WIFE AND I have only one child, Tracy Ann, who will be 3 years old this month. For some reason, while Tracy is very fond of me, I have no more authority over her than a piece of wet string.

I can't convince her she is too young to be a night owl.

One night recently, trying to reconcile her to the idea that bed was sweet and life would last until tomorrow, I told her about my father. I told her how in the long ago, on summer nights, he would stand there straight and tall on the old wooden porch and beat his echoing palms together and summon his scattered tribe to the shelter of his roof.

"Like this?" asked Tracy. She beat her two small hands together—"Pat, pat, pat!"—then said imperiously:

"Come to bed, Daddy. Right now."

Well, sir, believe it or not, I went to bed.

What this country needs is more old-fashioned daughters who, when they say something to their parents, really mean it.

Or am I getting mixed up?

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

IN THE NATURE OF THINGS a golfer is never satisfied. The duffer longs to break 100; the man in the low 90s sees no reason why he shouldn't be ringing up pars. They tell about a tempestuous top-liner named Tommy Bolt who broke a Professional Golf Association record one day in San Diego by recording seven straight birdies in championship play and winding up his round with an almost unbelievable 64.

Was Bolt content? Not at all! He flung his bag into a corner of the golf shop and grumbled, "If two putts had sunk like they should have, doggone it, I'd have had a 62!"

"GOODNESS GRACIOUS!" exclaimed Mrs. Periwinkle to a fellow-officer of the temperance society, "this time they really HAVE gone too far! They're distilling whisky for children!" As proof, she waved aloft an ad whose headline boasted, "The best 12-year-old whisky in all the world!"

JUDGE JOHN MURPHY'S 7-year-old daughter, after a day in court to see her dad in action, reported to her class, "Pop made a beautiful speech to 12 men in a box of some kind, and when he was finished they marched those 12 men into a dark room to be developed."

They Remember the Old Wars

Veterans Use Reveille Club, Stocked With Mementos, as Informal Gathering Place

By Dickson Terry

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

INTERIOR OF THE REVEILLE CLUB AT CHANNING AND LOCUST STREETS, WHERE THE WALLS AND EVEN THE CEILING ARE COVERED WITH WAR SOUVENIRS AND MEMENTOS. THE PROPRIETOR, GEORGE VONLAND, BEHIND THE BAR, SERVED IN WORLD WAR I AND WORLD WAR II, AND ON THE MEXICAN BORDER.

FROM the outside it looks like any one of a thousand corner taverns; a two-story red brick building at Channing and Locust with a couple of beer signs and a gold sign on the window that says, "Reveille Club." But there the resemblance ends.

Inside, except for the bar and some red-topped tables and a juke box, it resembles a museum more than a tavern. The ceiling is papered with old war maps and recruiting posters. Around two walls, just below the ceiling, are hats and helmets, some 27 of them; French, German, Italian and American from World Wars I and II. On shelves stuck around at various levels are shells of all sizes, hand grenades and various other items of destruction. There is a collection of sabers and bayonets on one wall, as well as German, French, Italian and American guns.

What appears to be a silk canopy over the bar is really a parachute, dyed a rather startling shade of pink, and along the top of the bar beneath this canopy and above the liquor bottles, stretching from one end to another, are hundreds of shoulder patches, the insignia of every combat division in the Army, Air Force and Marines, as well as a hundred or so miscellaneous patches of smaller units.

There are a couple of Japanese flags captured in World War II, and a fragmentation bomb from World War I. Also hanging in a row back of the bar is a collection of weapons, from ancient oriental war clubs to mortar guns and hand grenades.

The space that isn't taken up with weapons is filled with framed photographs of groups of veterans of World War I, old newspapers proclaiming the armistice of 1918, and various other mementos of a couple of wars.

By the time the casual visitor has taken all this in, he will have realized that the Reveille Club is no ordinary bar, and if he hangs around long enough he will realize that the combination owner and bartender is no ordinary tavern keeper. He'll have to hang around quite awhile, however, because George Vonland, which is his name, is not given to talking about himself at the drop of a grenade.

He is 59 years old, medium height, bald-headed and wears glasses and looks more like a prescription druggist than a tavern keeper. To look at him you would never guess that he holds the Distinguished Service Cross, the Croix de Guerre, the Army Commendation medal, the French Verdun and St. Mihiel medals, the Mexican Border medal, Victory medals from both world wars, both German and Japanese Occupation medals, and three or four other national and state medals.

VONLAND is a quiet, soft-spoken man, who answers questions politely. He knows the answers because he knows what the questions are going to be. The first remark most strangers make, he will tell you, is this: "I never saw a collection of war trophies as large as this."

Then, after about the second beer they will say, "How did you manage to collect so many different items?" Another beer and they will ask, "Did you collect all these things yourself?" and then sooner or later they will ask him what he intends to do with them when he dies.

The answers to the questions, in order: Vonland started collecting war mementos and souvenirs during World War I when he was an Army sergeant in France. He collected about 90 per cent of the things himself, the rest were donated by other veterans. As to how he managed to do it, it has taken him nearly 40 years, and when he dies he plans to give them to a veterans' organization.

Before the casual visitor departs, one other question usually occurs to him. "Is any of this stuff 'alive'? he wants to know. The answer is no. Everything is perfectly safe. George, who is something of an expert, deactivates anything before he adds it to his collection.

MOST of the customers at the Reveille Club are veterans, and most of the veterans are from World War I, men George's age, who like the place because they find there an atmosphere of the kind of glory which used to surround veterans of that war. Another reason is that George operates a sort of veterans' information bureau.

Whenever veterans get together, discussions arise regarding veterans' rights and benefits, and a lot of questions are asked and unanswered. So George set out to make himself an authority on the subject. He has on file every book and pamphlet issued on the subject by the government, and if he doesn't know the answer to a question, he can find it. He not only answers a lot of questions for the benefit of veterans, but also settles a lot of arguments.

Veterans of both wars like to gather at the club and refight every battle. George has books which give the history of every division and where it fought, and when the argument gets too hot, all he has to do is look it up. The old timers are veterans of the Argonne, Verdun, St. Mihiel, names you don't hear much any more.

His night bartender, Henry Krechel, is a former sergeant of Headquarters Company of the 138th, and his porter, Charlie Walker, was a private in the 10th Cavalry and they both served along with Vonland on the Mexican border back in 1916.

WHEN there is any kind of a veterans' gathering in St. Louis, the club is jammed to the beams from morning until night. During one convention a 65-piece band crowded into the little bar and played so loud the glasses were shaken off the back bar. Once the Forty and Eight tried to drive their locomotive into the bar, but it got stuck in the front door.

When you get to know Vonland well enough, he will go to the rear of the bar and bring out a wooden obelisk, inside of which is a bottle of champagne. The tavern, you learn, was really named for a "last-man's" club founded after World War I. The last two men will drink the bottle of champagne. Unfortunately George doesn't know what kind of champagne it is, because one of the members built the little wooden obelisk in which it is sealed and on the front of which is lettered in gold, "Reveille Club, Co. H, 138th Inf., A.E.F."

That was the St. Louis company which was one of the first to go over the top after the Yanks landed in France, which was a long time ago.

Vonland was a member of the company even before World War I. After graduating from Central High, he joined the Army in 1916, and served in the Mexican Border campaign. When the first World War broke out, Company H went to Fort Sill, Okla., for training, and went overseas in April of 1918, aboard the troopship Demosthenes. They landed at Liverpool and went to a training camp in Westchester where they were the despair of the French officers who were trying to teach them how the war was being fought in those days. Even up to this point the war was something of a lark to most of the Yanks, and they turned the training into a session of horseplay. Finally, Vonland recalls, the Frenchmen gave up.

"God help the Bosche," one of them said, "when this bunch of lunatics is turned loose on them."

On June 3, 1918, they were moved up to the front lines at a little town called Hilsenfirst in the Vosges mountains, and all was so quiet they still didn't take the war too seriously. The trenches were deep and numerous, and those of the French, into which they moved, had taken on an air of permanent residence. You could look across the valley and see the enemy trenches. There seemed to be a gentleman's agreement not to shoot one another. The French had board walks in their trenches, and all the comforts of home in the dugouts. They spent most of their time making cigarette lighters out of empty cartridge shells. The Germans hung out their wash undisturbed over their trenches.

ON the morning of July 6, Company H broke it up by going "over the top." They made a 1500-yard penetration of the German lines. They killed approximately 100, brought back eleven prisoners. Five members of Company H were killed, and 17 wounded. Among the wounded was a lieutenant. When young Sergeant Vonland saw him go down he took charge and led the company across No Man's Land to occupy the German trenches, putting out of action a machine gun placed to spray his forces, deploying his men in a maneuver to protect the troops following him. After the raid Vonland led the men back to their own trenches. For this he received the Croix de Guerre, and later the Distinguished Service Cross.

After Hilsenfirst they went to St. Mihiel, where they were under fire but not in actual combat, then, on Sept. 26, they were sent into the Battle of the Argonne where they got pretty well shot up. They lost 27 men and 73 were wounded. Among the wounded was Vonland, who was hit in the stomach by a shell fragment.

Young veterans, to whom trench warfare seems antiquated and strange, like to listen to stories of how they fought World War I, and one of the questions they frequently ask George is which type warfare is most dangerous. In World War I, George explains, you were comparatively safe until you were sent to the front. But in World War II, thanks to aerial warfare, you weren't safe anywhere.

Vonland, who had entered the Army as a private and later made sergeant, was recommended for battlefield promotion to second lieutenant. But he was only 20, and in those days you had to be 21 to be an officer. So he was sent to Officers' Training School. When the war ended he was a lieutenant. In between the two World Wars he had two tours of active duty, rose through captain and major until, at the close of World War II, in which he served as a training officer in Japan, he emerged a full colonel.

AFTER World War I, George recalls, he and the rest of the boys came home trailing clouds of glory and a reputation for general hell-raising they couldn't seem to get over. Or else felt they had to live up to. It was the era of prohibition and the Lost Generation. George and a bunch of his friends from Company H, the nucleus of what was to become the Reveille club, held together in the roaring moonshine and home brew days of the twenties. They were unmarried and untamed. But the years went by and the war receded into the past and some of the boys began to get married and settle down.

THEY started having social meetings on Saturday nights at their various homes. They still drank home brew, but the meetings were considerably more subdued. In addition to George there were Andy Corcoran, Joe "Rosey" Reynolds and Whitey Urban, all of them dead now. Some of the others were Herman Harrison, Dennie Dineen, Eddie Riemann, Herman Spoeneman, Joe Frick, Roy Jacobsmeyer, Jules Kummer, Ed Ridgeway, Bill Brennan, Freddie Edwards, Fred Harrison, George Diebling, Matt Messmer, Ray Ratz, Pete Rohrbach, Louis Spirros, Bill Sanford, Ed Schroer, Rags Carroll and George Edwards. The latter has been known since World War I as "Iron" Edwards, because he fell off the back platform of a troop train and, when they went back to pick up the body, found him walking up the track wanting to know what happened. Also there were Herman Harrison, Ed Vogt and Bill Sullivan, all dead.

As the men became older and the meetings more sedate, it was suggested they make it a formal organization. So one Saturday night at Ray Jacobsmeyer's house they selected the name, Reveille Club. They got in touch with the living members of old Company H who had been in the Army between the years 1916 and 1919, which is a requirement for membership, and on Jan. 14, 1928, the club was officially organized.

They started out with 158 members. Today there are 44. Of the original number, 87 have died. Others have moved away, and a few have dropped out.

SINCE the end of World War II, the club has been their official headquarters and meeting place. The Saturday night meetings have long since ceased. They get together one night a month for a few drinks and then, as one of the members said, they fight the war all over again. World War I, that is.

Once a year, in November, they have a formal meeting in a downtown hotel. The shrine is placed in the center of the room. The shrine is a miniature cemetery which a couple of the members built, and which bears rows of white crosses with the names of the deceased members.

Back of the shrine is the sealed bottle of champagne. The members gather around the shrine and the bottle in a half circle, holding hands. The chaplain faces the group. The lights are dimmed. The chaplain reads the ritual:

"We of the Reveille Club, bonded together by mutual feelings of devoted friendship created by the close association of our military service while in training camps, on the battlefields of France and during the years following, now pay reverent tribute to the departed comrades over whom we have heard Taps for the last time . . ."

The ritual closes with a prayer, "to prepare our souls for the last hike toward the assembly point to join the formation of our buddies who have gone on before."

The group grows smaller each year. According to the rules of the club, the last two surviving members will hold a final meeting, and after observing the ritual, will open the sealed cask, drink the champagne and declare the Reveille Club officially disbanded.

How Do You Eat A Steak?

By Phyllis Battelle

NEW YORK, June 16 (INS).

SOME psychologists are mighty nosy people. They look at the way you dress, and ask you why you have repressions, as evidenced in the cut of your shoulder pads.

They watch you blow your nose and sum you up as an extrovert with a cold.

They prod your dreams, investigate your habits, analyze your past, alter your ego and, if you're not careful, destroy your most coveted conceits. They are, to pat it bluntly, like your maiden Aunt Amanda who knows you better than you know yourself and doesn't hesitate to say so.

"You'd be surprised what you reveal about your personal emotional patterns," says Dr. Charles Winick, "when you order a steak. The way you order a steak is almost as revealing as a thorough psychological test."

AND SO IT GOES, they even purloin your sirloin phobias.

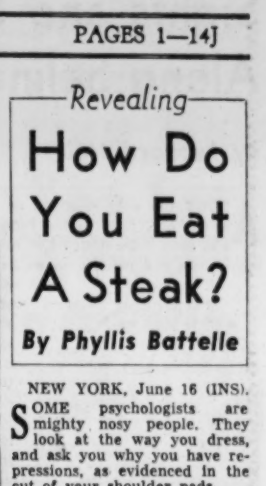

"For instance," continues Dr. Winick, an instructor at Queens College and a researcher on human motivation, "those imaginative persons who want their steaks 'rare' are gourmets and adventurers. They love to try new things and seek new experiences—the only experience to eschew being that of eating a steak well done.

"The men like to think of themselves as directly descended from the cave. Women really rarely like the taste of a rare steak, but they eat it so to show off their stamina. It is also a sign of a female's domination over the man she is dining with."

* * *

DR. WINICK SAYS most women are the medium-rare type. This means that "they are well-dressed and quiet. They want to be doing what would be called 'the right thing.'

"Medium is the intensity of steak broiling for the type of man who wants to straddle the fence. He feels less strongly about the preference than the others. In fact, he doesn't particularly like steak.

"The attitude of the 'medium' man is that if he goes right down the middle, he can't get burned. Nor can his food."

Dr. Winick thinks that the men and women who order, calmly, a "well-done" steak are ultra-conservatives.

"They take life seriously," he says, "and food is usually an excuse to sit down and hold an intelligent conversation. They like all their foods well-cooked, and they don't linger over their food. A well-done man is a ketchup-glopper."

THE PROFESSOR arrived at his psychological steakopsis after several weeks of studying customers at a Manhattan eatery called "the Charcoal Room," where a man is allowed to broil his own beef if he's fussy.

It was such a rewarding experience for the restaurant—having a professor tip off its waiters as to how best to handle steak eaters—that they have a new plan in mind. They may put a psychologist in the bar to analyze the emotional patterns of drinkers—from rare to broiled.

Sights and Sounds Along Saline Creek

By Leonard Hall

ABOUT the only reason I go fishing in Saline creek is out of loyalty to the little stream, for the drouth was even more destructive to the population of smallmouth bass and perch than we had realized. Yet somehow each week, I find myself spending an hour or so wading the half-mile of clear, swift water between our water-gaps, dropping the spinner fly into each deep pocket and swirl. Now and then some ambitious or hungry little pan fish will rush out to engulf the lure and I lift it carefully from the water and release it to grow for another season.

There are, of course, many other rewards to wading Saline creek if one doesn't mind missing a cast now and then to notice what is going on in and about the stream. It is also a good place. I find, to contemplate the the plight of the men and women who operate the productive family farms of America; a plight into which they have been plunged by stupid politics and the greed of a comparatively small number of big-land operators across the nation. Yet even this problem is soon forgotten in the concentration needed to place the lure in each likely spot and the pleasure of observing the life along the stream.

● DURING THE DRY YEARS when Saline creek dwindled to a trickle, masses of willows and young sycamores took hold along the banks and, with no flood water to wash them out, made a remarkable growth. Leaving these thickets along the banks is against all Ozark practice of stream management, for here during the half-century of bad farming and over-grazing and stripping of the forest, the theory has been to keep the stream banks clean and bare so that floods would rush through at the highest possible speed. But things are changing in our part of the Ozarks. Fire no longer blackens the forest each spring and we've learned that cattle running out in the hills bring in a scant crop of skinny calves in the autumn, so that now we graze our herds on improved pastures. Many farms are terraced and there are more and more acres of good grass. Under these conditions the extreme floods seem almost a thing of the past; and with a gentle rise our willow and sycamore thickets are merely a stabilizing influence. Moreover, as time goes on, they'll help assure a good aquatic growth and more and better food and cover for the small denizens of Saline creek.

The nesting season for most species which inhabit the creek is over and we see a goodly number of little bass, perch, shiners and chubs. The brightly colored sunfish which we call "punkin seeds" are still bedding, however, and in the long pools you'll find the gravel in the shallows lined with their nests. Here the adults protect the eggs, dashing out to chase the minnows which dart about trying to filch a free meal. There has also been a tremendous hatch of crayfish and in shallow runs where the water is not swift, you'll see hundreds of them dashing off hind-end-first to the safety of some rocky crevice.

● IN EACH DEEP POOL you're sure to disturb a bullfrog of good size, and there are many softshelled turtles. These fellows are round and rather flat, with a long protruding neck and sharp snout. If you disturb one and then move along quietly, the chances are it will swim a short distance and then burrow down into the gravel until hidden from sight. Here it will wait quietly until you've gone on around the bend or, if you have the patience to hide in the brush and watch, it won't be long until you'll see the turtle come out again and go about his business.

The wooded valley along the stream is, of course, a wonderful place for songbirds and it is easy in an hour's fishing to mark and observe, or identify by song, a large number of species. Some of these, like the Louisiana water thrush, are found only in the proximity of running water. One of our favorites, however, is the cuckoo of which we have both the yellow-billed and black-billed varieties. The cuckoo always impresses us as a bird of mystery and the order to which it belongs is very old, with representatives throughout the world. It is a handsome bird, about as large as the mourning dove but slimmer, with a long tail and neck.

● OUR CUCKOOS, unlike those of Europe and Asia, are not parasitic; that is, they do not deposit their eggs in the nests of other birds, although the yellow-bill will sometimes count on a black-bill to raise its young and vice versa. The sense of mystery comes from its strange flight, for the cuckoo slips silently through the woods from one tree to the next and generally perches parallel to the branch, so that it is difficult to see. On alighting, it looks about for a moment or two in a slightly dazed or absent-minded fashion, but soon goes to searching for the caterpillars which are its chief food. In fact, this predilection for hairy caterpillars, most of which turn into moths that are extremely harmful in the orchard and garden, makes the cuckoo one of our most valuable species for insect control. It seems to prefer the hairy species which other birds avoid and to mind not at all those which exude substances that make them distasteful to other birds. Finally, the cuckoo has an odd song; a series of guttural clacks and clucks that are entirely unmusical. Tradition has it that these notes are uttered chiefly in wet weather, which gives the bird its common name of "rain crow."

On my last journey down the creek I discovered the nest of a pair of pileated woodpeckers, being led to within a few yards of it by a band of noisy crows which were pestering an old barred owl that was trying its best to nap in a cedar thicket. The disturbance upset the big woodpeckers and I finally saw one and then the other disappear into a hole, high in a dead sycamore snag. All in all, my meanderings down Saline creek are filled with small adventures, even though I may come home with a creel containing nothing more than a few handfuls of fresh water cress for the evening's salad.

Hosts to Foreign Visitors

Group Representing St. Louis Council on World Affairs Will Practice Good World Relations at Home, With 144 House Guests

By Clarissa Start

THE men and women in the picture accompanying this story are expecting house guests at the end of the month, 144 house guests to be exact. But rather than being dismayed at the prospect of this turnout of travelers, they're looking forward to showing the visitors around, demonstrating American friendliness and Midwestern hospitality.

The 144 guests are high school students from 21 foreign lands and their visit to this country is sponsored by the American Field Service. Later this summer, St. Louis will receive 20 more young guests from foreign countries, college students traveling under the auspices of the Association for World Travel Exchange, plus a group of 14 young Frenchmen.

Helping to make visits for all these young people enjoyable will be the mission of the Committee on International Students and Visitors, a division of the St. Louis Council on World Affairs, now starting its fourth year of practicing world relations at home. So impressive has the work of this committee been that it received the Necci Award for the most outstanding new community project in 1953.

"Since then, our program has snowballed," Mrs. Alvin Cooper, volunteer chairman, says as she describes the committee's progress. "Many ordinary average St. Louisans are participating in it and we would welcome many more. All of us feel that we gain much more than we give."

LETTERS which fill the committee's scrapbooks indicate the appreciation on the part of both visitors and hosts.

"There is no doubt that visits of these foreign guests are a two-way channel to bring about the brotherhood we all desire," a typical letter reads.

This two-way channel has worked with visitors of all ages, types and stations in life. A Bolivian judge, a German pastor who directs an institution for the handicapped, a Chinese food technologist, a Brazilian journalist, the chief of police of Korea, a group of Danes and Frenchmen studying refrigeration, the minister of defense of Norway (who sat at a supermarket counter and ate doughnuts) have been some of the delighted and delightful guests received here.

In return, even the busiest and most important local citizens have been happy to cooperate with the program. A man interested in art was invited to view Vladimir Golschmann's collection. A man from Pakistan who wanted to meet labor leaders talked to Oscar Ehrhardt. A visitor from Ceylon interested in zoos spent a day with George Vierheller.

"We help make lasting friendships on mutual ground and understanding," Mrs. Cooper says, "friendships which could never come about except through this program."

The idea of a committee to co-ordinate the programs of foreign visitors first came about when faculty members at Washington University began looking for a group to help foreign students meet local families and be invited into their homes. William Curran, executive director of the St. Louis Council on World affairs, explains. About the same time the national Committee on Friendly Relations Among College Students sent a representative to St. Louis to establish a local contact, which was done through the National Council of Jewish Women. The Council on World Affairs offered the new committee office space and at the end of the year it became a branch of that organization.

Mayor Tucker consented to become the honorary chairman of the new group which included members of many civic and religious organizations. The first meeting was held May 13, 1953. A year later the group was awarded the Necci Award, given annually to a first year project involving an entire community.

The current program is supervised by Curran and Mrs. Cooper, assisted by three chairmen, Mrs. F. H. Pillsbury of the Federated Church Women, Mrs. William B. Knupp, Archdiocese of Catholic Women, and Mrs. Lionel Kalish, National Council of Jewish Women.

THERE are three phases to the program. The first involves making arrangements for persons visiting under the State Department's Foreign Leader program. Last year 162 visitors came to St. Louis under this sponsorship. The second is the student program for young people who attend college in the United States and visit here on vacation through the Committee on Friendly Relations; they travel on their own funds but are offered hospitality by the places they visit. The other student group consists of high school students visiting this country who have all their expenses paid by the American Field Service.

The third phase of the program is the Experiment in International Living program involving the orientation of Fulbright scholars. Fulbright students formerly spent 30 days on the campus of the college they were to attend, learning about American life in theory. It was decided they could learn more by becoming part of an average American family. This program has proved educational for guests and hosts alike.

"Even people who are poorly traveled can speak with authority after a month's visit with a foreign student," Mrs. Cooper says. "We had a Japanese boy with us and our boys learned about Japan from him. We had an Indian boy and learned about India. I've corresponded with his mother ever since, and look at the lovely tablecloth she sent me."

IN addition, Mrs. Cooper claims to have compiled an unparalleled list of little-known pieces of information about practically everything.

"For instance," she explained, "an Egyptian came to St. Louis and gave as his only reason for coming here the fact that he wanted to see the Mississippi river. I began calling people about the river and learned there's a teacher at Country Day who's an authority on the Mississippi, that we have several barge lines here, that several St. Louisans have written books about the river. So I ended up with a page in my notebook called 'Mississippi river.' If anyone comes here again and wants to study the river, I'll refer to that page.

"A veterinarian came here. I know nothing about veterinarians but called one and learned they have a society. They gave a potluck supper for my visitor, and in addition, I learned where to buy the best dog food, and that Missouri has the largest farm for artificial insemination of cattle anywhere in the United States. I'm all set for the next veterinarian."

The committee still works with its original project, extending hospitality to foreign students who live here, and next year they hope to do something special for students in training in hospitals who, because of confined quarters and special hours, do not get out into the community very much. One letter dealing with this phase of the problem tells how a suburbanite invited five students out for a barbecue only to have 25 show up. He took it in stride and reported that one dignified student ended up playing in the sand box with the 4-year-old.

ALL manner of problems must be handled every day by the committee. One visitor found train travel made him sick and all his accommodations had to be changed to plane, an involved program. One glamorous guest stayed an extra day in Chicago and threw the entire schedule out of kilter.

Language problems are not too important as most visiting guests speak English, but occasionally they arise. Mrs. Cooper recalls one of her volunteers who related how she had explained a rather complicated situation in French to one of the visitors, rather well, she thought. In conclusion she said modestly, "I speak French badly; do I not?"

"Oui, mademoiselle," was the gallant reply.

The impact of visiting foreigners has made itself felt in this and other ways.

"They make us ashamed of being a one-language nation," Mrs. Cooper says.

The growth of the program has been due greatly to word of mouth publicity and praise, one person telling a friend who interests another in participating. Women's clubs such as Zonta, are among the volunteers. Some volunteers call to offer housing accommodations, others who do not have room to sleep guests offer to provide programs. Mrs. Cooper welcomes all volunteers though she is less enthusiastic about the holiday Thanksgiving and Christmas type invitations, feeling that strangers should become acquainted on occasions other than the close family ones.

The young people who will be here the last weekend of the month will stay with St. Louis families, will visit Grant's Farm and see "The Student Prince" at the Municipal Opera. Unlike the Foreign Leaders, who usually have hotel reservations, it has been necessary to find private housing for them and this in itself was a project.

"But everyone who works on this program does more than they think they can do," Mrs. Cooper says. "One new worker asked to find 35 homes was horrified at first. She just called me and told me she had all but one."

Marriage

No-Good Husbands

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

MRS. L. has been reading my column for a long time, she says, and is "depressed by the stories women write you of the no-good men they married. Presumably, these men weren't born that way. Why can't we educate them to be decent husbands?"

It's the boy's own mothers who educate them, Mrs. L. and I have been begging mothers year in and year out to do a better job for the benefit of the future wives of their sons. It wouldn't be a hard job. Let's consider the principal defects of these husbands as cited by innumerable, intelligent, well-educated women who speak from sad experience.

The boys are pampered and waited on too much by their mothers and sisters. They don't even learn to take care of their own clothing. (Parenthetically, any boy of school age ought to be able to leave a basin or bathtub in a fairly decent condition and should form the habit of washing his own socks every night.) Many of them get the wrong idea about what is woman's work, very frequently from the bad example of their own fathers.

THE BOYS are tied too closely to their own mothers emotionally. (That's "mom".)

They have no adequate sex education.

They have not been taught how to be protective to the other sex. They are too exploitative.

They grow up selfish, without reasonable self-control, but with the attitude of "I want what I want when I want it."

The foregoing difficulties are mainly due to the mothers, but I'll conclude by reminding the reader that fathers frequently don't help very much either. They don't set a good example. While I think the mother has the primary responsibility, she'll do well to send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for my pamphlet No. 233, "Children Need Two Parents." Maybe it will give dad a few good ideas to help her out.

Quiet, privacy, and getting acquainted with each other (not with the world) are the important objectives of a honeymoon.

Q. We have a daughter born in 1944; wanted another child but didn't have much room; then my husband went into the Marines. We are now settled and at peace and have space; but people tell us the age difference in the children would be too great if we had a baby now. Do you think so?

A. Millions of babies are born with such age differences. You need not avoid further parenthood on that account.

Q. My parents divorced when I was a tiny baby. Each married again. Recently I learned that I have a half-sister who lives not a hundred miles from here. I'd certainly like to meet her—how shall I approach her for the first time?

A. Why not simply write her of the facts, telling her that you think the two of you have something in common and that you would like to call on her some day. You can tell by the tone of her answer whether you want to go farther; but I imagine she'd be just as much interested as you are.

Q. Our daughter has her first well-paying job. Since she lives with us, Dad thinks it would be good discipline for her to help with our family expenses. I'd like her to save her money for the future, since we don't need help, and money in the bank or Government bonds may be a great help later on.

A. If you really don't need her contribution, I'd encourage her to invest as much as possible, but not to stint herself on legitimate expenses to promote her own marriage.

Answers to Questions.

Q. SOME YEARS AGO I read of a Honeymoon Train that was going to take 100 couples on a grand tour. Do you think that is a good way to start married life?

A. No, and apparently no one else does. The project did not get any subscribers — not one!

Secrets of Charm

Exercises for Upper Chest

ASHAPELY firm bosom and upper chest are much to be desired in this season of bathing suits and strapless dresses. Remember that good posture makes even the drooping bosom look uplifted — so practice good carriage.

For those of you interested in developing, or preserving a beautiful bust, here are the exercises to help you.

Put lots of zeal in this exercise—swinging the arms back with force. When you swing the arms forward, be sure that you cross the arms at the elbows. Use the counts one and two to inhale and three and four to exhale. Do this exercise 10 times a day for the first week and about 25 times a day after that.

Do this exercise in front of the mirror. Followed faithfully, it will lift and firm the bust and also teach you to carry your shoulders well, so the improvement is easily seen. Make a baton from a sawed-off broom. Stand tall, stomach in, head straight.

HOLD BATON straight down in front . . . the firmer the grip, the greater benefit to the muscles. Breathing deeply, raise the baton straight-armed over your head. Keep a firm grip as you bring baton down behind you. Let breath out as you bring it back up over and down in front. Do slowly. Start out with two or three times, until you can do ten.

Fun exercise like swimming does much to strengthen the pectoral muscles and give you wonderful bust development.

Found: A Man Who Does Not Like Baseball

By John Keasler

FELLOW we met, a newcomer to St. Louis, had sort of a sneaky look on him all the time the past few weeks. Sidled around furtively, and was inclined to leap nervously into the air when spoken to suddenly. Deciding he needed a sympathetic ear we insinuated ourselves into his confidence by borrowing cigarettes from him over a period of time, and learned his problem.

"My problem," he whimpered, a trapped look in his eyes, "is baseball."

It developed he didn't know anything about baseball and cared less. And in a major league town such as St. Louis he found few people talking about anything else, save No Left Turn signs. What should he do? Take a night extension course in batting averages? Or confess all and be ostracized as an ill-versed boor?

"Friend," we said, suavely blowing smoke rings from his cigarette, "you came to precisely the right man."

The answer is simple: Feint and counter-punch. Fake it. Hit 'em where they ain't. We've been preaching this for years and our files are filled with tearful notes of gratitude from secret baseball-haters who write: "Your advice has saved me from the gutter."

First off, Baseball Hater, remember — you do not stand alone. There are many like you. You may never meet them because they know better than to confess their weakness.

Neither science nor psychology has adequately explained what makes one person a Baseball Hater and the next person not. Perhaps he had a traumatic experience. Perhaps he is compensating for something else, like a subconscious urge not to sit on a board for 18 interminable innings on a Sunday afternoon when he could be asleep in a shady hammock.

HOWEVER, even the person most prone to B.H.-ing may lead a relatively normal life, by the correct approach.

CASE HISTORY: Mr. R. J.'s entire knowledge of baseball consisted of the fact that Stan Musial made an excellent sandwich. But since the fall of 1939 he has turned all baseball conversations into wild argument by saying, "No matter what they say, a left-handed batter can hit a left-handed pitcher as well as a right-handed pitcher." He does not know what this means. He overheard it in the club car from Kansas City. He is regarded as an expert.

CASE HISTORY: Mr. B. L. moved to St. Louis from Racine, Wis., in 1948, under the impression the name of the team here was the Red Socks, or Sox. He was a croquet man, himself. Sensing the local prevailing sentiment, however, he learned to narrow his eyes and say:

"Tell me, Boss, frankly—you know the score. What about the Cards this year? I mean in the final analysis?" He is now vice president in charge of sales.

Some secret B.H'ers insist that actually watching part of a ball game at some time during the season is helpful, or memorizing the names of several players. This is at best a scatter-shot approach, as faulty as it is dangerous. The solution is the single strategic statement, or even better—the direct question! "Yeah, but be that as it may, doesn't a great deal depend on the minor league situation of today?"

If the situation becomes confusingly esoteric you can always ask whatever happened to Bill Veeck.

BEWARE of wild goose chases. Some conscientious but misguided souls waste time and effort in preparation through study, perhaps learning various statistics or how to spell Schoendienst in the hope they will be asked. Nobody ever asks them, and then when the chips are down—they are backed into answering a direct question about, say, what month the World Series comes in—they are lost.

Not the alert B.H. He has his single shot, his rifled parry, his oiled and tempered rapier. "Speaking of World Series," he will reply, "what about Brooklyn?"

Generalization is the answer. The controversy will rage, heated and loud. And the B.H. may slip away, to doze, perchance to dream of cooler days when gone again is the crack of hickory on the old pigskin. Turn off Channel 36, Junior, I'm going to take a nap.

Hidden Talent in Tables

By Elizabeth Hillyer

HIDDEN talent in tables makes news in the previews of home furnishings for fall. A table that's simple and straightforward on sofa-side duty may turn out to have a knack for serving a snack, and more than enough drawer room for serving accessories.

A stand-out now in Grand Rapids showings conceals a folding table, and conceals it completely when the folding table is tucked under its top. When the table pulls out and unlimbers its legs, it displays a smart poly-plastic top, of its own, one that imbeds natural threads of hemp and heather. When one table can double its usefulness like this, it has a special importance in room design. Rooms simplify when a clutter of many tables reduce to a commodious few, and the generous-sized single makes the simplification twice as easy when it can, upon occasion, turn into two. (Table by John Widdicomb.)

Today's a good day to send for Elizabeth Hillyer's new booklet "Furniture Refinishing —How to Do It Yourself." Plan to reclaim and restyle old furniture with its valuable help—and find out, too, what to do about finish repair. Address your request for this booklet to Miss Hillyer at the Post-Dispatch and enclose 15 cents, please, with a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HOLLYWOOD, June 16.

ROSSANA PODESTA, the Italian actress who played one of the world's most famous beauties in the title role of Warner Brothers' "Helen of Troy," believes American women are too beautiful—but the compliment has a sting in it. Here to make her first Hollywood film, "Santiago," with Alan Ladd, she said at the studio:

ROSSANA PODESTA . . . "U.S. GIRLS ALL LOOK ALIKE."

"American women use too much makeup. They look like calendar pin-up girls, but they look all alike. This makes them lose their own personality. I think they would be more appealing if they relied more on nature and less on the beauty shop."

But Miss Podesta likes American men the way they are. "You can talk intelligently with an American," she said, "without having to fight off his advances. Impossible in Italy. You are either lovers or you are nothing. Here there is a middle ground. You can become good friends without getting romantic."

How to Take It Easy

Says Doctor: 'Most People Have No Idea What Real Relaxation Is, Much Less How to Relax' — Rules For Getting Rid of Tensions

ANXIETIES CAN PRODUCE PHYSICAL EFFECTS LIKE THOSE EXPERIENCED BY COMBAT INFANTRYMEN GOING THROUGH ENEMY LINES.

By Edwin Diamond

(Copyright, 1956, by International News Service.)

"WHAT you need is some rest, recreation and relaxation."

That is a familiar prescription in our so-called "age of anxiety"— time in which the doctors tell us we are gripped with "20th Century tensions" and "the H-bomb jitters."

It could be given to a business executive hospitalized after a coronary attack felled him at his cluttered, phone-jangling desk; a mechanic whose work production has skidded; a harried housewife bracing for the meal-time pandemonium of her three strapping teen-agers.

Basically, the experts agree, the business man, the factory worker and the homemaker are getting good advice: The three R's of rest, recreation and relaxation are necessary for physical well-being and mental health.

With labor-saving devices, shorter work weeks, early retirement, paid vacations, more people have more time to take it easy. The only trouble is that we are finding it hard to do so, despite all the medical advice, free time and full pocketbooks.

At the recent annual meeting of the American Psychiatric Association, some 10,000,000 Americans were likened to taut strings ready to snap under an extra ounce of pressure. Said Dr. Alexander Reid Martin, the association's chairman on leisure time activities, surveying hurrying commuters during a walking interview:

"The complete inability to relax even for a moment is a common complaint and evidence of neurotic disturbance."

Dr. Edmund Jacobson, a pioneering physiologist, looked over a crowded cocktail lounge and said:

"Most people have no idea what true relaxation is, much less how to relax. As a result, we get mental disorders and physical symptoms like ulcers, colitis, high blood pressure, insomnia, irritibility."

Said Dr. Thurman B. Rice: "We are living at a rapid pace these days, and as a result our people are dying before their time of various degenerative diseases—organic heart disease, arterial disease, apoplexy, nephritis (Bright's disease)."

THE rapid pace and tensions the psychiatrists cite are known and experienced by all of us.

A new study conducted in Chicago shows people worry about life's comparatively little things more than cosmic issues like atomic annihilation; they are preoccupied with mortgage payments, job advancement and business worries, fading youth and beauty, old age insecurity, family health and happiness.

Studies show how these worries affect our health in a complex chain of mental processes and body chemical reactions. Dr. Roy R. Grinker, of Michael Reese Hospital and the director of the Army's "Operation Worrybird" project, has given the most thought to this subject.

Think of a man on a wartime combat patrol, he says—body muscles are at the ready, eyes and ears strain at heightened attention, adrenal glands pour chemical stimulants into the bloodstream, the heart pumps needed blood to every part of the body. All this is what the scientists call the body's defensive-protective mechanism under external stress and danger.

In civilian life, the dangers are not from external attack. Rather, Dr. Grinker says, our problems are emotional ones—we have anxieties rather than fears. But the awareness of these anxieties can produce physical effects like those experienced by the combat infantryman going through enemy lines.

DR. GRINKER likens anxiety to a signal that warns us of internal dangers. He believes a "moderate amount of anxiety is a good thing" in our daily civilian combat, since it keeps us alert to solve everyday tasks and surmount ordinary obstacles. But in some persons this anxiety buzzer gets "stuck"—instead of ringing once in a while it sounds continuously, alerting the whole body around the clock.

When this happens, inner organs are stirred up, the defense system is tensed for action that may never come. Result: nervousness, bad digestion, high blood pressure, irritability, neurotic and perhaps psychotic reactions. In the view of the experts, the anxiety buzzer must be "unstuck."

But how? By teaching people the three R's of rest, recreation and relaxation, says Chicago heart specialist Dr. Maximilian Kern.

Along this line, many businesses have adopted home touches for the office and housewives have borrowed industrial techniques to aid in the performance of daily tasks. Morning and afternoon coffee breaks are now accepted customs in many offices throughout the country. Some financial firms along Chicago's La Salle street have installed kitchens for their employes.

Music is piped into factories, private art collections hang on office walls, muted colors have been introduced into heavy industry and splashing fountains greet visitors at the newest industrial plants.

The most dramatic industrial trend has been the relocation of plants to the outlying suburbs where they have been designed to blend with the surrounding residential character. A spectacular move was made by a Chicago publishing company: 100 editors, artists, clerks and stenographers moved to the 160-acre estate of meat-packing heir Philip D. Armour. Business is conducted from a 50-room mansion looking out over woods and water at Lake Bluff, Ill. The secretaries eat their lunch in the shade of elms at the side of a swimming pool.

A PERSUASIVE argument in favor of this trend comes from St. Louis business executive Francis J. Curtis, vice president of Monsanto Chemical Co. He strongly believes worry-relieving breaks in business routine should be made just like any other appointment during the day—and should be kept.

With a wry sense of humor, Curtis recently listed the "10 rules for membership in the coronary club" — all possible steps to heart attacks:

1—Your job comes first—personal considerations are secondary.

2—Go to the office evenings, Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

3—Take your briefcase home in the evening. Review the day's worries.

SHIFT COOKING EQUIPMENT TO LOWER SHELVES . . . SIT IN A CASTER-EQUIPPED CHAIR WHEN WASHING DISHES, IRONING, MAKING MEALS, ETC.

4—Never say no to any request.

5—Accept all invitations to meetings, banquets and committees.

6—Don't eat a restful relaxing meal—plan a meal time conference.

7—Regard recreation as a waste of time and money.

8—Don't take all the vacation time you are allowed.

9—Don't delegate responsibility; carry it all yourself.

10—If you have to travel, work all day and drive all night to keep the next day's appointment.

If the trend in business is to make the office more relaxing and home-like, it is possible to spot a trend in the home towards more efficient business-like housekeeping procedures. Wives, as many husbands have long suspected, are not going about their tasks in a time-and-energy-saving way.

A new study by the home economics department of Detroit's Wayne University and the Michigan Heart Association showed that 75 per cent of the energy expended by housewives is unneccessary. Preparing one meal, for example, required one woman to take 500 steps, a dozen stops and reaching or lifting from 40 to 50 times. Most of this effort was avoidable with planning.

The Wayne study blames poor kitchen equipment arrangement, ill-planned working methods and badly designed kitchens. But women need not wait upon architects to re-design kitchens. With a little planning they can make their own day easier.

SOME good advice on how to take it easy comes from Dr. Margaret H. Brooks, home economics consultant for the Chicago Heart Association. She offers classes for women heart patients under doctors' orders to "take it easy." Her advice is valuable to all housewives:

1—Plan the week's workload. Instead of trying to do all the laundry and ironing on one specific wash day, do a little each day.

2—Shift cooking equipment used every day to lower, more convenient shelves to eliminate cross-walking and straining.

3—Instead of wiping dishes, scald them and allow them to drain dry.

4—Put yourself on wheels in the kitchen—sit in a caster - equipped chair when washing dishes, making meals and doing the ironing. Such a chair—like an office model—allows a woman to be comfortable, swivel around and scoot to stove, sink or refrigerator with a minimum of effort.

The housewife can order such a chair and tell her husband when he gets the bill:

"What's good enough for your secretary is good enough for me."

Tomorrow—How to Sleep.

In Brave World Of 1975

By Stan Delaplane

SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.

BY 1975 the United States will be banded by 80 major highways, running from coast to coast and border to border. In the same year, every citizen over 60 will have $200 a month income.

These are not my predictions. They are predictions I read in the predicters' columns of the daily journals.

I don't think the two forecasts have any relationship. They are on the same page but not in the same story. The automobile public will get the 80 highways because they require them for the cars which Detroit makes longer and lower each year. The citizens over 60 years, I assume, will get $200 as a reward for being spry enough to dodge.

I have done some driving in the past year on the freeways and toll roads on which the new American autobahn will be patterned.

They make great concrete swoops over cities. And you can spill yourself out at your destination practically by thought. Just get in the outside lane and the car takes care of itself.

After several steady hours of driving on the Pennsylvania turnpike, I decided to shoot the man I was driving with. I was that bored. Anything for excitement.

I DO HOPE that in the brave new world (when I shall be getting $200 skins per mo. Hallelujah!) they leave in a few of the old highways.

The ones where women drivers stuck out their hands in a left-hand signal before turning right.

The good old highways with the shattered glass of previous mistakes in judgment. And the battered cars being towed off to some car mortuary.

The highways that wore you out trying to keep from hitting the fool in front who drove too slow. And avoiding being creamed by the dunderhead in back who drove with his front bumper pressed cozily against your rear. Alas, it will be a safer world but a duller one when you arrive calm and cool. Instead of hating everybody.

There are few traffic police on the new turnpikes, I noticed. There were one or two patrol cars parked in the concrete parking bays. But the policemen looked as though they might be taking a sneak listen to "Young Dr. Malone." Instead of keeping tuned to the police channels.

There were signs all along. Advising trucks to keep to the outside and not to go a mile over 50. While we kept to the middle and went exactly 60.

The turnpikes (as they will in the future 1975) avoided towns.

WE NEVER WENT NEAR a main street. Or had to crane a neck out the side to see which way traffic was routed around the courthouse.

At the end of the line, we paid our toll to the uniformed toll keeper and a sign pointed us right onto the next state turnpike.

When we finally got into a city, I cut in on a truck driver and he leaned out of the cab and blistered me so wonderfully I was all for getting out and shaking hands with him.

The new highways will run straight as a string. Except where they go into those frightening whorls that always land you on the road to Boston. When you are trying to get over into New Jersey.

The senior citizens of 60, I imagine, will not be driving. Not with $200 coming in, rain or shine and beer in the icebox. A man does not live to 60 without getting pretty smart. And I do not think a smart man will be on the highways.

No, all of us old daredevils of the good old highways will be sitting around the TV. Counting our money. Telling the young whippersnappers what it was like to snap the whip in a four-wheel drive on a two-lane road.

'Paint Your Wagon' Next at Municipal Opera

PRINCIPALS OF THE FREDERICK LOEWE-ALAN JAY LERNER MUSICAL PLAY ABOUT THE CALIFORNIA GOLD RUSH, "PAINT YOUR WAGON," WHICH OPENS TOMORROW NIGHT AT MUNICIPAL OPERA. FROM LEFT, TONY BAVAAR IN HIS BROADWAY ROLE OF THE MEXICAN, JULIO, AND CHRISTINE MATHEWS AS JENNIFER RUMSON; NAN McFARLAND, OLIVER CLIFF, AND EDWIN STEFFE AS BEN RUMSON.

"PAINT YOUR WAGON," the musical play about the California gold rush by composer Frederick Loewe and librettist Alan Jay Lerner, who did "Brigadoon" and the current Broadway sensation, "My Fair Lady," will open tomorrow night at Municipal Opera for a week's run as the second Forest Park attraction of the season.

It has never before been presented in St. Louis, the road company having closed before reaching the American Theater. It opened on Broadway in November, 1951 and ran 289 performances.

The musical is a lusty, brawling comedy about the gold fever which infected everyone in the California hills in the 1850's. It is the specific account of Ben Rumson and his daughter, Jennifer, who accidentally discover an enormous strike. Miners flock in and a town springs up bearing Ben's name. Jennifer, the only girl in the town, ignores the miners and falls in love with a young Mexican. There are 13 scenes, including a hilltop, the general store in Rumson, Ben's cabin, Dutchie's saloon and Jake's Dance Palace.

Edwin Steffe, Muny Opera favorite who has previously appeared in 72 Forest Park productions over many seasons, will appear as Ben. Christine Mathews, the leading lady last summer in Muny Opera's production of "Carousel" and "Allegro," and who recently played Tuptim in the New York City Center production of "The King and I," will be Jennifer. Tony Bavaar will be recreating his original Broadway role of Julio Valveras, the Mexican. He made his Muny Opera debut last season as Lun Tha in "The King and I." He received five awards for his work in "Paint Your Wagon."

The cast will include Nan McFarland as Elizabeth Woodling, Oliver Cliff as Edgar Crocker, Roy Urhausen as Jacob Woodling, Robert Cosden as Steve Bullnack, Emile Renan as Salem Trumbell, Harry Weber as Jake Whippany, Christine Mayer as Yvonne Sorel, Val Buttignol as Pete Billings, Wana Allison as Suzanne Duval, Joseph Cusanelli as Reuben Sloane, Susan Shaute as Sarah Woodling, Ruth Schumacher as Cherry, Vince Vernon as Mike Mooney, and Gene Varrone as Sandy Twist.

The songs range from the love ballads, "I Talk to the Trees," and "Carino Mio," to the male choruses "They Call the Wind Maria," and "Hand Me Down That Can of Beans," and others such as "Wand'rin' Star," "I'm on My Way," "I Still See Elisa," and "Another Autumn." There will be a lavish dance opening the second act, featuring a rope dance and can-can. Buttignol and Miss Allison will be the dance principals.

The final performance of the opening show, "Annie Get Your Gun" will be given tonight at the opera. It features Mary McCarty as Annie Oakley and Mark Dawson as Frank Butler. All performances start at 8:30 o'clock.

'Young and Damned'

Luis Bunel's 1951 film, "The Young and the Damned," will be opening feature of the Y.M.H.A.-Y.W.H.A.'s summer film festival on the rooftop of building, 724 Union boulevard, at 8:45 p.m. Wednesday. The picture, which won the grand prize for direction at the 1951 Cannes Festival, concerns adolescent gangs on the outskirts of Mexico City.

Classical Records

Award to St. Louis Orchestra

By Thomas B. Sherman

THE FRENCH Academie du Disque has awarded a grand prize to Nathan Milstein, the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra and Capitol Records for a recording of the Prokofieff Concerto No. 1 for Violin and Orchestra. This recording, which was a 1954 release in the United States, also contains the Milstein-St. Louis performance of the Lalo "Symphonie Espagnole." Vladimir Golschmann conducts both works. The citation has listed both the technical and musical excellence of the recording. The Prokofieff-Lalo Disque which was made in St. Louis early in 1954 was not released in the European market until 1955.

CANTATA-BALLET: Stravinsky's "Les Noces," one of the outstanding works of the twentieth century, is presented with the intensity of feeling and vigorous articulation that it requires by the Netherlands Chamber Choir, a quartet of soloists and an "orchestra" composed of four pianos and a percussion group. The conductor is Felix de Nobel. (Epic, One 12-inch LP.) "Les Noces" describes a peasant wedding in early Russian and to be completely appreciated must be seen as well as heard. Though the repetitive nature of the score makes for a certain monotony (which would be counteracted by the stage picture) it still commands one's attention by its boldness of conception and its primitive thrust. The performance is excellent. The recording also, contains Stravinsky's Mass, a first class work and his admirable renderings of the "Pater Noster" and "Ave Maria." The Netherlands Chamber Choir sings in all three.

ORCHESTRA: The distinctive monolithic structure and tonal vitality that characterize all the recent recordings made under the leadership of Arturo Toscanini are present in his performances of Mozart's Symphony No. 39 in E Flat and Mozart's Divertimento No. 15 in E Flat with the NBC Symphony Orchestra. The effect is always arresting but there are times when the Maestro's "drive" is unfortunate in its effect. The angry turbulence of the "Menuetto" in the E Flat Symphony is a case in point. (RCA-Victor, One 12-inch LP.).

Grieg's Holberg's Suite is the piece de resistance in a recorded program of the Norwegian composer's music as played by the Bamberg Symphony Orchestra with Jan de Remoortel conducting. This work offers a deft synthesis or classic form and romantic feeling; and the performance is sprightly. (Vox, One 12-inch LP.) The same record offers Grieg's "Lyric" suite and Norwegian Dance.

PIANO: Walter Gieseking's authority with French music—especially Debussy and Ravel is a fact of long standing; so it is wholly appropriate that he should be chosen to record the complete piano works of Ravel. The main items are "Gaspard de la Buit," "Le Tombeau de Couperin," "Miroirs" and "Valses Nobles et Sentimentales" but the album also includes a miscellany of small pieces. Gieseking's execution is commensurate with his taste. The reproduction is unusually good. (Angel, Three 12-inch LPs, Five Sides.)

CONCERTO: Arthur Grumiaux gives performances of two Mozart Violin Concerti that could hardly be improved so far as sparkle and clarity of line are concerned. The concerti—No. 1 B. Flat and No. 7 in D Major—are accompanied by the Vienna Symphony Orchestra with Bernhard Paumgartner conducting. (Epic, One 12-inch LP.)

CHAMBER WORKS: The Philadelphia Woodwind Ensemble plays, with great effectiveness, a group of smaller chamber works ranging from Haydn to Hindemith. The most interesting one to me is Hindemith's Kleine Kammermusik which uses a quasi-atonal harmonic style in a delightfully humorous way. This is an early work, and a light one, but in my opinion it is one of Hindemith's best. Other items on this record are Ibert's "Trois Pieces" Bozza's Scherzo for Wind Instruments, Haydn's Divertimento in B Flat and Beethoven's Sextet in a quintet arrangement. Members of the ensemble are William Kincaid flute, John de Lancie, oboe, Anthony Gigliotti, clarinet, Sol Schoenbach, bassoon, and Mason Jones, French horn. All are first desk men in the Philadelphia Orchestra and among the world's best performers on their instruments. (Columbia, One 12-inch LP.)

PERCUSSION: Saul Goodman, another virtuoso performer but on instruments that are fated to play secondary roles in great orchestral music, gives a demonstration of his art and skill on an unusual record. Goodman is the tympanist for the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra where he is chiefly occupied with the kettle drums. But he is also a good hand at the triangle, Chinese gong, tam-tam, glockenspiel, xylophone, vibraphone, cymbals, big and little, snare drum, bass drum and a few others. In the course of his demonstration he plays them all and explains their function. The record concludes with a set of variations for seven of the instruments all played by Goodman and reproduced by means of a multiple sound track. (Angel, One 12-inch LP.)

Best Sellers

Beethoven's Violin Concerto played by Nathan Milstein and the Pittsburgh Orchestra, William Steinberg conducting; Schumann's Symphony No. 2, played by the Detroit Orchestra, Paul Paray conducting. (Mercury, One 12-inch LP.)

Writers for Picture 'Naked and the Dead'

HOLLYWOOD, June 16 — Denis and Terry Sanders will collaborate in writing the screen version of the Orman Mailer novel "The Naked and the Dead," to be produced by Paul Gregory in association with RKO. The brothers—Denis is 27 and Terry 24—caught the attention of Hollywood with their vignette of the Civil War, "Time Out of War," made as graduate students at the University of California at Los Angeles.

At the Movies

By Myles Standish

MADDALENA—A stunning Italian drama about how an arrogant rich man in an Italian mountain village, seeking to humiliate the priest, installs an imposter, a prostitute, to play the Madonna in the Good Friday religious ceremony, with devastating consequences. An overwhelming emotional experience as it interplays cynicism, selfishness, bigotry and cruelty with tenderness, mercy and suffering. Marta Toren's exquisite performance as the fallen woman makes this one of the most wrenchingly poignant pictures in years. SHADY OAK.

THE BIRDS AND THE BEES—George Gobel, in his film debut, forsakes monologues for slapstick, but he has been given an amusing plot and a chance to use the Gobel delivery, so it's a happy enough event. Mitzi Gaynor, as the come-on girl for a team of ocean-liner card-sharps, has enough enchanting vitality to put any male in a dither. FOX.

HILDA CRANE—Slick and literal presentation by Director-Writer Philip Dunne of Samson Raphaelson's play about a neurotic young woman who's third go at marriage ends in being caught at adultery and a suicide attempt—because her mother never loved her and her third husband deserted her emotionally in her time of need. Well acted by Jean Simmons, Guy Madison, Jean Pierre Aumont, Judith Evelyn and Evelyn Varden, but it is too shallow, and under its intelligence never generates excitement or compassion. ST. LOUIS.

THE NAKED DAWN—The corrosive effects of greed on the character of a simple Mexican peon when he is introduced to crime and fast money by a lusty bandido. Arthur Kennedy, Eugene Iglesias and Betta St. John do good work, but it is too theatrical in its simplicity, too self-consciously arty. PAGEANT.

FOREIGN INTRIGUE—Sheldon Reynolds produces, writes and directs his TV bonanza into a color motion picture, but he should have stuck to the air waves. This is one of the talkiest, dullest, most tedious and suspenseless action melodramas we have witnessed. With Robert Mitchum, complete with shabby trench coat, and a Swedish dish named Ingrid Tulean. LOEW'S STATE.

A KID FOR TWO FARTHINGS—A whimsical, cheerful and sensitive view of life in London's Petticoat Lane Market, affectionately and humorously done by ace Director Carol Reed in a beautifully subdued Technicolor. With Celia Johnson, Diana Dors. RICHMOND.

THE MAN WHO KNEW TOO MUCH—Director Alfred Hitchcock, again proves himself the old maestro of the suspense melodrama. A real spine-tingler, with Jimmy Stewart and Doris Day quite good as an American couple caught up in an European cloak and dagger plot. In Vista Vision. MISSOURI.

SONG OF THE SOUTH—Some delightful Walt Disney cartoons on the Uncle Remus yarns about Br'er Fox, Br'er Bear and Br'er Rabbit unfortunately diluted with some hammy live action sequences. Reissue of the 1946 feature. ORPHEUM.

SEVEN WONDERS OF THE WORLD—A very ordinary hodge-podge travelogue in Cinerama. AMBASSADOR.

VICTOR MATURE IN A TOUGH FIGHT WITH MURDERING MAUMAUS IN "SAFARI," CINEMASCOPE AFRICAN ADVENTURE STORY, NEXT AT LOEW'S STATE.

MARTA TOREN AS AN ANGUISHED PROSTITUTE WHO TAKES PART IN A SCHEME TO HUMILIATE A PRIEST BY PLAYING THE MADONNA IN A GOOD FRIDAY RELIGIOUS PROCESSION IN "MADDALENA," ITALIAN FILM AT THE SHADY OAK.

Film on Integration Problem in South

HOLLYWOOD, June 16—The controversy over integration in the south will be dramatized in a picture to be titled "The Till Murder Case." It will be produced independently by Sam Bischoff and David Diamond, who last year made the topical movie, "The Phenix City Story" about lawlessness in the Alabama town.

Crane Wilbur, who wrote the screen play for the latter, also will be the author of "The Till Murder Case." The picture, according to Bischoff, will deal with attempts by "some politicians and hoodlums to gain control of the white citizens councils in the south and turn them into terrorist organizations." The producer added the picture will advocate a solution of the racial integration problem through education and peaceful means.

Present plans call for the start of filming in August. The picture will not be made in the south. However, Mr. Bischoff said he believed the film would be acceptable there because "most southerners favor peaceful solution" of the issue.

This Week in Radio

Program to Deal With Alcoholism

A SPECIAL documentary, "Skid Row," dealing with the problem of alcoholism, will be presented on KSD at 8:05 Thursday night. The documentary is the work of Howard Lewis of Columbia University who submitted a tape recording made on the streets of New York City's Bowery as a thesis for his Master of Science degree.

DOROTHY KIRSTEN . . . GUEST ON "WHAT'S NEW IN MUSIC" ON KMOX THIS AFTERNOON.

Metropolitan Opera Soprano Dorothy Kirsten, actor Stephen Douglass, and pianist Van Cliburn will be featured in "What's New in Music," on KMOX at 5 this afternoon.

The sound of rare trumpeter swans will be heard on NBC's "Monitor," on KSD at 12:05 this afternoon. Other "Monitor" features will include an old - fashioned fiddlers' contest from Crockett, Tex., at 6:30 this evening, and a visit to a gold mine shaft at Lead, S.D., at 8:30 tonight. From time to time, children in different sections of the country will be heard finishing this sentence: "I think my pop is tops because—" in observance of Father's Day.

"Operation Cupcake," dealing with the maze of utilities and services that must be protected and maintained in case of enemy attack, will be the "By the People" documentary on KWK at 6 this evening.

Frank Eschen in his "Muny Opera Previews" program on KSD at 9 tonight will discuss "Paint Your Wagon," the production beginning tomorrow night at the St. Louis Municipal Opera.

Orthodox Union Dinner

The Very Rev. Dr. Israel Brodie of England will discuss "Liberty and Toleration" at the annual dinner of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America in New York Wednesday night. The talk will be carried by KSD at 9:30.

Close friends, associates and relatives of the late Heywood Broun will be heard telling what they remember best about him on "Biographies in Sound" on KSD at 8 Tuesday night. Broun's son, Heywood, will be the narrator.

Star companion guests on "Weekday," on KSD at 9 each morning this week will be Ralph Flanagan, tomorrow; Dana Wynter, Tuesday; Dick Powell, Wednesday; Maxine Sullivan, Thursday, and George Gobel, Friday.

Dr. Betty Caldwell of Washington University's Child Evaluation Clinic will be interviewed on "Retardation Isn't Hopeless" on Louise Munsch's "Just for Women" program on WEW at 9:15 tomorrow morning.

KMOX's "Sunday in St. Louis" will be heard at 7 Wednesday night this week instead of the usually Tuesday night hour.

"Tun in the Sun," an audience-participation program, will be carried by KSD at 9:30 Tuesday night.

New World: "Vacation Reading." — 10:35 a.m. today on KSD.

Week's Concerts

Soprano Elaine Malbin will be the guest soloist with the Howard Barlow orchestra on KXOK at 7:30 tomorrow night. Her numbers will include Jose Padilla's "La Violetera," and "Gavotte" from Massenet's "Manon."

Michael Rabin, 20-year-old violinist who first appeared with the Donald Voorhees orchestra six years ago, will play Engels's "Sea Shell," as arranged by Efrem Zimbalist when he appears on the program on KSD at 8 tomorrow night. He also will play Mendelssohn's "Sweet Remembrance" and Prokofieff's orchestral march from "Love for Three Oranges."

Mozart's Coronation Mass will highlight the final broadcast from the Mozart Bicentennial Festival in Salzburg on the "World Music Festivals" program on KMOX at 11 tonight.

Public Affairs Discussions

Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, who is seeking the Democratic presidential nomination, will be the "Meet the Press" guest on KSD at 5:35 this afternoon. Other public discussion programs on radio this week:

Invitation to Learning: Walt Whitman's "Democratic Vistas."—9:30 a.m. today on KMOX.

American Forum: "Rock 'n Roll." Mitch Miller and Allan Freed.—9:30 p.m. today on KSD.

Northwestern University Reviewing Stand: "The Cypress Problem."—10:30 a.m. on KWK.

Face the Nation: Senator John L. McClellan (Dem.) of Arkansas—10:35 p.m. today on KMOX.

St. Louis in Action: "Shriners Hospital," Walter C. Ploeser and moderator Edward C. Schafer—1:30 p.m., Saturday, on WEW.

Circuit Attorney: "The Psychopathic or Insane Offender." Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd and assistant Edward McSweeney—6:30 p.m., Saturday, on KXOK.

Bing Crosby Program Host

Bing Crosby will be host and narrator for the play, "Wally," in which Alan Reed will be starred, on KWK's "Family Theater" at 9:30 tonight.

The topic of Dr. Oswald Hoffman on "Lutheran Hour," on KWK at 11:30 this morning and KFUO at 2:30 this afternoon will be "Share Your Bread With the Hungry."

The "Family of Man" exhibition at the St. Louis Art Museum will be discussed by Julius H. Klyman of the Post-Dispatch staff and Betty Grossman on KFUO at 3:45 tomorrow afternoon.

Dr. Ernest L. Wilkinson, president of Brigham Young University, will be the "Church of the Air" speaker on KMOX at 9 this morning. The talk will come from Salt Lake City where the annual Youth Conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-Day Saints is being held.

The Rev. Laurence C. McHugh, S.J., will speak on "Reins for the Broncho, Spurs for the Nag" on KSD's Catholic Hour at 1:30 this afternoon.

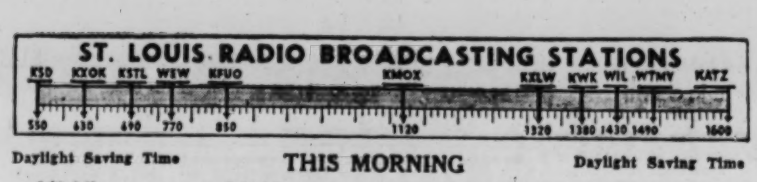

The "Message of Israel" topic on KXOK at 11:30 tonight will be "A Faith to Live By," with Rabbi Nathan Kaber of Altoona, Pa., as the speaker.

Impact of TV in United States

By John Crosby

NEW YORK, June 16.

SOME TIME ago, I was asked to make a little minute and a half speech before some movie cameras for a projected documentary on the impact of television the world over. This was a joint Unesco and BBC project which will eventually be shown on the BBC and possibly on other foreign TV networks and my share was to talk about television in the United States.

That's a tall order—boiling everything you know about TV down to a minute and a half, and I don't know that I did it very well. Still, it was a refreshing experience for a change to think in broad terms rather than specific ones and I think I'll pass it along. Some of these observations may seem a little obvious, but remember this is for a foreign audience:

"This is a very large country, America, and one of the great things about television is that it has brought us all quite close together—closer together than we have been before in our history. In 1953, the Congressional hearings on Senator McCarthy were nationally televised. About 100,000,000 Americans saw some part of it. This made it the largest town meeting ever held in this or any other country. When the hearings were over, Senator McCarthy was just about finished as a political force. We'd all had a chance to look at him once, something that would not have been possible before television arrived.

"IN A COUNTRY like this, a country of vast distances, of different races and religions and regional habits, television has been a unifying instrument of very great power. (Aside:

JOHN CROSBY . . . "TV HAS MADE AMERICANS DEMAND MORE OF LIFE."

This bit was directed exclusively to English ears. England, after all, is a tight little island with national newspapers that are read from one end of the island to the other, and with great racial homogeneity; Englishmen have a distressing habit of thinking that everyone else is the same way.)

"I cannot pretend that this power has always been used wisely. The effect on our children of a constant diet of cowboy movies is not at all healthy. Americans have always been accused—rather falsely, I think—of being a nation of conformists and this terrible instrument—wherein we can all see the same thing at the same time—increases that conformity.

"Nevertheless, television's great power—almost inadvertently—has done great things for us culturally. Almost anything you can name has been on our television — Shaw, Shakespeare, the Sadler's Wells ballet, all manner of operas, virtually every classic novel ever written. These things were seen by people who would not ordinarily be exposed to them in their lifetime. Laurence Olivier's Richard III,' for example, was watched by 40,000,000 more people than have seen the play in the 300 years since Shakespeare wrote it.

"We had feared television would end reading. Well, the final score on that is not in yet but preliminary returns indicate that TV has stimulated reading. People see the classics on TV and go buy the books. More books were sold last year than at any time in our history.

"TELEVISION has also driven the motion picture industry to higher ground. Simply to be able to compete with this monster, Hollywood has had to turn out good pictures. Television's own contributions to the movie industry are impressive. The motion picture 'Marty' which won top prizes in several European film festivals and the Academy Award, our highest film award, was originally a television play. Television has also produced many writers, actors, and directors who have been snapped up by the movies and the theater. Already it is the great training ground for our future stars and dramatists.

"What it boils down to is that television has made Americans demand more of life — better acting, better writing, better politicians, better automobiles. I realize that this is not altogether a good thing, but on the whole, I think Americans have profited enormously."

Visiting Relatives

Open Refrigerator, Take Beer at Will

By Martha Carr

Dear Martha:

IN our family we visit quite a bit. There is always beer in the refrigerator. Here's the problem. The men go to each other's refrigerator and get a beer if they want one.

One of the wives has taken exception to this and now all the wives concur that this isn't a nice practice. None of our wives works. We have bought the refrigerators and we buy the beer. We men have an understanding that this is o.k. Please advise, as your opinion will settle this silly argument.

READER.

Personally, I feel it's a little more gracious to wait to be offered refreshments or, at least, to ask permission of the host or hostess before raiding the refrigerator, but as this is an established custom in your family, it seems too bad to start standing on formality all of a sudden. I certainly don't like to see casual friends making themselves right at home in another's kitchen, but as long as this is all in the family, and as long as the men don't feel that one is taking advantage by helping himself too generously and failing to provide enough for his guests when they happen to be at his house, it would seem all right. But believe me it's not worth a family feud.

Dear Martha:

● I AM A 15-YEAR-OLD GIRL with a stubborn streak. I have set my own standards for friends and have tried hard to keep them. I do not have any respect for teen-agers who smoke, drink and, most of all, use bad language. My mother says I am just being a prude. What do you think?

TEEN-AGER.

There's a big difference between a refusal to compromise one's standards and showing scornful disapproval of anyone who fails to measure up. The first is admirable. The second is discourteous. Surely your mother wants you to have high standards of conduct, but perhaps she thinks you are making yourself and those around you unhappy by insisting that everyone else behave just as you think is right. We can't regulate other people's conduct. What we can do is to hold firm to our own ideals and convictions, act accordingly, and try to choose friends who go along with our way of thinking. But when others fall short—and we all do!—we are wrong to condemn them openly with a holier-than-thou attitude.

Dear Martha:

● AS A READER of your column I have been impressed in the past with the rather constant complaint of young (and not so young) women that they are unable to meet men. This can be, to my mind, only the failure of the women themselves. There are many places that are populated almost exclusively by men where women would be welcomed that no woman who sincerely wishes to meet men need be alone. I am speaking of organizations that are hobby or other part-time activity groups which appeal to men. Practically all would welcome one or more women perhaps to do the correspondence or bookkeeping. This would not be particular burdensome. Of course, these men are not the pink tea and lady finger type but on the other hand, I know of very few divorces among them. Of course, the members of these organizations are neither hermits nor marooned on desert islands. If a woman is completely hopeless, going to a male group is not going to help unless she gets an equally hopeless male. If, however, she is a reasonably normal person who has just not met men, she could do a lot worse than go to such a group. And, of course, the usual rules about keeping hands off the married men apply there too. I ask that my name not be given, for the same reason that I am not giving the names of the organizations I belong to. Let's divide these nice ladies among all organizations, not just ours.

READER.

I fully expect now a run on the Public Library's collection of handyman books and tomes on building model planes and boats in the basement. But seriously, you do have a good idea. If a girl wants to catch a man, she has to go where the men are, and such a group as you describe is infinitely better than a tavern, no matter how many men are congregated at the bar. However, it's no compliment to a woman to be welcomed into an organization merely because she knows the multiplication tables and owns a fountain pen. Let her feel that she's smart enough to work side by side with the men and I have an idea that whether she grabs a husband or not, she'll be able to contribute something worthwhile to the group.

Dear Martha:

● I AM 13 YEARS OLD and a group of us are taking swimming lessons. Some wear skirts and some wear shorts. We have to take the bus. My mother insists it is not proper to wear shorts on the bus or go through the downtown shopping district in shorts. She says shorts are for sport and beach and your back yard. Please settle this discussion.

A TEEN-AGER.

I can already see the avalanche of letters which will come to my desk in disagreement because shorts have come to be accepted by many as quite proper street attire. For myself, I'll have to stick with your mother. Shorts are for the beach, not the bus, and for the privacy of a back-yard picnic, not a crowded department store.

Dear Martha:

● I MET A BOY a week ago and have been going out with him since then. There is only one thing that bothers me. He says when I am out on a date with him and I see some other boys I know I'm not supposed to say "Hi" to them or even pretend I know them. He says I'm supposed to give my attention to him. Now, I agree that I shouldn't yell and wave out the window to everyone I know, but don't you think it is correct to say "Hi" if they look my way? Otherwise, I'd lose a lot of friends. KANDY.

It's natural for a boy to want his date to give him all her attention—and vice versa—but it's certainly neither necessary nor polite to snub everyone else. Of course, if you're really paying attention to him you won't see those in other cars or across the room but if you come face to face with them or if they seek you out, wou should be as courteous to them as to your own escort.

IN ANSWER TO Emily: You are referring to the Fireside Club of Pilgrim Congregational Church, an organization for men and women. Meetings are held at the church, 826 Union boulevard, at 7:30 p.m. the second and fourth Sundays. You'll be welcome.

Martha Carr is glad to answer your questions. If you wish a personal reply, please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. She cannot answer problems of a medical or legal nature.

Many New Fashion Ideas in Autumn Clothes

St. Louis Designers Have Given Different Interpretation to Bloused Theme, Directoire Mode, Coat Dress

By Sylvia Stiles

FORWARD-LOOKING St. Louisans who like to plan their wardrobes in advance of the season will find numerous fashion ideas in the autumn clothes made in St. Louis. The bloused theme, the coat dress, and the Directoire mode have been interpreted in new ways by members of the St. Louis Fashion Creators who have used a variety of striking materials to achieve attractive results.

Within the last two weeks these St. Louis products have been on parade in the show rooms of the manufacturers as retailers from all sections of the United States and from several far-away countries have selected their preferences for fall and winter. What they choose may be regarded as a barometer of young styles that will be popular within the next few months as St. Louis is recognized as a center of youthful fashions.

A survey of the leading styles as indicated by "best-selling numbers" proves that the unbelted one-piece dress will continue but that the slim sheath will have some competition in gored skirts with wider hemlines. Shadow stripes and woven checks are responsible for much of the fabric interest while blends of cotton and silk and the introduction of synthetics that look like woolens stresses the importance of lightweight materials.

Most of the designers have given their new creations the appearance of being a completed costume, whether this is a one-piece tailored dress, a dress and jacket or a skirt and blouse outfit. The importance of the co-ordinated trend, even in casual clothes, is seen in the Jo Collins styles that include contrasting shirts and skirts that have a one-piece effect. A white wool jersey blouse with black ribbed-knitted accents is teamed with a charcoal gray flannel trouser-creased skirt as an example of this idea.

The simulated bolero is featured in the Ellen Kaye collection for early fall. Outstanding among the interpretations of the slender dress with the costume look is a pepper and salt tweed dress in one of the interesting new textures that are lightweight. The suit emphasis is attained with the bolero front of the blouse and the white linen collar and cuffs. Linen cuffs are attached under the tweed cuffs to suggest a tailored blouse and are fastened with jeweled links. There is a red velvet bow at the neckline.

Another version of the bolero idea is introduced by Daryl in a dress made of two shades of green wool jersey. This, too, has the appearance of a costume although it is a one-piece dress. High-waisted bodice cut like a figure-hugging jacket is of the lighter green jersey and is attached to the slim skirt with a bias fold of the fabric. Push-up sleeves and a tailored turn-over color are details of the tailored styling.

Retailers who visited the Mar Tee showrooms chose a dress and jacket ensemble as the "top" style in this youthful line. This ensemble is distinguished especially by the unusual fabric which is a satin-backed rayon in shadowed black and brown that is co-ordinated with a companion striped rayon. Empire dress has a gored skirt, the fullness starting at the hipline. Double rows of covered buttons adorn the front of the bodice and serve as fasteners for the brief, striped jacket. Standing collar and buttons are made of the satin side of the fabric.

Another of the arresting fabrics that are so characteristic of the coming season is a cotton and silk check in subtle blending of jet black with brown, royal blue or gray. Alfred Werber has used this for a one-piece dress with a sharply defined V-shaped front of white embroidered cotton. The dress is a type to be worn for summer travel, and early fall in addition to being serviceable under a winter coat.

Ribbon-knit themes are among the dominant ones in the Minx Modes collection but one of the dresses that resulted in numerous orders is a wool model with scalloped front closing and a flaring skirt. This is cut with the unbelted princess silhouette that shows off a youthful figure in a flattering manner. The princess line also proved popular in the Paul Brooks designs as illustrated by a worsted wool jersey dress in toast shade. Bows and bands trim the front of the dress at the midriff section. High, rolled collar has an emerald green velvet tab at the side front.

Dark plaid cotton is a transitional type in demand for late summer and early fall. Sorority House shows this in a slim, unbelted dress that has deep skirt pockets finished with a bias band that extends to the back to form a panel. Collar of the dress has a black velvet inlay and tie. Paul Sachs has become recognized as a leader in fashions in misses rather than junior sizes, so first choice among the styles bearing this label is indicative of a general trend. Preference goes to a rayon acetate dress in a weave that resembles sheer wool crepe and is available in shades of gray, brown and navy. The dress has a side front closing accented with a very deep pleat and covered buttons. There is one large patch pocket on the skirt. Dress is unbelted at the front but has a belt at the back that ties over a cluster of pleats.

Shadow-striped wool in black and brown alliance is the fabric used for a Doris Dodson one-piece unbelted sheath that has wide, round neckline trimmed with novelty black braid. A new version of the jumper dress by Frelich also features a striped knitted woolen. A block wool jersey blouse that accompanies this has rib-knitted turtle neckline. This company has indorsed another campus trend—the striped wool blazer which gives indication of being a fall favorite.

Suit fashions stress the vogue of two shades of the same fabric, such as the light and dark gray wool flannel in the boxy jacket model by Supreme. Festive dresses likewise highlight two fabrics. Bernard's full-skirted model combining red faille taffeta with matt jersey is typical.

BOLERO JACKET DRESS, A MAR TEE ORIGINAL DESIGN, IS MADE OF A SATIN-BACKED ACETATE FABRIC AND COMPANION STRIPED MATERIAL COMBINING BLACK AND BROWN.

SHORT EVENING DRESS BY BERNARD COMBINES A RED MATT JERSEY BODICE WITH FULL SKIRT OF RED FAILLE TAFFETA. SKIRT IS ATTACHED AT LOWERED WAISTLINE WITH BIAS FOLD.

THIS NEW VERSION OF A STRIPED WOOL JERSEY JUMPER DRESS BY FRELICH IS WORN WITH A HIGH-NECKED RIBBED-KNITTED TURTLE NECKED BLOUSE.

A COTTON AND SILK CHECKED FABRIC COMBINING BROWN AND BLACK IS USED FOR THIS ALFRED WERBER DRESS WITH LONG V SHAPED COTTON LINGERIE DICKEY.

Fiance Buy Hope Chest? Definitely No

By Emily Post

DEAR MRS. POST: I have always thought that the bride's family was supposed to buy her hope chest. However, it seems to have become a custom here for the girl's fiance to buy it for her. Will you please tell me if it is now considered correct?

Answer: Definitely, no!

A LETTER TELLS ME: "My son and his wife were married only a very short time when they found that they were not suited to each other and are having the marriage annulled. His wife lived in this town only a short while before her marriage and did not have too many friends. Most of the wedding presents she received came from our friends and relatives. Many of these presents haven't even been used. Our friends do not want their presents returned to them but they feel that my son should have them. Would it be proper for him to ask for them? It doesn't seem fair that she should keep the expensive rings and all of the gifts too, while he gets nothing."

Considering the fact that the presents came from his friends and relatives, it would be only fair to return the presents she received from them, to him. But if she chooses to claim them, strictly speaking she has a right to keep them as they were sent to her.

DEAR MRS. POST: When a man and girl go to a cafeteria for something to eat, shouldn't the man precede her so that when they reach the end of the line where the cashier is seated, he can pay for her food. If she goes first it makes a rather awkward situation.

Answer: She should go ahead of him and when they get to where the cashier is, he merely leans forward and says to the cashier, "This lady is with me, please add her food to my check."

Frank Sinatra Sought For 'Mr. Lucky'

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., June 16—Frank Sinatra may do a picture next year for RKO where he made his screen debut in 1943 in "Higher and Higher." The studio is anxious to sign him for a contemplated remake of "Mr. Lucky," which starred Cary Grant. Some musical numbers will be added to the romantic melodrama, made in 1943. The original script dealt with a gambler who figured on turning the wartime bundles for Britain campaign to his own advantage, but was regenerated under the influence of a society girl. Sinatra hasn't given the studio his decision, but he reportedly showed interest in discussing the proposed picture with William Dozier, RKO's production chief.

Siam Adventure

HOLLYWOOD, June 16—Robert Rossen, the writer-director-producer, disclosed that he expected to complete "within two or three days" negotiations to make a movie of the Andre Malraux book, "The Royal Way." Denis Tual, French producer and representative of the author, is due here from France to complete arrangements with Rossen. The book, published in 1935, is a story of high adventure with an archeologist and an adventurer seeking lost treasure in the jungles of Siam.

WASH-A-MATIC WASHER

WITH THE MIRACLE FIBRE GLASS SPIRAL TUB AGITATOR

EASY TO USE! EASY TO OWN! FULLY AUTOMATIC!

APEX Exclusive Spiral Tub Agitator Washes Faster, Easier, Cleaner . . . With Continuous

CURD AND SCUM ELIMINATION

EXCLUSIVE FLUFF-WASH ACTION

FLEX-FLUSH CLEANSING—Clothes are flexed over "washboard" spiral ribs of tub. Unique pulsating action flushes sudsy "geysers" up through fabric, removing all dirt easier, faster!

TRIPLE-RINSING—Effective spray-spin rinse that carries water, suds, and soil up and out of basket. Plus 2 deep-flush agitated rinses for complete cleansing.

SPIN-DRIES — High-speed spin whirls excess water out of the clean clothes, leaving them up to 20% drier . . . light to carry to drier or line.

FLUFFS THE CLOTHES—The only automatic with the "Fluff" action at close of spin cycle eliminates creeping and tangling of clothes, makes them easy to remove, easy to iron.

Anderson to Write Hitchcock Script

HOLLYWOOD, June 16 — Maxwell Anderson will continue his writing association with Alfred Hitchcock. According to the author's agent, Irving Lazar, Anderson will do the screen play for the director-producer's production of "[illegible] Amongst The Dead" for Paramount. The two worked together on "The Wrong Man," recently completed for Warner Bros.

Benefit Revue

"The Hunting Season," a musical revue written by Alma Weil Kessler and directed by Jack Engler, will be presented at the Chase Club at 8 p.m. Friday by The Players for the benefit of the American Medical Center of Denver, a cancer and tuberculosis hospital. It represents a weekend on the "Borscht belt" in the Catskills.

June Month For Gifts; Wrappings

By Dorothy Brainerd

JUNE is the month of showers, weddings and anniversaries — which means that June is the month for gift-giving. Gone is the day when a bit of white tissue and a big pink bow made a package socially acceptable; it is now expected to be almost as attractive on the outside as the gift itself if it is to hold its own among the stack of presents awaiting the bride (past, present or future).

With this is mind, we asked Kaye King, gift wrap stylist of a leading greeting card company who was in town last week, for suggestions which you might find helpful during this festive month.

"Make your gift wrap gay and imaginative if the gift is a simple one," suggests Kaye. "If it is for a bride it should be as glamorous as you know how to make it. For a bridal shower, however, it can be amusing and in keeping with the gift."

Here are a few specific ideas:

Silver Anniversary: Use a designed paper which has silver in the design. Attach bow; cut silver foil discs of various sizes and attach (or use new silver coins).

Tin Anniversary: Use a wedding or anniversary gift paper and tie a real tin can of soup in the bow. To reveal more of the shiny tin, remove the label from the can.

Personal Shower Gift. Handbag: Wrap the box in a designed paper. Attach handle made of ribbon and a bow. The box will resemble a real handbag if a small clasp is pasted on. The clasp can be formed of a small scrap of leftover gold foil.

Gloves: Wrap the box in designed paper and cut out several glove shapes in white paper. Paste on the package.

Kitchen Shower. Apron: Wrap the box in plain paper. Gather a strip of designed paper to the back of narrow band and attach with tape or glue. Cut scallops at the bottom edge of the apron. Attach a pocket; a bow in back completes the design.

Bridal Gift: Something Old Something New, Something Borrowed, Something Blue. Wrap the gift (new) in wrapping paper (blue), tie a lovely old handkerchief in the bow (borrowed, old).

Incidentally, a new gift-wrap ribbon now on the market can be converted into all sorts of flowers that actually look real and will "dress up" any package.

MRS. M. M. wants us to settle a family argument. She writes:

"Can you tell me if it is against the law to dye potatoes? Or is it a requirement that they be dyed before being sold? My husband says it is illegal; I have been told it must be done."

It is not compulsory, Mrs. M.; you will see many potatoes in local stores that have not even been washed. But neither is it prohibited, providing that the color is harmless, that it does not conceal damage or inferiority of the product, and that potatoes which have been color-waxed are so labeled.

In order to get an official statement for you, I wrote to L. C. Carpenter, Commissioner, Department of Agriculture for the State of Missouri, and quote his reply:

"In regard to the law relating to dye being used on potatoes, much depends upon the dye and the condition under which it is used. This would come under the Pure Food and Drug Act which in general states that any such dye must not be used to cover any damages or defects in the potatoes, increase the bulk of the weight or to make the product appear better than it actually is. Of course the dye must be of a type that is harmless to humans or animals. In order to better understand the full meaning of the law I would advise you to consult the Missouri Revised Statutes of 1949, Section 196.070."

The United States Food and Drug Administration laws, which govern interstate shipments, are virtually the same as those outlined by Mr. Carpenter.

"WILL YOU PLEASE tell me if there is any way to polish silverwear besides the use of silver polish?" inquires Mrs. J.M.B., who adds "In haste, please."

In haste or not, Mrs. B., we would suggest that you stick to the use of a good silver polish if you do not wish to destroy the lovely patina.

Honesty forces us to report that there is another way—the electrolytic method which is quick and easy. This involves the use of aluminum and baking soda, and there is no doubt that it is effortless. But it does not give you the same soft, lovely finish that you obtain through the use of a good silver polish.

There also are commercial products, such as treated papers, but in our opinion hand rubbing with silver polish is the treatment to which sterling is entitled.

Any homemaking problems bothering you? If so, write to Dorothy Brainerd in care of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. She will answer your questions or publish them and see if other readers have the answers for you.

Black Cotton Dress

For daytime wear, Oleg Cassini has designed a sleeveless slim dress of black cotton knit. There is a band of cocoa and white across the front of the high-waisted bodice and down one side of the skirt. Another of his slim dresses is of white and has a big insert and bow of cornflower blue. Red linen is streaked with a side and neck banding of beige and black in the design of another striking dress.

Trudi Buxton Concert

Trudi Buxton, 8-year-old pianist who twice was guest soloist with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, will give a recital at the Clayton Community Center, No. 2 Mark Twain Circle, at 8 p.m. Thursday. She will play Bach, Mozart, Mendelssohn, Schubert, Chopin, Kabelevsky and Beethoven. She is a student at the St. Louis Institute of Music.

Fables Of the Famous

By E. E. Edgar

RETURN. As a young man, opera star Enrico Caruso was once engaged to sing at the San Carlo Theatre in Naples, the city of his birth. It was a great occasion for him. After a year of success at La Scala, he was to sing at last for his fellow-Neapolitans.

Unfortunately, his debut was not destined to be a happy one. The theatre that night was filled with two rival musical factions. Instead of listening to Caruso, they became embroiled in a near riot, with fists and epithets flying.

Caruso was so incensed, that when his engagement was over, he vowed he would never again sing in Naples. And he never did. Years later, a friend suggested that the time had come for him to rescind his vow.

"Never," said Caruso.

"But you're a Neapolitan yourself," said the other.

"Of course," said the tenor. "I love the place and I hope to visit it again and again. But not to sing. Only to eat spaghetti!"

* * *

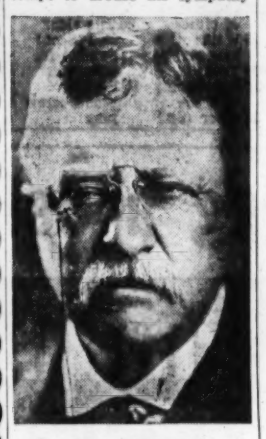

Opening: Humorist Irvin Cobb once wrote a play which was a flop on Broadway. The morning after the premiere, he received a wire from an out-of-town friend.

"How did it open?" wrote the latter.

"With a yawn," wired back Cobb.

GUEST: Shortly after the outbreak of World War I, a German propagandist called on Theodore Roosevelt in an attempt to arouse his sympathy for the German cause. T. R. was cold to the suggestion.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT . . . COULDN'T FORGET.

"But Mr. Roosevelt," said the propagandist, "surely you haven't forgotton that you were the Kaiser's guest during your tour of Europe?"

"No, I haven't forgotten," replied the former President. "Nor have I forgotten that I was also the guest of the King of the Belgians."

Precaution: During his first years in the theatre, which were lean ones, John Barrymore would wear the same suit for weeks on end, without changing it.

Whenever his outfit became too disreputable, his sister Ethel would sneak into his room at night, remove his suit and burn it.

One morning after this had happened, John announced that he was going to buy a new suit.

"It's about time," said Ethel. "What material do you have in mind—tweed?"

"No," said John. "Asbestos."

ASSIGNMENT: Movie Director Michael Curtiz's assaults on the English language have long been famous in Hollywood. Once, while filming a Western, he wanted to include a shot of a riderless horse crossing in front of the camera.

He shouted instructions at the prop man, but the latter could not understand him. Finally, in desperation, Curtiz thundered:

"My goodness, can't you understand English? Get me an empty horse!"

INSPIRATION: At the age of 13, Mary Pickford landed a coveted role in a David Belasco production, she recalls in her book "Sunshine and Shadow." Belasco, one of the great showmen of his time, was famed for his temperamental outbursts.

"Once, at rehearsal, he kept the cast working late into the night. The set was a dining hall in an old Virginia mansion, authentic in every detail from the rugs to the silver molasses container. Mr. Belasco couldn't bear cheap imitations. Suddenly his voice boomed out:

"'Hold everything!'

"He climbed up on the stage and headed for the molasses container. He reached for a spoon and tasted the contents. With the roar of a lion, he called for the property man.

"'Taste that!' he commanded. 'Well, what is it?'

"'Maple syrup, sir.'

"'And what does the manuscript call for?'

"'Molasses, sir.'

"Belasco dashed the jar into a thousand pieces on the floor, and began to jump up and down on the sticky mess, shouting:

"'Never take such liberties with me again!'

"Then he looked at me with twinkling eyes and said:

"'I must break something at least once before opening night to keep the cast on their toes.'"

Unusual Costume

For the summertime hostess an unusual costume consists of a pink chintz blouse, black spun rayon pedal pushers, and a novelty printed chintz apron. The apron features a "table-setting" print in a gay color combination.

Musical Play About 'Shangri-La' Is Rather Dreary

By Walter F. Kerr

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 16

IF you'd been having a bad time of it in our civilization and you were suddenly dumped into an exceedingly peaceful valley filled with attractive girls, quite a few art treasures, and no immediate prospect of either death or taxation, what would you do? I imagine you'd yawn, stretch, relax, get your feet off the ground, and gently twiddle your thumbs.

Well, that's what everybody does in "Shangri-La," which opened at the Winter Garden Wednesday night, and it's rather dreary.

With all the rich color of James Hilton's "Lost Horizon" at their disposal, didn't librettists Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee realize that they were also faced with a problem? Shangri-La is a valley of serenity, and serenity, peace, wisdom and contemplation are all wonderful words. But they are not, let's say, exactly filled with ginger. They don't fizz, or anything.

Yet the Messrs. Lawrence and Lee have simply counted on our admiration and forgotten all about our fun. They have landed non-singing Dennis King, a singing Jack Cassidy, a mousy Alice Ghostley, and a bored dance team composed of Harold Lang and Joan Holloway somewhere in that familiar mountain fastness.

Although the exceedingly pretty Shirley Yamaguchi puts in an appearance, the love story is developed with astonishing discretion, not to say lassitude.

A BREEZE SNEAKS through a chink in the mountains now and then. It first stirs things up when Miss Holloway and Mr. Lang join in the dance "Every Time You Danced With Me." It turns out to be a comparative, and very welcome, whirlwind.

And a kind word for Alice Ghostley. Miss Ghostley plays a bespectacled do-gooder who likes to hand out inspirational tracts, and when it is time for her to begin enjoying herself, she has quite a few odd, intense little side glances and even a few unpredictable high kicks.

As a kindly mentor who has been living at Shangri-La for quite a long time, the normally exhilarating Martyn Green is suave, benign and utterly wasted. Jack Cassidy's robust voice is put to reasonably good use on the ballads "The World Outside" and "Somewhere," but Harry Warren's melodies constantly seem to be struggling to find a springboard: the show just never gives them a chance to take off.

'I Was Monty's Double' To Be Produced

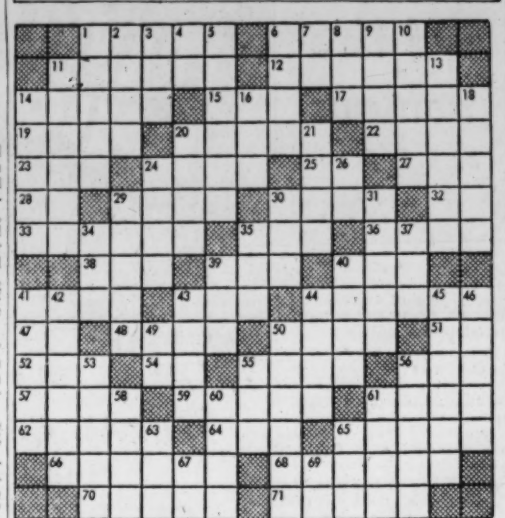

HOLLYWOOD, June 16—Screen rights to the book "I Was Monty's Double" have been bought by Todon Productions, independent company operated by Tony Owen and his wife, Donna Reed. The book, published in England in 1954, relates the World War II experiences of its author, Clifton James, a former British intelligence officer who was delegated to masquerade as Field Marshal Montgomery to confuse enemy spies. Marshal Montgomery's permission for the film was obtained by Maxwell Seton, production head of Todon in London and also a wartime British intelligence officer, it was announced. The screen treatment will be written by still another former intelligence officer, Stephen Watts, who now is a special movie correspondent in London for the Sunday New York Times. Sir Laurence Olivier will be sought to star in the picture, which is not scheduled to go before the camera until next year.

Fred M'Murray Signed

HOLLYWOOD, June 16—Universal has signed Fred MacMurray for his second successive western at the studio. He will star in "Quantez," to be filmed next month from a screen plan by R. Wright Campbell. The scenarist also did the script for MacMurray's last picture, "Guns for a Coward." Universal also reports that Maureen O'Hara will co-star with Tim Hovey, the boy actor, in "The World and Little Willie."

Wide Jockey Stripes

Wide jockey stripes are fashionable for sports separates. One typical shirt has stripes of cocoa, white and black, and is worn with a black skirt. Many of the shirts have three-quarter length sleeves and stand-up collars. Embroidery and fine-pleating are distinctive modes of trimming on white shirts. A white cotton shirt is embroidered in shades of blue, green, and gold. It is combined with a slim blue linen skirt. A wrap-around sash of green shantung completes a colorful, dashing ensemble.

Scotch Plaid Trimming

Scotch plaid trimming injects a gay note to neutral colored cotton dresses and sports clothes. String colored cotton shorts are piped with red and green plaid gingham and there is a sleeveless shirt to be worn with them. Gray shorts are trimmed with a blue plaid gingham. Piping of Tartan plaid outlines the neckline, armholes, and front closing of a tailored dress of beige cotton that has the new "drip dry" finish.

Jerry Wald Reported Starting Own Company

HOLLYWOOD June 16—Hollywood is buzzing anew with reports that Jerry Wald soon will be stepping out as vice president and executive producer of Columbia Pictures to establish his own company with 20th Century Fox. That Wald has worked out terms for settlement of his Columbia contract and met again with Fox executives no longer is a secret. However, it was learned that Wald's production associate, Milton Pickman, on recent trips to England over a period of two months has been discussing an Anglo-American production association with John Davis, administrative head of the J. Arthur Rank movie empire.

Wald confirmed the existence of negotiations with the rank organization, but said he was not in a position to make any comment until his future status with Columbia was resolved. The producer also refused to discuss that the possibility of a film production tie-in with a major television network was under consideration in the event he made an agreement with either Fox or Rank. Pickman said "it's a well kown fact that Wald believes the future of movie production lies in diversification of interest, that is making films for theaters, television and for industry's use as well."

'Jack Dempsey Story' To Be Filmed

HOLLYWOOD, June 16 — Film rights to the life story of Jack Dempsey, former world heavyweight champion, finally have been acquired by Sam Weisenthal, independent producer. Several attempts to obtain permission to dramatize the great fighter's story had been made over a period of years by numerous Hollywood producers without success. One of the principal stumbling blocks had been the inability to obtain necessary clearances from certain individuals closely associated with Dempsey's ring career.

The official announcement stated that Dempsey will receive "a large sum of money" as down payment, additional payment to be made during the next four years and a participation in profits from the picture. It is understood that the guaranteed payment, exclusive of the participation interest in the movie, is about $200,000. The picture will be titled "The Jack Dempsey Story." It is scheduled to go before the camera in January.

Forest Park Highlands To Have Outdoor Acts

Forest Park Highlands, the city's oldest amusement park, is now presenting a free vaudeville attraction each evening and on Sunday afternoons on the outdoor garden stage in addition to Frank Miller's orchestra.

The first of the acts, to be changed weekly, is The Bauers, a father-son acrobatic and foot juggling act. They do double back somersaults, full twisting backward somersault, a pinwheel which includes 20 to 30 consecutive swing-time back somersaults, and one leap in which the son Peter, aged 14, goes 15 feet in the air from a box on his father's feet.

At the Chase

ARTHUR ELLEN, THE "$100,000 HYPNOTIST," WHO IS THE OPENING ATTRACTION AT THE STARLIGHT ROOF.

The Night Spots

STARLIGHT ROOF — This Chase Hotel spot opened its season Friday with Arthur Ellen, "the $100,000 hypnotist." Last October, he hypnotized a University of California co-ed, Pat Morris, on a coast-to-coast telecast of "Truth or Consequences," so that she was unable to pick up $100,000 in cash offered to her. Chico-Relli, pianist and composer, and his suave orchestra, playing for dancing.

STEEPLECHASE TERRACE — Harry Fender's broadcast interviews.

MERRY-GO-ROUND — Charlotte Politte at the piano during the cocktail hour. The Jack Denett Trio plays for dancing.

GOURMET ROOM — The Jack Denett Trio provides dinner music.

FOREST PARK HIGHLANDS —Gene Hoyer and his band in the ballroom for dancing Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings.

STEAMER ADMIRAL — Jack Field's orchestra for the night and Saturday matinee cruises. Hal Havird's boys for the day trips.

TOWN AND COUNTRY—Pee Wee Erwin's Dixieland band, Sylvia Syms, singer, and Ted Boyer, hypnotist, open tomorrow night.

ROSE AND CROWN—The Del Staton Trio for dinner music, and dancing Friday and Saturday nights.

STATLER LOUNGE — Tommy Flynn's amplified violin.

RENDEZVOUS — Dick Balsano at the piano bar and organ.

STARDUST ROOM—Carmen LeFave's Trio.

SPORTSMEN'S INN — Charles Gottschalk's nimble piano.

TIC TOC TAP—Nickie Davis's trio offers progressive jazz. Sammy Gardner serves up Dixieland on Saturday afternoons.

CROWN ROOM — The Ernie Young combo. Pat Sherry and Ken Barry do vocals.

CLARIDGE LOUNGE — Dave "Nose" Bold at the piano.

BONNIE'S BALTIMORE — The Johnny Ross combo.

MURAL ROOM—The Joe Huls Trio.

PETIT PIGALLE — Joe Bakalor's violin and Pete Flanders's piano.

KEY ROOM—Barney Green at the piano.

WALNUT ROOM — Mary McCormick at the organ, Joe Wray at the piano.

CRYSTAL PALACE — Tommy Wolf's smooth piano.

SURF AND SIRLOIN — Patti Blu's piano.

WINDERMERE LOUNGE — Sammy Gardner's Mound City Six, Dixieland purveyors.

THE EMBERS — Three Men and a Maid.

PEACOCK ALLEY — Joe Loco and his mambo quintet.

OPERA LOUNGE — The Original Three.

'Y' Tryouts

The "Y" Players of the Downtown Y.M.C.A., will hold tryouts at 6:30 o'clock this evening at 1528 Locust street for Thornton Wilder's three-act drama, "Our Town." It will be the second rooftop production of the "Y" Players' summer season.

Two Broadway Plays To Be Filmed

HOLLYWOOD, June 16—Michael Rennie will be co-starred as the husband of Ginger Rogers in "Our Teenage Daughter." The film is to be directed by Edmund Goulding and produced by Charles Brackett for Fox from the play, "A Roomful of Roses," written by Edith Sommer.

Also at Fox, Henry and Phoebe Ephron will write the screen version of "The Desk Set," the William Marchant play in which Shirley Booth is starring on Broadway. Miss Ephron also will serve as the picture's producer.

Joshua Logan Film

HOLLYWOOD, June 16 — Joshua Logan has bought "Birdman of Alcatraz," a new novel by Thomas E. Gaddis, as the basis of his first independent production for Warner Brothers. The author is a Los Angeles county social worker and probation officer. His book, a first novel, is based on the story of a prisoner serving a life term in Alcatraz who became an authority on bird life. The Logan company is known as Mansfield Productions. Before starting the film, Logan will direct for William Goetz Pictures Inc. and Warners a movie of the James Michener book, "Sayonara."

U.S. IS SPENDING $350,000,000 IN PHILIPPINES

Development of Air, Naval Bases Under Way for Defense of Pacific Area.

MANILA, June 16 (AP)—Navy Seabees are moving mountains, forests and jungle swamps to build United States air and naval installations in the Philippines into a giant fortress for defense of the Pacific area.

Over a period of 10 years the United States will spend more than $350,000,000 on the project. That is about $35,000,000 more than it cost to construct the Panama canal.

The development work began on a big scale in 1952 and is scheduled for completion in 1962.

At Cubi Point on Western Luzon island, more than 3000 Seabees were put to work 24 hours a day, moving a mountain into the China sea and obliterating bamboo forests and swampy jungles.

Miles of new runways and airstrips are being laid. An anchorage for aircraft carriers and a harbor for seaplanes have been dredged.

In all, $190,000,000 will be spent in the development work at Cubi and Subic bay, northwest of Manila. Capt. H. F. MacKay, Navy construction chief in the Philippines, says another $130,000,000 will be spent at Sangley point, plus about $40,000,000 for communication facilities in all Navy installations here.

Some Filipino legislators are not too pleased with the present set-up and want to revise the United States-Philippines military bases agreement.

Led by Senator Claro M. Recto, they want to reduce the 99-year lease period for the bases to 10 or 20 years. They also want Philippine jurisdiction over the bases and want to prohibit the United States from removing at any time removable improvements.

Talks on revising the agreement are expected to begin after the arrival here in July of Albert Nufer, new United States Ambassador.

EPWORTH-WINSOR CHURCH WILL BE DEDICATED TODAY

Epworth-Winsor Methodist Church will dedicate its new church at 1525 Orchid avenue, near Halls Ferry circle, at 3:30 p.m. today. Bishop Ivan Lee Holt will conduct the service, assisted by the pastor, the Rev. Marvin W. Williams, and the Rev. Dr. Herman H. Luetzow, superintendent of the St. Louis district of the Methodist Church.

The brick church of contemporary design cost $225,000, and will seat 420 persons.

Epjworth-Winsor Church was formed in 1950 by a merger of the old Epworth Methodist Church, Warne and Maffitt avenues, and Winsor Methodist Church Halls Ferry road and McLaran avenue.

Two priests who will join the university faculty in the fall are the Rev. Phillip Derrig S.J., who has headed the Creighton University religion department, and the Rev. T. J. Cronin S.J., who has completed advanced studies in philosophy at Toronto University.

Two Jesuit brothers who have been transferred are Brother George Blum S.J., a campus buildings supervisor, who will go to Holy Rosary Mission in South Dakota, and Brother T. C. Murphy, purchasing agent for the university's Jesuit community, who will go to Gesu Church, Milwaukee, Wis.

A summer appointment to work in the Harvard University museum of comparative zoology has been accepted by Ralph E. Crabill Jr., assistant professor of biology. He will return in the fall.

RESULTS OF TUBERCULOSIS TESTS IN GARFIELD AREA

A total of 45 films indicating suspicion of tuberculosis and 107 films indicating other chest ailments were found among the 4917 X-rays taken in the 25-day Garfield area X-ray survey by the Tuberculosis and Health Society, it was announced yesterday.

Larger X-rays will be taken of persons whose films indicated suspicion of tuberculosis. In addition, many of the persons whose films indicated other disorders of the chest also will be given large-film X-rays.

The survey was conducted by the Christmas Seal mobile unit between Enright and St. Louis avenues east of Taylor avenue.

RETARDED CHILDREN CAMP CLASSES BEGIN THIS WEEK

Classes of a nine-week summer day camp sponsored by the St. Louis Association for Retarded Children will start this week at Christ Church Cathedral, 1210 Locust street. Children 8 years of age and over are eligible to attend, Mrs. Ann Stark, recreation chairman, said.

Children 13 and older will attend the day camp from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Classes for those 8 to 12 will be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays. Activities will include swimming, singing, dancing, games and handicrafts.

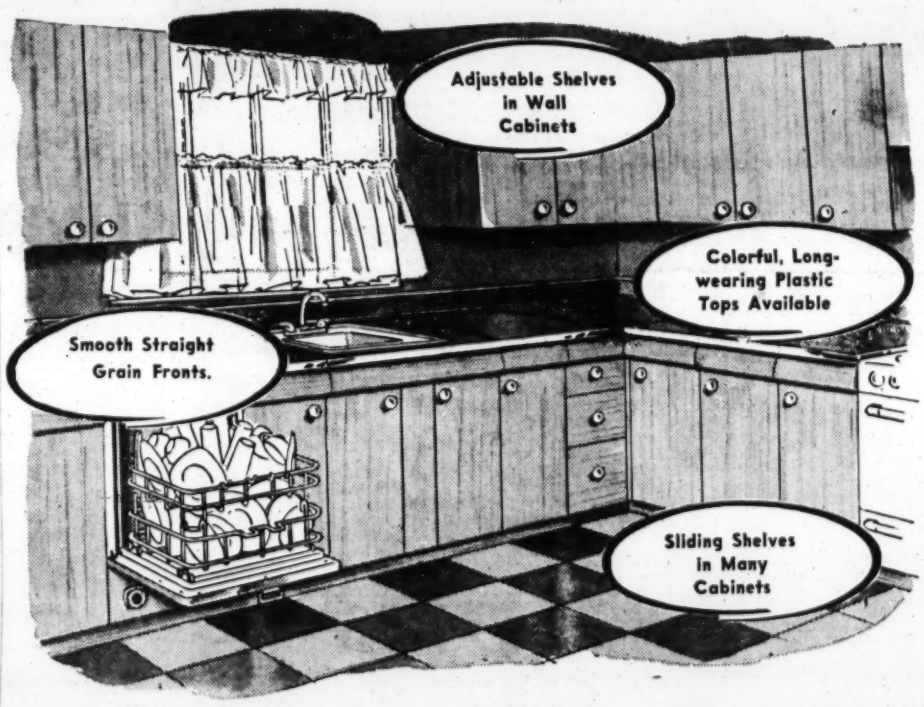

Mrs. Stark said volunteer drivers are urgently needed to furnish transportation for younger groups of children. She said persons interested in serving as drivers for two hours each week should call her at YO 5-7691, or the St. Louis Association for Retarded Children, MI 7-4287.

CONSUMER CREDIT MEN MEET TODAY

International Conference Here to Continue Through Thursday.

The forty-second annual International Consumer Credit Conference will open today at Hotels Statler and Sheraton-Jefferson and will continue through Thursday.

At the opening session, from 2 to 5 p.m. today, there will be a panel discussion of the problems of local credit associations, at the Sheraton-Jefferson. Discussion leaders will be Harold B. Chesney, president, Associated Retail Credit Men, San Francisco, and C. A. Wildes, Credit Bureau of Minneapolis, Minn.

Representatives of local credit organizations throughout the United States and Canada will participate in the various general and specific discussions through the five days.

A banquet will close the convention Thursday night. Entertainment will include sightseeing trips, attendance at the Municipal Opera and a trip on the Steamer Admiral.

Executive offices of the Associated Credit Bureaus are at 7000 Chippewa street.

REPORT ON MEAT INSPECTION HERE

6,000,000 Animals Slaughtered in St. Louis Area Plants Last Year.

More than 6,000,000 animals were slaughtered last year in the 33 meat processing plants in the St. Louis area, Dr. George A. Franz, inspector in charge of the St. Louis federal meat inspection service station, said yesterday.

In discussing the fiftieth anniversary of the service this month, he said there are almost 1200 meat processing plants with federal inspection in the nation, and they process more than 100,000,000 meat animals annually. On a national scale, he stated, 80 per cent of all meats processed carry the round purple stamp of government approval. The remainder is produced under state or local supervision, he said.

"In order to give proper inspection to the 6,000,000 animals in the St. Louis area, it is necessary to use more than 175 full-time inspectors to cover ante-mortem and post-mortem inspection, and supervise handling from the time the animal is slaughtered until it is shipped to the trade," Dr. Franz said.

His staff of 175 inspectors includes 25 veterinarians, trained at accredited colleges and in meat inspection, who make the final decision on the suitability of animals for food purposes.

"Meat inspection costs less than 10 cents per person," Dr. Franz declared. "From the health standpoint, it is impossible to measure the saving in medical expense and protection of the national health derived from contributions of the meat inspection program in eradication of animal disease."

He said bovine tuberculosis in human beings has declined 85 per cent since the eradication program began in 1917, and the instance of the disease in farm herds was reduced from 5 per cent in 1918 to .11 per cent in 1955 by means of effective eradication measures.

B'NAI AMOONA TO BREAK GROUND FOR SCHOOL ANNEX

B'nai Amoona Congregation, 524 Trinity avenue, University City, will break ground at 11 a.m. today for a $225,000 addition to its educational building. Every child in the religious school will take part.

The new addition will be constructed of brick and glass and will conform in architecture with the present temple. It will provide five new schoolrooms, a cantor's study, and enlarged administrative offices. The new unit will be one-story, Bernard Bloom is the architect.

B'nai Amoona, largest Conservative Jewish congregation in the St. Louis area, is celebrating its seventy-fifth year, also the fortieth year of Rabbi Abraham E. Halpern as spiritual leader of the congregation. Rabbi Bernard Lipnick is director of education.

WATER COLORS TO BE SHOWN BY GLENCOE (MO.) ARTIST

A one-man exhibition of water colors by Ray Collins of Glencoe, Mo., a 1950 graduate of Washington University, will open tomorrow and remain on view for a month at the Raleigh House restaurant, 8027 Forsyth boulevard, Clayton.

Collins, 31 years old, is employed as a commercial artist in St. Louis. The exhibition will be his first one-man show. It will include approximately 20 paintings of scenes in St. Louis and the county. Most of them were painted at the scene.

5 EXPLORERS ATTEND REGIONAL MEETING

'Citizens Now' Conference Draws 200 Scouts From Six States.

Five Explorer Scouts of the St. Louis Boy Scout Council are attending a Region VIII "Citizens Now" conference being held at the University of Kansas at Lawrence, today through Tuesday.

About 200 boys from the six-state regional area, Missouri, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado and Wyoming, are attending the conference.

The group is considering "What can we do as Citizens Now in our homes and communities to make them better places to live?"

The St. Louis Explorers are Ronal Morie of Troop 185; Fin Guffey, Troop 300; Sheldon Stock, Post 233; Charles Hawker, Troop 181, and Ronald Evens, Post 411.

Organization of 24 new units in the council will be completed tomorrow, bringing the council near its 1956 goal of 115 new units. Addition of the new units will bring the number organized so far this year to 86.

William Barman will be awarded Eagle rank, Scouting's highest advancement honor, in a ceremony to be held by Troop 157 at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Brotherhood of Gethsemane Lutheran Church.

The same rank will be given to Stephen Humphrey of Troop 241 in a Court of Honor at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Hope Evangelical and Reformed Church.

Two Explorer Scouts, Ronald Wehmeyer and David Graft, will receive the Silver award, Explorer Scouting's highest advancement honor, in a ceremony to be held by Post 288 Thursday night at the Presentation School Hall in Overland.

A new Neighborhood Cub Den, a Cub Pack, two Scout Troops and two Explorer Posts joined the council last week.

They are: Den 394, sponsored by the fathers of new Cub Scouts, which will meet on Wednesdays at the Evangelical and Reformed Church, Augusta, Mo.

Pack 373, the Lutheran Concordia Church, Missouri Synod, the third Friday of the month at the church; Troop 663, the Frank Clay School Parent-Teacher Association, at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesdays at the school in Frank Clay, Mo.; Troop 666, the Walker's Temple African Methodist Episcopal Church, 6 p.m. on Thursdays at the church.

Explorer Post 350, the Annunciation Parish, on Saturdays at homes of members, and Explorer Post 458, the Grant School Parent-Teacher Association of Crestwood, which meets at the school.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

Twelve day camps in eight separate districts of the Girl Scout Council of Greater St. Louis will commence summer programs this week.

Three Rivers District: Separate camps for Brownies and Intermediates will be operated. One will begin Tuesday at Willmore Park. Sessions will be from 9:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays through July 12. Wednesday another district camp will open at Sylvan Springs Park at Jefferson Barracks. Sessions will be on Wednesdays and Fridays at the same time.

The Brownie Camp at Blackburn Park in Webster Groves will open tomorrow and the Intermediate Camp also at Blackburn will open Tuesday.

Chip-O-Let District: A Brownie and Intermediate camp will begin Tuesday at Carondelet Park.

Hampton Hills District: A Brownie camp will begin Tuesday at Francis Park and an Intermediate tomorrow at Willmore Park.

Nor-Co District: Brownie, Intermediate and Senior camps will open Tuesday at the Jennings Lions Park.

Tower Grove District: Brownie and Intermediate camps will begin Tuesday in Tower Grove Park.

Ozark District: Two-day camps, one at Bonne Terre, Mo., opening tomorrow and the other Tuesday at Fredericktown.

Demonstration of camp skills and use of various equipment will be presented Wednesday on the "Home Show," nationally televised program that will be shown over Post-Dispatch television station KSD-TV at 10 a.m.

Registrations are still being accepted for "Sacajawea," the Senior day camp to be held at the totem pole in Forest Park beginning June 26 and continuing through July 26 on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Nine members of Mariner Troop 695 and a member of Mariner Troop 571 left yesterday for Mystic, Conn., where they will live aboard a sailing ship a week of training.

The council's public relations committee will hold its final meeting of the year at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the council office.

CITY PLAYGROUNDS TO OPEN TOMORROW

7 Pools Also Ready—Free Swimming, Golf and Tennis Lessons.

The city's summer recreation program will begin tomorrow when 39 playgrounds and seven swimming pools are opened, Mrs. Edward G. Brungard, director of public welfare, announced yesterday.

Besides the playground activities, free swimming, golf and tennis lessons will be offered and water polo leagues formed, Mrs. Brungard said.

Each of the playgrounds will be under the supervision of a trained staff and a program of athletics, crafts, social activities, music, dancing and dramatics will be presented in each of the areas, with specialists in the arts and crafts making visits to each playground at least twice a week.

Climax of the summer program will be the annual playground pageant at Kiel Auditorium Aug. 29.

Swimming pools will be open from 12:30 to 5 p.m., six days a week. Indoor pools at Adams, Buder, Cherokee and Tandy recreation centers will be closed for cleaning on Sundays. Fairgrounds Park pool will be closed on Mondays and the pools at Vashon and Marquette park will be closed on Tuesdays.

Registration for swimming lessons at Marquette, Fairgrounds and Vashon pools begin tomorrow and will continue until June 29 at the Red Cross office, 3414 Lindell boulevard. Classes will be conducted from July 7 to Aug. 31.

Free tennis lessons will be given in Forest Park, at both the Kingshighway and Oakland avenue courts, and at Sherman, Tandy, Fairgrounds, Baden, O'Fallon, Carondelet, Francis, Sublette and Marquette parks. Anyone is eligible and may register with the instructor at any of the courts.

Information on golf lessons, which will be given at Forest Park, and other activities may be obtained from the parks and recreation office in room 330 of the Municipal Courts building, Fourteenth and Market streets. Telephone number MAin 1-5560, stations 662 and 678.

TWO WASHINGTON U. PLAYS

Original one-act plays by Miss Patricia Whitley, 444 Iris avenue, Kirkwood, and Alexander Simmons, 4614 Labadie avenue, Washington University students, have been chosen for production in the university's annual "English 16" competition program next November, it was announced yesterday.

William G. B. Carson, professor of drama, said a third play will be selected in September. The annual Sarah Glasgow Wilson prize of $50 will be awarded the best play, as selected by a committee of judges at the time of the production.

"Greatest performing engine ever built in America!"

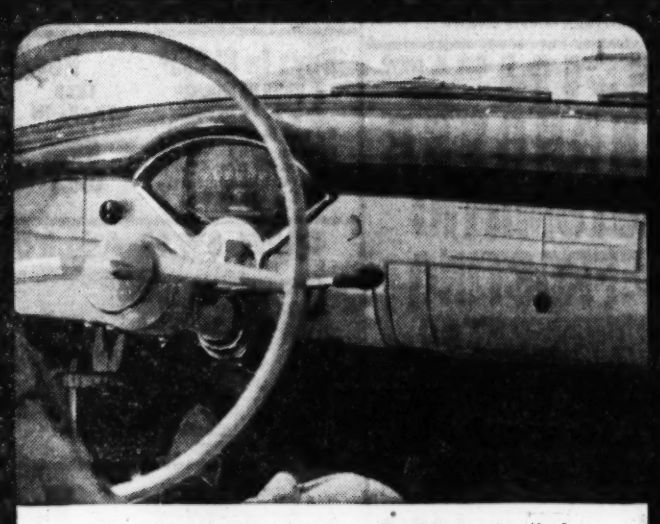

SAYS TOM McCAHILL, FAMOUS AUTOMOTIVE WRITER for MECHANIX ILLUSTRATED

"The hottest thing since Casey got locked in the steam bath. Here's an engine . . . that, due principally to its fantastic breathing properties, can wind up tighter than an East Laplander's mandolin."

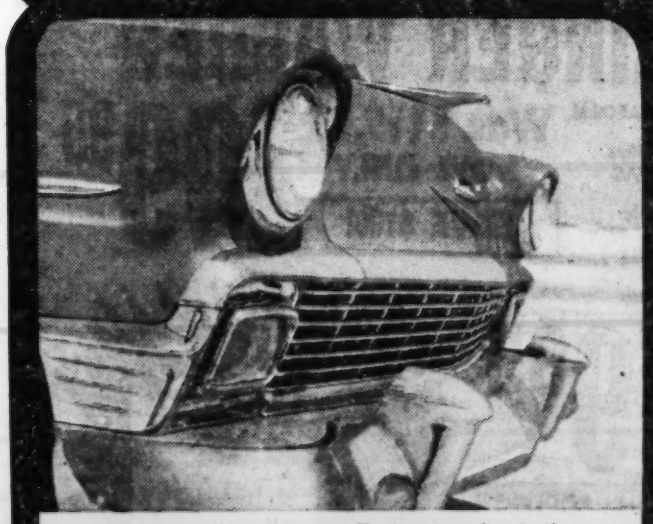

"Ounce for ounce and cubic inch for cubic inch, this Chevrolet engine is the greatest performing engine ever built in America bar none . . . available on any model they [Chevrolet] build . . ."

"Greatest performance buy ever offered in America. And, considering that low price was a major design factor, this engine might very well be the greatest competition engine ever built."

"Would run away from the best performing sedan built in Europe. This Chevrolet, costing about ten percent of the European car's price, could eat it alive even with an unwarmed-up engine."

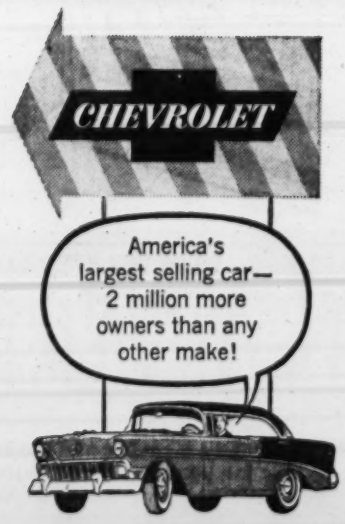

"The hot one is even hotter," Tom agrees after testing the '56 Chevy with "the best engine in the U.S."

That's just part of the praise automotive expert Tom McCahill gave Chevrolet's record-breaking 225-h.p. V8 engine in a recent issue of Mechanix Illustrated. This engine is available as an extra-cost option in all models.

Chevy's own special brand of performance makes trips seem shorter, hills seem flatter—and saves you seconds in passing for greater safety. And the hot one's a beautiful thing to handle! Wide-spaced outrigger rear springs bring you nailed-down stability on turns. Steering is ball-bearing easy. Stops are free from lurching nose dives.

These qualities—and more besides—make driving safer and happier in a Chevrolet. Time you tried it. When you stop in, we'll be happy to have you read Tom McCahill's complete article on the Chevrolet V8. Just ask for your copy.

ART MUSEUM LISTS PROGRAMS FOR SUMMER

Summer activities at City Art Museum will begin tomorrow with programs related to its collections for children and adults. Three series of talks have been arranged for adults. Children's programs will be held at 11 a.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays and 2:30 p.m. Fridays.

Each week the art of a different country will be considered and masterpieces in the museum from those countries will be discussed at a series for adults at 11 a.m. Tuesdays. "The Eighteenth Century" will be the subject of another series at 11 a.m. Thursdays, and "The World of Form in Sculpture" will be discussed at 2:30 p.m. Saturdays.

The Tuesday morning series for children, "Hunting We Will Go," will be an expedition to find some of the animals and birds in the museum. The Thursday morning program will consist of stories of brave men and brave deeds in various lands of the world. Tales of Europe and America will be told Friday afternoons.

Another program, "Museum Adventures," will be given each Wednesday and will be open to youths 12 years and older. The summer activities also includes the regularly scheduled gallery talks at 8 p.m. Mondays.

LT. COL. PAUL CUNDIFF NOW

Maj. Paul L. Cundiff, member of the executive staff at the St. Louis Ordance District, has been promoted to lieutenant colonel, it was announced yesterday.

Cundiff, 10842 Mercer court, St. Ann, was a member of the Military Advisory Group to Belgium and Luxembourg before being assigned to the district a year ago.

WASHINGTON U. OPENS SUMMER SCHOOL TOMORROW

The first session of the 1956 Washington University summer school will open tomorrow. Classes in the more than 400 courses offered this year will continue through July 20.

Registration for the second session will be held July 20 and 21, with classes starting July 23 and continuing through Aug. 24.

Seven workshops in education and art and a three-day refresher course in metalography for technicians will be offered in addition to classes in science, language, philosophy, social work and other fields.

Action on the Diamond

Close Decisions And the Old Try As Cards Work On Home Grounds

Photos by ARTHUR WITMAN of the PICTURES Staff

Paul LaPalme is safe at first as Cardinal First Baseman Wally Moon throws too late to Second Baseman Red Schoendienst, covering the bag, to get the long-striding Cincinnati pitcher. LaPalme had bunted to move Roy McMillan (upper left) to second, where Card Shortstop Don Blasingame stands ready for possible play. But Moon fumbled the ball, drew an error.

MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL'S popularity as a great spectator sport is due to many factors, and the chief of these is action. While the outcome of a game remains all important, individual plays that make up a contest are what the fans come out to see. Whether it is the motion of the pitcher throwing the ball, a base runner racing around the bags, or an outfielder chasing a long fly, the lively movement is an eye-filling attraction. And when the action is heightened by the excitement of a close play, the fans are doubly rewarded.

These photos of action on the diamond were made at Busch Stadium during the Cardinals' recent home stand. Because cameramen no longer are permitted on the playing field in National League parks, a telephoto lens was used to obtain close-up shots from a special box between home plate and first base.

Trying to score from third after catch of long foul fly, Cincinnati's Ray Jablonski is tagged out at the plate by Hal Smith, Cardinal catcher. Moon's perfect throw to the plate doubled the Redlegs' third baseman to end the inning.

Outfielder Hank Sauer of the Cardinals takes a mighty swing and fouls off ball over head of Milwaukee Catcher Del Crandall. Electronic speed light "froze" ball in this night game shot.

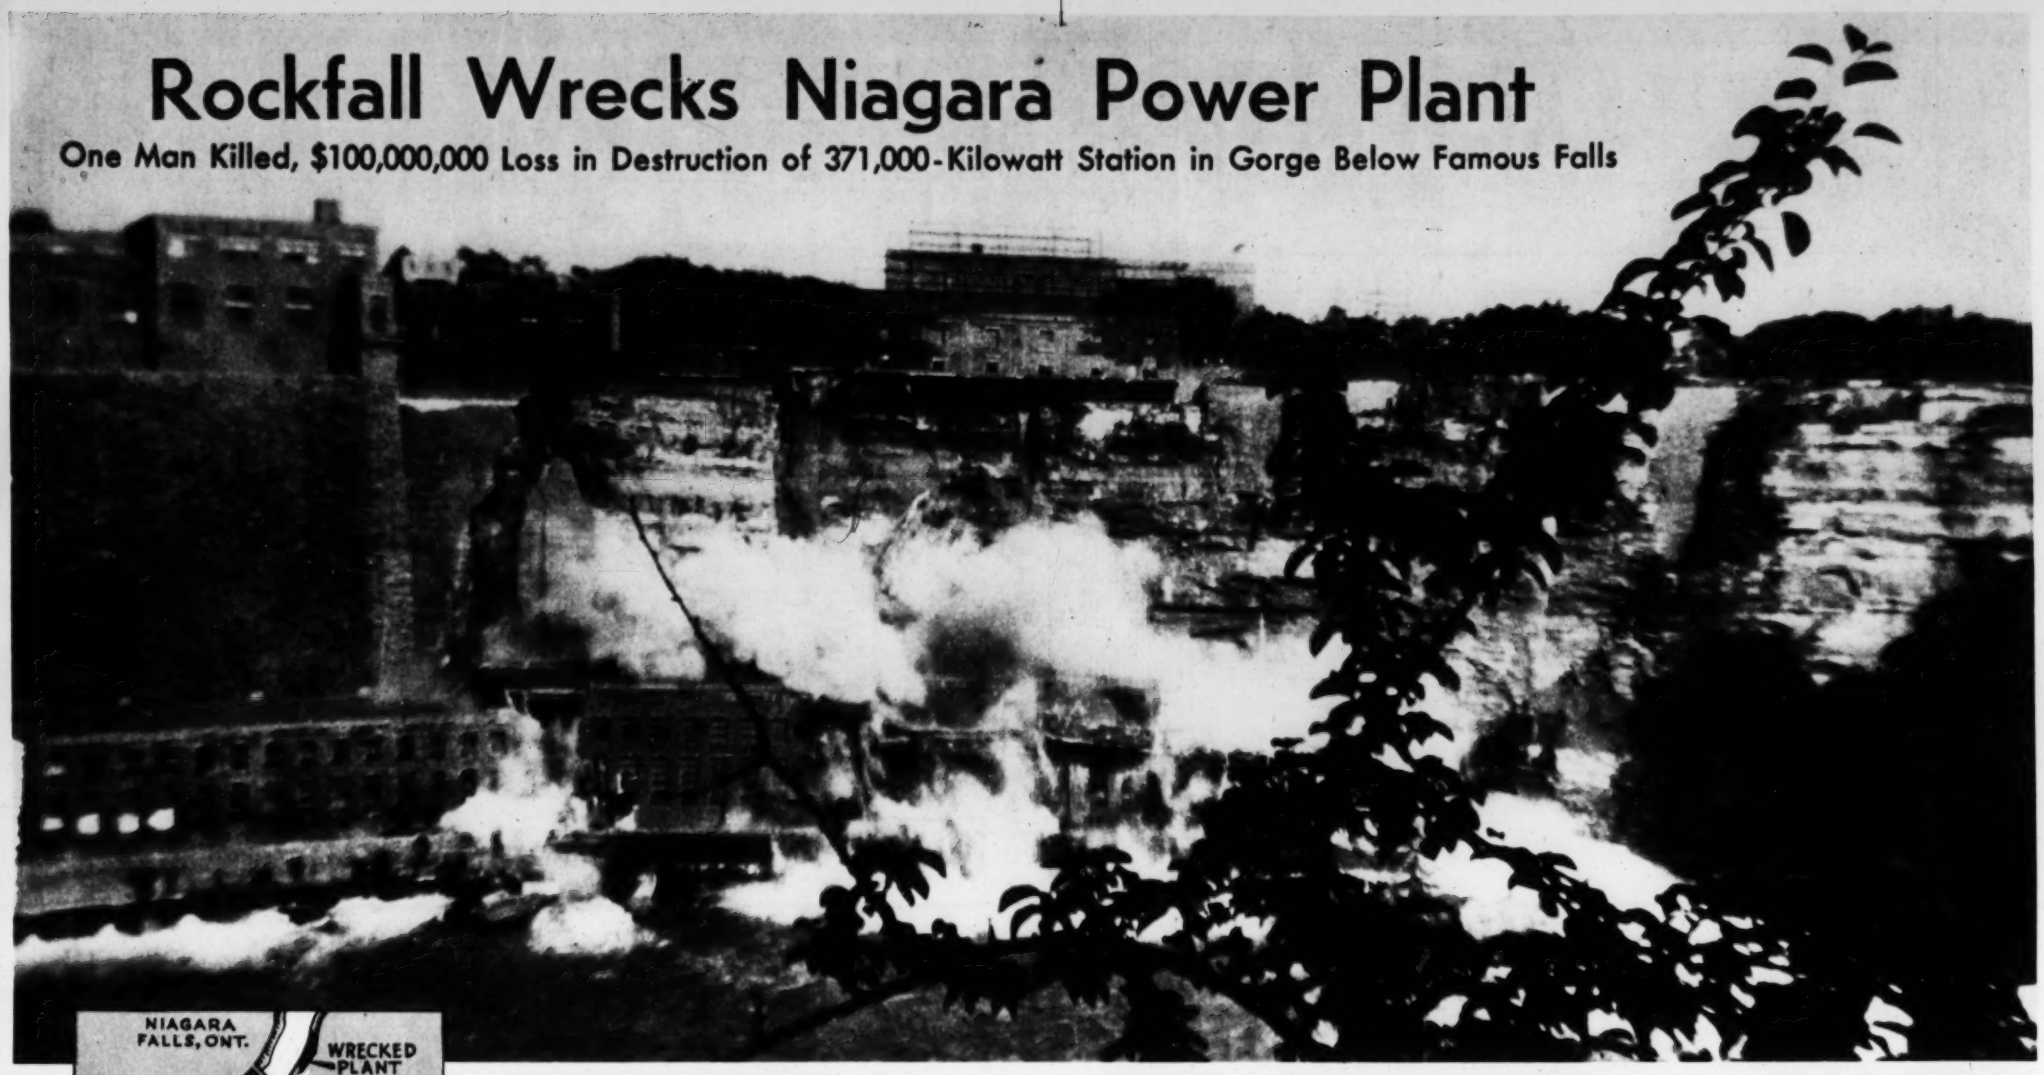

Schoendienst is out by a half-step at first as Pitcher LaPalme, who changed his shirt midway in game, beats the runner to base after taking throw from First Baseman Ted Kluszewski (18).

Rockfall Wrecks Niagara Power Plant

One Man Killed, $100,000,000 Loss in Destruction of 371,000-Kilowatt Station in Gorge Below Famous Falls

ROCK FROM THE WALL of Niagara gorge tumbles onto a hydroelectric plant at the river's edge (above photo) in the first of three rockfalls that destroyed most of the 371,000-kilowatt installation. In photo below, ruins of the wrecked section, on the American side of the gorge, lie beneath tons of debris. The part left standing was rendered inoperative. Buildings atop the 220-foot precipice house equipment that fed water down to the generators from a canal, leading from an intake point above Niagara Falls. The plant is about a half-mile downstream from Prospect Point, destroyed in a tremendous rockslide in 1954 which radically changed the face of the American Falls. One man in the station, largest hydro facility of the Niagara Mohawk Power Corporation, was killed. The firm initially estimated its loss at $100,000,000. Niagara Falls, New York, a city of nearly 100,000, was without power for two hours until alternate sources could take over the non-industrial portion of the wrecked station's load. Preliminary studies indicated the rockfalls probably were caused by water seeping into crevices behind the face of the gorge and in the back wall of the power station.

NEW HATS

Shoppers Try On Bold Designs in Doubt, Most Seem to Like Them

SOME OF THEM may be traffic hazards. Others make entering automobiles an experience in contortion. Nearly all do something bewildering to men. But the women seem to like the new hats, even when they resemble inverted salad bowls, upside-down fruit baskets or misplaced lampshades. As a result millinery shops are doing a big business.

How women react when encountering the new designs head on is shown in these pictures, taken in the hat section of a downtown department store. Some customers obviously were disappointed at what the mirror showed. Others were variously dismayed, skeptical, amused, hopeful or resigned. But many, after finding just the right style, seemed completely delighted with what the designers had done for them. And, just to round out the picture, the designers will be doing more of the same this fall.

Rescue of a Marooned Man and His Dog

1. A Royal Navy helicopter approaches a wave-beaten rock off the southwest coast of England to rescue farmer Frank Welland and his pet dachshund, who have been cut off from shore by incoming tide. Welland plants himself to grab the plane's rescue harness.

2. While the plane hovers low, Welland adjusts the harness. The tide continues to roll in, sending new waves against the rock. On an earlier run, a companion of Welland had been taken to safety.

3. With Welland—holding the dog—securely in harness, the helicopter starts to maneuver away from the rock, as the turbulent sea churns below.
Associated Press Photos

4. Dangling from the plane, Welland and the dachshund start trip to shore. The helicopter crew had to make two trys for Welland. The first time the dog slipped away, and Welland got out of the harness, refusing to abandon his pet.

Crashed Jet's Path of Destruction

One home is nothing but smoldering ruins, three others stand charred shells following the crash of a Navy jet fighter plane in a suburban residential area near Wold-Chamberlain Field at Minneapolis. Though flames have been extinguished, firefighters keep watch several hours after the disaster in which the pilot and five other persons were killed. On vacant area stood the house struck by the Panther jet which was trying to make an emergency landing at the field after developing power trouble shortly after take-off. Mr. and Mrs. John Garris and two of their children who were in the house at the time were killed. The third child was away on a fishing trip. The house to the left of the demolished one was badly damaged. The one to the right had its front sheared off by the plane in its descent. A five-year-old girl watching television in the living room was killed. Flaming fuel from the jet showered on the two houses at right. Five children of the two families occupying these houses suffered burns.

HOLLYWOOD

Cesar Romero and Sally Blane Foster take in a Hollywood sports event from front-row seats. Sally is the wife of Director Norman Foster who was out of Hollywood on a film-making trip. Romero is 49 years old. He began an entertainment career as a dancer, has since played in many dramatic roles on the screen and on television. He has long been one of Hollywood's most popular bachelors.

Attending a western party at Ciro's, Marge and Gower Champion exchange pleasantries with table companions. The Champions are expecting their first child late this year. As a double dance act, they have toured night clubs for years, appeared in several movies.

Preparatory to taking a dip, Penny, a 2-year-old elephant, daintily tests the temperature of the water in her private pool at San Francisco's Fleishaker Zoo.

In a ponderous head-first dive, Penny plunges in her 1426-pound bulk, causing a minor tidal wave. Her splashy antics have made the baby pachyderm one of the zoo's top attractions.

San Francisco Zoo's Diving Elephant

Like most nonexpert divers, Penny comes up blowing and spouting in the foam-flecked pool. The water level is raised considerably as she lolls contentedly in the tank.

Penny cocks a wary eye at the photographer as she emerges. While she disdains the steps getting in, she must use them to get out of the pool.

Luxury Wagon that's low-down in price

THIS ONE's a Cinderella, with a difference. It's a hard worker, but always dressed up and ready to dazzle them at the ball.

Case of dual personality. But a winner either way.

Take performance. Well – this is a Buick. Way up thataway in horsepower. Way up in torque. And with the transmission to get the best out of both.

That's Dynaflow, of course. Variable Pitch Dynaflow.* With a wad of a wallop even at the first thrifty inch of gas-pedal pressure.

And when you need a safety-surge of extra power, you tromp the treadle and switch the pitch. Man—you're Dynaflying! It's a wonderful feeling—whether you're simply joy riding, or carrying cargo.

Speaking of cargo—just name the load, and (short of an elephant) an Estate Wagon has room for it.

You pull down the tail gate – flip the rear seat over—and you've uncovered 94.4 inches of lugging space from the driver's seat back. More than 79 cubic feet of cargo space altogether.

But come work, come play, you want comfort. And here's one wagon where you get it. Estate Wagons, we repeat, are Buicks. With the same leveled, cradled, cushioned ride that's yours in a Riviera. You can't do better than that.

As for lines – well, really now, isn't she gorgeous? Perhaps in that picture you can't tell much about the custom-finished interior –but come see one. It's worth the trip. Real luxury, yet practical. Five interior color combinations to choose from.

Now–here's the real bombshell. With all its blue-jean workability and silk-dress smartness–this handsome honey is actually substantially reduced in price this year. In the CENTURY SERIES, it's way down within grabbing distance for most folks. And in the SPECIAL–it's right down close to the price level of the small-car wagons.

We're trying to save one for you to see–but hurry!

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century – optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

Britain Celebrates Queen's Birthday

Elizabeth Reviews Household Brigade, Dedicates a War Memorial at Trooping the Color Ceremonies

Queen Elizabeth II leads a procession along Pall Mall back to Buckingham Palace after Britain's traditional Trooping the Color ceremony, held as her official birthday celebration. On the white horse behind her is the Duke of Edinburgh. In an extraordinary step, plainclothes police mingled with the crowd because of rumors that three Cypriot gunmen had slipped into England. There were no incidents.
International News Photos

Seven-year-old Prince Charles waves with his mother from the palace balcony to cheering crowds below. The Queen wears the uniform of the Grenadier Guards, of which she is the honorary commander.

The Queen takes a salute at the palace gate following the procession. At right is the Duke of Edinburgh, at left Colonel Sir Thomas Butler, commander of the Grenadier Guards. On the balcony are members of the royal family. It was the last parade for the Queen's mount, Winston, before his retirement, and the 17-year-old horse fell asleep once during the ceremonies.

Funeral for a Hoodlum, in the Old Tradition

Piled high with floral pieces, a long line of flower cars rolls through a Camden, New Jersey, street in a funeral procession for racketeer Marco Reginelli. It was one of the most lavish displays since Chicago gangland funerals of the prohibition era. Reginelli, 58 years old, recently was described before a Senate subcommittee as "the top hoodlum in the New Jersey and Philadelphia areas." For three years he had fought efforts to deport him to his native Italy, one of his lawyers being Murray Chotiner, Vice President Nixon's campaign manager in 1952. Reginelli died after an extended stay in a Baltimore hospital, which did not give out the cause of death.

Its aluminum-painted superstructure sparkling under an early summer sky, the new Missouri River bridge at Jefferson City frames the domed Capitol, some distance downstream. Bridge also spans railroad tracks on river's south bank (right).

Missouri's Capital, New Bridge

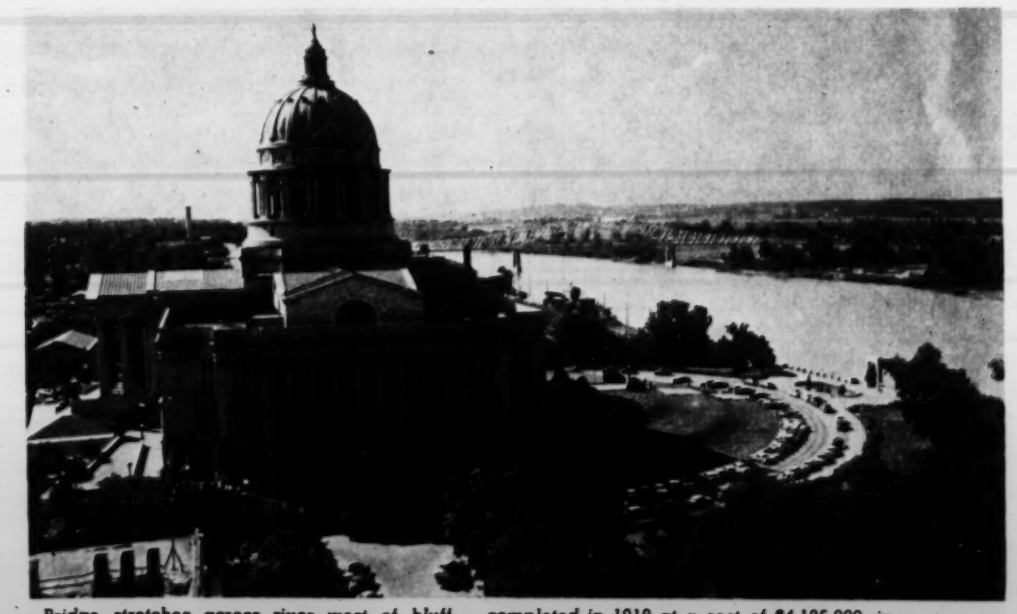

Span Over the Missouri River, on Highways 54 and 63, Replaces Narrow, Half-Century Old Structure

THE NEWEST BRIDGE across the Missouri River in this state offers an attractive approach to the capital at Jefferson City. The graceful steel-and-concrete structure spans the historic waterway a half-mile upstream from where the Capitol overlooks the river. Built to carry United States Highways 54 and 63 into the city, the $6,750,000 vehicular and pedestrian bridge replaces a narrow, 49-year-old drawbridge that was dismantled soon after the new span was opened last August.

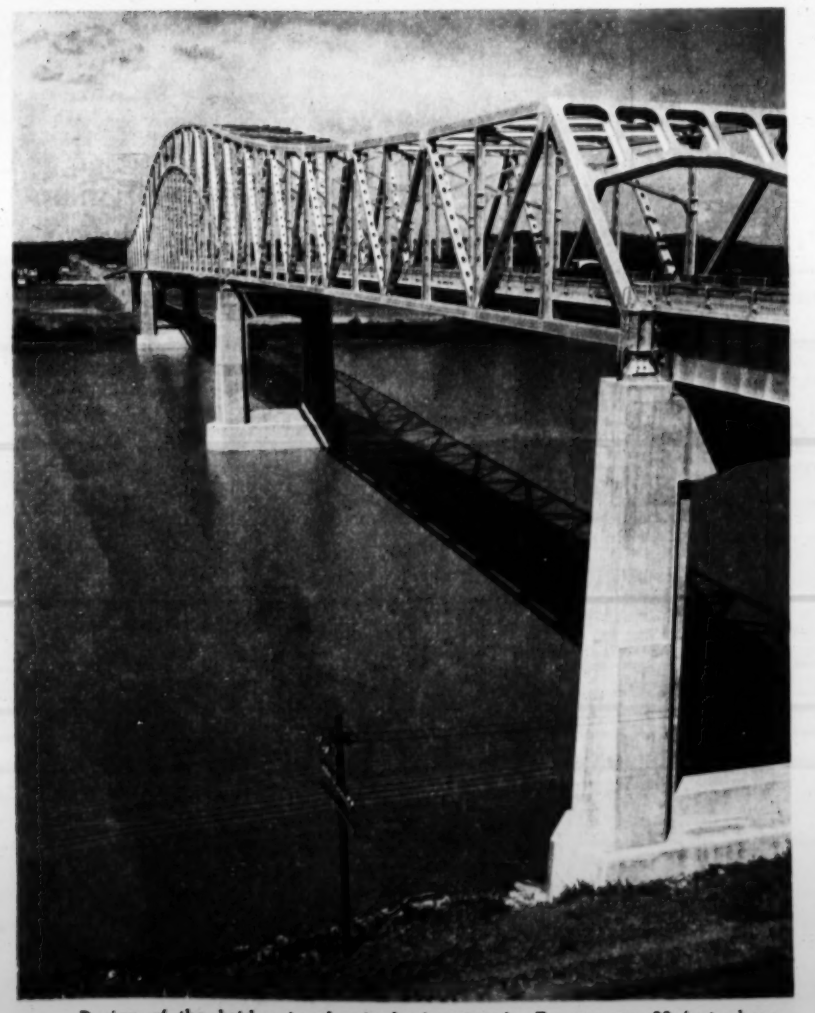

Almost three-fifths of a mile long, the two-lane bridge is a tied steel arch structure. Its three spans rest on four reinforced concrete piers sunk to bedrock. The deck of the 640-foot center span is 75 feet above the normal river level, providing sufficient clearance for all river traffic. The steel superstructure rises to a maximum height of 94 feet above the roadway.

An extension of the bridge's north approach, a mile-long section of highway through low-lying bottom land across the river from Jefferson City was constructed on a fill to place the pavement above the high-water mark and thus assure all-year service regardless of river conditions. Traffic on the highway leading to the old bridge frequently was blocked by floodwater when the river was out of its banks.

Photos by ARTHUR WITMAN of the PICTURES Staff

Bridge stretches across river west of bluff from which the massive Capitol building looks out on the silt-laden Missouri and the Callaway County bottoms. The Capitol was completed in 1918 at a cost of $4,125,000, including furnishings; the bridge proper cost $4,812,826, while right-of-way, approaches and connections cost an additional $1,937,941.

Design of the bridge is pleasingly functional. Trusses are 32 feet above roadway at each end; sidewalks with aluminum handrails flank the roadway. Midriver pier extends to depth of 74 feet below normal water level. Construction started on May 18, 1953; work on superstructure began a year later.

Hamburger, Broiled Over Charcoal

1. General Bartron divides ground beef into one-third-pound portions, then rolls them into balls. Charcoal soaked in starter liquid is used to start fire.

2. Balls of meat are placed between layers of wax paper, then pressed into thick patties by pressure on a large plate.

3. Corn is cleaned of silks, but husks are left on. Ears are rolled in foil paper and placed over hot coals. They are turned during cooking.

By MERNA LAZIER

AN ESPECIALLY DELIGHTFUL flavor for broiled meat is achieved by simply exposing it to the direct heat of charcoal. Brigadier General Harold A. Bartron, U.S.A.F. (retired), a native Indianian now of California, nationally known barbecue authority and writer of a book on the subject, favors restrained use of seasonings. Salting, he suggests, is best done when meat is almost or completely done.

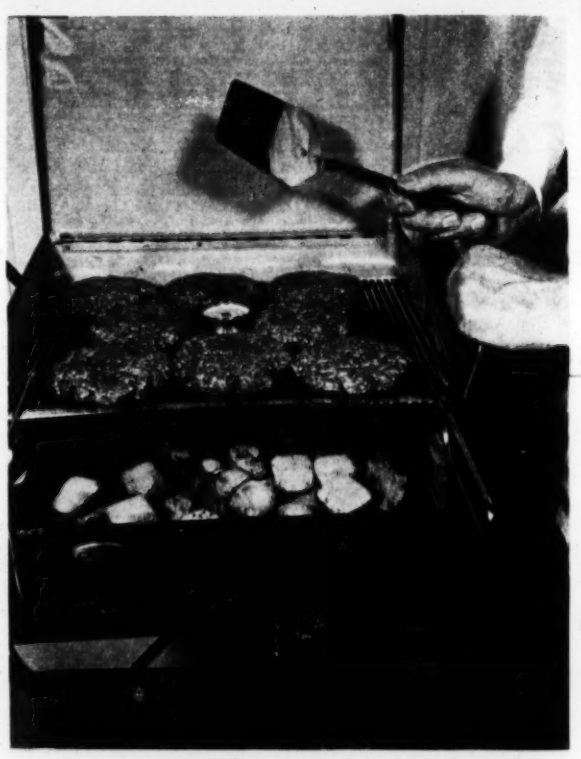

Basting a fine piece of beef with hot barbecue sauce is, in his opinion, a culinary crime. He prefers to melt a chunk of butter on steak, allowing it to mingle with the ruddy juices.

Bartron rolls ground beef into balls, apportioning it three balls to the pound. Meanwhile, fire is getting started on a grill which he created for his special needs. The starter method he uses is applicable to any type of grill and saves expensive fuel. He soaks about six charcoal briquettes in liquid fire starter, then places them inside a stovepipe or chimney which is cut out at bottom to allow air to circulate. Twelve to 14 briquettes are placed on top of the burning coals. For cooking, the coals are spread over firebox after the chimney is removed with a pair of tongs. Hamburgers are placed on closely spaced grids with a thermometer in center, and are cooked at about 350 degrees for eight to 10 minutes, or as desired. To increase or decrease heat, the grids are raised or lowered. Corn, wrapped in foil paper, is cooked (before the meat if grill is crowded) for 15 to 20 minutes, turning occasionally. When ready to serve, corn is left in foil to keep warm and is stacked in a bowl. Rolls are split for easy serving of hamburgers at table. Sliced onions and pickles are offered with the hamburgers. A tossed salad garnished with tiny cherry tomatoes completes the out-of-doors meal.

INGREDIENTS

Ground chuck, allow 3 hamburgers to pound
Whole yellow bantam corn (with shucks)
Hamburger rolls
Large sweet Bermuda onion for slicing
Dill pickles for slicing

4. Hamburgers are cooked with aid of thermometer, turning every three minutes. Eight to 10 minutes is usually sufficient time.

Sizzling Ideas for better barbecues outdoors or IN Discover how Mazola® Oil makes everything —from salad to sauce—'specially delicious!

Let's have Shish Kebab! Quick marinating sauce: Take a clove of garlic, ½ cup of Mazola Oil, ¼ cup vinegar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, ⅛ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and a dash of cayenne. Blend. Pour over cubed meat in shallow dish. Let stand 1 to 2 hours.

Skewer chunks of beef or lamb alternately with cubes of vegetables. Brush with marinating sauce. Place on pre-heated grill or broiler. Broil 10 to 15 minutes, until tender.

Approach your barbecue with a spirit of adventure. But remember, for barbecuing . . . for baking . . . for salad dressings . . . nothing gives food wonderful "golden goodness" like Mazola Oil.

EASY-DO BARBECUE SAUCE

2 tbsp. Mazola Oil
¼ cup chopped onions
1 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 tbsp. sugar
½ tsp. salt
2 tbsp. lemon juice or vinegar
½ cup water
1 cup chili sauce

Cook Mazola and onions over low heat, stirring frequently, about 10 minutes. Add remaining ingredients and simmer 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat. Makes about 1½ cups.

Barbecued chicken: Brush chicken with Mazola and place on grill or broiler rack. Cook, turning often. Baste frequently with barbecue sauce during cooking. Cook until tender. Serve with hot barbecue sauce.

Hint to remember—Brush your meat or fish with Mazola before you place it on the grill. This keeps meat from sticking. Mazola makes all meat delicious and juicy on the inside—crusty and brown on the outside.

COUNTRY GARDEN DRESSING

(Make it right in the bowl!)

½ clove garlic
¼ tsp. prepared mustard
1 tsp. salt
Few grains pepper
¼ tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1½ tbsp. vinegar
4 tbsp. Mazola Salad Oil

Drop garlic clove in salad bowl. Add prepared mustard, salt and a few pepper grains. Blend thoroughly with fork. Add Worcestershire sauce, vinegar and Mazola. Beat with fork until thoroughly mixed . . . now add mixed greens and toss. For more than 4 servings, double recipe.

THE SARATOGA STARTS HER FIRST TRIAL RUN

The U.S.S. Saratoga, the Navy's newest supercarrier, passes under Manhattan Bridge on her way from New York Harbor for her first builder's sea trials. From the bow of a Navy tug in the foreground, three sailors wave to Saratoga crewmen. The 60,000-ton carrier's radar masts have been lowered for bridge clearance. Built at the naval shipyard in Brooklyn, the Saratoga is the second carrier of the Forrestal class. She is 1039 feet long, three feet longer than the Forrestal, is faster and more powerfully equipped than her sister ship.

CHECKMATING A STREETCAR IN BRAZIL

Two chess players and a crowd of kibitzers block a streetcar in Rio de Janeiro as part of a student protest against increased trolley fares. In two days of sabotage and mob violence in the Brazilian capital, scores of rioters were arrested and many were injured. More than 600 streetcars were wrecked. The wave of rioting was touched off when the city's streetcar lines doubled fares to offset the inflationary devaluation of the country's currency. The cruzeiro, Brazil's "dollar," has fallen to a low value of about one American cent.

NEW THRILL RIDE

It Permits Passengers at St. Louis Park to Control the Elevation of Their Rapidly Whirling Cars

A NEW RIDE that combines the sensations of the old airplane swing and a high-speed elevator is thrilling amusement park patrons. Called the Aero Jet, the $50,000 German-made contraption has been in operation only three weeks, but already is one of the most popular attractions at Forest Park Highlands.

Essentially a whirl ride, the Aero Jet has 12 small two-seat cars, with fins to simulate rocket planes, attached to the ends of 23-foot steel arms radiating from a central power unit. As the planes revolve at 25 miles an hour, riders are subjected to considerable centrifugal force. But for the "pilots," the kick comes in controlling the elevation of their whirling planes. A stick-like lever in the cockpit operates a hydraulic system that regulates the angle of the arms, thus causing the planes to be raised and lowered.

The rockets can be made to skim the ground, zoom 20 feet in the air, or fly a bumpy, undulating course. Youngsters take particular delight engaging in make-believe aerial combat, jockeying for position on the tail of the plane ahead and dive-bombing mythical targets.

Leaning inward to counteract the centrifugal force, girl in whirling plane puts her craft in fast climb as boys in following rockets fly at low level. Cars are rigidly fixed on ends of steel arms.

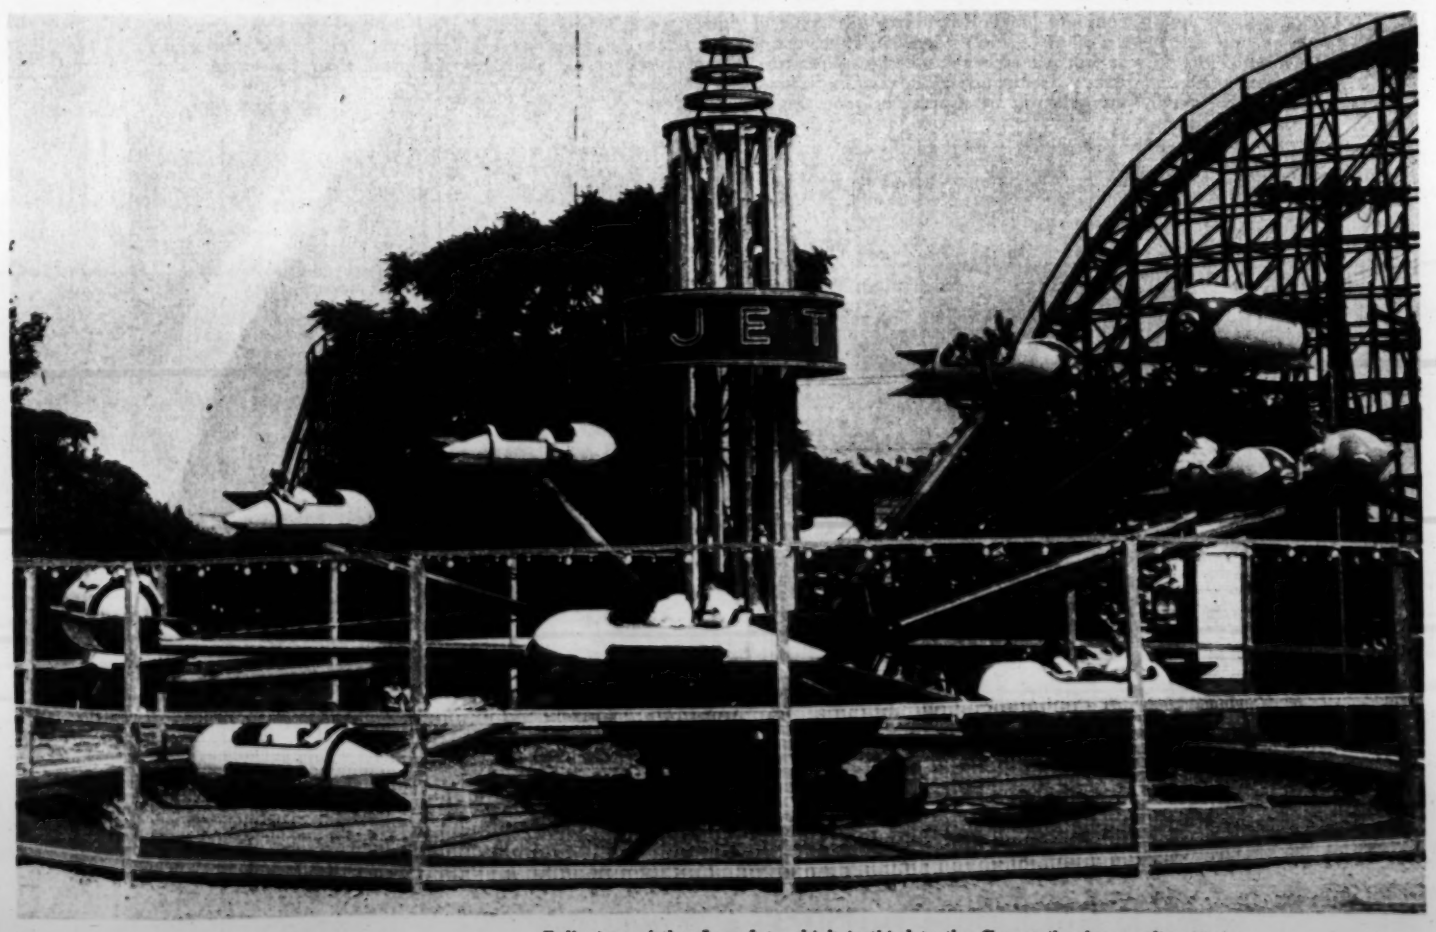

Photos by JACK GOULD of the PICTURES Staff

Planes zip clockwise around 175-foot ground-level circle that is surrounded by asphalt walk for loading and unloading passengers.

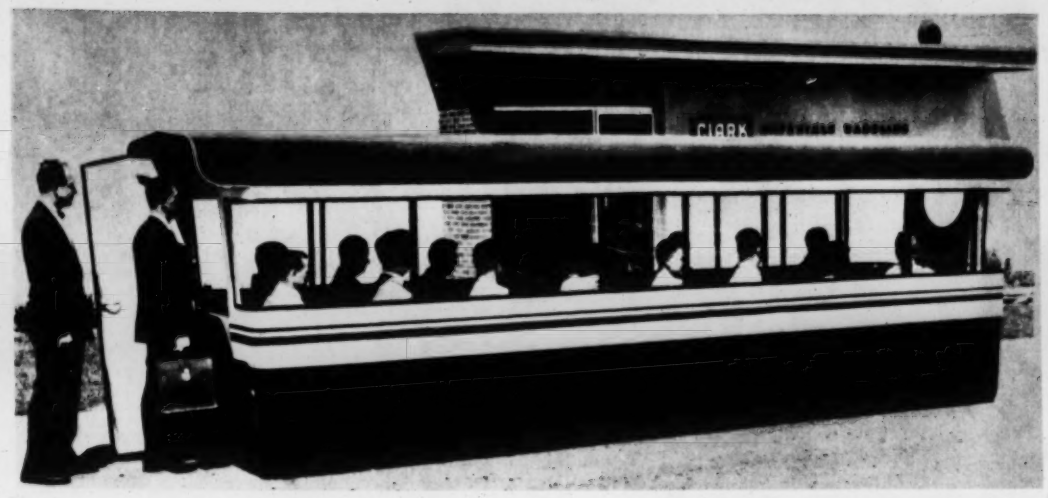

"Observer" in rear seat points out another craft to pilot. Planes remain same distance apart as they revolve.

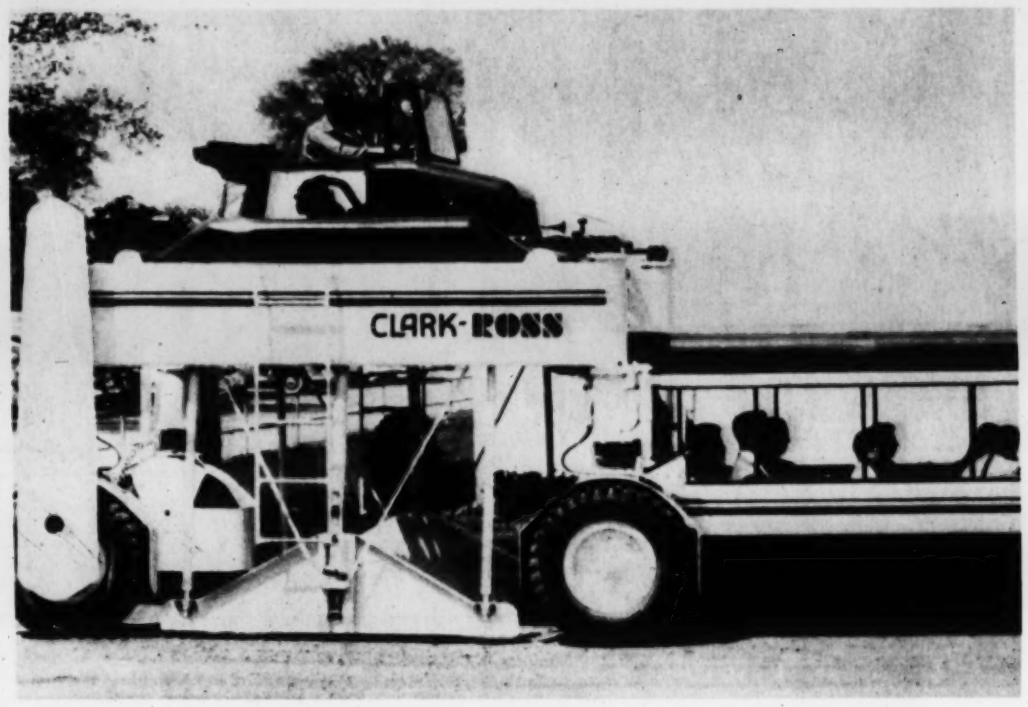

Full view of the Aero Jet, which is third to the Comet (background) and the Dodge-'em in popularity. Arms of Jet can be raised to maximum angle of 45 degrees, putting planes 20 feet in air. Master control enables operator to lower all cars to prevent small-fry pilots staying aloft when ride stops.

'POD' FOR JET PASSENGERS

Bus-Type Conveyance Proposed for Haul Between Terminal and Plane on Field

The wheelless, motorless "pod" (photo above) rests on ground as it is entered through rear door. Once pod is loaded, the straddle carrier (photo at right) approaches it from one end. The carrier, with operator seated on top, picks up the pod, and could then carry it directly to a jet passenger plane. At the plane, the carrier would raise the pod so as to line up its door with the doorway of the plane.

WHEN JET PASSENGER PLANES come into general use, chances are they will have to be parked at a distance from airport terminals because of the blast hazard and of the need to conserve fuel that would be lost in taxiing. Conveying passengers between terminal building and the plane is a problem that has been bothering transportation planners.

A Buchanan, Michigan, manufacturing firm has come up with what it believes is the answer. It is a detachable "passenger pod" like a bus body that can be loaded at the terminal, picked up by a motor-driven unit that resembles a lumber carrier, and carried to the jet where it is raised to a level that would permit passengers to walk right into the plane. These photos were taken when the "pod" was demonstrated at an exposition in Cleveland.

United Press Photos except as noted

Snugly fitted into the frame of its straddle carrier, a pod carrying passengers is tested in traffic on a street in downtown Cleveland.
Associated Press Photo

Interior of the pod, with 16 single window seats, resembles that of a bus. Several pods could be shuttled back and forth by one motor carrier, and the carrier could also handle freight and luggage.

MUSCLE MEN'S MELEE

Fellow Behemoth Gives Mae West's Mr. Universe a Black Eye

In a happier moment, Mae West poses with Hargitay (left) and Krauser before the two men used their muscles on each other. Hargitay filed assault charges against Krauser, who posted $300 bail.

A SPONTANEOUS PERFORMANCE by two of the muscle men in Mae West's night club troupe landed the principals and Miss West in court and in the news. The unrehearsed bit, in the form of a brief but boisterous brawl, took place in the star's dressing room in Washington, D. C., during a news conference she had called to announce the firing of Mr. Universe from her cast.

Mr. Universe — Mickey Hargitay, a 26-year-old weight lifter whose mass of muscles gained him the title last year in London — barged into the conference, according to statements made later in court. He got into a hassle with Chuck Krauser, 33, an ex-wrestler who also displays his bulging biceps in Miss West's act. Krauser punched Hargitay, and Mr. Universe saw stars.

The trouble grew out of Hargitay's publicized romance with Actress Jayne Mansfield, who has more curves than Mickey has muscles. Mickey gave Jayne a ring, Miss West gave Mickey the bounce, Krauser added a belt in the eye.

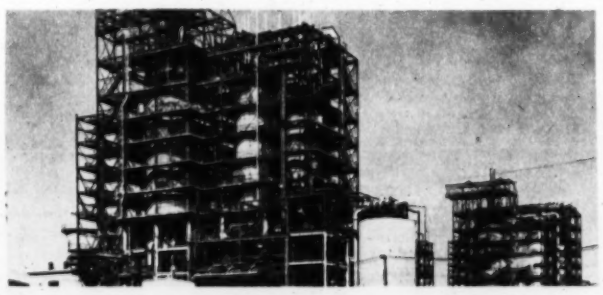

With swollen left eye, cut lip and blood-splattered shirt, Hargitay is helped from night club by policeman. Whether he was knocked out or just down wasn't made clear, but he said he never had engaged in a fight in his life.

"What happens to the money a business takes in?"

W. J. Hallmann, General Accounting Department, Standard Oil Company, Chicago, Illinois:

"Our company did a whale of a business last year . . . $2,102,308,139. That's what we 'took in' as you say and includes taxes collected from customers for government agencies. At the same time we were spending $1,424,739,000 for materials used, operating and general expenses, and salaries and wages. That's equal to 67.8 per cent of the total we took in. Charges for wear and tear amounted to $139,184,000—6.6 per cent. Federal taxes on income and other taxes, including those we collected from customers for government agencies, amounted to $381,267,000—another 18.1 per cent. These costs and expenses amounted to $1,945,190,000 for Standard Oil and its subsidiaries in 1955. That's more than 92 per cent of what we took in."

Cyrus Wright, Payroll and Tabulating, Standard Oil Company, Sugar Creek, Missouri:

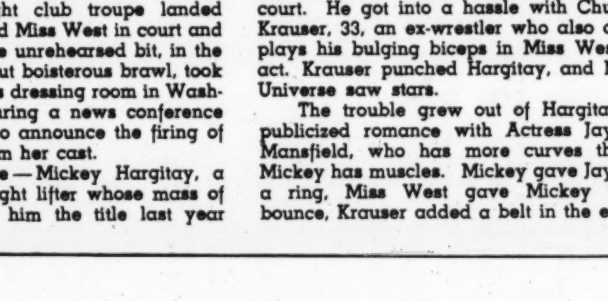

"There are more than 50,000 Standard Oilers, so you can imagine the size of our payroll! Our people earned $330,800,000 last year in wages and benefits. Yet, believe it or not, large as our payroll was, we paid out $381,267,000 for taxes of all kinds. That includes our own taxes and the taxes we collected from customers for local, state and national governments."

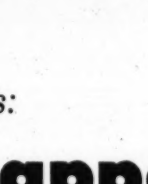

P. H. Towle, Research Group Leader, Standard Oil Laboratories, Whiting, Indiana:

"In a business as competitive as ours you can't stand still or you won't stay in business very long. You have to keep on improving your product and your service all the time —and that takes money. The two-octane number increase in gasoline made between July 1, 1954, and July 1, 1955, costs the consolidated company over $10,000,000 each year. And last year alone Standard Oil invested millions of dollars in research to bring our customers more powerful gasolines, all-weather motor oils, and other product improvements."

Marvin L. Hayes, Treasurer's Office, Standard Oil Company, Chicago, Illinois:

"Well, it's a small part of the total taken in, but as a return on their investment, a company pays dividends to its share owners. Dividends were paid in 1955 for the 62nd consecutive year. Our last dividend of the 1955 year went to 132,400 owners, many of whom are educational or charitable institutions like Children's Hospital, Detroit (shown above). Dividends amounted to 2.7 cents of each dollar we took in. The rest of what we took in, 4.8 cents per dollar, was retained for use in the business. Including the market value of the special dividend in Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) stock our dividends were equal to about 1/2 of net earnings."

What makes a business a good citizen?

Being open-and-above board, for one thing. That's the American way. Standard Oil Company and its subsidiaries report fully each year to government, shareholders, employees, and the public just what use was made of the money we took in. Copies of our Annual Report for 1955 are available on request as long as the supply lasts. Our address—Standard Oil Company, 910 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago 80, Illinois.

MEXICO'S NEW CHURCHES

Old Spanish Baroque Style Gives Way to Dramatic Designs in Reinforced Concrete

Several churches embodying bold architectural concepts are being built or have been completed recently in Mexico. They contrast strikingly with the luxuriant Spanish baroque churches so prevalent in that country. The Church of the Immaculate Conception in Mexico City is an adaptation of early Indian sacred structures found in Mexico. Atop the church is a huge statue of the Madonna.

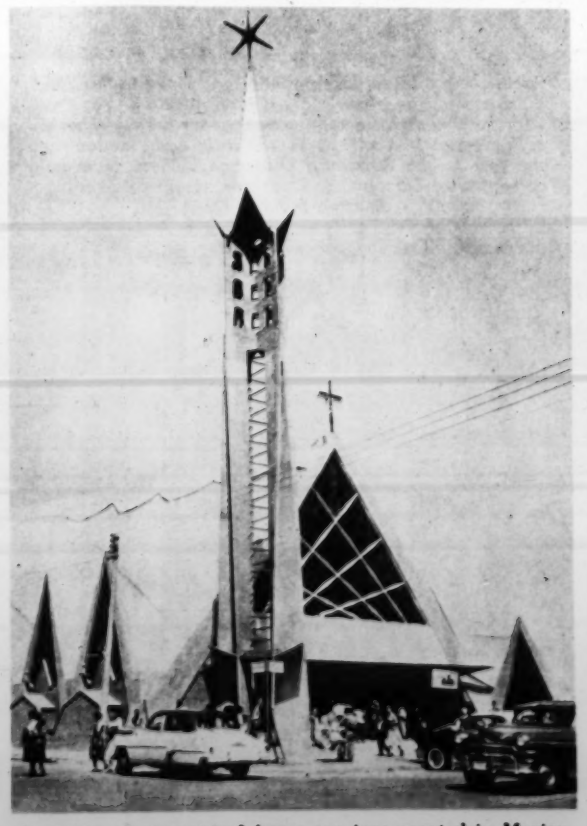

United Press Photos

Sweeping parabolic lines distinguish the Church of the Sacred Heart in Monterrey. Like the other churches in these photos, it is made of poured concrete. The separate bell tower is of contrasting masonry construction.

Supporting framework makes huge lattice pattern on the exterior of the Church of Nuestra Senora de la Piedad, Mexico City. A cross has been made an integral part of the glassed front facade. Twin crosses top the building's pierced spire.

A variety of geometrical forms are incorporated in Mexico City's Church of the Virgin of the Miraculous Medal. Roof and walls are formed of reinforced concrete one and one-half inches thick. The star-topped bell tower is 97 feet high.

Introducing Lever Brothers' new non-dairy spread for bread!

THE FIRST MARGARINE

UNCONDITIONALLY GUARANTEED TO TASTE

LIKE THE HIGH-PRICED SPREAD!

It's Finally Happened! One million dollars and over seven years of research have produced the first and only margarine so flavorful that Lever Brothers unconditionally guarantees it will taste like the high-priced spread to you!

Imperial's Got That Flavor! It wasn't hard to make Imperial spread smoother than any other margarine. And it wasn't hard to make Imperial as nutritious as any spread for bread. The trick was to capture and hold that unmistakable flavor everybody loves. Imperial's got that flavor!

You Agree, or We Return Your Money! Here at last is a margarine you'll never have to make excuses for—no matter how fussy the company. Spread on bread, melted over vegetables, in the frying pan—hot or cold, Imperial is the first and only margarine unconditionally guaranteed to taste like the high-priced spread. You'll agree, or Lever Brothers Company will return your money.

P.S. Like the high-priced spread, Imperial is delicate and perishable. To protect its perfect flavor, always keep it in your refrigerator!

DON'T CHANGE YOUR TASTE! JUST CHANGE TO IMPERIAL! IMPERIAL'S GOT THAT FLAVOR!

Illinois Gets Carl Sandburg Library

University Acquires Large Collection, Including Manuscripts, of Famed Poet and Native Son

Carl Sandburg (wearing visor) and Professor Leslie Dunlap, associate director of the University of Illinois Library, go over material in the study of the poet's home in North Carolina. Not included in the first shipment was material still being used by Sandburg for the autobiography he is now writing, and his extensive collection of contemporary poetry.

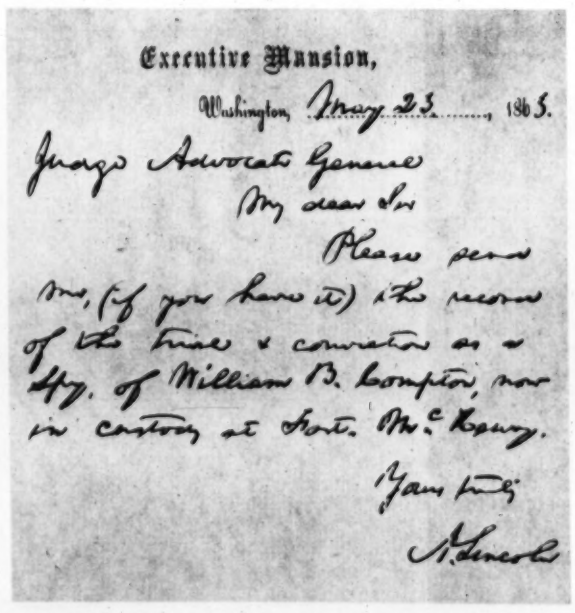

On a visit to the University of Illinois Library, the 77-year-old Sandburg checks card index in one of his fields of interest. Sandburg was born at Galesburg, Illinois, was a Chicago newspaper man early in his career.

MORE THAN FOUR TONS of books, manuscripts, pictures and other items from the private library of Carl Sandburg have been received by the University of Illinois. Now being unpacked and sorted at the university, the material was trucked earlier this month from Flat Rock, North Carolina, where the famous Illinois-born poet and Lincoln biographer now lives.

The entire Sandburg collection was purchased by the Illinois University Foundation for $30,000. It eventually will be housed in the university library and made available to scholars for study. Dealers have acknowledged that the collection would have brought three to four times the purchase price on the open market.

Among prized documents already received are manuscripts of all of Sandburg's works, including his seven-volume work on Lincoln. Other acquisitions include selections from Sandburg's correspondence with United States presidents and other famous persons, and a number of photographs by the writer's brother-in-law, Edward Steichen, dean of American photographers.

My dear Sir

Please send me, (if you have it) the record of the trial & conviction as a Spy, of William B. Compton, now in custody at Fort. McHenry.

Yours truly

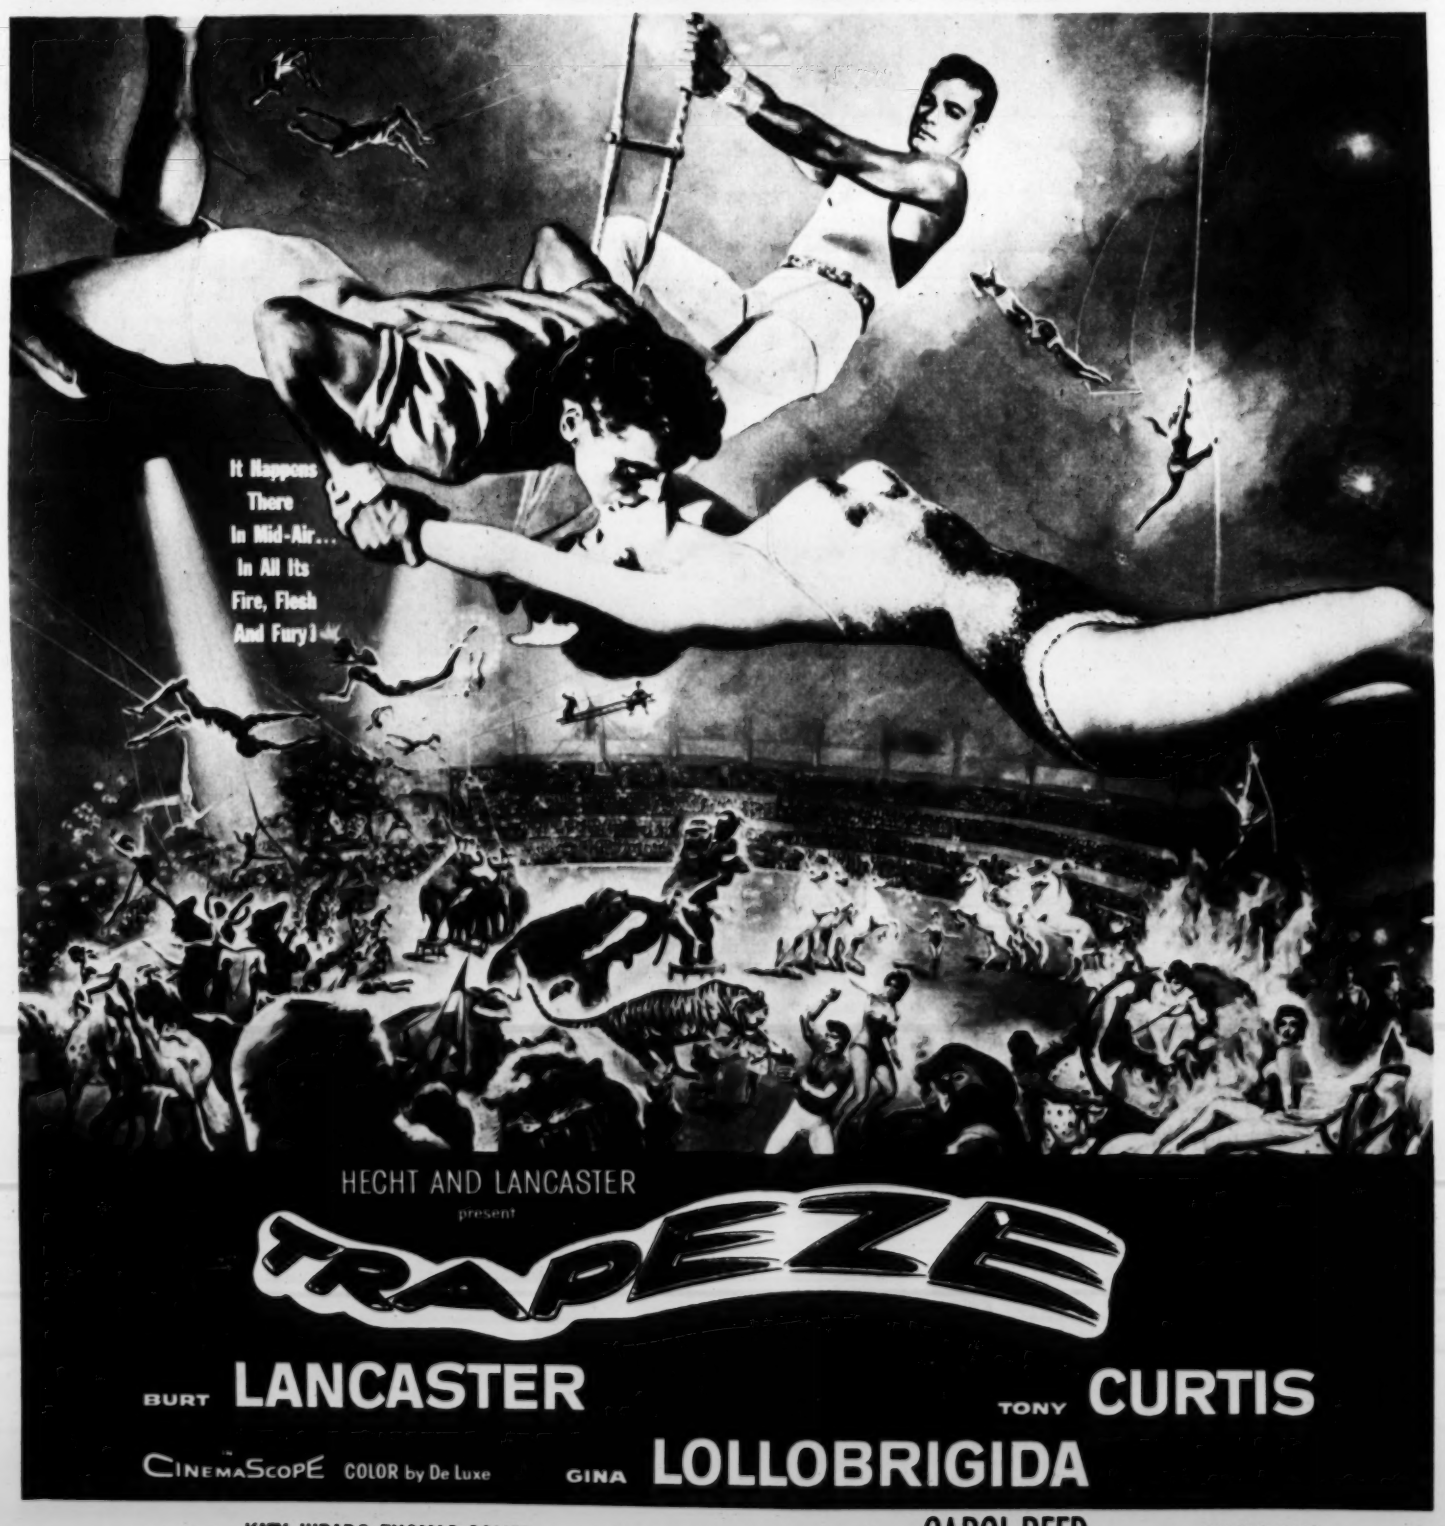

A. Lincoln

Photo of an original Lincoln letter contained in the Sandburg collection. It is a request from the Civil War President for records of a man convicted as a spy. The Lincoln memorabilia will be kept in a different section from the rest of the Sandburg collection. There is even a collection of Lincoln head pennies, a gift to Sandburg.

THE WEDDING WAS SIMPLE

Family Dilemma Resolved in Film "The Catered Affair"

1. As the Hurleys have breakfast in their Bronx flat, their daughter, Jane (Debbie Reynolds), tells her parents she plans to be married. Mom (Bette Davis) and Pop Hurley (Ernest Borgnine) take the news calmly, agree with Jane's preference to make the wedding a simple afternoon affair.

2. After announcement of the wedding plans, the in-laws gather at the Hurley flat. Jane's favorite uncle, Jack (Barry Fitzgerald), has been hurt when told by Mom that he can't come to the wedding. If he were invited, all the other uncles would want to come. However, after taunting from the family, Mom reconsiders, decides the wedding will be big, after all, with a caterer.

3. Jane is taken by Mom to be fitted for a bridal gown. Jane still insists upon her original plan of a small wedding. By now, Mom is entranced with the idea of a splendid wedding with no thought of the cost. Jane lunches with Alice (Joan Camden), her best friend. Jane asks Alice to be matron of honor. Alice starts to cry, tells Jane she can't accept because she and her husband are both jobless. They just cannot afford a gown and a rented tuxedo.

4. Mom, Pop and Uncle Jack visit a hotel to make arrangements for the reception. All but Mom are horrified at the cost, especially Pop. He finally gives in, although he will have to pay for the wedding out of his savings for a new taxicab. Jane meets her betrothed, and they quarrel over the arrangements.

5. Jane finally faces Mom and Pop, declares there will be no big wedding. In one day her best girl friend has been humiliated, her fiance is angry, her father and mother are fighting like cats and dogs. Mom still insists that they have a grand marriage with all the frills of a large reception.

6. Pop breaks a long silence, says he'd like to throw a lot of money into a big wedding, and is ashamed that he can't. Mom decides she has worried about everyone else but him. With Jane leaving, and with Uncle Jack already having moved out because of not being originally invited to the wedding, she will have no one left but her husband. Pop is surprised and delighted to find his daughter's wedding, after all, will be a simple one. Mom has relented, and settled matters so the new taxicab is his. In fact, they're riding to the ceremony in it.

Collapse of a Scaffold

Following a scaffold collapse in New York, firemen search debris for possible trapped victims as spectators jam sidewalk on other side of West Fifty-sixth street. The 200-foot scaffold, erected at the second-floor level for renovation work on four five-story apartment houses, collapsed with a roar that was heard for blocks. Two men, an ironworker employed on the project and a passer-by, were given hospital treatment for minor injuries. The pedestrian, whose foot was pinned under a fallen beam, was pulled to safety by the proprietor of a nearby shop. Twenty workers were on the scaffold when it began to buckle. One of them grabbed a rope connected to the third story of a building and swung clear as the "bridge" started falling at one end. The accident necessitated barring traffic from the block for more than two hours.

Tampax is used all over the world

There are good reasons for the startling popularity of Tampax—for its use in the billions by millions of women! Tampax internal sanitary protection is comfortable in any language! It can't bind, chafe or irritate. Can't "show" or embarrass. The user has complete freedom of movement, of dress, of schedule . . . sailing, sightseeing, cycling, even swimming. Women in more than 75 countries say, "It's Tampax for me!"

What holds you back from using Tampax? Doubts? It was invented by a doctor! Apathy? Don't you want to feel cooler, freer, far more comfortable on problem days? Shyness? Tampax is completely acceptable; it's available at every drug and notion counter in your choice of 3 absorbencies—Regular, Super, Junior. Get it! You'll like it! Tampax Incorporated, Palmer, Mass.

Invented by a doctor—now used by millions of women

IN THE DARK of early dawn, people were looting the ruined drugstore in the little town.

I'll always remember...

The 'neighbors' I never met

by ALMA K. SCHNEIDER
SUPERINTENDENT OF THE U.S. MINT, DENVER

Alma K. Schneider

There are experiences that shatter your faith in people as a whole — and then restore it, fourfold.

The little town of Morrison, Colo., is situated in the foothills of the Rockies, 14 miles west of Denver. Shortly after our marriage in 1926, my husband and I moved to Morrison, where his father owned the only drugstore. Mountain families in an area of a hundred square miles depended on it to fill their doctors' prescriptions and provide other necessities of life.

The town is a spectacularly beautiful spot, lying in a bowl below the majestic Red Rocks. It has only one fault: run-off rains from the surrounding mountains can crash down in unexpected flash-floods.

Morrison had gone along peacefully for 45 years without a flood and then, in the 1930s, it suffered three in five years. The worst came in 1938, when cloudbursts back in the mountains dumped millions of tons of water into gullies which feed into two creeks that converge right in the town.

It was early evening when the lights suddenly went out. As the onrushing, filth-laden streams gutted the buildings on the main street, most people escaped to the nearby hillsides. Among them were my husband's father and mother. Unbelievingly they saw the flood engulf their home, their property and the drugstore the family had run for 43 years. As they watched, churning mud pushed in the back of the building and swept out, among other things, the two-ton soda fountain and every bit of stock except that above the reach of the water.

Toward dawn, as the flood subsided, my husband and I picked our way to the drugstore — and were stunned to see people with bushel baskets stripping the few untouched shelves of what stock was left. In the dark it was difficult to identify them, but it was saddening to think that even a few would do it.

When my father-in-law heard what was going on, it added to his sorrow. The shock of his loss at 63 nearly broke his spirit. The fact that so-called friends could steal from him nearly broke his heart.

Then Morrison settled down to rebuild. Three feet of mud was shoveled out of the drugstore; though still dazed by what had happened, my father-in-law clung to one thought: the store must be reopened so people of the surrounding countryside could get the medicines and drugs they needed. Yet neither he nor any of the rest of us knew how he could rebuild his once-tremendous stock. In that sense, reopening the store seemed like a futile gesture . . .

We forgot that nearly a half-century of dealing with supplying companies had made him many friends he never had even met. Almost before the new shelves could be built, new stock was arriving. Every manufacturing company he had dealt with was sending in its products: drugs, cosmetics, cameras, razors, soft drinks — everything he needed. And the invoices all read: "NO CHARGE."

Suddenly I realized that a few weak people don't represent all of us; good neighbors, even when we don't know them, far outnumber all the rest. ■

Help For Happier Bedtimes

Are you a face-making feeder?

Pointers on playpens

SLEEP problems worry parents most these days, say doctors and child-study groups. When baby complains at midnight, so do the neighbors! When toddlers are tucked into bed, how do you keep them there?

• A tummy comfortably full of good food, and meals timed to his hunger—not the clock—are the best lullabies for a little baby. Unburped bubbles, too many covers, too early a bedtime may cause wake-ups. Sometimes all a night-owl wants is a friendly word or a shift in position. A little comforting helps him be a better sleeper than the baby left for long "cry-it-outs."

• Sunshine? Yes, but in small doses for baby's tender skin. Cloudy days at the beach can fool you, cause bad burns. Switch slowly from long sleeves to sunsuits. Oil baby often.

• Do you scowl when you serve baby foods you dislike but which he needs? Watch your face—baby does! If your face says "Ugh!" baby may reject the food. He wants to like what you like. Taste baby's Heinz-prepared food; you'll lose your "pet-hates." Heinz baby-food chefs capture vegetables' most delicate flavors, keep them garden fresh in protective glass jars.

• Put baby in a playpen early—at about 3 to 4 months. If he feels at home there before he creeps, he'll feel less fenced-in later. A few toys at a time, not a big pile. Be sure to pass by for a "chat" occasionally as he learns, part-time, to live alone and like it.

Dimpled fingers from the start
Hold fast to every mother's heart.

• If your doctor agrees, serve orange juice from a spoon to help baby make friends with spoons before he starts solid food. Heinz silken-smooth Strained Orange Juice comes from fat, juicy sun-ripened oranges, picked when the vitamin C content is at its peak—and specially processed to reduce peel oil to a minimum.

• Aid and comfort for teethers—Heinz new horseshoe-shaped biscuit. The lucky holder can maneuver it around his tender gums till it hits the spot that's having tooth trouble. Special shape and crumble-proof texture make it hard to get too much cooky in the mouth. Made of wholesome whole-wheat flour, wheat germ, other good things. Just mildly sweet; it won't spoil appetites.

• Only the most golden carrots and the greenest peas and beans are chosen for Heinz Baby Foods. Pretty colors attract even one-to-two-month-olds. All Heinz fruits and vegetables are picked and packed the same day to preserve their fresh goodness and natural color. Only the best has been good enough for Heinz for 87 years.

Eight wings in the wild blue

NORFOLK, ENGLAND.

What appears to be an eight-winged space ship in the photo above is an optical illusion resulting from some spectacular close-formation flying by Royal Air Force jet pilots. The photograph was taken as the famous Hunter acrobatic team ("The Fighting Cocks") of the RAF Fighter Command put on an air show at the Squadron base here for foreign dignitaries. Asked one of the awed visitors: "What happens if a pilot sneezes?"

The young Mardises of Tucson, Ariz. — Pat, Keith and baby Toby Lynn — pose by their one-room home. Ahead lie two more years of school, a service hitch.

PARENTS IN THEIR TEENS

On Father's Day, here's a closeup look at a different kind of teenager—the struggling young marrieds

by SID ROSS and ED KIESTER

TUCSON, ARIZ.

FIFTEEN MONTHS ago, a justice of the peace in Nogales, Mexico (70 miles south of here), pronounced the words that made Keith Mardis and Patricia MacMillan man and wife. Keith sealed the marriage with a $16 ring, bought by stashing quarters in a piggy bank for several months. Then the couple drove back to their homes here, and Pat hid the ring in her ski clothes — until after her graduation from Tucson High School. She was just 17; her husband, a freshman at the University of Arizona, was a shade past 19.

Today, aged 20 and 18, the young college boy and his wife call themselves "old married folks"; they have acquired a 5-month-old daughter, Toby Lynn, an apartment, a sheaf of bills and a wealth of responsibility. But this was what they expected. "Pat and I weren't complete dopes," Keith says. "We knew it would be tough — not just moonlight and roses."

Before the Nogales trip, they had been going steady for some time; like more and more teenagers today, they answered the question, "Why wait?" by not waiting. Today half the nation's new brides are under 20; half the bridegrooms, under 22. Sixty years ago the figures were 26 and 22. In 1945, 60 per cent of the women 20 to 24 years old were married. Today the percentage is up to 70.

Among the results of this youthful rush to the altar are younger parents, larger families and — according to some experts — more domestic difficulties. The marriage mania, as these observers see it, is an upshot of the fad to go steady, and both result from community pressure to pair off at a tender age.

One psychiatrist told PARADE: "This artificial custom prevents youngsters from enjoying normal group relations and forces them into decisions and responsibilities they're not ready to handle." Recently, he added, he had been consulted by a boy, 16, whose "steady" had been badgering him to get married. The boy wanted advice on restoring things to a normal plane, but not at the price of a brush-off; that would leave him with no "steady" and, thus, a social outcast.

But some experts say that no one has yet proved that teen-age marriages contribute more than their share to the divorce rate. The truth, they maintain, is that kids now are maturing younger, mentally and physically, and are willing and able to assume responsibility at an earlier age. Raised in an era of speed, they are a determined lot who see what they want and defy any tradition or leap any obstacle to claim it.

Certainly there has been no dearth of obstacles for Keith and Pat Mardis. Financially, they have not had a moment's ease since they eloped. When Pat became pregnant, Keith immediately set to work, as a cotton-acreage checker for the Department of Agriculture, to support his growing family. Pat also got a job, to keep Keith in college. She worked until the end of her eighth month of pregnancy. From the two jobs they saved $1,000, and Keith went back to classes last fall.

They have been nibbling at this nest egg ever since. The only income is $20 to $30 a week which Keith earns by working odd hours in his father's photo studio. They have only small expenses: $50 a month for rent, $15 a week for groceries, $1 a week for Keith's allowance. A few jolts have rocked the financial boat, like a $60 dental bill for Pat.

Both were determined that they would accept no subsidy from their parents, and they haven't. There have been helping hands, and some phenomenal luck. After the marriage was announced, friends chipped in to donate $500 in cash; the families gave furniture, both new and hand-me-down. Keith's father sold them a sedan for $200 which was worth far more. A friend going East to college lent Keith a motorcycle to commute to class.

The best luck of all was Toby Lynn's arrival: born at 12:21 a.m. January 1, she won the "Stork Derby" sponsored by Tucson Newspapers Inc. and 38 merchants. The Mardises, expecting a barrage of bills, got a bonanza instead: playpen, crib, baby clothes, diaper service, baby food, milk. (Among other prizes was a bottle of liquor, which Keith couldn't claim because he is a minor. He doesn't drink, anyway.) For once, the couple breathed easily — temporarily.

CHANGING THE GUARD, Keith darts from class to baby-sit in family car while Pat attends class. Pat takes two classes, says, "the baby gives me plenty of education."

Just as persistent as finances are problems of adjustment. "After all, neither of us has ever been married before," Pat laughs. In two years of dating — they met at a high-school student-council meeting — they had never realized they were temperamentally at odds in some ways. Keith, uninterested in details almost to the point of absent-mindedness, is easy-going; Pat is volatile, quick to anger and quick to forgive. "I don't know what we'd get done if I didn't prod him into it," she says.

What annoyed Pat most during the first months was Keith's attitude toward her trial-and-error cooking. "It was horrible," she says. "I'd make steaks you couldn't dent with a hatchet. Then he'd tell me how good it was!"

Keith, Pat discovered, was sloppy; he draped his clothes on furniture instead of hanging them. Pat, according to Keith, has a "mania for neatness." When friends were coming, she'd spend hours polishing the apartment. A steady drumfire of such minor irritations was punctuated by an occasional genuine blow-up, like the time Keith decided to switch from engineering to art without consulting Pat. To her, the decision was one affecting the whole family's future and should be talked over at length. The argument went on far into the night.

What of the future? Keith and Pat know there are some rough days ahead — Keith, for instance, will draw an Army stretch soon — but they face them without fear. Continued on page 10

A day with the Mardises: the excitement of routine

FOND GOODBYE in doorway starts Keith Mardis off to school, Pat to housework, tending the baby and, as time permits, studying college texts.

"FOR MY FIGURE," Pat crams in exercises when she can. At 18, she has a weight problem: she gained 30 pounds while pregnant, has yet to get back to her normal 112.

On these two pages you spend a day inside Keith and Pat Mardis' tiny apartment (one room with partitions). In spite of the youth of its occupants, there is no teen-aged frivolity here, nor starry-eyed impracticality. The business of pursuing an education, trying to earn a living and raising a young daughter is treated as it should be — seriously.

The day begins at a very un-adolescent hour: 6 a.m. Sleepy-eyed Keith silences the shrilling alarm and stumbles to Toby Lynn's bassinet to change her diaper, while Pat prepares for the first feeding. From there on, everything is co-operative. While Keith burps the baby, Pat prepares breakfast; while he washes the dishes, she sterilizes bottles.

After Keith leaves for school on a borrowed motorcycle, Pat's day is the routine day of any housewife: straightening up, bathing the baby, laundry every other day. Three times a week the pattern is broken by her Humanities class. Then she puts Toby Lynn in a bassinet and drives to the campus, where Keith baby-sits in the car while she attends class. If Toby Lynn cries, Pat hears it three flights up: at 18, she already has developed the mother's ear for distress signals.

Ashore or afloat, make Miller High Life a part of your pleasure picture! Yes, when it comes to your own personal pleasure and enjoyment . . . treat yourself to beer at its delicious best and "go first class" with Miller High Life . . . the Champagne of Bottle Beer!

SOCIAL LIFE for these young parents includes cards with another young couple.

SKETCHING at home gives arts major Keith a chance to practice, his wife an opportunity to take it easy.

Evenings are spent studying or working, with a rare trip to a drive-in or visit to relatives. No gay night life? No dancing? They seem to have forgotten how. Their former high-school chums have drifted; most of their friends now are "old married folks" like themselves, although usually a few years older.

Do the Mardises feel they're missing something — the light-hearted days of youth? "Not me," Pat says. Adds Keith: "We're not interested in that kind of thing any more. Making ours a good marriage and watching our baby grow up — that's all the entertainment we want." ■

ANOTHER DAY starts at 6 a.m. Even on week ends, feeding schedule prevents sleeping late. But Pat says: "When Baby gives you that woozy smile, that's compensation."

NEXT WEEK: How fit is American youth?

THIS COP GIVES CONVICTS A SECOND CHANCE

Pennsylvanian Charles Wade promises them jobs—even if he has to hire them himself

SURROUNDED by his employes, Detective Wade plays the TRAPPED by police, this gunman swore he'd never be taken alive. He yielded when Detective Wade promised job after jail.

by HILLEL BLACK

READING, PA.

The young gunman pictured at left kept Detective Charles S. Wade talking for three hours here before he was persuaded to lower his gun and surrender. This should offer convincing proof that Wade is a cop who has a way with criminals. But Wade does better than that. He believes in giving them a second chance — and then makes it come true.

Detective Wade is uniquely equipped to do this, because in addition to working as a full-time cop he runs a small, lucrative business — and the kind of people he prefers for employes are ex-convicts. Wade wants to prove that a lawbreaker can live down his past and be like other people if given a fair chance. So far he's proved it forcibly.

"Don't get me wrong," he says. "I'm a policeman, and a guy who breaks the law has to pay the penalty. But when he has, why continue to prosecute him?"

Thus, of the 45 employes of the Home Improvement Co., Wade's firm, more than 30 are ex-prison inmates — some of whom Wade caught himself and then offered a job when they got out of jail. He's also helped prisoners get parole by being their job sponsor (otherwise they would have had to serve their full sentences), for he feels that lack of a sponsor often makes prison inmates bitter and spoils chances of rehabilitation.

Wade's business — selling and installing roofing, heating systems and home improvements — places his salesmen and work crews in constant touch with the public. His collectors take in as much as $1,000 a day. So far Wade has never been a penny short, never heard a complaint of anything missing.

The formula, he says, is complete honesty: "I never lie to my help and I expect them to play square with me." He also believes in keeping them happy on the job. He gives away monthly prizes, a Cadillac as a grand annual award, other benefits. He throws steak dinners, is planning a week's Florida vacation for all employes and their families — on the house. His sales meetings begin each day with a songfest.

Recently Wade bought a 10-acre country estate which his employes are fixing up in their spare time as a resort. The place has two swimming pools, a baseball field, a lodge hall and a lake for boating. Wade wants it to be shared by his employes and by his fellow police officers and their families as a free vacation spot. He feels it will do much to wipe out the stereotyped picture cops and ex-criminals have of each other. "In a bathing suit," declares Wade, "you're just a human being, with a heart."

Wade himself works full time at both jobs, on a daily schedule that would probably kill a less dedicated man. His daily routine begins at midnight, when he reports for detective duty that lasts till 8 a.m. An hour later he has switched to business executive and works at his plant until 5 p.m. or later. He claims he gets plenty of sleep — five hours a night, before going back to work as a cop.

Wade's business, which he runs with his wife Betty as partner, grosses $750,000 a year and provides him with a good income. But he sticks to his detective work because he loves it. The two jobs complement each other. As a cop he cracks down on lawbreakers; as a businessman he gives them another kind of break, a chance to make good. Wade sees a policeman's job as a chance to help people, not hurt them.

Nobody but Wade knows exactly which of his employes are ex-convicts. In addition, he has helped some of them weather difficult adjustments. One man he put to work on a scaffold was so jittery from long confinement that his fellow workers complained: they said his nervousness endangered their lives. Wade sent him to a doctor. The ex-convict calmed down, later did so well on the job that Wade made him a foreman.

Only once did an employe ever try to rob Wade, who promptly talked him out of it. Pointing a gun at the detective, the man started to open a safe.

"Wait," Wade said, "let me open it for you. But remember this: you are taking something out of here that you can't buy with money. That's my faith in you."

That ended the stickup attempt. This man, Wade says, became one of his most trusted employes, went on to get a better job with another firm.

People here don't always cotton to the idea of dealing with reformed criminals, but Wade knows how to handle these situations. One woman refused to deal with Wade because he hired ex-criminals. When she reported a robbery, Wade was assigned to the case, found the thief to be her own teen-age son. The woman now is one of Wade's customers.

Husky, soft-spoken Wade was a musician, sailor and aircraft-factory foreman before he became a cop. He started with the Reading police force in 1944 at $28 a week. To make ends meet, he added a part-time job selling storm windows. Before long he was making three times more as a salesman than as a sleuth.

With the aid of the firm he worked for, Wade opened a branch store. When the firm left Reading, he was able to buy it out.

A National Program

Now 42, Wade says he and his wife never forgot the people who helped them when times were hard. In turn, they wanted to do something for others. Wade's police work gave him a natural reservoir of unfortunates who needed help. He decided to use his business to help rehabilitate former criminals.

While Wade has had marked success along these lines, he now is working on a more ambitious plan — a national rehabilitation foundation supported by both private and government funds. The foundation would function basically as a huge employment agency designed to find jobs for prisoners even before they get out of jail. Although Wade is too smart to call this a panacea, he does claim it would substantially reduce crime and save U.S. taxpayers millions.

Meanwhile Wade continues in his own way to ease statistics. His ex-convicts not only are happy but make a good living. (Lowest salary: $60 a week, for unskilled laborers. A good salesman can make up to $11,000 a year.) Wade says he looks forward to the day "when a man can walk into anybody's place of business and say, 'I'm an ex-convict looking for a job.' When such a man gets a break, we'll have a chance of solving one of our worst social problems." ■

SNACK TIME finds Wade's wife and business partner, Betty, doling out coffee and cake to employes.

TINKHAM'S GIRLS

This 24-year-old coach turns out our top women swimmers at a Washington hospital

by JOHN DEVANEY PHOTOS BY BEN ROSS

WASHINGTON, D.C.

At 24, blond, handsome Stan Tinkham is the youngest and most successful coach of girl swimmers in the nation. Last summer his girls, members of the Walter Reed Hospital Swim Club here, won five of the six races at the Women's National AAU outdoor championships. This spring they splashed off with eight of the 12 swim events in the indoor championships. All told, the girls — civilians, though they represent a U.S. Army Hospital — own about one of every two U.S. women's swim records, plus three world marks. Thus it's a lead-pipe cinch, barring accidents, that at least six and probably more Walter Reed swimmers will dominate the 18-girl U.S. Olympic team at Melbourne next November.

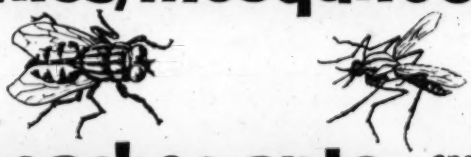

Since his girls — they range in age from 12 to 24 — freely admit his coaching got them where they are, Tinkham is looked upon by his friends as that rarest of men: one who can twist females around his little finger. Nothing, says Tinkham, could be farther from the truth. "Working with these girls," he says, "is like being in the middle of a bargain-basement sale every day. Women are far more competitive than men and don't mind flaunting their eagerness to win. Men are more sporting, better able to take victory or defeat in stride. As a result, I'd much rather coach men."

Tinkham nevertheless keeps his crew firmly

USED BY HUNDREDS OF HOSPITALS

STARTING practice, girls get orders from Tinkham (who rarely wears swim trunks). For Olympic tryouts in August, girls are drilling three hours daily, seven days a week.

He puts in 25 hours a week— without pay in line. He snaps the girls to attention with a sharp, short whistle from his pursed lips, brooks no chattering while he's talking. When the chatter won't stop, Tinkham suspends the offender "till she's able to make the adjustment to being quiet when told."

Banishment stings, for membership is a sought-after privilege, granted only after a grueling tryout. "We have about 60 members," says Tinkham, "some 15 of whom are boys. Of the girls, 13 are on the team which won the AAU championships. Most of the rest are too young for competitive swimming. But they're what every good team needs — young blood."

The club, begun in 1952 by daughters of military personnel stationed in Washington, uses a huge 40-yard-by-50-foot indoor pool built for patients at the hospital (which means the pool can be used by the club only for a few hours in the late afternoon). Though membership was — and still is — mostly limited to military personnel and their families, the club prospered right from the start, with the team winning two national championships. But it didn't start sweeping meets till a spring afternoon in 1954 when Pfc. Stan Tinkham tried out for the club and became its coach two weeks later.

Tinkham had been drafted into the Army after graduating from the University of North Carolina, where he'd been an All-American swimmer. After special training to be a medical technician, he came back to Washington, his home, to serve his hitch at Walter Reed. Hearing about the club, he came out for a tryout just at the time the coach, his patience worn thin by the individualistic girls, explosively quit. Walter Reed's commanding officer, knowing of Tinkham's swimming record at college, put him in charge because there just wasn't anybody else.

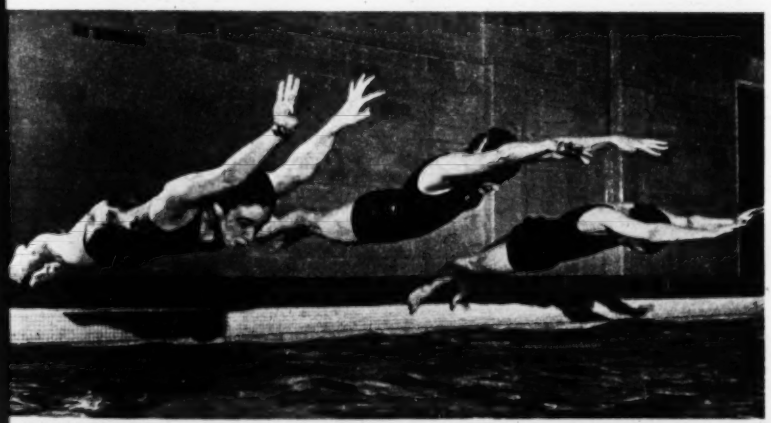

The imperturbable Tinkham promptly proved he was no stopgap coach by winning the indoor AAU championship several weeks later. Since then his girls have dominated indoor and outdoor AAU championships. His outstanding star to date is Shelley Mann, 18, holder of a fistful of American records as well as world records in the 100-yard backstroke and 100-yard butterfly. Other Reed record-holders are Mary Jane Sears, 17; Dougie Gray, 16; Wanda Werner, 15; Betty Brey, 24, and Marie Gillett, 18.

Why have Tinkham's girls done so well in their chosen sport? "Primarily because we have a large-size indoor pool, something that isn't available to girls in most other parts of the country," says Tinkham. "There are only a few high schools and colleges which have women's swimming teams and only a few athletic clubs encourage competitive swimming between women. If a girl's a good swimmer, there are few places where she can get the coaching and use of a pool to develop her talent."

Tinkham is out to develop something on

POLISHING flat dive for start of race, three of Tinkham's champions take off. Pool is nearly Olympic size but water — for hospital patients — is heated to a wilting 85°.

his own: a crackerjack men's team for Walter Reed. "I'd coach a boy who couldn't swim a stroke," he says, "if he had a deep enough desire to be a champion. The only trouble is, you develop a boy and then you lose him to college."

One other trouble is that Tinkham's time is almost completely taken up by the girls' team. Now out of the Army (appropriately, he heads a firm selling swimming pools), Tinkham currently is spending 25 hours a week away from his job, wife and year-old son to whip the girls into shape for the Olympic tryouts, August 7-10. As a civilian, he gets no pay for coaching but hopes for two rewards: 1) to accompany the Olympic team to Australia as an observer or assistant coach; 2) to learn how to coach an Olympic swimming squad — but, Tinkham says firmly, "an all-male one." ■

If you're counting calories . . .

Two delicious treats for the weight-conscious are based on cottage cheese, a fine protein food

It's the trend today to make reducing as pleasant as possible with delicious foods that are low in calories, high in health value. Cottage cheese lends itself to the making of many such dishes. These are based on two in a new book by Ruth West*, pioneer in the modern approach to whittling down the calorie count of favorite recipes.

STUFFED PEPPERS

4 medium green peppers
2 egg whites
½ cup corn flakes
1 teaspoon grated onion
¼ teaspoon paprika
1½ cups cottage cheese
1 8-oz. can tomato sauce

Cut tops off peppers; remove seed sections. Whip egg whites stiff. Crush corn flakes to crumbs. Combine onion, paprika, corn flakes, egg whites and cottage cheese. Fill peppers. Pour tomato sauce into deep baking dish; set peppers in sauce; cover. Bake ½ hour at 350° F. (About 70 calories each.)

MOCK HOLLANDAISE

1 cup cottage cheese
3 tablespoons each lemon juice and water
½ teaspoon seasoning salt
½ teaspoon salt
dash of cayenne
2 egg yolks

Blend cottage cheese, lemon juice and water in electric blender to a smooth cream. Pour into saucepan. Add seasonings. Stir in egg yolks, mixing thoroughly. Stir over low heat. Makes about 1¼ cups. (About 40 calories per serving.)

DRESSES FOR HALF SIZES

For comfort and flattery, nothing pleases the not-so-tall woman quite so much as a frock designed especially for her. Cut shorter in waist and skirt, it presents practically no alteration problems, looks as professional as a store-bought frock. The two styles pictured above — the young two-piecer with its crisp bow tie, and the ever-popular shirtwaister that spans the seasons with charm — are both wearable and becoming.

PATTERN #476: In sizes 12½, 14½, 16½, 18½, 20½, 22½, 24½, 26½. Size 14½: 4⅜ yards of 35" material; ⅝ yard contrast.

PATTERN #477: In sizes 12½, 14½, 16½, 18½, 20½, 22½, 24½, 26½. Size 14½: cap sleeve, 4¾ yards of 35" material.

FOR PHOTO FANS: Do you print or enlarge your own pictures? Here's a timer that "thinks for itself." Set the dial for the grade of paper, aim the photo-sensitive head, push the exposure button; it "reads" the time needed, turns off the light automatically. $118. FOTOMATIC CORP., 2603 Kessler Blvd., ND, Indianapolis 22, Ind.

IT ROLLS RIGHT: Pie dough automatically rolls out to the thickness of a nickel — considered ideal by skilled cooks — when you use this rolling pin with raised ends that lift the surface that far above the board. It's 18" long, of hard maple with revolving handles. $2. MILLER PRODUCTS CO., 766 Woodlawn Ave., Huntington, Ind.

FOR THIRSTY CAMPERS: This summer you can be protected against bacteria in lake or stream water by using the new purifier above. It also removes taste and odor. Holds 1½ qts., weighs only 4 oz., folds to pocket-size, can be reused 100 times. $2.95. A. P. SCHREIBER CO., 655 Coleman St., Altadena, Calif.

WINDSHIELD CLEANER: If you've ever tried to remove old windshield-wiper marks, you'll appreciate a special compound designed to do the job easily. One-oz. jar: $2.50. A special buffing wheel that fits any ¼" electric drill costs $2.50 more, speeds up the work. L & M CO., 350 Hillside Ave., New Hyde Park, N.Y.

THREE-WAY LAWN TOOL: A lightweight steel-wire rake adjusts from 13½" down to 6" wide for heavy work; becomes a hoe when you turn it over; serves as a weed-digger when you use a steel prong on its end. Takes the place of an armful of tools. $6.95. DANDY PRODUCTS CORP., Oshkosh, Wis.

T-HANDLE SCREWDRIVER: Even the most stubborn screws turn with a new screwdriver with a die-cast aluminum handle that pivots to form a hand-filling T for extra leverage. For ordinary use, the handle pivots to the conventional shape. The shaft is of tough zinc-plated steel. $1.49. KITCHEN-QUIP, INC., Waterloo, Ind.

"CUSHION" FUSE PLUG: The initial heavy surge of electricity when you start the motor of your washing machine and other heavy appliances often blows fuse plugs unnecessarily, since the load soon returns to normal. A new plug contains a thermal element which absorbs temporary overload yet protects against dangerous overload and short circuits. Listed by Underwriters Laboratories. In 15-20-25-30 amps, 50c for box of 5. EAGLE ELECTRIC MFG. CO., INC., Long Island City 1, N.Y.

LINE TIGHTENER: A 2½" circular metal device slips over your clothesline, TV antenna wire or tent guy rope, takes up to 22" of slack as you revolve it. A steel peg and cotter pin keep it from unwinding. 69c. BMS ENTERPRISES, P.O. Box 4858, Dallas, Tex.

FILE YOUR PATTERNS: Housewives can keep their dress and other patterns in easy-to-find order with a 9" x 9" x 7" file box of composition board. It has 12 dividers, labeled for children's patterns, aprons, etc. $1.98. MILES KIMBALL, Oshkosh, Wis.

MOSQUITO-PROOF: New tissues contain a repellent that guards against insects. They can be wiped over the skin, leave no oily film to ruin clothes. Package of 10 reusable sheets: 25c. WHITMIRE RESEARCH LABS., 339 S. Vandeventer Ave., St. Louis 10, Mo.

FRANK AS MIGUEL

In The Pride and the Passion, now shooting in Spain, Sinatra plays a patriotic guerrilla leader who organizes resistance to Napoleon when the Spanish armies collapse.

Sinatra

Where does he go from here?

by LLOYD SHEARER PARADE WEST COAST CORRESPONDENT

ARGANDA, SPAIN

For a man who a few short years ago impetuously swallowed an overdose of sleeping pills one night and superficially slashed his left wrist during another, Frank Sinatra today is surprisingly at peace with himself and the world.

There are, of course, material reasons. At 40, Francis Albert Sinatra is the most successful and wanted entertainer on earth. Since his 1952 Oscar-winning comeback in From Here to Eternity, he has:

1) Recorded a combination of 32 songs and albums, six million copies of which have been sold;

2) Starred in eight movies — Young at Heart, Suddenly, Not As a Stranger, Guys and Dolls, The Tender Trap, The Man with the Golden Arm, Johnny Concho and High Society — which should gross $50,000,000;

3) Consistently established new attendance records at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas, 2 per cent of whose gambling casino he owns;

4) Turned down more TV, film and personal-appearance offers (approximately 110) than any other show-business personality;

5) Found time to conduct a 56-piece symphonic orchestra for a Capitol Records album (today's cover shows him taking a five-minute break during that chore);

6) Flown to Spain to co-star with Sophia Loren and Cary Grant in The Pride and the Passion, independent producer Stanley Kramer's current epic about Spain's fight for independence in 1808.

Yet, as above noted, all these are material things. Are there other, inner causes for Sinatra's present mood of well-being? What marks have the ups and downs of his meteoric career left on his psyche?

I asked him these things as we stood here on the rock-strewn edge of a sand road 25 miles from Madrid. In answer, he indicated strongly that he can't — or won't — attempt to explore his own feelings.

The Truth Is Obscure

"I've never gone in for that analysis bit," he said, "and I don't intend to start now. All I know is that I'm feeling great, and I'm not askin' myself why.

"All the stuff written about me, tryin' to take me apart to find out what makes me tick — it's all baloney. That magazine takeout on me a year ago, most of it was wrong. Not the facts. They got one or two things right. But the conclusions, the analysis bit. And the funny part is that they spoke to plenty of people. You'd think they'd come up with some truth. Naw, they muffed it completely."

"Well, what is the truth about you?" I asked. "Are you really a frustrated gangster? Do you attract women because you've got an air of helplessness? Are you really such a baffling mixture of conflicts and complexes?"

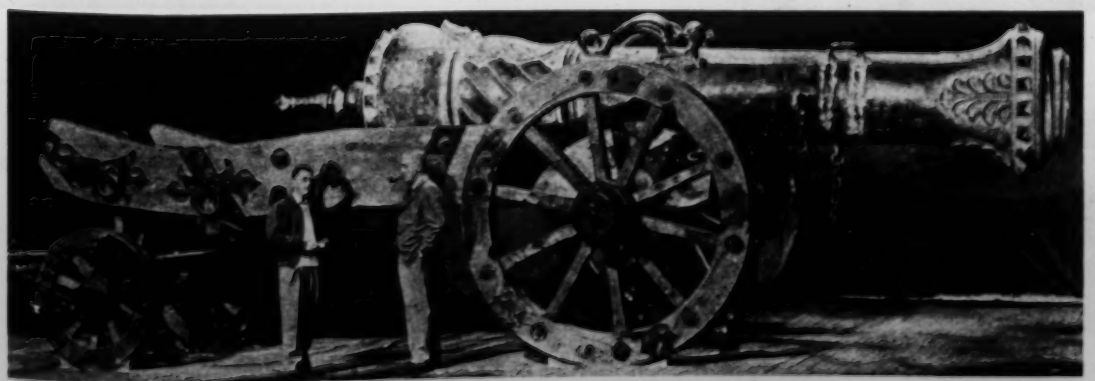

Sinatra crossed his arms, and his hard blue eyes grew thoughtful.

"I am what I am," he offered defiantly, "and I'm not askin' myself any questions. The time you start talkin' to yourself is when you're unhappy, when you wanna change. I don't wanna change. I'm satisfied with what I am. So long as I keep busy I feel great.

"Right now I'm here in Spain. This Pride and Passion bit'll probably take me through August. It's a real gasser. We've got Cary Grant and Sophia Loren and a gun as long as Hollywood Boulevard. I dig the whole setup. When I finish this one I go back to the Coast for The Joker Runs Wild [the story of night-club comedian Joe E. Lewis]. After that comes Pal Joey. Then in January I gotta do one for my own company. I'll probably direct that one for myself. I'm leanin' in that direction. So you can see I don't have much time to ask myself questions, even if I wanted to."

After he had taken time out to sign a dozen autographs for children of U.S. airmen stationed in Spain, I asked Sinatra if he had formulated a philosophy to live by.

HUGE GUN is guerrillas' No. 1 weapon in the film; getting it for the British is Cary Grant's job. Note how it dwarfs these two men.

'Dames are for loving and money is for spending'

"I just got through tellin' you," he pointed out, "that I'm not one of those complicated, mixed-up cats. I'm not lookin' for the secret of life or the answer to life. I just go on from day to day, takin' what comes."

"In your personal scheme of things," I persisted, "what comes first?"

"My family, of course," he answered instantly. "Then comes my work and a few friends and after that I take care of myself."

In Spain, as everywhere else, Hoboken-born Frank is living in maharaja-like comfort. When he isn't before the cameras on some boulder-ridden mountainside, he makes his headquarters in one of Madrid's swankiest hotels, the Castellana-Hilton. There he occupies the most expensive suite, tips with a generosity that leaves bellboys goggle-eyed, spends Spanish pesetas (40 to a dollar) as if he expected them to be declared worthless in the morning. For transportation he whizzes around in his freshly purchased Mercedes roadster, and for feminine companionship there are plenty of possibilities at hand.

The American crew and the foreign cast of Pride and Passion say Sinatra is one of the most cooperative and least temperamental American stars they've had in Europe in recent years. Confesses Sophia Loren, his young Italian co-star: "Before he came to Spain, I hear all sorts of things about Frank. He is moody, he is difficult, he is a tiger, he fights. Here he is kind, friendly. He has even helped me with my English, has teached me how people really speak in Hollywood. He is a regular gasser. I dig him."

The Producer Is Pleased

Adds producer Stanley Kramer: "I've read and heard pretty nearly everything about Sinatra. But take it from me, he's an all-right guy. We did Not As a Stranger together, and when I came to him on this one, I didn't have a single line of script. I just told him what the story was about. 'I like it,' he said. 'I'll do it.'

"And this is no easy story for an actor to do. I've had Frank trudging up and down mountains, wading in rivers, crawling in mud from one end of Spain to the other, and he hasn't complained yet. If he's a friend of yours, his loyalty is limitless."

People who have been around Sinatra since 1940, when he went to work for bandleader Tommy Dorsey at $110 a week, insist that he has changed very little.

"You writers," one of his associates told me, "are the guys who've tried to build Frank into a big complex puzzle. Basically, he's a shrewd, sharp guy who learned all the angles in the city jungles. And that's the code he lives by. Dames are for loving, money is for spending, friends are to be taken care of, enemies are to be hated. If you do anything, do it first class — that goes for work, clothes, cars, everything.

"Frank's old man was a prizefighter. His mother went into politics in Jersey, a pretty dirty business, and eventually the old man was made a captain in the Hoboken Fire Department. Frank himself was thrown out of Demarest High School before he was graduated. He spent his youth with some of the leading cutthroats. If it hadn't been for his strong determination to become a singer, he might have wound up being the leader of a waterfront mob.

"Now to expect a fellow with that background to examine his own subconscious, to find the Freudian significance of his life — that's a complete misjudgment of character.

SOPHIA LOREN as Juana, a girl of good family who joins the guerrillas, does this torrid dance in The Pride and the Passion.

"What you've got in Frank is a fellow who conquered all the obstacles because he believed that, compared to his own talents, they were nothing, they didn't exist. Today he is one guy who lives every day as if it were his last."

And what about tomorrow? When I confronted Sinatra with the above analysis, he shook his toupeed head and smiled.

"People can say or think anything they want about me," he maintained. "I don't care. All I know is that I've never had it so good and I'm not askin' myself why." It reminded me of something he had said on another occasion: "I can be the greatest anything. It's just a question of effort."

If he still feels that way, where Frank Sinatra goes from here is pretty much up to him. ■

Teen-age Topics

Here are some recent "party" questions:

Q. I am a girl of 17 and go to a lot of formal parties. If a boy brings the corsage, should I let him put it on — and on which side? — S.N., Tucson, Ariz.

A. It is awkward for another person to try to pin a flower on you; pin it on yourself. Wear the corsage on the left; it is less likely to be crushed in dancing.

Q. Is it proper to wear an ordinary wrist watch to a banquet? Can you wear white-gold and yellow-gold jewelry at the same time? Should a large bracelet and watch be worn on the same arm? May you wear a class ring with dress-up clothes? — J.D., Pineland, Tex.

A. 1) Yes. 2) Yes. 3) You could wear a watch and bracelet on the same arm, but it is better to make a choice of one or the other. 4) A class ring for a girl does not look appropriate with dressy clothes.

Q. There is a boy in our class who is a lot older and bigger than the other kids. Is it polite for a girl to refuse to dance with him? — S.S., Flanagan, Ill.

A. A lady may always politely refuse a dance without making any very special explanation. In this case, it seems to me, a boy much bigger and older than the others must be very lonely and uncomfortable in the class. Try to accept him. You may find that he is a nice friendly boy, given the chance.

Q. Would it be wrong for a girl to ask a boy out? — G.N., St. Louis, Mo.

A. Not under certain circumstances. If she has been invited to or is giving a party and must have an escort, she may properly ask any boy in her group whom she knows. If her parents have provided her with theater tickets or tickets for an outing, she also may ask any boy of her acquaintance to accompany her, even if she never has had a date with him.

Q. I would like to know if it is proper for a 15-year-old girl to wear her father's ring around her neck? — L.J., Pompton Lakes, N.J.

A. It seems rather silly. I suspect she is pretending that it belongs to someone other than her father. Such little deceptions are rather usual at 15. Eventually they pass.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS will be answered as space permits. (Miss Vanderbilt cannot answer letters personally.) Address: Miss Amy Vanderbilt, PARADE, 285 Madison Ave., New York 17, N.Y.

Q. How does she keep her complexion this clear?

A.

She keeps tiny clogged pores from causing trouble —with Lifebuoy soap! Today's Lifebuoy is good news for everyone, especially teen-agers, because it contains a new bacteria-fighter called TMTD.

Lifebuoy with TMTD helps clear your complexion of blemish-causing bacteria that the usual toilet soap just can't remove. These bacteria are the tiny trouble-makers that sometimes get into clogged pores, help make them grow into full-fledged blemishes.

What's more, the protection of TMTD stays with your complexion under make-up and between wash-ups. Treat your complexion to a daily facial with mild, fragrant Lifebuoy.

About Acid Indigestion Relief

One thing you can be sure of— When acid indigestion strikes there is no better relief than Tums. Tums neutralize excess acid record-fast. That's why millions always carry handy roll in pocket or purse for top-speed relief of heartburn or sour stomach.

The trickle-down action of Tums gives a more prolonged, soothing type of relief too. Can't over-alkalize or cause acid rebound. Require no water, no mixing.

You have more fun when you carry Tums. Tums taste so good, give such speedy relief and cost only 10¢ a roll. So why pay more for modern, less effective ways? Get a roll of Tums today!

Elizabeth Montgomery

Her Severest Critic Is Her Actor Father

By Vernon Scott

HOLLYWOOD, June 16—(UP)

ROBERT MONTGOMERY'S button-nosed daughter, Elizabeth, says her father is the toughest critic in television, especially where she's concerned.

"Dad is brutally frank when he criticizes my performances," she said during lunch. "He never gives me a pat on the head when I deserve a rap on the knuckles. After every show Dad calls to tell me what he thought of the program and whether he liked my performance. And most of the time his comments help me out, so I look forward to hearing from him.

• • •

ELIZABETH, 24 years old, green-eyed and as pretty as the law allows, recently played a bird-brained charmer on CBS-TV's "Climax." Then she returned to New York for more live video.

Elizabeth Montgomery . . . Father never encouraged acting career.

"I was born and reared in Hollywood," she said. "But I love New York. Dad lives back there, and we're very close. We have dinner together at least once a week. He's the most charming man in the world — and I know him better as a person than a father. Does that make sense."

Elizabeth said her father did everything possible to dissuade her from being an actress. However, once her mind was set on it, it was he who five years ago gave her her first break on his "Robert Montgomery Presents" program playing his daughter in a show called "Top Secret."

Being Robert Montgomery's daughter has helped open doors for her, she admitted, but added: "Nobody, least of all dad, will give you a second chance if you don't produce. But there's one advantage of being his daughter. I'm the only actress in TV who has Robert Montgomery as a private critic."

All St. Louis TV stations are now on Central Daylight Saving time. Listings of nearby cities are Central Standard Time except for KHQA-TV, WGEM, WTVP and WCIA-TV.

Versatile Janet Blair, one of television's most sought-after performers as singer, dancer and actress, in striking poses.

Caesar's New TV Wife

NEW YORK, June 16

WHEN SID CAESAR returns to the NBC-TV network next fall he will have as his third TV wife a dimple-chinned redhead, Janet Blair. She is really happy about having him as her new boss. She calls him "a genius with talent."

Miss Blair, as the successor to Imogene Coca and Nanette Fabray as Caesar's "wives," is a many-talented girl. Whether it's singing, dancing or acting—anything from slapstick to serious drama—Janet does it. She has been so much in demand that she bounces immediately from one show to another, starring in color spectaculars, doing guest spots on leading variety and comedy shows, and appearing on practically every top live dramatic show on the air.

The reason she worked so hard to learn to sing and dance, she says, is that she wanted to forget that she was an ugly duckling. As a little girl in Altoona, Pa., she says, she was "the homeliest girl in the crowd."

"When other children with blonde curls and long eyelashes went to dancing school it was a breeze for them. I was so homely that nobody paid any attention to me. So I decided to be the best dancer and best singer and best actress, even if I killed myself trying."

Janet was born Martha Janet Lafferty in Altoona, which is in Blair county. She adopted her middle name and the name of the county as her professional name. She began her career as a singer with Hal Kemp's band. Hollywood was the next step. She co-starred with Rosalind Russell in "My Sister Eileen." Then came night club work, summer stock, and Broadway in "South Pacific" and "A Girl Can Tell." Television became inevitable.

As for working with Caesar next season, she says: "I can hardly wait. It's a dream job, and he is a wonderful artist and an equally wonderful person."

The Television Letter Box

Letters Intended For This Column Should Be Addressed To Television Editor, TV Magazine, Post-Dispatch, St. Louis 1, Mo.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED to the movies on television? What has happened to the American touch? Everything is British. Surely out of all the American movies that have been made, they could find at least a few to put on. There are wonderful programs up until about 10:30 p.m. And then America seems to fly out the window and England comes in. Bring on more American movies.

MRS. DOLORES BRADLEY

I enjoyed "Bloomer Girl" very much and hope it can be repeated next year, as was done with "Peter Pan." Everyone else I know who saw it also enjoyed it.

ROSEMARY HANCOCK,
Madison, Ill.

Oh, what a treat to get a brief glimpse of Liberace on the recent "What's My Line?" program. Why can't we see him more often?

MRS. A. M. WHITE

Words can't express how much I enjoyed the recent showing of the movie, "Fighting Sullivans." My problem is this: Why can't my husband enjoy it too? There are quite a few men who work nights. I have seen the picture several times on TV. Why not show it again on Saturday or Sunday and give night workers a fair chance?

MRS. JAMES BOLIN

We enjoy Perry Como tremendously and are unhappy because he is going to be off the air for a summer vacation. Perry rates tops with teen-agers.

Studio Notes and Gossip

THREE 90-MINUTE spectaculars for children will be presented in coming months by the ABC-TV network. The first, originating at the St. Louis Zoo, is scheduled for Aug. 25 and will be telecast by KSD-TV. . . . Gale Storm is to star in a new series, "Oh Susanna," on the CBS-TV network with a possible fall starting time. . . . Hal March will get $11,500 for his starring role in a musical spectacular July 15. Steve Allen wrote the score. . . . Groucho Marx's "You Bet Your Life" has been renewed for the eighth consecutive year. . . . Snooky Lanson will be the vacation substitute for Dinah Shore. . . . Paul Douglas is still regarded as an expert on major league baseball. He was a sports announcer for years before going into acting. . . . "The Most Beautiful Girl in the World" series, in which a beauty queen could win $250,000, is in the works for a start in August. . . . Charles Winninger will play Charles Farrel's father in "The Charles Farrel Show," the summer replacement for "Lucy." . . . Robert Q. Lewis will star in a musical revue, "What's the Rush?" which will tour the summer circuit. . . . Johnny Washbrook, 10-year-old star of "My Friend Flicka," has a girl for a stand-in. . . . Ventriloquist Jimmy Nelson has been signed to star in "Toyland Express," a children's program.

"There's a reason for my peace of mind

. . . my family is protected by Blue Cross and Blue Shield."

Blue Cross and Blue Shield protection stands out above all other forms of hospital, medical, surgical and maternity care plans because it is the kind of protection that best fits the needs of the average American family.

Today in thousands of American businesses, millions of employees are enjoying the security and peace of mind that comes only through membership in Blue Cross and Blue Shield.

If your company doesn't have a Blue Cross and Blue Shield Group, find out how you can help get one started.

THOUSANDS OF SENSATIONAL PRIZES

HERE'S ALL YOU DO . . .

1. Cut out official entry blank below along dotted lines.
2. Carefully cut out the big red "SICLE" ball from any three "POPSICLE," "FUDGSICLE," "CREAMSICLE," "DREAMSICLE," "50-50 POPSICLE," or any frozen stick confection bag which has a red "SICLE" ball.
3. Paste the three red "SICLE" balls on the entry blank.
4. Match the pictures against the item names shown on the entry blank by writing the number of the item name in the corner where you think it belongs. Example: We have put a 3 in the first box because Sombrero (No. 3 on the list) fits that picture.
5. On the dotted line shown on the entry blank, write in the name you would give the pony from the description given on the entry blank. (Mom and Dad can help!)
6. Write your name, age, and address in the spaces indicated on the blank. Your entry will be judged against other entries in your age group.
7. Paste the completed entry on a 2-cent postcard and mail to "POPSICLE," P. O. Box 123, New York 46, N. Y. Send in as many entries as you like. Entries must be postmarked no later than midnight, August 4th.
8. Entries to be judged by independent judging organization on basis of correctness and neatness of entry and originality of pony name. In case of ties, earliest postmark date will be the deciding factor. Decision of judges will be final.

ENTER AS OFTEN AS YOU LIKE! WEEKLY CONTESTS BEGIN SUNDAY MORNING AND END THE FOLLOWING SATURDAY NIGHT. ALL ENTRIES WILL BE JUDGED IN THE WEEKLY CONTESTS BY POSTMARK DATE.

10 BIG WEEKLY CONTESTS!

Prince Valiant

IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR

BY HAROLD R FOSTER

Our Story: AS THEY SURVEY THE WALL OF MOUNTAINS ABOVE THEM, PRINCE ARN EXPLAINS HIS IDEA TO GARM: "WE TRIED THE VALLEYS, BUT THEY ALL BECAME TOO STEEP AND RUGGED FOR A ROAD; SO NOW WE WILL ANGLE UPWARD ALONG THE MOUNTAINSIDE AND HOPE WE MEET WITH NO SERIOUS OBSTRUCTION."

ABOVE THE TIMBER LINE THE TRAIL IS MARKED BY CAIRNS OF STONE, WHILE ARN CAREFULLY MARKS THEIR PROGRESS ON HIS PARCHMENT.

AT LAST THEY CATCH A GLIMPSE OF THE PASS HIGH ABOVE THEM WITH ONLY A RUGGED SHOULDER OF ROCK TO PASS.

SO FAR THERE HAS BEEN NO OBSTACLE TO HINDER THE BUILDING OF A ROAD, BUT NOW, AS THEY APPROACH THE ROCKS, THE ROAR OF A WATERFALL IS HEARD.

SOON THEY ARE HALTED AT THE EDGE OF A GLEN, DOWN WHICH ROARS A FOAMING TORRENT, AND THEIR DREAMS OF AN EASY ROAD THROUGH THE MOUNTAINS FADE.

NEXT WEEK:—The Hidden Pass.

DICK'S Adventures IN DREAMLAND

by Neil O'Keeffe and Max Trell

"ASLEEP AGAIN OVER HIS BOOK!" EXCLAIMS DICK'S MOTHER. "WHY—HE'S BEEN READING ABOUT JESSE JAMES!" BUT DICK IS ALREADY IN DREAMLAND....

"I FOUND MYSELF HEADING EAST ON THE CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND AND PACIFIC RAILROAD. THE COUNTRYSIDE WAS IOWA IN MIDSUMMER."

"THE TRIP WAS LONG, THE WEATHER WAS SIZZLING. I KEPT HOPING FOR SOMETHING TO HAPPEN. AT A TOWN CALLED ADAIR I DECIDED TO STRETCH MY LEGS."

TICKETS

"MOST OF THE OTHER PASSENGERS ALSO PILED OUT FOR SOME FRESH AIR. THERE WERE MINERS, RANCHERS, A GOVERNOR, WOMEN AND CHILDREN--"

"..... AND A GROUP OF CHINESE WHO WERE TRAVELING ACROSS AMERICA TO SEE HOW WE RAN THE COUNTRY. THEY DIDN'T KNOW TEN WORDS OF UNITED STATES ENGLISH!"

"THEN I WONDERED ABOUT THE ARMED GUARD POSTED BY THE EXPRESS CAR, UNTIL ONE OF THE MINERS WHISPERED THAT WE WERE CARRYING $75,000 IN GOLD!"

"AND HARDLY ANYBODY NOTICED THE TWO MEN WHO RODE UP TO THE STANDING TRAIN AND NONCHALANTLY BUT CAREFULLY LOOKED IT OVER!"

NEXT WEEK—"I GET TOO CURIOUS!"

What's New in Colgate Dental Cream that's MISSING-MISSING-MISSING in every other leading toothpaste?

It's GARDOL!
And Colgate's with Gardol gives up to 7 TIMES LONGER PROTECTION AGAINST TOOTH DECAY and a CLEANER, FRESHER BREATH ALL DAY with just one brushing!

GARDOL Makes This Amazing Difference!

MINUTES AFTER BRUSHING WITH ANY TOOTHPASTE

DECAY-CAUSING BACTERIA RETURN TO ATTACK YOUR TEETH!

12 HOURS AFTER ONE COLGATE BRUSHING GARDOL IS STILL FIGHTING THE BACTERIA THAT CAUSE DECAY!

Any toothpaste can destroy decay- and odor-causing bacteria. But new bacteria return in minutes, to form acids that cause tooth decay. Colgate's, unlike any other leading toothpaste,* keeps on fighting decay for 12 hours or more!

So, morning brushings with Colgate's help protect all day; evening brushings all night. Gardol in Colgate Dental Cream forms an invisible, protective shield around your teeth that lasts for 12 hours with just one brushing.

Ask your dentist how often to brush your teeth. Encourage your children to brush after meals. At all times, get Gardol protection in Colgate Dental Cream!

GARDOL IS COLGATE'S TRADE-MARK FOR SODIUM N-LAUROYL SARCOSINATE.

*THE TOP THREE BRANDS AFTER COLGATE'S.

Cleans Your Breath While It Guards Your Teeth

No other leading toothpaste can give the 12-hour protection against decay you get with Colgate Dental Cream with just one brushing!

Sizzly Shorts about a taste discovery...

Franks with an "OPEN-FIRE" FLAVOR!

Notice that flavor! It's sizzly-juicy—like the wonderful taste of franks cooked outdoors. And you get that same "Open-Fire" flavor, even if you only heat these franks in water! These franks are made of fine quality fresh beef and pork, delicately seasoned. Ask for Armour Star Franks—the franks with the "Open-Fire" flavor.

New kind of treat!
Caramel Sundaes with true
caramel flavor from Kraft

Caramels

You'll say these are the best ice cream sundaes you've ever tasted! And the only way to make the luscious caramel topping is with Kraft Caramels.

Simply delicious! Everybody loves a caramel sundae . . . but only when the sauce is smooth and rich and has that true caramel taste. You'll have perfect caramel sauce every time when you make it the sure-fire Kraft Caramel way. Simply place ½ lb. (28 caramels) and ⅓ c. hot water or milk in the top of a double boiler. Heat and stir until caramels melt and sauce is smooth. Cool and serve over generous scoops of ice cream. Or, have you ever tried a hot caramel sundae? Mighty good!
